The following re-imbursement was made to J. Z. Mims by order of W. A. Willis Asst. Examiner of accounts, Sept. 28, 1934:

Mrs. Gertrude Calloway,
Treasurer of Chilton County

This is to certify that in an examination of the records of Hon. J. Z. Mims, Circuit Clerk, Chilton County, Ala., I have found that Mr. Mims, through oversight, paid the following fines twice on the report of remittances shown above.

6-28-30, No. 3161—Fate Downing	50.00
10-24-30, No. 3161—Fate Downing	50.00
11-9-31, No. 4737—Henry Green	50.00
Jany. 32, No. 4737—Henry Green	50.00

As above shown these were duplicate payments and Mr. Mims is justly due a refund from the Fine and Forfeiture Fund in the amount of $100.00 less his commission of 5 per cent which amounts of $5.00 leaving a net refund due of $95.00.

This may be used as your authority for making the refund to Mr. Mims. — W. A. Willis, Asst. Examiner of Accounts.

Alabama Dairy Herd Makes Good Record

Auburn, Ala.—The Jersey herd owned by the estate of King Pharr, Catherine, Ala., established excellent production records during the ten-year period 1924-1934, during which time the American Jersey Cattle Club awarded individual cows in the Pharr herd seven gold and nine silver medals, reports W. H. Eaton of the dairy department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Boy Killed Near Seman By Lightning

A death caused by lightning and surrounded by unusual facts occurred near Seman, in Elmore County week before last when Luther, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stearnes of Seman, was killed when lightning struck a tree under which he was standing.

The Seman Congregational church has just been completed. Dedication services were held Sunday, June 30. Mr. Stearnes, one of the church workers, had taken a great part in the erection of the church and the planning of the dedication services with the Rev. A. C. Nelson to conduct them.

Saturday before the dedication services, Luther Stearnes and his older brother, Lubie, were fishing across the river from their home. A quick rain came up and they stod under trees for shelter. Lightning struck the tree where Luther stood, killing he and his pet dog instantly. The same bolt also knocked Lubie unconscious. When he regained consciousness he saw his brother still on the ground, and prepared to bathe his face with water thinking he, too, was only unconscious.

When Lubie discovered Luther was dead, he picked up the body, placed it in the boat, rowed across the river and went for help.

Luther loved his new church before he died. He liked the plot of ground adjoining the church where the community planned to start their cemetery, little knowing that he would be the first to find his everlasting resting place there. It was his expressed wish that he be burried in the new Seman Cemetery. His wish was carried out on the afternoon of the dedication services with the Rev. Nelson officiating.

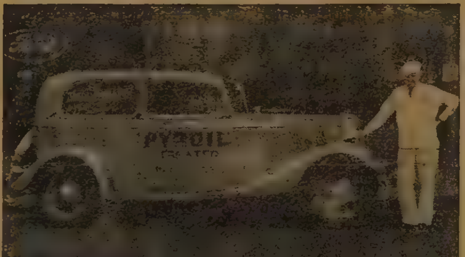
A NEW Coast to Coast RECORD WITH PYROIL

Where records fall under roaring motors and flying wheels, Pyroil is generally there—increasing power and speed, safely protecting all frictional parts against often fatal damage. Pyroil has helped to shatter scores of world records—on land, sea and in the air.



Pyroil is not a substitute for regular oil and greases but is a concentrated heat-, wear- and friction-reducing product. Added to oil, grease and fuel by the ounce it makes metal self-lubricating by creating surfaces that function and protect even in the event of interruption with, or complete failure of, the oil supply. Frees valves, seals rings, reduces carbon. It saves so much in power costs and repairs thru friction reduction and supreme lubrication, that its use actually costs nothing. Pyroil can be used with the most gratifying and amazing success as to improved operating performance and reduced operating costs, wherever ordinary oils are used. Autos, trucks, tractors, all machinery and equipment, even household utilities, all run more smoothly, more powerfully, more economically and with utmost safety against damage dangers, with Pyroil.

If you haven't tried Genuine Pyroil, do so today. You'll be amazed at the increased efficiency and economy Pyroil provides. Ask at service stations, garages and dealers—and insist on the genuine. Manufactured and Guaranteed by Pyroil Company, W. V. Kidder, Pres., La-Crosse, Wisconsin, U. S. A.

PASTURE CUTS COST OF FATTENING PIGS

Just how valuable is pasture for pigs? In 29 different tests with about 1,200 pigs in Ohio, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Iowa, and South Dakota the total of concentrated feed eaten by pigs on pasture averaged about 13 per cent less for every 100 pounds of gain than for the pigs in dry lots, according to summaries by the United States Department of Agriculture. The concentrated feed saved depended upon the kind and condition of pasture.

The pigs were put on test at an average weight of 55 pounds. About one-half of them were allowed pasture. The tests showed that pasture took the place of about 1 out of every 8 pounds of concentrated feed needed when pasture was not furnished. Pigs on pasture gained about a quarter of a pound more per day than those in a dry lot. There was less opportunity for them to pick up parasites. Aside from other things, the pasture furnished vitamins, minerals, and exercise—all necessary for speedy pork production.

Pigs should not be stinted with too little pasture. The exact number of pigs that can be carried per acre depends on the pasture. Pigs like and make good gains on alfalfa, lespedeza, rape, clovers, Sudan grass, green soybeans, and cowpeas, Bermuda, bluegrass and rye when properly supplemented with concentrated feeds. They make the best gains, however, on young, tender succulent, green growth. The value of pig pastures lessens as the growth becomes woody. New growth following a hay crop or clipping is good feed.

Two or more pastures give an opportunity to shift the pigs when pastures go down in feed value. Many farmers use a number of small pastures. Some plant late crops to lengthen the pasture season. Soybeans, for example, may be planted as late as the first of July in the Middle West. Practical farmers have proved over and over again that their pig pastures are feedsavers and money-makers.

Wishes Other Costs Would Drop Like Electricity

Like lots of other Alabama folks, Mrs. A. R. Steele, of Huntsville, is delighted with the way her bills for electricity have steadily gone down while other living costs were going up. Recently she wrote: "In the times we are having today, I am sure you will be surprised to receive this kind of a letter, but I am tempted to write it, as I am very much satisfied with my electric bills from your company.

"I have an electric range, water heater and refrigerator together with miscellaneous lighting and other appliances and I have used these appliances for the past seven years. Instead of my bills getting larger year by year, they have been materially reduced.

"If the price on some of the other things we have to use were reduced correspondingly things would be a whole lot easier." Adv. Alabama Power Co.

Iron Foundry In Clanton Equipped To Handle All Manufacture Of Farming Tools, Etc.

An industry, while not new to Clanton because it has been in operantion for sometime, is that of the Clanton Machinery & Foundry Company, with Frank Roos as manager and operator.

A visit to the Clanton Machinery & Foundry Company will prove very interesting to one who has not seen how plow points, stove grates, wash pots and hundreds of other products of iron are made. Mr. Roos will gladly explain the workings of his industry to all visitors.

Mr. Roos makes his own patterns and molds and while talking with a representative of the News said, "We can make pretty near anything a person will want in iron, whether it be new or something to be repaired."

One of the most interesting things to see is the way a huge iron wash pot is made. There's nothing crude about the articles made by Mr. Roos and his able assistant. It looks as it might have come from some big factory where they specialize in manufacturing articles from iron.

Mr. Roos invites the public to visit his foundry which is located at the rear of the Wade Ice. Co., near the railroad. One doesn't hear much about the Clanton Machinery & Foundry Co., but nevertheless every day things are buzzing with activity there and useful articles are being turned out.

GASOLINE CO. GIVES MOTORISTS 15 WAYS TO SAVE GAS MONEY

When the man bites the dog, it is news. And when a gasoline company advises motorists how to save gasoline, that is news, too.

Hence it is news to announce that the Gulf Refining Company has just issued a booklet entitled, "15 Ways To Save Gasoline Money." Although the information contained in the eight-page-booklet is simple, it consists of driving hints which should benefit millions of motorists.

Do you know what parking secret saves gasoline? The booklet tells you. Have you discovered what driving speeds assure the greatest economy in gasoline consumption? The booklet tells you. And what fact concerning the inflation of your tires boosts your gasoline mileage? The booklet tells you this, too.

According to Dr. Paul D. Foete, vice-president of the Gulf Research & Development Corporation, considerable care was given to the preparation of the literature. The data was prepared, changed, and checked over and over again by the leading petroleum and automotive engineers. Caution was exercised in listing the various methods to save the motorists' money, and at least 15 additional ways to cut gasoline costs were eliminated because they were open to debate.

For convenience's sake, the Gulf booklet is divided into three sections. The first chapter is devoted to economy short-cuts which can be controlled by the motorist. The second part is given over to economies which can be secured at no cost at reputable service stations or dealers, such as Gulf's stations. And the third section consists of savings which can be obtained through enlisting the help of competent garage mechaniics.

Many Auto Owners Finding Tires Are Unfit For Summer

Inked Footprints Indicates Condition Of Treads At Local Dealers

Thousands of automobile owners the country over are finding that their tires are unfit for the heat of summer driving conditions as a result of a check-up being made by tire dealers the country over.

"In most cases, according to reports at the Akron offices of the Good [illegible] Tire & Rubber Co., car owners themselves had not realized that their tire equipment was in need of replacement," declared L. E. Diefenderfer, local tire dealer.

"Our method of making an absolute check of the tire's tread conditions is by showing the customer an inked footprint of the tire, made by applying an inking medium to the tread and then running the tire over a white sheet of paper. Unmistakable evidence that tires either do or do not have a safe margin of tread and traction is plainly shown."

In many cities in the country local authorities have welcomed the tire check-up that is being made in their areas, because they realize that it helps to reduce the number of accidents which are in the making when cars with tires in need of replacement are driven on the streets and highways.

During the past few weeks, Mr. Diefenderfer said that he had footprinted many local car owners' tires and that right in this section of the state he could substantiate the national report that many tires now in use are in need of attention.

"It puts a little different slant on your efforts when you feel that you are really doing something that is constructive and may help prevent accidents," Mr. Diefenderfer declared, "and I am sure that when the plan of checking tires before the accident happens is understood by the car owners of a community generally, they will feel the same way about the procedure."

DEMOCRATS ON TOUR CHECKING PUBLIC'S MIND

New Deal Sends Out Scouts To View Reaction Of New Deal Acts

Washington, July 15.—New Deal political scouts are scattering over the country today to check reports that the Roosevelt Administration is slipping.

Emil Huria, patronage dispenser of the Democratic National Committee, is taking political temperatures in the North Central part of the country in combined survey and vacation.

Postmaster General James A. Farley is ready for a swing through the Middle and far West including a pause in Ohio where Democratic Gov. Martin L. Davey has been having trouble with the New Deal.

Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins' comment on administration of relief in Ohio brought a libel suit by the governor, but it subsequently was withdrawn.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace left yesterday. He will be gone three weeks on a tour which will extend to Seattle, Wash. President Roosevelt will go on the road if and when Congress adjourns. He would like to visit the exposition at San Diego, Cal., the Boulder Dam and way places.

Good News

New Dealers are pleased by reports of Rep. Patrick Henry Drewry (D., Va.), chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee. He told the United Press he had received more than 100 replies to his questionnaire to Democratic representatives requesting information on the President's strength and their own prospects in respective districts.

"They indicate generally that the President is holding his own and that there is no doubt about a Democratic House majority of near the present size in 1936," Drewry said.

He said the replies indicated "by and large" that the New Deal is as strong as ever.

DE MABEL'S SHOP CELEBRATING 8TH BIRTHDAY

Was First Beauty Shoppe Opened In Clanton; Offering Specials

This month marks the eighth anniversary for the first beauty shop ever to open in Clanton. The popular DeMabel's Beauty Shoppe is celebrating its eighth birthday this month with something of unusual interest to the ladies of this section, according to an advertisement elsewhere in the News this week.

Eight years ago, Miss Mabel Howard, who is now Mrs. Ed Simms, of Thorsmi, came to Clanton and established the first modern beauty shop and for four years operated the only beauty shop in town. The business made a continued growth and later it was necessary to occupy twice the space when first opened.

Located in the new Mullins Building next door to the Exchange Hotel, this has been its home for the past eight years.

Over one year ago, Mrs. Simms secured the services of Miss Willie Maude Kelley, a Chilton County girl who came right from a beauty college and added a great deal to the efficiency of this beauty shop. Since then Miss Kelley has been manager of the business and has won the hearts of the hundreds of satisfied customers of her shop.

Mrs. Simms and Miss Kelley are to be congratulated on their eighth anniversary and on the success of their business. In celebration of this anniversary, the DeMabel's Beauty Shoppe is making special prices on all work throughout the month of July.

COMMENTS ON ELECTION AT STANTON BOX

Says Inspector Bringing Up Charges Certainly Did Not Do His Duty

Replying to a statement published in the Union-Banner recently and purported to be from an inspector at the box at Stanton, Ala., Beat 8, during the past election, a reputable citizen of that town states he did not hear of a thing that smacked of being illegal.

The statement from the inspector which was published in the Union-Banner was not signed, but claimed that the "whole thing was illegal from start to finish."

Following is a letter from Mr. J. A. Sample, of Stanton, copy of which is on file at the News office:

"I understand that one of the inspectors of the last election held at Stanton nsays it was illegal from the beginning to the end. I was present and did not learn anything of the kind. Also I do not know who this inspector was, but will say that if what he says is facts, then that man did not do his duty and is not fit to be an inspector."

Mayor Urges Property Owners To Investigate Street Paving

To the Property Owners of Clanton:

When I was elected Mayor last September I had no idea of trying to do any street paving. I had no hope that this much needed improvement could be accomplished for the reason I did not consider the City or the people either were prepared to carry the cost. It did not occur to me then that the government of the United States would today say to the property owners of Clanton, "if you will pave the streets in front of your property I will give you 45 per cent of the cost and lend you the 55 per cent balance at 4 per cent."

I have information from good authority that the streets of Clanton can be paved twenty feet wide using the same material and specifications as was used on 4th Avenue, or better known now as Selma Highway, for approximately $9,000 per mile, and possibly less, if two miles or more of paving can be had under one contract.

The average resident lot in Clanton is 75 feet facing street, and the cost of this size lot would be only $41.25 to each property owner. Included in this price is the cost of paving all street intersections. This cost is arrived at after deducting the 45 per cent grant by the government from the price of $9,000 per mile.

Just think of it, a most wonderful opportunity to get rid of the dust and mud at such a small cost, and at the same time elevate Clanton still higher in the minds of the people throughout the country. An offer that may never be made to you again. Can you afford not to take advantage of it? I think not. If you are interested in this proposition I would like for you to tell me soon. Get busy on your street and see if you can find anyone opposed to having this improvement done. It will not take long for two or three people to canvass each property owner on each street and let each owner of a lot sign request for the paving to be done. I suggest that the property owners on each street and avenue look after their own interest and canvass their street or avenue only.

This offer by the government to individual owners of property is the best and most liberal I ever knew to be made in a business way, and I hope you will accept it promptly.

Yours very truly,
C. FENN JONES, Mayor.

The Leader Says People Deeply Interested In Contestants

"There are only four more weeks until we will award the $100 in cash in our Share-The-Profit plan," stated M. Lande, proprietor of The Leader, when asked for a statement Monday morning.

Mr. Lande was busy as could be counting votes issued during the past week, and stated that this week's count would bring quite a surprise to the people in the standing of the contestants.

The Leader has been running this plan for several weeks and will make two cash awards, first prize being $75, second prize $25. Votes are issued with each purchase made at this store, and can be cast in favor of any one or any church or organization. The standing of those already entered into the contest is being published in the large advertisement of The Leader in the News this week. Read this advertisement and see the many bargains this store is offering in addition to the big cash prizes.

A feature of the day on Saturday of this week will be the giving of three votes instead of one, for each twenty-five cent purchase. In other words, Saturday will be a "three for one" day at The Leader.

City Has Opportunity To Get Streets Paved

Register in Chancery 1-1-36

Small Cost To Each Property Owner Makes Proposition Very Attractive; Wonderful Opportunity Say Many

The greatest opportunity ever offered the propetry owners of Clanton to pave streets now presents itself, according to Mayor C. Fenn Jones, who has just been advised that the government is ready to make Clanton a donation of 45 per cent of paving costs, provided the property owners will pay the remaining 55 per cent.

Mayor Jones is delighted over the proposition the government has made our city and in a letter which is being published this week, urges all property owners to investigate this matter at once.

The pavement would be twenty feet wide down the center of the street. That would be two feet wider than the highway. The material to be used is similar to that used on the Selma Highway.

The cost to the owner of a piece of property with a 75-foot front would be approximately $41.25 as his part of the twenty-foot pavement. In other words, the actual cost of the 75 feet would be $82.50, to be divided between the owners of the property on both sides of the street.

Citizens who have been discussing this proposition are very enthusiastic over it. They point out the fact that it would eliminate the tremendous amount of dust on streets in the residence sections of town, and also do away with mud during rainy seasons.

In his letter to the property owners, Mayor Jones appeals to them to get in touch with him immediately. He stated that the easiest way to get this improvement made would be for the property owners to pay the amount due by them to the paving fund of the city, since the cost is so small. As soon as the required amount was received, the city would then advise the government they are ready to begin work.

If that plan is not found to be avail-

Money Prepares To Be Heard

Something new in the way of raising campaign funds has been started at Chicago by "The Illinois Republican Citizens Organization," which is said to include some of the biggest backers of past Republican campaigns.

The unique feature lies in the fact that the gentlemen behind the organization expect to use the funds not only to help insure the election of the Republican national ticket in 1936 but in forcing the nomination of a ticket satisfactory to those putting up the cash, upon a platform satisfactory to the same group.

Similar organizations are to be formed in other states, it is said, and the hope is entertained that, since money talks, there will be sufficient on hand by time the national convention is held to exercise a dominant influence over the situation.

To raise a campaign fund in advance and then wield this fund over the heads of the delegates in shaping the platform and in naming the ticket, will be something highly original in political manipulations and the development will be watched with the greatest interest.

The idea which it appears the gentlemen hope to sell to the business interests of the country, is that it is better to put up the cash now and get satisfactory results in he convention rather than await convention results and then have to "kick in" willy-nilly.

What will happen to the fund if the convention fails to be guided by the tempting bait, is not explained, and about the only positive thing in this connection appears to be that it will not go to the Democrats.

As to the morals involved, it is perhaps quite as legitimate to buy a convention as to buy an election, and the G.O.P. hasn't always been above this practice.—Tuscaloosa News.

The Lesson Of 23,000,000 Cars

The recent completion of the twenty-three millionth Ford car was an event that well might give pause to those who contend that labor-saving machinery is a curse rather than a blessing.

But for labor-saving machinery of the most ingenious type it would have been utterly impossible to produce these cars in the enormous quantity shown by the record and the millions of jobs that have been provided by reason of quantity production never would have been open.

Twenty-three million cars—and there are a lot of cars other than Ford's—mean ninety-two million tires, not counting "spares," and the production of the tires alone has meant jobs for many thousands, quite aside from the market for cotton and other materials that has been provided.

The more costly a thing is the fewer persons there are who will buy, and the cheaper it is the more there are who will buy, and, manifestly, the more sales that are made the greater the number of jobs that are provided.

Quantity production, which is the result of the use of modern machinery, not only creates jobs but it serves to place what would be the exclusive luxuries of the rich within the reach of the great mass of people.

The troubles of today cannot be blamed upon the machines that put so many useful articles in the reach of the multitudes. Such troubles as exist are due to faulty use of the mental machinery with which man is endowed. When men learn to think with the same precision that the modern machine does its work, it will be a much happier world.

"Figures of the Federal Insurance Deposit Corporation showing more than three billion dollar increase in bank deposits are something to put on the encouraging side of the business picture."—Charleston Post. (Ind. Dem.)

The Long Suffering Motorist

The motorist is a helpless victim of taxation because there is no practical substitute for gasoline.

For almost any other commodity the consumer can use a substitute.

But when it comes to gasoline, it's pay the tax or stop driving.

The states started taxing gasoline "moderately" but, as with all special taxes, the gas tax soon bacame exorbitant.

Then the federal government decided to take its pound of flesh from the motorist.

Motorists have it in their power to demand a reduction of exorbitant gas taxes, including the actual repeal of the federal gas tax.

They also have the right to demand that gasoline taxes be not used for other than road purposes.

When taxes run from 25 to 50 per cent of the retail price of any article, as the gasoline tax does, it is high time to correct the abuse.

The Sale Season Is On

July is the month of sales. Merchants are beginning to think of fall stocks of goods, and getting ready to clear their shelves of summer merchandise. But so far as the consumer is concerned, there are still many more long hot days ahead. Hence, this summer stock of wearing apparel at reduced prices means a very real opportunity to save money on needed garments.

Clanton is not lagging behind this year in the matter of July sales. Merchants have not hesitated to slash prices, and not in many years have buyers had such wonderful opportunities to get real bargains in standard, up-to-the-minute garments.

Get acquainted with these sales now in full swing. Come to Clanton and shop the stores inviting your trade and offering you an inducement.

The old prospector looked up to the moutainous horizon and declared, "Thar's gold in them thar hills." Look through your county papers for the advertisements, and you'll declare, "There's real money-savers in those July sales."

Life Is Shaped From Within

In the history of the race, thousands of soldiers have been slain because they would not divulge secrets that would have been of advantage to their captors, while literally millions of devoted persons have been similarly slain because they would not renounce their faith.

Lessons touching the heroism and devotion of persons of this nature have been drawn countless numbers of times, and properly so, but there is a significance to such developments that is not touched by such terms as heroism and devotion. One of the supreme lessons from such incidents lies in the fact that they prove conclusively that decisions are individual matters, not shaped by outward pressure or outward menace.

An army or a mob may execute or crucify one, but neither armies nor mobs can decide for individuals what they must do. In sum, no power under heaven can prescribe for any individual the course he is to take and compel him to adopt it.

Thus the tremendously important fact that vital decisions can and must be made by the individual is written in the blood of multitudes, and it is something that should be remembered by all, throughout all ages.

Through the processes of education one may learn the facts of history and may acquire some knowledge of all the influences that go to shape the lives of men, and may learn the fine art of judging facts and reaching wise conclusions, but it is not the things from without that shape destiny. That is shaped by the things within. Every man is captain of his own soul and charts his own course, whether for weal or woe. And that's a tremendously important thing to know, because it places responsibility for human conduct where it belongs. — Tuscaloosa News.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

Just back of the parsonage there was a large fig tree. A foot above the ground in the trunk of this tree there was a decayed spot. In the early summer this tree was loaded with leaves and fruit, but the fruit never ripened. A strong wind caused the trunk of the tree to break at the decayed spot and leaves and fruit parched in the sunshine. Many a man has followed the ways of sin in early life until disease gripped the body and the decay of the physical set in. These men have seen the error of their ways and they have turned unto God and the better life, but the disease remained, and in a few years they have fallen with their lives full of beauty and fruit. It is sad indeed to see a fine man go down under the power of an illness and all because he followed the ways of sin at one time.

When I was a lad I often followed a crooked path that led up and down the hills. Many moons before I trod that crooked path, a cow or a pig went that way and other cows and pigs followed them. Soon a path was made that was as crooked as a snake. The workmen on the plantation followed that path and soon it was a road. The pig and the cow had made the crooked road and forth and back traveled the public. If I had the space I could do some helpful preaching on the question of following in the path made by people who walk over the crooked ways of life. Some one many years ago made a crooked path and our generation is still walking therein. Christian civilization is making straight the crooked paths of living made and set for us in the days gone by. Whether it be a cow or a man, when crooked paths are made, we should refrain from walking therein.

I knew a contractor who spent many a week planning and building a beautiful structure. When the building was complete it was almost perfect from the standpoint of workmanship. and it stood on Main Street a pride and a joy. When the last nail was driven and the last stone was placed this contractor went out on a big spree. celebrating the completion of the job. Two days later the town was in grief because of the death of this useful man. To be sure he had built a structure that was a monument to his skill and ability, but he had failed to build himself. Nothing is wotrh making if it does not make the man. Why build those cities glorious if man unbuilded goes, Why build the world in vain. unless the builder grows. When we build we should be sure that we are building ourselves also.

I knew a boy at the age of sixteen and his brain was clear and his tongue was clean, but this youngster was given a place in a department store and while there he contacted bad company In a very short time this young man had become impure in his thinking and vulgur in his language. When we personify our nation that seems to be what has taken place in our national life. One writer has characterized America as human and vulgar, as having associated with cheap shows, cuties, soda pops, clam chowder, onions, swimming pools, sport roadsters, noise, jazz, unprintable songs, Mae Wests, chewing gum, hot dogs, nickle smokes, and set-ups, and cupsidors until our thoughts are impure and our language is vulgar. Bad company never fails to cor- game. He knew all the rules that regu- or nation.

I knew a man who was authority on the question of playing ball. He knew how the pitcher should handle the ball and how the players should play the game. He knew al lte rules that regulated the game and what decisions should be made by the umpire, but this man could not play the game. He was less than an amateur when it came to pitching, striking or catching the ball. He knew the game but could not play it. In like manner I have known may a man who knew much about how a preacher should preach, how a teacher should teach and how a farmer should farm, but he knew nothing about doing these things himself. It is not what we know about the spiritual life that counts, but it is how much of it we practice ourselves. Blessed is that man who can practice what he preaches. It is better to be able to do some one thing well than it is to talk about everything fluently.

WHO DARE ADVERTISE

Usually the argument is made that every business concern should advertise. Generally speaking this is true but there are exieptions. In fact, some concerns hardly dare advertise, because they can not make good according to the requirements of modern practices.

When advertising is untruthful and misleading it does more harm than good. Only an enterprise which fulfills the promises made in its advertising can stand the spotlight of publicity. Hence, when we find a firm boldly advertising its wares or service, month after month and year after year, we may generally conclude that it can and does give real values.

Observing the advertised businesses of any community, large or small, will enable one to identify the most dependable concerns in that community. Only efficient and reputable establishments dare to advertise.

Total Moon Eclipse Seen By Hundreds

The total moon eclipse Monday night attracted many persons from their beds, although the first sign of the eclipse came approximately at nine o'clock.

When the shadow first began to creep over the moon many feared they would be denied a good view of the phenomenon because of thin clouds. However, the clouds passed away within a few minutes.

Onlookers obtained their greatest thrill, perhaps, just before the narrow edge of the light vanished from the right of the statellite. The greater portion of the moon glowed faintly in dull red or copper. Yellowish streaks of light seemed to scintillate into space.

Everywhere stars popped out in the sky.

Except for brief moments the moon seemed to dissappear, probably because of thin clouds, a faint outline of the statellite was always faintly visible. This meant, astronomers said, that the weather in Hawaii, parts of Africa and parts of Russia, was clear. Had conditions been generally cloudy, it was said, the rays filtering around the earth would have been stopped—causing the moon to do a vanishing act.

The rounded earth's shadow, apparently much larger than the moon disc, passed entirely off that body an hour and 41 minutes after the eclipse began. The moon again shone in its full brightness.

Sorely Harassed Cleveland Rep. Convention Criticises The Pres. And Approves His Policies

The Republican regional conclave at Cleveland Ohio, July 8 and 9, was beset fore and aft with the same interference from the Old Guard element as had characterized its predecessor at Springfield, Ill., June 10 and 11. But despite open and general repudiation from all of the first line reactionary leaders, their personal announcements in the press up to July 6 that it "had not been properly authorized" and even though most of the first day's session was devoted to severe criticism of the elder statesmen by the presiding officer, finally a group of third line regulars from Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Tennessee took over the performance. And it wound up with the adoption of a platform replete with raucous criticism of the President, plus the implied approval of such of the administration's recovery and reform measures as were mentioned.

There were some variations, attributed by press correspondents to the fact that the gathering had been allowing discussions, such as were taboo at Springfield, before the group of Old Guard members of the Republican national committee assumed charge. For example, reference to agricultural problems was confined to a man from Michigan who confused the issue by asserting his state has "always been against the NRA." There seemed to be no farmers present but plenty of animus against the President, so they condemned the AAA as "unconstitutional" and in the same breath declared for each and every phase of the present AAA program.

Some of the oddities included "condemnation—

"Of the secrecy which surrounds the activities of the U. S. Treasury in its inflationary program;

"Of the present administration for gagging the press."

This was coupled with a "demand for freedom of speech to criticize vigorously against injustice and abuse by our high authorities."

Also: "The Democratic party is a spending party; we are for a balanced budget; we favor the immediate payment of the adjusted service certificates and a plan to provide assistance for all persons unable to obtain employment."

Above all, the convention declared its "unswerving devotion to the Constitution of the United States and the dual form of the state and Federal Government." And for all of the social and lagor policies of President Roosevelt, without the deletion or addition of any, "for the reason that the Republican party continues to be a party of high social ideals." None of which, however, it had put into effect.

Chevrolet Will Use Newspapers For Advertising

Seventy-four of Chevrolet's leading dealers, who together accounted for the sales of 38, 116 new cars and trucks last year, attending a two-day conference at Detroit on sales and advertising plans for the remainder of 1935, went on record as unanimously endorsing the Chevrolet Motor Companys' decision, announced at the closing session, to retain the newspaper as the backbone of the company's advertising media.

The announcement that Chevrolet intended to adhere to this time-tried policy was made by C. P. Tisken, advertising manager, who spoke in enthusiastic terms of the results the company has obtained through newspaper advertising, in which it has long been a conspicuous leader.

"We are constantly on the lookout for any means of making our appeal to the public more effective," said Mr. Fisken, "but up to date we have found nothing to compare with the newspaper as the 'main highway' for our advertising expenditure."

The day's sessions were in the nature of round-table discussions, and the subject was referred to the dealers for expressions of opinion. At the close of the discussion, which was strongly in support of the plan, the dealers voted it their unanimous endorsement.

The conference, held under the supervision of William E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager, sought to obtain free interchange of ideas on the mutual problems of the company and its dealers. Several round-table discussions were on the program, and dealers were invited to offer constructive suggestions on advertising and other subjects relating to their business. Several suggestions made at a previous conference of the same type were adopted with excellent results, and the cementing of dealer-factory relations, made possible through the conference, more than justified the undertaking, in the opinion of Chevrolet officials.

While the meeting was termed a "dealers' advertising conference," its scope was wider than that name would imply, Mr. Holler explained. The sessions touched upon every phase of Chevrolet dealer activity—new cars and trucks, used cars, parts, accessories, service, accounting and business management, and financing.

Representatives of each Chevrolet department outlined for the group of dealers the company's plans for the summer, so that when the dealers left Detroit they took with them a complete picture of what is in prospect.

The Mission Institute Declared A Success

The Unity-Chilton Institute which was held at Clanton Baptist Church was one of the very best we have ever had. The attendance was great. We enrolled 556 and had more than 350 present each day. The cooperation was beautiful to see. Each committee was at work and everything was therefore "well done." The director wishes to thank each member of each committee. The spirit of the meeting was exceptionally good. The speakers and teachers were as fine as we have ever listened to. It was certainly a great privilege to have them and we are glad that so many availed themselves of that opportunty. Fifty-eight churches were represented and eighteen pastors were in attendance. Dr. Barnes, Baptist State Secretary said it was the greatest meeting in the state.

If that is true, it is because of the splendid way in which the women of the W.M.U. of Chilton and Unity have worked to make it great. Mrs. L. D Hughes, Chilton's President, Mrs Grady Heflin, Unity's president and the respective young people's leaders and group leaders, have been tireless Much of the success of the meeting was due to Mrs. J. E. Gowan, assisted by Mrs. J. P. Hayes an dthe committees from each circle of Clanton W. M. S who served the lunch so well each day and the lunch committees from the various churches who furnished the food.

We are all better, loving the Lord and better servants of His because of the Institute, and we are grateful to all those who made it possible.

Dr. W. H. Carson, returned missionary from Africa, spoke each day to different classes. On Tuesday and Wednesday he spoke to the entire assembly. Mrs. Carter Wright of Roanoke, field representative of W.M.U., taught a class on parables of eJsus.

Dr. F. W. Barnes of Montgomery state secretary, spoke on Wednesday and Thursday.

Miss Carrie Littlejohn from Louisville, principal of W. M. U. Training School, taught the young women and gave the address on Wednesday.

Mrs. Ada M. Stallworth, from Montgomery, at head of Alabama W.M.U., spoke every day of her work in the West among the Indians.

Miss Joliet Weeks, from Birmingham, gave chalk talks, which were greatly enjoyed.

Others taking part were Miss Eunice Long of Haleyville, Rev. Oscar Davis of Holt, Lafayette Walker of Birmingham, was singer, Maurice Hodgens of Jemison.

All former pastors of the church have been invited. Rev. Butler Miller, who was reared in that community has been invited to preach one of the sermons of the day, and other ministers will be present and take part.

This is a community affair, regardless of denominations, and any one who ever lived in that section of Coosa County, or whose folks ever lived there, and the public generally are invited.

Fewer Screw Worms Found In Alabama

Auburn, Ala.—Fewer screw worms have been reported in Alabama and Mississippi to date this year than to the same date last year, according to the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine which reports that through June 22 Alabama had only 86 screw worm cases and Mississippi 116.

Florida has had the worst screw worm outbreak so far this year, however, comparatively few animals have died from screw worm attack this season.

Livestock growers are warned that now is a critical period for many animals subject to screw worm attack. Warm weather and good egg-laying spots are all this pest needs to multiply at an alarming rate, says the Bureau.

Amazed at Low Electric Rates For Home Use

P. H. Searcy, of Enterprise, Ala., Tells Why He Purchased Additional Electrical Appliances

Observing that his friends were making more liberal use of electricity in their homes, and wishing to give his family all modern comforts and conveniences, P. H. Searcy, prominent business man of Enterprise, Ala., investigated the cost of electricity under the new low rates, and found that even with additional electric appliances his bill still would be surprisingly low.

"Until just recently there has been in the minds of myself and my family a firm conviction that electricity came too high for more than the barest use, and consequently we economized in this direction all possible. Observing use our friends made of your current led me at last to investigate the actual cost of electricity. I was amazed to find that it cost me less than one-third of a cent to burn a 60 watt bulb for one hour," Mr. Searcy says in a letter recently addressed to Alabama Power Company.

"On making inquiries at my local office, I also found that the more current I used, the less it cost. This encouraged me to put in electrical equipment in the form of a range and water heater and to install the proper size bulbs in our sockets. We are now enjoying the many comforts and conveniences that electricity can bring one, in addition to protecting our eyes by using sufficient light, and are glad to report that our electric bills are much less than the amount we had imagined they would be.

"We consider the day we really investigated the price of electric current and found it so reasonable a very lucky day for us."—Adv. Alabama Power Co.

Union Grove Won Two And Lost Two

Union Grove ball team won a game from the Isabella team Wednesday afternoon. The score was—Union Grove, 15; Isabella, 9.

Union Grove team went to Shelby Thursday afternoon and won a game from that team. The score was—Union Grove, 8; Shelby, 6.

Just as the writer thought and told you last week, the Union Grove boys learned a thing or two when they met that bunch of husky ball players from Dogwood. They just simply ran over and around the Union Grove boys like they were not there.. Practically all the Union Grove fans and several visitors were out to greet them. There is no doubt in the writer's mind that this team is by far the fastest team that has been on Union Grove grounds. The Birmingham Barons would not scared the Union Grove boys much worse.

The writer really enjoyed watching their fast and fancy first baseman. I say he could get the ball and get it away in short order. A full game was played and Union Grove managed to get one little weasley run across the plate. While Dogwood put eleven across. Union Grove not being satisfied with this game, insisted that the boys play another game of five innings and they consented. In this short game Union Grove managed to get another run across the plate while Dogwood put eight across. Union Grove will play or try to play, these boys again the 27th at Dogwood.

Union Grove will go to Isabella Tuesday afternoon. Lay Dam team will very likely come to Union Grove Thursday afternoon. Cooper will come to Union Grove for two games Saturday afternoon.

LOCAL YOUTHS ATTEND MEET IN AUBURN

Letter From President Of Isabella Club Tells Of Activities

"I am absolutely pusitve in saying that our state F.F.A. convention held in Auburn July 11-13, was conducted with the greatest success of any other convention that has been held since the organization was established.

"There were approximately one thousand F.F.A. members not including agriculture teachers, speakers, bus drivers, and visitors.

"The band that was organized by Mr. R. E. Commach state supervisor, was very faithful in making it possible for us to receive the benefits of plenty good music. The band was composed of members from five different local district F.F.A. chapters, making a band of 27 pieces. The members from the different chapters had never practiced together until two days before the convention was held. Having a band it made it possible for a parade through the streets of Auburn. The parade was lined up four abreast, which reached from the district in front of Langdon Hall, through town to the corner filling station on the north side of town. Approximately 90 per cent of members wore F.F.A. caps. This made the parade look much more attractive.

The F.F.A. band was not the only thing that made it possible for the convention to be carried over with success. There were speakers among the best that Alabama could afford. There were representatives from Washington, representing our great national government, in which we all look up to. There were F.F.A. officials of the highest class of young boys. There were F. F.A. delegates from approximately 85 per cent of all chapters in the state represented, and the cooperation of the college, citizens of Auburn and others, all combined together with their wholehearted cooperation carried the convention over with an overwhelming success.

Young future farmers of Chilton, if you did not attend this great convention that was held for the benefit of the coming generation of farmers of Alabama, or if you did not have an opportunity to do so, I sincerely hope that within the next years to come, with our rapid growth of agriculturial opportunities, that our state and national government is making possible, that you will have even a much more greater opportunity than the ones who have been more fortunate than you have in the past. Today is the only time we are receiving a hearty cooperation and backing by the state and national government.

So boys, join the F.F.A. if you have a chance and men join the farmers union and show them we appreciate what they have and are doing for us.

I sincerely believe that the day will dawn when the person who hasn't a high school or college education, will be doomed for a failure. The boy or girl who is in school today is making it possible for men and women to obtain jobs which would otherwise be on relief or on the mercy of of the people and this boy or girl is making preparations for a higher place in life.

Boys Representing Chilton

Chilton County was well represented at the convention. Jemison chapter had two delegates and the president of the state association of Future Farmers America. Mr. Ernie Lee Robinson for the past year has been doing splendid work. State advisors say he has made one of the best executive officers the state has ever afforded.

We are indeed proud of Ernie Lee and the splendid work that he has carried on in the past The public cannot realize the value in dollars and cents, that a person is worth to society, of his ability.

Isabella Chapter had nine members represented and our new agriculture teacher, Mr. A. L. Smith. Mr. Smith is from Notasulga, Ala. He has been the agricultural teacher there for the past two years and has proved to be a most worthy citizen. The people I have heard speak of Mr. Smith, say they don't believe they will ever get another agricultural teacher to compete with him.

Mr. Thomas also carried three boys from Chilton to represent the new agricultural school at C. C. H. S. Mr. Thomas plans are to have the boys of that school to organize a chapter as soon as possible.

Save YOUR CLOTHES

Many a hole is blamed upon moths which is really caused by dirt. Little grains of dirt, often coated with acid from smoke laden air, lodge in cloth, accumulate moisture and set to work to excavate an ugly hole in that perfectly good suit or dress. If you have your clothing cleaned regularly, soil is removed before it gets in its dirty work. You'll save money in the long run—and look well continuously.

SOIL EROSION WORK TO GET STARTED HERE

CCC Camp Members To Carry On Program Says County Agent

With the arrival of two men who will have charge of the technical supervision of the extensive soil erosion program that the government plans to carry on in Chilton County with the labors of members of the local Civilian Conservation Corporation unit, County Agent J. W. Fant, who is intensely interested in the work, expressed hope that activities in the field may get underway within a short time.

F. E. Cooper, of Anniston, superintendent of field activities, and H. T. Stanley, of Montgomery, technical engineer, arrived in Clanton Sunday and began work early Monday morning in studying the lay of the land in this county in an effort to determine what may be accomplished by the program here. Both men have had wide experience, it is understood, in this type of work and have been connected with similar programs in other counties.

At the camp, which is located less than a mile west of Clanton, men were busy this week erecting barracks and other permanent buildings necessary to house the 250 boys and officers who are expected to be stationed here at an early date. It is understood here that the camp will be recruited from other CCC camps in Mississippi; the boys being transferred here as a result of a protest by local business men and county officials against the location of a Negro unit at this camp. Mayor C. Fenn Jones, Judge J. Lee Smith and others entered active protests against the idea of stationing Negroes in the local camp and government officials willingly cooperated in recognizing their request.

Little information was available regarding the nature of the work that is to be carried on, but it was explained by both Mr. Cooper and County Agent Fant that the program will have as its aim the protection of farm lands from the greatest of all enemies, erosion. Most of the work will be along roadways where drainage from fields is constantly robbing the lands of their fertility by carrying the soil on into streams and finally into the rivers.

Mr. Fant said that he imagined that for the present, activities will center about farms where the recent terracing program has already made inroads against erosion. For the next few weeks, it was pointed out, little work can be done in fields because of crops. The opening of spillways along roads will be one of the big features of the work in this county.

In addition to the protection of farmlands, it was pointed out that one of the aims of the government is the protection of the streams over the country. Since dams have been erected along the rivers, the soil that is carried into the lakes by smaller streams settles to the bottom and is gradually filling the lakes back of the dams.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Mullins, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Mullins, and Jean and Mary Elizabeth Mullins have returned from a trip to Daytona Beach and Miami, Florida.

EDITORS AND PUBLISHERS HAVE OUTING

Newspapermen And Women Of State Gather At Hotel Camp Dixie

The annual summer meeting of the Alabama Press Association was held last week-end at the popular outing place, Hotel Camp Dixie on beautiful Lake Martin near Alexander City.

This outing was the first of its particular kind to be held by the press association. Members were instructed to bring their old clothes and enjoy three days of fishing, swimming and just "knocking around" and roughing it.

Approximately sixty newspapermen and women from all sections of the state began to arrive Friday of last week for this event. Only one business session was held with F. Webb Stanley, editor of The Greenville Advocate and president of the association, presiding.

The members of the association were also guests of Hon. Benjamin Russell, of Alexander City and owner of Camp Dixie. Mr. Russell made everything most enjoyable for those present and saw to it that everything was in "shipshape" for the members during the entire three days. Mr. Russell, owner of the widely known Russell Manufacturing Company of Alaxander City, is perhaps one of the most prominent business leaders of the state.

PAVING OF STREETS CREATES INTEREST AMONG CITIZENS

Property Owners Realize Great Opportunity Being Offered To Make Improvement To Town For Many Years To Come

Asserting that he considers that Clanton now has the greatest opportunity in its history to pave its streets, Mayor C. Fenn Jones declared that he intends to do everything within his power to convince property owners that they can not afofrd to miss the opportunity afforded by the government in the recent offer to municipalities under the new Public Works program.

Under the provisions laid down in this program, the government will grant 45 per cent of the cost of improvements in municipalities and will lend the balance on long-time loan basis. It has been reliably estimated that streets in Clanton can be paved for approximately $9,000 per mile, about 12 blocks; this would be with bituminus surfacing similar to that used in the paving of the stretch of the Clanton-Selma Highway recently.

Mayor Jones has figured that the cost to the property owner for a 75-foot frontage would be less than fifty dollars, approximately forty dollars. This amount could be paid over a period of time and it effects would never be felt. The cost would be incomparable to the value of the improvement to the property, it was pointed out.

The mayor declared that from a sound business viewpoint if the matter was entirely in his hands that he would advocate the paving of almost every street in the city. "This is an opportunity that is not likely to again come our way in a great many years," Mayor Jones pointed out. It was also mentioned that the city would be able to save a substantial amount in the form of maintenance should the paving program go through. This, naturally, would be an indirect saving to property owners who pay the taxes from which the maintenance cost comes.

An extensive paving program would be directly in line with other improvements that have been secured for Clanton during the past year or two. Clanton has a new city hall; the water-mains have been extended into new

Doubt Exists Whether Trial Will Be Resumed

By Victor Norris

Hearing of evidence in the election contest case, in which W. G. Culp is contestant and T. L. McKee is contestee, which has been in progress here this week, was postponed Wednesday morning until Friday, August 2, by Judge Arthur Glover upon motion of counsel for contestant.

Percy M. Pitts, one of the attorneys for Culp, entered a motion at the opening of court Wednesday to continue the case until such time as technical points of law could be discussed by Oliver D. Street, chief counsel for the contestant. Judge Street was not in the court room. Mr. Pitts explained that he was counsel in a trial in Birmingham and could not be present.

When court adjourned Tuesday, Judge Glover requested attorneys on both sides to present law as to the effect upon the case should it be determined that the contents of the absentee ballot box had been "tampered with" since the election. Judge Street had already left the court room, it is understood without explaining to the court that he could not be present Wednesday, and it was because of his absence that Mr. Pitts asked for a continuance, declaring that he would like to have the court hear from Judge Street on this point.

Evidence was presented Tuesday by the contestee to show that the absentee ballot box has been gone into since las, November's election. Several witnesses testified that when the polls closed on election day that the ballots were rolled into a cylindrical bundle, wrapped in an envelope, and tied with a string when placed in the box. Evidence was also given to show that the poll list was sealed in another envelope.

Some time after the election, it was shown, Judge J. Lee Smith had this box opened to get the poll list and it was said to have been found that the poll list was not in the envelope, but was loose in the box with only a rubber band about it. It was also claimed that other contents in the box were not the same as when placed in it.

Judge Glover ordered the box in question opened and had it examined by election officials present at the time that it left the voting place for the custody of Former Sheriff W. H. Gillespie. This group included J. B. Atkinson, W. M. Polk, J. D. Rockett, J. Hance Alred, G. O. Foshee, Ed Kelley, F. M. Rhodes, and J. B. Yount.

Several of these men were positive that the contents were not in the same condition as when plaecd in the box. Both Mr. Atkinson and Mr. Polk tes-

TIFFIN RADIO SHOP TO HAVE OPEN HOUSE

Special Attractions Are Being Offered To All Housewives Here

Declaring open house, Tom and "Gabby" Tiffin, proprietors of Clanton's new Electrical Appliance Store, are inviting their friends and the general public to visit their establishment next Monday and Tuesday, July 29 and 30.

These two young men have been busy the past several days putting in a line of Electric refrigerators, stoves, radios, washing machines, kitchen cabinets and other items. For this "house warming" event they have secured the services of Miss Vivian Hester, with the Alabama Power Company, to demonstrate for the ladies the proper method to use in cooking on electric ranges. She will explain in detail, what to do and what not to do in order to secure best results.

Several unusual bargains will be offered for these two days, but that is not the main thing say Tom and "Gabby." "What we most want is for the people to visit our new place and learn what we have to offer in the way of merchandise and service." These two young men have recently been away to school studying radio repair work, and have a well equipped shop in connection with their business.

Visitors will be asked to register, and prizes will be awarded at five o'clock in the afternoon on each of the two days. On another page in the News will be found a large adv. from this concern explaining more about this "open house" program. Read it.

That 'Spiritual Awakening'

It is generally agreed among the most thoughtful observers of today, the world over, that one of the most urgent needs is a spiritual awakening under which the great moral values of life will be appreciated at their true worth.

This means simply that the need of the world is for character, that individual trait which impels persons to do the right thing.

And this does sum the situation up rather well, for could a condition be created under which the great majority of human beings were disposed to do the right thing most of the vexing problems would be solved without difficulty.

The twin evils of the day, both of which would be cured by doing the right thing, are quests for special advantage on the one hand and "buck-passing" on the other.

The quest for good things for self and the desire to pass the blame for bad things onto the other fellow, is quite general, not only in this country, but throughout the world, and governments are quite as guilty as are those individuals who form the governments.

While selfish groups of individuals seek special advantages for themselves and thus hinder the processes of recovery, governments jockey for advantage, through tariff tinkering and currency manipulations, and create conditions under which feeling is intensified and the spirit of conflict is made to grow.

The "spiritual awakening" about which many talk, would cure these evils; would make more dominant the purpose to do the right thing; would develop greater character on the part of individuals and governments, and those agencies that are at work seeking to bring about such an awakening, deserve the earnest support of all who have at heart the highest interests of humanity. —Tuscaloosa News

Salt Of The Earth

A few days ago a man who was terribly afflicted, being a cripple, came into The Montgomery Weekly office selling toilet accessories, of which he had a neat line, displayed in a small metal sample case.

This man was a good salesman, not too forward nor insistent, nor asking one to buy on account of his affliction. In other words, he was selling his goods on their merit.

When asked if this trudging over town was hard on him in his crippled condition, he smiled and one forgot that he was a bent and twisted cripple. Showing through that smile was courage, independence and honesty. Then he said: "I hope I'll never go on relief. I'm still able to make my bread and meat and don't want to be dependent on anybody, much less the taxpayers whom I have never seen or known."

That cripple is what you might call"The salt of the earth." Down through the generations has come to him the unconquerable spirit of proud ancestors, that courage which refuses to be dampened by adversity. Somehow he gives one courage to go forward, for surely if he "can make it," then it seems that any able bodied man can do so. And shining through his smile there is a glint of fighting steel, the courage that will not die. His spirit is like a fine Damascus steel blade, sheathed in a tattered and worn scabbard. The scabbard may be ready to fall into dust, but the blade it incloses is bright, untarnished—ready for battle. --Editorial by Frank Nunnelee in The Montgomery weekly

Your Life At Stake

During 1934, accidents of all kinds caused 101,000 deaths—the highest total on record—in addition to almost 10,000,000 non-fatal injuries.

The total cost of those accidents, including wage loss, medical expense and property damage, amounted to $3,500,000,000.

Accidents are responsible for more deaths to persons between the ages of five and nineteen than any other cause. Among persons of all ages, only three diseases result in more deaths than do accidents.

These are facts that should make the public pause, think and remember. The waste of accidents, both in lives and materials, is complete and irrevocable. It cannot be repaired. And it is almost entirely unnecessary.

Of all forms of accidents, those caused by the automobile are of course the most serious. Between 1913 and 1934 motor vehicle deaths increased from 4,227 to 36,000 a year, while other kinds of accidents dropped from 78,233 to 65,000. That is largely due to the increased number of cars in use—but the fact remains that at present motor accidents per thousand gallons of gasoline consumed, are on the rise. The reckless driver is becoming more reckless—the incompetent driver is becoming still more of a menace to all who use the streets and highways. The automobile accident record is in striking contrast to that of industry, which has made magnificent progress in reducing both the severity and frequency of accidents in even the most hazardous factory operations.

The war on accidents is every citizen's war, and every citizen should "join the colors." Thousands of lives, to say nothing of billions of dollars, are at stake—and your life and your dollars are among them.

Note On Journalism

An Alabama newspaper, one of the oldest and most distinguished, says editorial courage is going straight to the purple-blue blazes because American newspapers are not lifting their voices as they should against Italian aggression in Ethiopia.

But one good potshot at an evil in Alabama's own backyard is worth six columns devoted to a dozen evils abroad. We think it is more in keeping with the duties of newspapers to keep an eye on the community and state rather than to give Hitler a hazing, Mussolini a mud bath or Stalin a bat over the head in the editorial columns.

And after all international idealism is properly subordinated to national peace.

Our international idealism took us to Europe once to fight the battles of foreign nations. The bills are yet unpaid and will remain so. One time was enough.—Birmingham Post.

False Economy

True economy is entirely praiseworthy, particularly for those who have difficulty in making ends meet, but there is a petty sort of skimping which is not economy, and which is really wasteful in the long run.

Time and effort expended to effect the saving of a penny here and a nickel there often is a source of loss instead of gain. Shopping around for an hour in the hope of saving a few cents on a trivial purchase is one example of this. Another is to buy an inferior article when a good one would cost but a little more.

The same principle applies in business management. To deny oneself the use of a reasonable amount of up-to-date equipment in an effort to curtail expenditures is not economy because such equipment will usually pay for itself many times over in time and labor saving.

Spending money wisely is one of the surest means of making more money. Skimping is not always economy and stinginess is not always thrift. Too many of us are "penny wise and pound foolish."

MORAL ECHOES

While standing under a tree at the base of a red hill I observed that the water gathering up on the hill side and flowing down a ravine at my feet, was as red as blood. This water had been gathered up from the sea many miles away and then poured out by the clouds. Until it had touched the clay hill it was as pure as water could be made, but immediately after coming in contact with the clay it became red and impure. As long as we can keep our lives above the world, we can be as pure as it is possible for a man to be, but the very moment we come into contact with the world and flow down the ways of fleshly living, we become impure.

While I was a lad I spent many a happy hour with other lads sliding down a straw covered hill. We used the staves of discarded barrels, and they being made slick by constant use, we could make great speed down the incline. In order to take part in this sport it became necessary that we climb the elevation first, carrying our board with us. We had to climb first then have the pleasure of the ride. The elevation must be climbed and then the ride could be had. On many afternoons I have observed a lazy boy reclining at the foot of the hill, whining because he had no rides and he was too lazy to climb the hill in order that he might ride down. Since I have been a man I have observed that only the folks who are willing to climb and pay the price of the elevation in perspiration, are to have the joy of riding down the way of life. Efficiency must be attained before the ride can be had in any of the better positions of life. If you want to slide—first climb.

I wanted to talk to a friend who lived seven hundred miles away. I knew better than to go to the phone and lift the receiver and go to talking. My first effort was to set the operator know to whom I wanted to speak and next I gave them her address. Then I waited for the connection to be made. In a few minutes of preparation the contacts were made and the conversation begun. Many of us rush at God with our petitions without a moments preparation. We grab up the receiver and go to talking without thinking to whom we are speaking and without waiting for connection to be established. The kind of prayer that is to be heard and answered is that kind that comes into expression after preparation and after the connection has been secured. There is lots of praying without the connection and that is just talk.

While sitting in the living room with a family, the oldest daughter entered and advanced to a table. The mother observing her actions said, "Rose what are you after?" The girl hesitated a moment and then replied, "Oh, nothing mother, I was just getting my latch key." Did you know that many a daughter, many a son in these modern times have given to them by their parents a "Latch Key" so that they can come and go all hours of the night. This is not true in all of the homes of our day, but there are parents who think nothing of their sons and daughters coming and going in the night hours as they will come and go. Many a latch key given to a young life, has been turned into a key that locked that youngster out of a pure life and at last, out of heaven.

I knew a young lady who came home in June with a diploma from a prominent college. She had a little sister who was still battling with the problems of the grammar grades. The educated girl became vexed with her little sister because of her lack in knowledge and understanding. The older girl seemed to forget that her advantages had been far better that the advantages of the younger sister. She forgot that she had made advancements far beyond the little sister. In like manner have I seen advanced Christians, those who have made wonderful progress in experience and vision, and yet they seem to become very impatient toward those who have not had these advantages. It is best to deal gently with people who are realy trying to know the ways of right living. Patience is a wonderful virtue.

SONGS THAT LIVE

A little more than 100 years ago there was born near Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, Stephen Collins Foster, whose best known songs have stirred the emotions of four generations, and live today in the hearts of his countrymen as do those of no other Americans.

Millions who have sung and heard them never knew the name of their author, who was of a quiet and retiring disposition, delicate as a child and never robust.

He began writing songs at the age of 13, and by the time he was 20 his compositions had gained considerable favor. He wrote in all about 125 songs, of which the most famous have a Southern setting, although he was born lived and died in the North.

Among Foster's songs which had a universal appeal may be mentioned "Old Black Joe," "Old Folks at Home," "Massa's n the Cold Cold Ground," and the exquisite vocal quartette "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming." These and others have been popular on both sides of the Atlantic and their words have been translated into many tongues. Great musicians incorporated several of these melodies into elaborate concert fantasias.

Foster wrote both words and music of his songs, which made an epoch in popular music. He died in New York in 1864, but his plaintive haunting melodies seem destined for immortality.

CURSE OF NARCOTICS

In a recent address Captain Richmond P. Hobson declared that the traffic in narcotics is a cancer which has been eating at the vital organs of the world for 200 years, and that the power of American gangsters and racketeers is based upon it, rather than upon liquor.

He asserted that most of the bandits and gunmen who rob and kill are dope addicts who are controlled body and soul by those higher up. He believes the hope of the world lies in educating the young to the horrors of the "living death" of the dope fiend. Tracing the steps by which the drug habit is formed, Captain Hobson told of the physical and mental agony suffered by those who "get hooked" by dope. When the habit is confirmed the addict will resort to any means whatever to obtain his daily supply of drugs, and thus becomes a prey for those who would use him to further their evil purposes.

For several years Captain Hobson, Spanish-American war hero of Merrimac fame, has devoted himself to fighting the drug traffic and dangers, and is president of the Narcotic Defense Foundation, with headquarters in New York.

Capper Warns Public Of Bitter Fight Pending In Vigorous Support Of Roosevelt Tax Program

"What is of primary importance to me and to the people of the United States, individaully and collectively," said Senator Arthur Capper, Republican of Kansas, in a recent radio address, "is the President's pending tax program. There are a half dozen definite proposals:

"First, inheritance on large estates designed to prevent the transmission of colossal fortunes and curb concentration of wealth in the hands of too few families; Second, individual income surtaxes on incomes of more than a million dollars, amounting perhaps to 80 per cent on incomes of more than 10 million dollars a year and practically limiting net incomes to around two or three million dollars a year, to discourage the accumulation of excessive individual net incomes. Third, graduated corporation taxes on net corporate incomes, lowering the present taxes on small corporations making less than $15,000 a year net incomes, but increasing up to 17½ per cent on corporations whose net incomes run into the millions of dollars. This is to replace the flat corporation tax on 13¾ per cent.

"The proposed graduated taxes on corporation net incomes will work to the benefit of the small corporations of the country and tend to break down the super-corporations that are beyond local control and regulation.

"Personally, I am inclined to believe this is a most important part of the program. Government should be retained at home. But if our economic structure—corporation—becomes so large that the states and local governments cannot deal with them, that will inevitably force the centralization of power in Washington. Just as important, graduated corporation income taxes, properly and equitably levied will help the small business man. And he is the one we want to preserve in business.

"Now we must face the facts. Certain powerful financial interests are going to fight this proposal very bitterly and to the last ditch. Also they will fight the increased individual and inheritance taxes, of course. But I say to you that the future of this country and of your children and your children's children, as well as those of us who are facing today's problems, is more wrapped up in the success of the ordinary business man than in the continued aggregation of economic power and wealth in the hands of a few big corporations.

"The fourth proposal of the President, to end issuance of tax exempt securities, will require an amendment to the Constitution. I have stated many times in the Senate that tax exempt securities are the last and final refuge through which the overly rich can escape taxes. There are some 30,000 million dollars of such now out in the country. That avenue of escape should be closed. I have introduced a proposed constitutional amendment to this effect in this and in previous sessions of Congress since I came to the Senate 17 years ago. Today I have reasonable assurance that Congress will act on the submission of such an amendment to the states and that we will get the action at this session. I have little doubt what the people will do when they get the chance to vote on it!"

RAIN THAT ONCE RAN AWAY NOW CREEPS OFF TERRACES

Terracing and contour tillage as recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture has proved its value in the Middle West and Southwest. as rains have come after months—and in some cases, years—of drought. Runoff has been retarded. More moisture has been retained. In general the soil is in better condition than for years.

Letters from the once dry states tell the story. A farmer in Brown County, Kans., writes: "You should see those terraces I built last year. Rain that once ran away, now creeps off. A lot of it doesn't get away at all, but goes right down into the subsoil."

Contour listing on terraced land on the Limestone Creek project of the Soil Conservation Service in Jewell County, Kans., was damaged little by the heavy rains in May. "Adjoining fields, not so handled, not only lost much soil, but in many cases the corn will have to be replanted," says F. L. Duley, director of the project. "Heavy rains—one of 3 inches in 30 minutes—caused a few breaks in terraces, but these indicated faulty construction which will be remedied in the future."

Moisture conservation measures on the wind erosion project at Dalhart in the Texas Panhandle likewise proved their value in heavy rains. According to a report by H. H. Finnell, director of the project, actual tests show rainfall soaked in twice as deep on contured land as it did on fields of the same soil type and topography where no moistrure conservation measures were used.

"Rains in the drought area have provided the first seasonal opportunity in several years for real control of wind erosion," says H. H. Bennett, chief of the Soil Conservation Service. "Lack of moisture has prevented farmers from establishing a protective cover crop to anchor the soil. Moisture is now available. Farmers can take full advantage of the chance to start a permanent system of soil protection which will make a recurrence of the recent dust storms almost impossible."

Government Farm Loan Services Are Broadened

The Farm Credit Act of 1935, signed by the President on June 3, reduces the interest rate on Federal land bank loans, enables the Land Bank Commissioner to make loans to finance the purchase of farms, and broadens the services offered by the banks for cooperatives in several important respects, according to the Farm Credit Administration.

Effective for one year beginning July 1, 1935, interest payable on all Federal land bank loans made through national farm loan associations will be charged at the reduced rate of 3½ per cent. Interest payable in the two years beginning July 1, 1936, will be reduced to 4 per cent. Thereafter the rate will be that stipulated in the original loan contracts. Farmers having loans made directly by the Federal land banks pay interest rates one-half of one per cent higher than rates charged farmers borrowing through national farm loan associations. The interest rate on Land Bank Commissioner's loa will remain at 5 per cent a year.

Another provision of the Farm Credit Act of 1935 enables the Land Bank Commissioner to make first and second mortgage loans to farmers to finance the purchase of farms. Previously such loans were made only to refinance farm debts, provide working capital, and repurchase farms lost through foreclosure. The time in which the Commissioner can make loans to farmers has been extended to 1940.

Under the new act the interest rate charged by the banks for cooperatives on loans secured by commodities is reduced. Formerly, many cooperatives that were financed in part by such banks, obtained commodity loans from the Federal intermediate credit banks or other institutions, which gave the cooperatives more favorable interest rates than the banks for cooperatives could offer. The amendements to the old laws also provide that the banks for cooperatives may rediscount such loans with the Federal intermediate banks.

The act also allows the banks to make loans on security of physical facilities to farmers' cooperative associations engaged in purchasing farm supplies. Physical facility loans can now be made in amounts not to exceed 60 per cent of the appraised value of the security offered, rather than 60 per cent of the facilities financed by the loan as provided in the former Oct. Cooperatives supplying farmers with various business services are now eligible to borrow from the banks as well as those engaged in marketing farm commodities or purchasing farm supplies.

FARM GARDENS NEED SHALLOW CULTIVATION

Auburn, Ala.—Vegetable gardens should be cultivated often enough to keep down weeds and grass and thus prevent the loss of plant food and moisture needed by the vegetables, says Julian Brown, extension horticulturist, who advises that "all cultivation should be shallow, as deep cultivation destroys fine feed roots and injures the vegetables."

"The primary purpose of cultivation is to conserve moisture and plant food," he continues. "If the garden area is thoroughly prepared before planting and deep cultivation will not be necessary. weeds are not allowed to become large, The hoe can be used to better advantage in many cases than the plow."

Republican Senator Strongly Supports President Roosevelt's Tax Program

(Address by Senator Arthur Capper, Republican of Kansas, member of Senate Committee on Finance, in Columbia Broadcasting System's series entitled "Current Questions Before Congress," June 27, 1935.)

"What is of primary importance and of very real importance to me and to the people of the United States, individually and collectively, is the pending tax program suggested to Congress by President Roosevelt.

"There are a half dozen definite proposals.

"First, inheritance on large estates designed to prevent the transmission of collosal fortunes and to curb concentration of wealth in the hands of too few families.

"Second, individual income surtaxes on incomes of more than a million dollars a year—and practically limiting net incomes to around two or three million dollars a year, to discourage the accumulation of excessive individaul net incomes.

"Third, graduated corporation taxes on net corporate incomes, lowering the present taxes on small corporations making less than $15,000 a year net incomes; but increasing up to 17 and one-half per cent the net income taxes on corporations whose net incomes run into the millions of dollars a year. This to replace the present flat corporation income tax of 13 and three-fourths per cent.

"The proposed graduated taxes on corporation net incomes will work to the benefit of the small corporations of the country, and tend to break down the super-corporations that are beyond local control and regulation.

"Personally, I am inclined to believe this is a most important part of the program. I want to see our government decentralized as much as possible. Government should be retained at home. But if our economic structure—the corporations—becomes so large that the states and local governments cannot deal with them, that will inevitably force the centralization of power in Washington.

"Just as important, graduated corporation income taxes, properly and equitably levied, will help the small business man. And he is the one we want to preserve in business.

"Now we may as well face the facts. Certain powerful financial interests are going to fight this proposal for graduated income taxes on corporations very bitterly and to the last ditch. Also they will fight the increased individual and inheritance taxes, of course.

"But I say to you that the future of this country, and of your children and your children's children, as well as of those of us who are facing today's problems, is more wrapped up in the success of the ordinary business man than in the continued aggregation of economic power and wealth in the hands of a few big corporations.

"The fourth proposal of the President, to end the issuance of tax exempt securities, will require an amendment to the constitution. I have stated many times in the Senate that tax exempt securities are the last and final refuge at present through which the overly rich can escape taxes. There are some 30,000 million dollars of these tax exempt securities now out over the country.

"That avenue of escape should be closed. I have introduced a proposed constitutional amendment to this effect in this and in the previous sessions of Congress since I came to the Senate seventeen years ago.

"Today I have reasonable assurance that Congress will act on the submission of such an amendment to the states and that we will get action at this session of Congress. And I sincerely hope that the action by Congress will be favorable. I have little doubt what the people of the states will do when they get a chance to vote on such an amendment to the Constitution."

MANIAC ROVING ANNISTON FELLS 4 WITH HATCHET

His Victims, All Children, Are Sent To Hospital With Fractured Skulls

Anniston, Ala., July 21.—Four youthful victims of a maniac were in a hospital here today suffering from fractured skulls, inflicted by a marauder who struck them down while they walked along residential streets here last night during a two-hour reign of terror.

All four victims, ranging in age from 7 to 18 years, were struck on the head with a sharp-edged instrument, either an ax or some other weapon sufficiently heavy to cause fractures, police said.

All were in a semi-conscious condition today and officials had been unable to question them, except briefly, as to the identity of their assailant. Two of the victims during brief moments of lucidity said they were struck by a bearded man dressed in overalls.

A white man, said by police to be a former inmate of the State Hospital for Insane, was taken into custody today, but was said by Sheriff P. W. Cotton to have denied any connection with the attacks, claiming he was at home through yesterday and last night.

Victims of the reign of terror were:

James Hubbard, 18.
Gladys Grey, 14.
Willie Roberts, 13.
Boyd Hammond, 7.

Hubbard and the Grey child were struck down about 10 p.m., as they were returning from the Hubbard home to the home of the girl's aunt, Mrs. Pearl Smith. The two were rushed to a hospital after the youth stumbled into a filling station and the girl collapsed on the front porch of her aunt's home.

The Roberts girl and the Hammond child, a nephew, were attacked while returning from a picture show.

Residents in the vicinity of the attack told police they heard children screaming and upon investigating found the Hammond child unconscious in the street. He was taken to a hospital where he was identified some time later by relatives who had become alarmed when he and his aunt failed to return from the movies when expected.

After the Hammond child had been located in the hospital, a search was started for the Roberts girl and she was found unconscious in an alley shortly before 3 a.m., today.

Sheriff Cotton said the Roberts and Hammond children apparently were struck down about an hour or two later Hubbard and the Grey girl were attacked.

The two incidents occurred within an area of approximately half a mile square.

Sheriff Cotton said witnesses told him that the man taken into custody was seen in the vicinity of the two attacks last night.

Standard Chevrolets Are Popular Cars

In announcing the new Chevrolet lines for 1935, officials of the Chevrolet Motor Company predicted last January that the country's gradual recovery of buying power would create a heavy demand for the new improved Standard models, which combined the advantages of performance and economy with low first cost.

How correct they were in this prediction may be gauged by figures just released by W. E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager of Chevrolet. Sales of Standard models through June, Mr. Holler said, totalled 137,128 units. This is a gain of more than 366 per cent over the figures for the corresponding period in 1934.

"Automobile buying is following fairly closely along the lines indicated by our advance surveys," Mr. Holler said. "Thousands of individuals whom economic conditions had deprived of their cars entirely are returning to the market, buying, for the most part, used cars. Other thousands, located in the financial stratum just above these, are graduating from used cars to new cars in the lowest price range, notably Chevrolet Standard models. It is this general increase of purchasing power, all along the line, that has brought about the sharp increase in Standard sales, we believe."

One reason why Chevrolet has been able to secure so much of this business in the lowest priced field Mr. Holler added, has been the marked improvement in performance engineered into the Standard line. Its engine develops 23 per cent more power than in 1934, and economy and durability also are substantially improved.

State Convicts May Grow Legume Seed

At the request of the Alabama Legislature, R. J. Goode, Commissioner of Agriculture, is looking into the possibility of having State convicts grow legume seed and sell them to farmers at reasonable prices.

The legislative resolution, introduced in the Senate by Senator M. B. Wellborn of Calhoun County and passed unanimously, reads as follows:

WHEREAS, The farmers of this state are learning that the sowing of legume seed, such as Crimson Clover, Vetch, etc., in the Autumn is very beneficial in soil building, thereby adding nitrogen to the land and filling the soil with humus; and

WHEREAS, The cost price of such seed is very high, almost to the extent of being prohibitive, owing to the fact that few farmers have the facilities for saving the seed also due to the fact that such seed reach our market from foreign countries and from such far away states as Oregon and other Northwestern states; and,

WHEREAS, It is greatly to the interest of Agriculture in Alabama that some means be worked out to procure such legume seed at lower prices:

THEREFORE, Be it resolved by the Senate, the House of Representativs concurring, that the Commissioner of Agriculture is requested to look into the advisability and practicability of having State convicts produce and save the seed above mentioned and have them sold through commercial agencies at a reasonable profit, but the price to the farmers to be fixed by the Commissioner of Agriculture.

IN REMEMBRANCE OF MRS. M. M. SHAW

On July 17, the death angel came and bore way the soul of grandmother, who, if she had lived until December 8, would have been ninety years of age.

She was the wife of Hugh Shaw, of Rockford, who preceded her to the Great over sixteen years.

Grandmother has paid the debt which we all must pay and we know that she was ready to go.

She leaves to mourn her loss three daughters, Mrs. Telitha Boswell of Central, Alabama, Mrs. Edna Hatchett of Rockford, Mrs. Fullman of Central Alabama, and five sons, W. A. Shaw of Clanton route six, D. L. and J. W. Shaw, both of Rockford route, H. M. Shaw of Rilltown near Notasulga, L. S. Shaw of Wilsonville, and a host of friends and relatives.

Pallbearers were grandsons and a nephew of the deceased. She was laid to rest at Pleasant Hill cemetery near Rockford. The Rev. G. B. Golden, G. B. Waites and J. T. Fielding officiated with Alexander City Funeral Service in charge.

Closing Exercises At Clara Belle Smith Business College

The closing exercises for the fiscal year of the Clara Belle Smith Business College of Columbus, Ga., were enjoyed by the student body and visitors on July third. A patriotic note was carried out with flags and flowers for decorations. Miss Louise Scott led the class in the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Robert Perkins Jr., read "The History of the Flag." An inspiring article on "Respect for the Flag" was read by Mrs. Pearl Smith Truman.

A striking feature of the program was the thought expressed by an able statesman over a century ago regarding the structure of our government: "She's not clipperbuilt, our good old Ship of State; but she is constructed on the lines of a raft. An autocracy is a man of war, a formidable thing, capable of terrible execution, which if she strikes a mine or reef, is liable to go suddenly to the bottom. A raft, on the other hand, is 'the devil and all to steer' and she keeps your feet wet most of the time, but you can't sink her. Can anyone question the raft-like tendencies of our blessed republic.

Interesting papers on the ethics of life were read by the following students: Miss Esther Lee Dennis of Clanton, Alabama, Miss Frances Edwards of Phenix City, Alabama, Miss Barbara Capps of Opelika, Alabama, Miss Martha Culpepper of Cusseta, Georgia, Misses Betty Thweatt, Frances Bruce, Lonetta Flippen, Louise Scott and Ida Lee Baxter all of Columbus, Georgia.

These young ladies wore pastel shades with corsages to match, making a picture we shall never forget.

Miss Esther Lee Dennis of Clanton, Alabama received grade A on her certificate from the Commercial Stenographic and Typewriting Department.

Certificates were awarded the following graduates from Clanton, Ala: Esther Lee Dennis. At the close of the exercises, refreshments were served in the parlors of the college and among the large number of guests were Mrs. Alton Scott, Mary Jane Scott, Nellie Jane Trotter, Alice Bussy, Mrs. Lillian Chancellor and Miss Bertha Dennis.

SHARE-THE-PROFIT CONTEST AT THE LEADER IS NEARING THE END

Those Who Pay On Accounts Will Receive Four Votes Instead Of One During This Week Only; Interest Growing Every Day

With the end of the "Share The-Profit" contest being put on by The Leader with $100 as the cash prizes, that store is making some very attractive offers to its customers this week.

Mr. M. Lande, proprietor stated this week, and this week only, they would give to all persons coming in and paying up their accounts, four votes for each twenty-five cent purchase. In other words, this week is a four-for one week to those who pay on their accounts at The Leader.

"This contest in which we will award one hundred dollars in cash, is certainly going strong," Mr. Lande stated "The contestants are busy these days working for and saving their trade coupons."

The contest closes Saturday, August 17th, which is only about three weeks off. The Leader is a scene of action every day with contestants working for the trade coupons bearing different voting values.

At present there are 39 contestants in the race for the two cash prizes totalling $100 and the rivalry is becoming very keen. In this issue of the News, there appears an advertisement from this popular store listing more bargains being offered during this contest. The standing of the contestants is also being published just under the advertisement.

State Farmers Plant More Acres to Crops

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama farmers have 11,000 more acres planted to field crops this year than they did last year, reports F. W. Gist, state and federal agricultural statistician, who estimates the present crop at 7,031,410 acres compared with 7,020,250 acres last year.

Who Would Pay This $2,000,000 Loss In Alabama Tax Revenues?

COULD Alabama, its counties and municipalities and institutions afford to lose the sorely needed sum of $2,000,000 annually in tax revenue?

What new taxes would be levied to make up this huge deficit?

These are not mere idle questions. They are vital questions, which may soon call for answers from the taxpayers and citizens of this State.

If the Tennessee Valley Authority should extend its operations throughout Alabama and pay taxes only on the basis agreed upon, Alabama, its counties and cities, would lose tax revenues amounting yearly to approximately TWO MILLIONS.

This grim prospect, whose grave significance is as yet only faintly realized, is this:

The Tennessee Valley Authority has agreed to pay as its total taxes in the State of Alabama, only 5 per cent upon its proceeds from the sale of power at wholesale rates.

On this same basis, private power companies in Alabama would have paid in taxes in this State during 1934, less than $400,000 instead of approximately $2,400,000 which they actually did pay.

In brief, the State, its institutions, its counties and municipalities would lose the difference in $2,400,000 and $400,000 which is $2,000,000.

What State funds, what State institutions, what Counties would lose this $2,000,000?

COUNTY AND CITY SCHOOLS Would Lose Over $955,000

ALABAMA POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE Would Lose Over .... $ 30,000

UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA Would Lose Over .... $ 22,000

ALABAMA COLLEGE, MONTEVALLO, Would Lose Over .... $ 10,000

STATE TEACHERS' COLLEGES, NORMAL SCHOOLS AND OTHER EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITIES Would Lose About .... $ 53,000

THE CONFEDERATE PENSION FUND Would Lose Over .... $ 75,000

OTHER STATE, COUNTY, CITY AGENCIES Would Lose About $855,000

Each County would lose the amount in the column on the right.

To make up this huge loss of $2,000,000 annually, existing taxes would have to be increased or new taxes levied.

Are you willing to pay more taxes to make up this huge loss?

UNION GROVE DEFEATS ISABELLA BY SCORE OF 6 TO 4

Union Grove ball team went to Isabella Tuesday afternoon and played that team. The score was Union Grove, 6; Isabella, 4.

The Lay Dam team had a game scheduled for Thursday afternoon so we were unable to get them. A game will be played against this team sometime next week. Watch the paper for date.

Some of us are still wondering why Cooper did not show up. A nice size crowd of Union Grove and visiting fans were somewhat disappointed. However, the second nine lined up and gave the first nine some good batting and all-around general practice.

We have a first class diamond on the school grounds. We try to get good umpires and want nothing but a fair game. If you want to schedule a game just write "Doc" Chandler, Jemison route two, and you can rest assured that your message will be delivered by our beloved mail carrier, "Boss" Miller.

A game will be played Wednesday afternoon at Union Grove against Cane Creek. Shelby of Shelby County will come to Union Grove Thursday afternoon for a game. If you happen to be idle come over to see this game. The writer thinks these two teams are pretty evenly matched and should be a close game.

Union Grove will go to Dogwood Saturday afternoon. You can rest assured they will carry the best they have as they will no doubt need them.

Don't fail to read report in next issue of the Chilton County News. which the writer thinks is one of the best local papers in the state.

Put Gulf "on trial"
Tried Gulf gas lately? If not, you've a big surprise coming.
Put it "on trial" in your car for the next 3 weeks. Then see if you don't agree with this fair member of the Gulf "jury."

750 "Jurors"
750 car owners recently served as jurors in a "trial" of That Good Gulf Gasoline.
They drove it for 3 weeks—compared it with their regular brands on (1) mileage (2) starting (3) pick-up (4) power (5) all-around performance.

Verdict—Gulf!
At the end of the trial, 7 out of 10 voted for Gulf on one or more of the five counts—many on all five.
Why? Because Gulf is 5 good gasolines in one. Controlled refining gives it not merely 2 or 3 ideal gas qualities—but all five.
Try Gulf 3 weeks. We'll bet it's your regular gas from then on!

Chilton W.M.U. Met At Macedonia July 18

I wish to state that every woman who was not there can't begin to realize what they missed. We had some wonderful speakers for the day. Some of our associational officers are surely missing something when they fail to attend the quarterly meetings so we are writing this through the paper so maybe they can see that we (the W.M.U. of Chilton Assn.) are still holding our quarterly meetings.

You should have heard Brother Maurice Hodgens at the 11 o'clock hour. I wish every woman in the association could have heard him. The afternoon was for the young people and they rendered a splendid program. The climax of the evening was Eloyse Jones and Lois Thompson. Eloyse talked about what Ridgecrest meant to her and Lois gave a report on the Institute held at Clanton. You officers and local societies please meet with us at New Cedron in October and see what is being done. Help to pray that the officers for the following year may make a greater success than we have ever made.

Roy Dickerson's Special Cell Is Used For Overflow From Kilby Death Row

With each of the 13 death cells at Kilby Penitentary occupied by a condemned prisoner, Warden Frank Boswell had to wrestle with the problem that was presented with the arrival on commitment from Franklin County yesterday of George Pruitt sentenced to death for the murder of an officer.

Not more than one person can be placed in a death cell. All of those cells which are located in the same section of the prison with the execution chamber, containing the electric chair, were filled. The law prohibits the mixing of condemned prisoners with other convicts. Capital prisoners must be strictly segregated.

The Warden was at a loss to know what to do with Pruitt. He called Hamp Draper, head of the State Convict Department on the telephone, and dscussed the situation. It was finally decided the only thing that could be done was to use temporarily as a death cell. the special isolation cell provided for Roy Dickerson, bank robber and escape specialist, who is now on parole, after he was last recaptured some years ago.

That decision having been reached, Warden Boswell transferred Dick Hull, convicted in Montgomery County recently and sentenced to death for criminal assault, to the isolaton cell—Pruitt being placed in the cell vacated by Hull.

No sooner had that arrangement been worked out that the Warden received a message from Sheriff Haygood Paterson, of Montgomery, saying he was about to send to the prison Arthur Oliver, condemned Elmore County wife murderer, held at the Montgomery County jail for safe-keeping.

Explaining the state of affairs that already exsted at Kilby as to providing proper quarters for condemned prisoners, Warden Boswell made a special request that Oliver not be committed there until additional cell room for such prisoners can be provided.

Several days ago, when Jefferson County committed seven capital convicts to Kilby in the same day, the death cells were filled to capacity, and Mr. Draper issued an appeal through the press to all sheriffs not to send in any more condemned prisoners until arrangements could be made for additional cell room for their proper confinement.

In view of the fact that another arrived from Franklin County yesterday, however, it appears this appeal did not reach all chief county peace officers. Yesterday afternoon the head of the Convict Department forwarded a personal letter to each sheriff in Alabama repeating and giving added emphasis to the request.

For years it had been the custom with reference to all persons sentenced to death by trial courts, who took appeals to the Supreme Court of Alabam, to hold them in county jails pending the Supreme Court's action. In an official opinion, however, the Attorney General's office recently ruled that the warden at Kilby must accept all prisoners convicted of capital crimes and sentenced to death regardless of the fact that such prisoners have appeals pending.

Chevrolet June Production Highest Since '29

Detroit, July 11.—Chevrolet sales and production in June were the largest for that month since 1929, W. E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager, reported today. Sales in the United States totalled 97,862 units. Total production, including Canada and export, was 122,300.

"These figures," Mr. Holler announced, "not only surpass the sales and production totals for any other June since 1929, but with a single exception exceed the highest totals for any month in years.

"For the third time this year, June gave us a monthly production in excess of 100,000, the other two months being March and April. In no other year since 1929 has even an entire year had three 100,000-car months such as this year already has at the half-way mark.

"As we enter the second half of the year, we have already built more than 60 per cent as many cars as we produced in all twelve months of 1934—a year in which Chevrolet startled the industry by registering more cars in the last six months than in the first half.

"Sales of the Master de luxe models in June greatly exceeded Standard model sales. However, the lower priced Standard models, improved this year with the addition of the Master blue flame engine, is a tremendous success. To date, 1935 Standard sales show an increase of 107,727 units over the same period last year."

BIRTHDAY DINNER

On last Saturday, July 20,, Mrs. Ellen Eiland enjoyed her seventy-ninth birthday on surprise. Her children had planned ahead to meet on that day at her home and enjoy the day with her just one mile from Clanton up the highway. near Willis Tourist Camp.

Fifteen enjoyed this birthday dinner. They were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. W.F. Gilliland, Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Bowles, Mr. and Mrs. R.F. Watt and children, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gray and children, Mr. Alphus Moore and others.

The day was well spent. We had a great feast. The dinner was spread out in the yard on a table and everybody enjoyed it together. There were several nice watermelons and about four o'clock we had a watermelon cutting.

We hope that Mrs. Eiland enjoyed the day and wish her several more happy birthdays like this. May the Lord bless her in her old age and when she comes to depart this life may she be ready to meet the Lord in peace is our prayer.

Hogs Grow Fast Grazing Soybeans

Auburn, Ala.—Farmers may expect good results from grazing hogs on soybeans before the pods are ripe, announces Prof. J. C. Grimes, head of the animal husbandary department of the state experiment station, who emphasizes that hogs grazed on beans before the pods are formed will need some dry feed such as corn and tankage.

Prof. Grimes states that hogs on the Alabama experiment station have already been turned on soybean fields this year. Hogs grazed on soybeans in the past have been profitable.

Lady Took Cardui When Weak, Nervous

"I can't say enough for Cardui if I talked all day," enthusiastically writes Mrs. L. H. Caldwell, of Statesville, N. C. "I have used Cardui at intervals for twenty-five years," she adds. "My trouble in the beginning was weakness and nervousness. I read of Cardui in a newspaper and decided right then to try it. It seemed before I had taken half a bottle of Cardui I was stronger and was soon up and around."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Last Sunday, July 21, a number of friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Powell and had a reunion for Mr. and Mrs. A.W. Powell of Pensacola, Fla. All the children were present except two sons, Mr. Albert Powell of Pensacola, and John L. Powell of South America.

The people gathered at the home around the hour of nine and enjoyed the morning talking and laughing very much, as there were some who had not been together for a number of years.

At noon a most tempting lunch was spread picnic style in the shade under the grove in front of the home.

Those enjoying this event were Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Retherford and daughter of Pensacola, Fla., Mrs. A. G. Jordon, Jr., and children of Capitola, Fla., Messrs. FAIRVIEW DEM. CLUB

The Fairview Demonstration club met at the home of Mrs. Vera Mims on July 16 at 2 o'clock with a large crowd present. There were 17 members present and several visitors whom we were glad to have with us and welcome them back.

Our project was canning. As Miss Pardue could not be with us Miss Fuller came in her place. She gave an interesting demonstration on how to can apples and peas. After this we adjourned until September 17 at 2 o'clock, at the school house. We urge all members to be present at this meeting. We will elect new officers for another year.

FUNERAL FOR JUDGE DEASON HELD REC'TLY

Colorado Newspaper Tells Of Useful Life Of Former Probate Judge

Funeral services for Judge E. B. Deason, former probate judge of Chilton County, were held last Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Clanton Baptist Church and burial was in the Verbena Cemetery. Dr. C. J. Bentley, of Birmingham, officiated at the services at the church. Masonic services were held at the grave. Martin & Sons were in charge of the body.

The former Democratic probate judge died last Tuesday night at a hospital in Boulder, Colo., after he had undergone a major operation. He was 63 years old.

Surviving him are two sons, William E. Deason and Charles S. Deason, both of Boulder; two half-brothers, Jefferson D. Deason, of Clanton, and Austin Powell, of Penscola, Fla. His wife, Mrs. Alice Strock Deason, to whom he was married in September, 1909 died in Boulder last year and was buried at Verbena, her childhood home.

Serving as pallbearers at the funeral were: J. Watts Moore, G. C. Harris, C. Fenn Jones, H. T. Pipes, Dr. E. E. Upchurch, and W. H. Sartor.

Following is an article that appeared in a Boulder paper, which shows the high regard in which the former Chilton Countian was held by his adopted state:

"E. B. Deason, chief deputy treasurer, one of the most popular and efficient public officials of Boulder County, died at the Community Hospital last night at 8:15 o'clock following a major operation performed last Saturday morning.

"His passing ended a valuable life of public service in Alabama, Texas, New Mexico and Colorado. In the six years of his residence in Boulder Mr. Deason had won wide respect among a large circle of friends.

"Mr. Deason was born at Clanton, Ala., May 17, 1872. He was probate judge at Clanton for 12 years, being the only Democrat elected to office in a strongly Republican county in 48 years up to last year. He left Alabama because of his health, suffering from asthma, spent a year in Amarillo, Tex., and then moved to Aztec, N. M.

"He was connected with the Midwest Oil Company there and then served two terms as county clerk and recorder, two terms being the maximum length of service under New Mexico law. He came to Boulder in September, 1929, engaged in the selling of insurance and later was employed at the Commonwealth bank. In January, 1932, he took office as first deputy county treasurer on appointment by Herman A. Lennartz.

"Mr. Deason owned a home at 974 Grandview which he and his son, Charles, left three weeks ago to take an apartment at 806 Spruce street. Charles Deason will be at that address when he returns from Alabama.

"Mr. Deason was a member of Columbia Lodge No. 14, A.F. and A.M. and a member of the Alcazar Temple of the Shrine at Montgomery, Ala. He was a member of the Baptist church."

CONTEST

tified that seals were placed on the lid of the box before it was given to the returning officer.

Earlier in the day, Former Sheriff Gillespie had denied that there were seals on the box when it reached him. He told how he had taken it to the jail on the third night after the election and had locked it in the room where contraband liquors were kept.

One of the sensational moments of the trial was reached when Sheriff J. R. Hardy refuted testimony given by Gillespie that he had taken Sheriff Hardy to the jail on the morning that Mr. Hardy assumed office and turned the box over to him personally. Gillespie had told the Court that an extra lock had been kept on the door to this liquor room, which belonged to him, and he stated that he removed this lock, placing it and the key in his pocket, when he and Mr. Hardy were at the jail.

Sheriff Hardy said that he never went to the jail with the former sheriff and knew nothing about the extra lock that Gillespie told about. He denied that Gillespie had said anything to him about the ballot box.

It was shown that the key to the absentee box was placed in one of the record dockets in the sheriff's office, while the keys to all other ballot boxes were tied to the handles of the boxes. All other boxes were kept in the sheriff's office; only the absentee box being taken to the jail.

Mr. Gillespie explained that he had taken this box to the jail for safe keeping, after he had noticed men in the corridor outside his office and he believed they were guarding this particular ballot box. He denied that lights had burned late at night in the room in which the box was kept at the jail, but admitted that his son, Deputy James Gillespie, had also had access to this room.

Although counsel for the contestant asked for a continuance, political observers expressed the opinion Wednesday that the case will never come to trial again. It is the opinion of these men, wise in political maneuvers, that the contestant only wanted an opportuity to drop the case, but did not wish to have it announced in open court.

Should it be shown that the contents of this ballot box have been tampered with, then the law allows the certificate of election to stand. In this particular box, the contestee led his opponent by near three hundred votes and should the Court rule that the certifcate of election stand, there would be little doubt as to the outcome of the contest. There would be no hope that the contestant could ever overcome this lead in the other 26 boxes, which were fairly close.

Apparently Judge Glover believed that the box had been opened, since he asked for law upon this particular point. It was immediately after proof was presented that the contents of the box were not in the same condition, that Judge Street left his seat at the counsel table and did not return.

Two other contest cases are pending, but it is believed that the outcome of the Culp-McKee case will decide the issue in all three cases. Should McKee win there is grave doubt if the others would ever come to trial.

CLUB RALLY

responded to the mayor's address.

A report of club work in the county was given by Miss Ruth Pardue, home demonstration agent, who stated that in her opinion no other county in Alabama has enjoyed more rapid progress in home demonstration club work than has Chilton during the past two years. She traced briefly the work in the county; later she awarded leadership certificates.

One of the most interesting features of the entire program was a Dress Review, in which three types of dresses were exhibited: sack dresses, street dresses, and afternoon or crochet frocks. First, second and third prizes were given in each of these classifications. Winners were as follows: Sack Dress—Mrs. Malcolm Manning, Thorsby, first prize; Mrs. Jadie Sammons, Mineral Springs, second prize; Mrs. D. W. Ward, Baker club, third prize; Street Dress—Miss Bernice Jones, Mt. Pleasant, first place; Mrs. Jim Roper, Baker, second prize; Miss Everlee Smith, Mt. Pleasant, third prize; Crochet Dress—Mrs. Horace Popwell, Baker, first prize, and Mrs. E. D. Hand, Poplar Springs, second prize.

"Sanitation and Hygiene" was the subject of an interesting health lecture given by Dr. C. O. Lawrence, Clanton physician, who pointed out to the audience the field of opportunity for home demonstration club members to wield a mighty influence for better health in their communities by urging better sanitation about the homes.

Following Dr. Lawrence's address. lunch was served. Immediately after lunch, the Poplar Springs club presented a play, "The Son's Wife," which was reported to have been one of the best features of the day's entertainment.

The Poplar Springs club was also awarded the prize, given by Miss Pardue, for the "best attendance and club report at the rally."

Organization of a County Council and the installation of council officers was the principal business of the afternoon session. Officers are: Mrs. Anna L. Phalin, Thorsby, president; Mrs. Tom Littlejohn, Baker club, first vice-president; Mrs. Earle Thomas, Isabella, second vice-president; Miss Lena Busby, Minooka, corresponding-secretary and Mrs. Mattie L. Crew, Poplar Springs, recording-secretary, and Mrs. W. A. Adams, Midway-Mt. Creek club, treasurer.

Mrs. Madge Mullins, of Clanton, had charge of the installation.

open Monday, August 19, and will feature a double-header each day for at least two weeks; one game will be played in the morning and another in the afternoon. All games of the tournament will be played at the Chilton County High School Park, Clanton.

The details of the event will be handled somewhat differently from last year's tournament, Marcus explained. Those competing will be placed in two classifications this year and will be expected to compete only with teams in their respective classes, he said. This will give each team a better opportunity to win.

According to present plans, as revealed by Manager Marcus, 14 teams will compete, seven in each classification, and a game between two teams in each group will be played every day while the tournament is in progress. Invitations have been sent to the following teams to participate:

Clanton, Plantersville, Jemison, Randolph, Maplesville, Independence, and Alabama Mills teams. These will form the first group. Composing group two will be: Lay Dam, American Legion, Cane Creek, Isabella, Coopers, Union Grove, and Verbena.

All games will be played strictly in accordance with professional baseball rules, governed by the umpires and a Board of Supervision. Cash prizes will be awarded winners in both brackets Marcus stated.

Any teams other than those mentioned that wish to enter the tournament can secure full particulars by getting in touch with Mr. Marcus.

SCHOOL BUS DRIVERS TO BE SELECTED NEXT FRIDAY

A special meeting of the Chilton County Board of Education will be held next Friday at the offices of the superintendent, when appointment will be made of drivers for the 45 school bus routes in the county.

Appointment will likely be made also of teachers to fill vacancies in several schools in the county, it was learned.

territory; more than twenty new fire hydrants have been installed, giving fire protection to sections that heretofore has been practically unprotected; the city limits have been extended, and when a new census is taken the population is expected to rise to above three thousand. Paving of the streets of Clanton is necessary to place it in the city-class.

Apparently sentiment is in favor of the paving program, according to Mayor Jones who has talked with many property owners concerning the project. He invites others to express their wishes and reaction to the idea.

Members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club's Public Affairs Committee met Monday and appointed a sub-committee to contact property owners on certain streets and explain the proposition. Information gleaned by them will be turned over to Mayor Jones, who will submit it to the council before determining what steps to take in the matter.

She delivered a wonderful speech at the Kiwanis Club banquet given at the Exchange Hotel in Clanton, last April. On June 27, she was invited to talk to Miss Ruby Simpson's class in Vocational Home Economics at Alabama College.

Miss Adams has a charming personality and is deeply interested in Vocational Education. She believes that every boy and girl should have this training.

In addition to addresses and other entertainment from the speaker's stand, there will be plenty of barbecue and drinks. Mr. Fant said that this will be for sale. On the program for the day will be several prominent men of the state as speakers. There will be two bands to furnish music, and several amusing contests. The picnic will be a basket affair. Cold drinks and ice cream will be for sale.

Log Cabin Beach is right on the river with a good sandy beach and a splendid place for swimming for young and old. There will also be boats for anyone wishing to take a boat ride.

Long tables will be prepared for the lunch. There will be plenty of benches and plenty of shade. A good, cool spring of water is also handy.

The entire program for this event will be published in next week's News. This picnic will take the place of the regular monthly meeting.

AN EDITORIAL

Under date of July 18 The Union-Banner grows alarmed over the money being spent by the federal government to alleviate the economic ills resulting from a long period of Republican mismanagement in national affairs. Particularly, do they become sorrowful over the money Chilton County farmers will receive from the national government through the AAA program and sadly warn farmers that "Another phase of the AAA business is that to an alarming extent it is making wards of the farmers of the country to the government." Strange as it may seem in view of their attitude on the AAA program, in the next issue dated July 25, 1935. The Union-Banner, in another front-page editorial endorses payment of the soldier's bonus.

Now, the News has no bones to pick with anybody who wants the soldiers to be paid their bonus, and does not object to it being paid, but we do contend that the farmer, particularly the Southern cotton producer, and more particularly the farmers of Chilton County, are not getting any more than their just dues in proportion to all other classes of people. and that they are not becoming wards of the government or anybody else.

Continuing, The Union-Banner solemnly warns their readers that all this money our farmers are receiving will eventually have to be paid back, and that "We people right here in Chilton County, either directly or indirectly, will have to sweat for our part of it."

Of course anybody knows the AAA program is costing money. We imagine that most people know this money is tax money, and that it is raised through the processing tax. What The Union-Banner overlooks, or refuses to recognize, is that this tax is now being collected, and that the program is largely self-supporting as it goes along, and that no monstrous debt, as they would lead us to believe, is being piled up for this generation or any future generations to pay. The processing tax is being paid now, in Chilton County. It amounts to approximately 3½ cents on each work shirt you buy, and 8 cents for a pair of overalls. The News asks The Union-Banner if that is a burdensome tax in return for the benefits Chilton County receives from the AAA.

No! Chilton County is not objecting to that tax in view of the returns received. By vote of the farmers all over the South and other sections as well, the AAA program was endorsed. Who then is objecting?

Under Boston date line of July 16, The Union-Banner carried an article about the Hoosac mills, and certain other New England mills, challenging the constitutionality of the processing tax and AAA program, in which it is stated that a two to one decision by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals was rendered against AAA. Note that this decision was not unanimous, that it is not final, as the Supreme Court will have to rule on its constitutionality, that the objections to AAA were not raised in the South, Middle West, West, that the objections were not raised by farmers who are paying their pro rata share of the processing tax, but that the objectors are found largely in New England States among manufacturers. Further, that in the same issue in which this news story was carried, The Union-Banner, in a front-page editorial attacked the AAA both as to the cotton program and other phases.

The News is not in position to determine the constitutionality of the AAA, it certainly recognizes the court ruling on it as legitimate news, but is not willing to accept a minor court ruling as final, determined to accept AAA for what we believe it is—a fair deal for the farmer—until such time as the Supreme Court of the United States passes verdict upon it. But upon the editorial expression of The Union-Banner the News dares to raise the question: Is The Union-Banner primarily interested in the welfare of farmers, particularly Chilton County farmers, or is it more interested in what certain New England manufacturers want?

Under all the circumstances that question is not amiss. The processing tax has often been called the farmers' protective tariff, and we agree with that designation. Now, let us make a few comparisons: Both the processing tax and the protective tariff add to the cost of goods purchased, and the consumer pays in higher prices. The protective tariff has been levied in varying amounts on various articles for more than 100 years, for the protection of industry, not farmers. In 1930 the protective tariff tax on 60 cent aluminum kettle was 37 cents: on a 50 cent pocket knife, 70 cents; on a $4.00 bed stead, $2.20; on a $4.00 cook stove, $7.45; and on a 10 cent pair of mule shoes, 3 cents. Many other items could be mentioned, but the above shows how much the consumer has been called upon to pay for the benefit of industry.

The processing tae amounts to 8 cents per sheet, 1 cent per yard on unbleached muslin, less than 4 cents per work shirt, less than 9 cents per pair of overalls, and a proportionate amount for other types of cotton goods. Like the protective tariff, it makes the goods cost more. But compare the above figures as to the amount of added cost, and remember, the increased cost resulting from the protective tariff is primarily fits the farmer.
for industry's benefit, and that resulting from the processing tax bene-

Industry has long insisted that it must have a protective tariff to protect it from goods made by cheap foreign labor. No one until the present Democratic administration went into office seemed greatly concerned about the cotton farmer selling his cotton on an unprotected world market, regardless of cheap labor or anything else.

Industry has always received protection under Republican administrations. Democrats have contended at times that it was too high, but in some form or other, it has been in effect as far back as any of us remember. The Republican party through the years has become known as the party which favors a high protective tariff for industry.

In Chilton County The Union-Banner has been the standard-bearer for the Republican party. In all the years we have known the paper, we have yet to read one editorial in which high protective tariff was attacked, or Chilton County consumers even told that they were paying in higher priced goods in order to protect industry. Not a voice of protest have we ever read. We ask Chilton County farmers if any one of them has ever read such an editorial.

Why then do they raise a cry of alarm and shout "Danger" when farmers of their own county are getting a small break in the same manner New England manufacturers have been getting for years. Why do they hear the cry of the Hoosac mills in New England and are not concerned with the plight of Chilton County farmers? Would they be willing to junk the AAA program and still support a protective tariff for industry? If that be true, would it constitute a sincere interest in the welfare of farmers all over the South, including Chilton County?

Or is The Union-Banner so impregnated with Republicanism that they are willing to sacrifice the benefits farmers of Chilton County Republican and Democrats alike, are receiving from the AAA upon an altar of selfish politics?

In 1932 Chilton County farmers received $439,566.00 for 11,907 bales

BANKHEAD ACT TO APPLY TO PRESENT CROP

Explanation Given Out Regarding Taxes On Cotton Crops

The Bankhead Cotton Control Act will be in full force and effect during the cotton season, 1935-36. The adverse ruling of United States District Court in Texas with reference to this law only effects the ginners involved in that suit, and undoubtedly those ginners have been required to make bond to protect the Government against loss in the event they fail upon an appeal to the United States Supreme Court. The Government has stated that an appeal would be prosecuted from this decision.

The Administration of the Bankhead Cotton Control Act will, in all probability, be much stricter during the crop year 1935-36 than it was during the last corp year. It is not anticipated that the urgent conditions which existed last season and influenced the Bureau to grant indulgence to the ginner and producer, will exist during this crop year. The cotton producers should realize that it will be necessary for the ginner to clear the cotton when ginned, which means that the ginner must collect the tax either in exemp-

Door Of Safe Taken Into Woods; Big Sum Stolen

$400 OVERLOOKED BY BURGLAR

No arrest has been made in the burglary of the Alabama Mills office here last Thursday night, however, Sheriff J R. Hardy has declared that the identity of the person who took $927 from a safe in the office is known, almost beyond doubt, to police officers and officials of the company.

Although a net of circumstantial evidence points directly at this person, he explained, insufficient proof has been found upon which to base a charge. Fingerprint experts from Birmingham were brought down, but they were unable to find any prints other than employees who have constant access to the safe.

Sheriff Hardy and his deputies spent most of Friday and Saturday working on the case, but were unable to uncover anything in the way of material

OWNER FINDS CALF'S BELL, BUT IS STILL PUZZLED ABOUT HOW

W. J. Moatts, who lives near Clanton, comes forward with a story, which indicates something — but the reader will have to figure that out for himself.

A few days ago Mr. Moatts noticed that one of the calves on his place had lost its bell. He immediately started out over the pasture searching for it.

Recognizing the waywardness of her offspring, the mother of the calf picked up the bell by a short rope attached to it and began ringing it as Mr. Moatts approached.

WRITERS BELIEVED TO HAVE SHOT OWN CAR IN HOAX

Group Claim They Were Fired On Near Clanton; Governor Terms The Whole Thing "Cheap Publicity Stunt"

The five crusading writers, representing the National League for the Defense of Political Prisoners, who came to Alabama to protest the anti-sedition bill, and who yesterday reported they had been fired upon near Clanton, "shot their own car as a cheap publicity stunt," Governor Graves declared last night.

The Governor announced an end to the investigation of the whole affair declarng that a record of separate statements by the crusaders in the presence of their counsel, gave indisputable proof that "it was a frame-up from start to finish."

The Governor's statement was issued after he had received a report from Winston Huddleston, circuit solicitor and one of the smartest investigators in Alabama. Solicitor Huddleston advised the representatives themselves upon authority of the Governor, that they had framed the story, and the writers left Clanton, where the investigation was held, for Birmingham and Tennessee.

Writer Alfred Hirsch, of New York who, according to the record, couldn't designate the color of the car, the type of the car, whether sedan or coach or coupe, or whether the man alleged to have fired the shot wore a coat, or a hat. But the shooting, he declared, did not occur until the car had passed 30 feet beyond the car in which he was riding.

The scene of the "shooting" was about 13 1-2 miles South of Clanton on the Montgomery highway, and about 200 yards north of the overpass over the Louisville, and Nashville Railroad at Mountain Creek.

The representatives reported that they were en route to Montgomery from Birmngham. They had breakfasted in Clanton at about 8 a.m. and the "shooting" occurred getween 8 and 9 a.m. The party was riding in a coupe with rumble seat, with Miss Shirley Hopkins, of Truro, Mass., driving. Seated next to her was Hirsch and next was Bruce Crawford, of Norton, Va. On the rumble seat were Emmett Gowan, of La Vergne Tenn., and Jack Conroy, of Moberly Mo.

"Miss Hopkins said," the Solicitor reported, "that as the car drew about even to where she was seated that a man began shooting and that the pistol was leveled at her. I asked her if she was not close enough to touch the pistol and she replied in the affirma-

ALMOST ALL MAIN STREETS ARE APPROVED

Practically All Of East Side Of Town Is Ready To Start

A majority of the property owners along nearly all of the main streets in Clanton have signed petitions, declaring their willingness to cooperate in an extensive paving program here.

Mayor C. Fenn Jones declared Tuesda morning that he is now confident that practically all the streets in the city will be paved under the provisions of the recent PWA offer to municipalities for improvement. Under this plan, the government will give an outright grant of 45 per cent and will lend the balance.

Petitions are beng circulated on nearly every street in Clanton to determine if the property owners are willing to be responsible for the remaining fifty-five per cent. The results of this survey have been gratifying, Mayor Jones stated. The paving can be done for approximately $9,000 per mile and the cost of paving in front of an average size lot will be less than fifty dollars, according to estimates that have been made by road construction men.

COUNTY-WIDE ROAD PROJECT IS APPROVED

Works Director Smith Distributes Work Over All Districts

A county-wide road project employing forty men in Chilton County, was begun the first of this week, according to Works Director, Floyd Smith.

It was stated that the work will be distributed throughout all four of the districts of the county, with approximately ten men working in each district. Supervision of the work will be in charge of county foremen, with timekeepers employed by the Works Progress Administration. The workmen will be selected from the list of those formerly engaged in work relief.

Authorization is momentarily expected for beginning work on the Clanton airport under the Works Progress Administration. It was announced from Montgomery Sunday that this project has been formally approved for $8,772, to employ 38 persons.

Director Smith is sending in requisition for the airport job, specified 25 men, ten women, one engneer, one supervisor, and one timekeeper.

The Clanton drainage project has been requsitioned by Mr. Smith, to employ 25 men. Approval of this project will doubtless be made in a short time, the institution of which, with the airport and road project, Mr. Smith says, will employ all the men in Chilton County who are eligible to work on WPA projects.

Charles Foshee plans to leave this week for Chicago, where he intends to look into the possibilties of his entering medical and surgery school.

A Forceful Tribute

No more ardent or quite apparently sincere tribute was ever paid NRA during its existence as a recovery measure, enacted by the votes of an overwhelming majority of the last Congress, regardelss of political affiliations, than has been bestowed by American industry itself.

The record shows that within exactly two weeks after President Roosevelt issued an executive decree prividing that proponents of voluntary codes of fair competition could submit them for approval to the Federal Trade Commission, that body had received for consideration applications from 170 different American industries. Of these, 100 were filed with the Commission and 70 had already been taken up with the skeletonized NRA prior to the issuance of the President's order. Thus in a fortnight nearly a third of the trades and industries that operated under NRA codes came back to the government for such types of business covenants as the restrictions imposed by the Supreme Court's decision would allow.

Subsequently, applications were reaching the Commission at the rate of more than 30 per week and on the 18th day following the Presidential order the promulgation of the first such code, necessarily limited, was announced.

Except for the insensate bitterness of the attacks now being made by the Old Guard speakers and press upon each and every measure adopted during the Roosevelt administration to enhance buying power, and thus restore normal business in the United States, the sepulchral silence of these elements on the developments pertaining to codes at Washington would be astonishing. Instead it is merely proof positive of what the people may expect henceforth, at least until the election next year.

But while studiously ignoring the earnest endeavors of the President to render this service which industry requires and asks for, these assailants of the administration have harped on one phase of the subject almost continuously.

Attempts have been made by Old Guard propangandists to make it appear that the National Business Advisory Board has again resigned in a body and in a huff. This board of 60 leading industrialists and business men has functioned for two years. It was named by Secretary of Commerce Roper to serve as the name implies. It meets regularly each month and frequently in called sessions; has done so since the Summer of 1933, and because its members are busy executives their terms rotate in periods of a few months. Thus when every few months five of them return to their private duties, there is the recurring first page story in the Old Guard press that the entire board has resigned. Invariably it has been asserted, without equivocation whatever or quotation from any source as authority, that there was trouble of a seriou and inexplicable nature.

It will be recalled that about a third of the membership of this board left the session of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States which so violently condemned the President and his policies last Spring and brought to him their personal assurance of confidence and approval. They are far too important to incur the individual censure of the detractors of the New Deal but as a body they are deemed deserving of uncomplimentary reference because of their continued fidelity to the President of the United States.

Thus reason the invertebrate irascibles.

Five Requisites Of Cooperation

According to Earl W. Benjamin, General Manager of the Pacific Egg Producers, there are five requisites to success in forming and conducting an agricultural cooperative:

First, qualified executives must be employed to handle the cooperative's affairs.

Second, the co-op must be soundly and adequately financed.

Third, it should stand on its own legs, meet competition through advancing the efficiency of opeartion, and should so far as it is possible avoid depending on governmental subsidies.

Fourth, it should limit its activities strictly to the business purposes of the cooperative.

Fifth, it should keep all members thoroughly informed as to what is going on.

As Mr. Benjamin says, cooperatives lacking any of these requisites are doomed to trouble sooner or later.

Good cooperatives are of the utmost service to agriculture—poor, badly organized ones can do great harm to the very cause they esvouse.

Taxing Government Bonds A Sound Policy

One of the most timely and meritorious measures that has been proposed by the New Deal President, in the judgement of this writer, is the suggestion that interest bearing government bonds should be taxed. This should be made to apply to federal, state, county and municipal bonds. Why not?

Bonds are property of a kind. They are considered gilt edge investments. They usually yield steady returns. They work for the investor while he rests. Why should they be exempt from taxation when the owner of real estate and personal property, who has to hustle to hold it and make it profitable, be made to pay tax on his investments?

Many a man in ordinary circumstances has his all invested in his homestead and possibly in a business also, and on these he is compelled to pay ad valorem taxes, including frequently a license tax; while those who are able to invest in bonds are allowed to go free. This is an unfair and unwise policy. It tends to encourage people with ready money to invest it in bonds rather than to put it to work in business or industry, developing natural resources and supplying jobs for the many who are suffering for the want of employment.

Go to it, Mr. President! You are on the right track. Congress and the public generally should back you in this move.—Tallassee Tribune.

Mirage Of Conquest

It is commonly reported that Mussolini is preparing for his African venture because of economic necessity—because Italy needs the markets, the raw materials and the room for expansion which conquest of Ethiopia would make possible.

A recent article in the Business Conditions Weekly of the Alexander Hamilton Institute, however, suggests that Italy does not have nearly as much to gain from this venture as is generally supposed.

Ethiopia, it is pointed out, is not a productive country. Except for coffee, it produces barely enough agricultural commodities for its own people. Not much is known about its mineral deposits, but due to lack of transportation facilities the cost of exploiting such deposits would be tremendous.

The country has such a low standard of living that it will be woefully poor market for many years to come. Enormous amounts of capital—which Italy admittedly lacks—would be needed to make it a great cotton or rubber producer.

These facts suggest that the conquest of Ethiopia may well cost Italy a great deal more than it can possibly be worth.—Selma Times-Journal.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

I was in the crowd that watched an aeroplane soaring high in the air. When it was about five thousand feet high we saw a speck fall from the plane. We were expecting to see the speck fall as it was known that a man would leap into the air, expecting to float safely to the earth by the use of a parachute carried on his body. When the man had fallen for some distance we saw the parachute open and the air that was all about the man was gathered up and the man's speed was checked and he came down to a safe landing. As the air was all about the falling man and had sufficient power to support him, so the love of God is all about each of us and that love has sufficient power to check the fall of any one when we learn to submit ourselves to its power. We can safely trust the love of God when we leap from the planes of sin.

I called to see an aged man and he was complaining about growing old. He said that his limbs were becoming stiff and his mind was sluggish and that nothing came easily any more. He lamented—"Why can not we stay young forever?" How little we think about the possibility of staying young. When we are young we select an older person as our ideal and want to grow older like that one. Being older is very fascinating for us. When we are much older then why not take a young person as our ideal and try to become like that one when we still older grow. Take a child for a teacher and look out upon life through the vision of childhood. It is good to let every sunset be as though it was the first sunset we ever saw and every sunrise be the beginning of a new day. If we want to remain young we must discard worn out phrases and live and enjoy every experience. In the life of a child we can locate the spring of eternal youth.

Are you dissatisfied with your place and positon in life? Do you have to be something that you are not? Go to that stately oak and learn a lesson. See how it drinks in the moisture through its leaves and its roots. Just over the fence there is a plum bush that is scraggy and filled with thorns. The plum bush is drawing its support in the same way from the same air and soil. The oak does not become a plum and neither does the plum become an oak. Each one is governed by the inner law of its own being and each alike becomes the product of its inner nature. If we learn to respond to the workings of our inner being, the soul life, it will also become possible for us to become just what God wants us to be. The same law that governs the oak, governs the plum. In like manner, the same law that governs the one whom you think to be specially favored governs you and each alike can fill his place.

One hot, sultry, depressing August afternoon I strolled about a downtown depot in Columbus Ohio. I was as miserable as it was possible for a sweltering man to be. Soon I was on a train going north towards the great lakes. No sooner had we passed from under the shed of the depot than the atmosphere changed and the air conditioned coach became a place of comfort and refreshment. I found relief when I entered new surroundings and moved away from the old place of depression. The provision of the rail road management and the schedule of the engineer ahead moved me away from the sweltering depot. God has provisions made and a schedule arranged by which we can move away from our troubles. It does not matter whether we move away from trouble, or have trouble to move away from us, it is God's plan that we never tarry long where things depress us. When we turn to God we should ride on an airconditioned train.

I passed a mud puddle in the road, The water was filthy. The next day I passed along the same road and the foul water had gone away. The pulling power of God over the soul will ever lift into pure living and into the pure atmosphere of DDivine comradship.

"Democratic" Farm Woman Converted To GOP By AAA Didn't Have To Write "Inspiration" On Kitchen Table

"Writing as a plain farm woman outraged by Washington's intrusion into the affairs of her modest Missouri farm; recording on the pages of a school tablet while seated at her kitchen table far into a bitter cold March night the indignant protests of a disillusioned 'yellow dog' Democrat at the rapacious dictatorship of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Such was the widely heralded inspiration of Mrs. George B. Simmons, political messiah brought forward by Arthur M. Hyde, Mr. Hoover's secretary of agriculture, from the region of Marshall in his State of Missouri. The message evolved by her under such trying conditions was published in the Saturday Evening Post under the title "Where Do We Go From Here" It was said of her by the delighted Old Guard of the GOP that she was a novice at writing, that up to that epochal effusion all of her spare time from fighting off snoopers from the AAA had been devoted to advancing the cause of Democratic principles. But her duty was plain and she could not shirk it, despite the pain it gave her to cast aside the tenets of Democracy. She simply could not abide President Roosevelt, they said.

However, since Mr. Hyde's sponsorship of Mrs. Simmons at the "grass roots" conventon in Springfield, which the Old Guard wrested away from the Midwestern Republican liberals who started it, the Eastern magazines have been sending staff writers out to Marshall.

It seems that although her father was a Democrat, her husband has always been a Republican and she openly supported Hoover in 1928, along with Mr. Hyde's futile farm policies that followed. She did not though, have to pay 60 cents a bushel for corn, as she complained, because corn was then selling at 20 cents a bushel. Under Roosevelt, of course, it has got up to more than 80 cents, a fact that she has not mentioned.

Mrs. Simmons made stand-pat speeches throughout her county last fall under the auspices of the Saline County Republican Committee, clear up to Malta Bend just before the polls closed.

The Simmons' 174-acre farm is devoted to the raising and sale of chickens and its so labeled with a sign. The house is a comfortable two-story structure, with electrical equipment of every kind, baby grand piano, modern plumbing, radio of course and two-car garage.

"The ordinary farm woman may have these too," reads one description, "but Mrs. Simmons has possessions which set her apart. Opening out from the living room is a study. Here are typewriters, desks, bookcases, filing cabinets and piles of copy paper. Here since 1922—13 years—Mrs. Simmons has been something other than a farm woman. She has been what is called a newspaper columnist.

"Six times a week for 13 years she has written a poultry column of 1,000 words. The column is published simultaneously by the Chicago Daily Drovers' Journal; the Omaha Daily Journal-Stockman, the Kansas City Drovers' Telegram and the St. Louis Daily Live Stock Reporter."

"As a political messiah, Mrs. Simmons' role as a simple and extremely modest farm woman demands that she gloss over her career as a newspaper columnist, just as her role as a thorough going Democrat requires that she make no allusions to the campaign of 1928."

GRAGG POINTS OUT FACTS ON CLANTON'S GROWTH IN FUTURE

Opportunities Being Offered To County Now And Will Probably Never Be Offered Again, Dr. Gragg Says

"It seems that some of us are just prone to complain of "our hard lot" and then turn right around and refuse to accept a free gift when it is in our reach. Other than the "drainage project" Clanton and Chilton County has let too many good things that might have been gotten free, go by and be lost forever. A few roads have been improved, an airport was started and a few school houses built, but just a few, as compared with many other parts of the state, just a drop in the bucket, after all projects combined are taken into consideration.

"Now, we have before us, for Clanton, the paving project. Approximately half (45 per cent) of the cost will be given outright by the government, and the remainder a long time loan by the government at 4 per cent interest. Who could let such a chance slip? Never again, in all probability, will Clanton citizens, so near get something for nothing.

"In my judgement, every property owner anywhere near the center of our little city, should put his shoulder to the wheel and not allow his part to be left out to be an "eye sore" to the otherwise beautiful and progressive city and decrease in value for its owner.

"It is easy to look back already and see where we have made similar mistakes. We could already have some fine school buildings where we have great need of them. On our airport, we could have had a $10,000 hangar like Columbiana, but we just didn't let them give it to us, and now it is gone forever, that kind of building having been transferred to the P.W.A. which means that 55 per cent of the cost must be paid locally.

"However, a COMMUNITY HOUSE swimming pool, and a general county wide COMMUNITY CENTER with grounds for COUNTY FAIRS, and FARMERS' MEETINGS can still be developed under the present set up Do we want it? If the farmers and public in general over the county want such a meeting place, large enough to house a thousand or more when they want to meet for any purpose, let's act now before the other fellow beats us to it."

V. J. GRAGG.

Verbena W.M.S. Sponsors Play For Aug. 9

"Black-Eyed Susan" is the name of a delightful play to be presented at the Verbena High School auditorium on Friday night, August 9th. It is sponsored by the Verbena Methodist W. M. Members of churches in the Verbena circuit all have an interest in the success of this play, and the sponsors say that all indications are that a large crowd will be present to witness this fine play.

Protect Your Dog From Hydrophobia

The subject of mad dogs comes up for consideration every so often and has caused us some real concern for the past few weeks. The dog population must be passing through a period of depression this summer as there seem to be more homeless wanderers than usual. Luxures in the form of dogs are evidently being dispensed with by turning them loose on the community

Rabies (hydrophobia) is primarily a disease of dogs. Its occurrence in other animals and people is accidental and the disease is seldom spread by them. Safety to ourselves and kindness to dogs consists of doing everything possible to get rid of rabies. These steps have been found to be most effective:

Do away with dogs that have no homes or owners.

Give the preventive innoculation to all other dogs.

Every owner owes a duty to his dog. He should protect it from diseases, as far as possible, and enter whole-heartedly into any community project that aims to bring about this protection.

When a dog bites someone or otherwise acts in an unusual manner, there is likely to be a clamor to have it killed immediately. Unless the dog is obviously mad, this is just the thing not to do. If possible, the dog should be fastened in a comfortable place where it can not get away, and carefully observed. This gives an opportunity for an accurate diagnosis of the trouble, may spare much expense and anxiety to the bitten person, and perhaps will save the life of a valuable animal. If the dog has rabies it often seems to have something in its throat and paralysis of the hind legs usually appears in a few days. If nothing happens in two weeks, the dog may be angry at its confinement but will not be rabid.

All dog bites should receive prompt attention, and the bitten person should be taken immediately to a physician. And should the dog prove to have rabies proper treatment to prevent rabies in the person bitten should be started at once, as the disease is always fatal once it has developed.

WHOLE-GRAIN STYLE CORN EASIER TO CAN AT HOME

"If you are canning sweet corn from your home patch, do it whole-grain style rather than cream-style," says the Bureau of Home Economics.

The cream-style corn obtained by slicing off the tops of the grains and then scraping the cobs, is such a thick, pasty mass that the heat of canning penetrates it very slowly. The result is that during processing, the corn at the center of the can does not become hot enough—for a long time—to kill bacteria. Later these bacteria grow and the corn spoils. Sometimes they even develop a type of spoilage dangerous to health.

The Bureau makes these suggestions:

Gather corn from the field early in the morning and can it at once before the sugar has time to change to starch. Shuck and silk the ears. Drop them into boiling water and simmer for about 5 minutes. Cut the kernels from the cob as deeply as possible without getting objectionable hulls. Do not scrape the cobs. Weigh the corn and add half as much boiling water as corn. Season with sugar and salt. Pack the corn boiling hot into glass jars or tin cans and process at once in the steam-pressure (240 degrees F.) Quart glass jars need 70 minutesat this temperature.

On request the Bureau of Home Economics sends home canners full directions for canning corn or other garden vegetables and fruits.

Farmers Keeping More Farm Records

Auburn, Ala.—More and better farm records are being kept by farmers and farm boys than ever before in the history of farming.

Records show that in 1934 4-H club members throughout the county completed a total of 1,170,307 projects and kept records which showed the financial success of the projects, as well as the methods used in completing them. Over 10,000 club members also completed farm management records either of one enterprise on the farm or of the whole farm business.

County Agents report more than a million farmers kept records of their farm business last year. Much of this record keeping has been brought about by AAA program.

CLANTON SEEING BIGGEST BUILDING BO OM IN HISTORY

New City Hall Completed; Work On Postoffice Is Progressing

Without doubt, Clanton is enjoying the greatest building boom in its history of more than a half-century, if one is to accept the comparisons made by old-timers who have watched each step of progress made by the Chilton County metropolis, as it has gradually marched from a mere hamlet into one of the most enterprising little cities in Alabama.

Conservative estimates by those who have attempted to guage the amount of building, repairing and other kindred work that is being done and has been done in the past year, place the figure at approximately one-quarter million dollars.

A recent check-up over the city revealed no less than 50 new homes that have already been completed and many others that are now in process of being erected.

City Hall Built

A new city hall was recently completed here and is now occupied. This structure was built at a cost of $25,000 and is believed to be one of the best buildings of its kind in the state. Work is progressing rapidly on the new $55,000 postoffice building here; it will be be completed in the early Fall.

Work was begun only a few days ago on the renovation and enlarging of the quarters of the People's Savings Bank. This project is expected to be completed within a few weeks and located on one of the city's main throughfares the improvement will be gratifying.

It will only be a short time now until a modern, two-story brick structure will stand on the Mullins Corner in Clanton. It will house a mercantile firm on the first floor and several offices on the second.

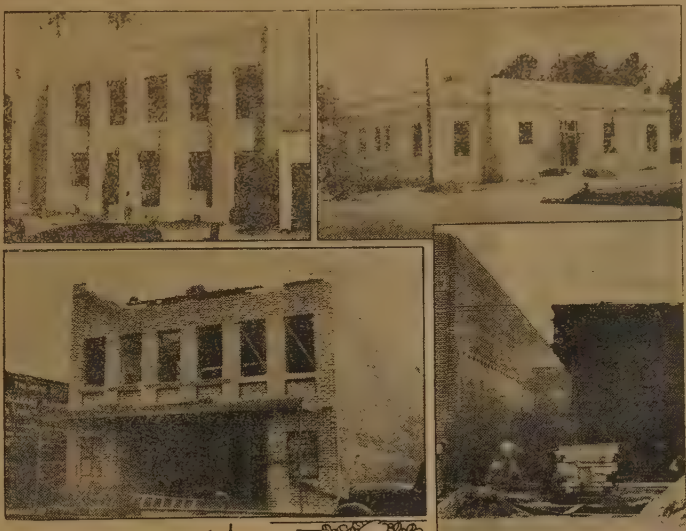
New Theater

A new theater is under construction, and according to C.W. Wade, operator, wil be one of the finest show places in any city the size of Clanton in the South.

In addition to the improvements mentioned there are numerous buildings, both business establishments and homes, that have recently undergone renovation and repair. A drive along any street in Clanton will reveal dozens of homes that have been freshly painted, or an addition, a roof or some other feature of improvement has been made during recent months.

Barracks are being built now at the new CCC camp here, and it is understood that these buildings will cost approximately $10,000.

SCENES OF BUILDING ACTIVITIES IN CLANTON



Five projects in the building boom under way at Clanton are shown in the layout of pictures above. Top left shows the new city hall, which was recently completed and is now being used by city officials. It has space for all city officials, a courtroom, jail, library, auditorium and storage quarters for fire department equipment. Top right is a view of the new $55,000 postoffice building, which will be ready for use soon. It is being constructed of brick and stone and will be one of the most beautiful federal buildings in the state. Left below is a picture of a new theater in process of construction. It will be ready for use in the early Fall and will be modern throughout. Right center shows the wrecking of the old Peoples Savings Bank building on Main Street to make room for a modern bank structure. The picture at teh bottom shows the new Mullins Building, which replaces a landmark of half a century in the center of town.—Photos, courtesy The Birmingham News.

Government Competition DIFFERENT and UNFAIR

WHAT Alabama business would not object to unfair and unequal competition from the Government of the United States?

If you—the reader of this advertisement—are in the retail clothing business, you could not object if some store, financed by private capital, were opened opposite to yours. You could and would meet that competition.

But if that other store were financed by your Government, that would be different.

Different because the Government operated store had unlimited funds with which to buy its stock below the price which you would have to pay.

Different because the Government store would not pay taxes equal to your own.

Different because that Government store could send its advertising matter through the mails free of cost.

Different because that store could obtain freight rate reductions on its merchandise.

Different in a hundred other ways which place any Government operated enterprise on an entirely different footing with any private business.

If you were in the retail clothing business and were faced with that competition, you would think it unfair.

The same reasoning applies to the power business just as much as any other business, in fact more so, because the power business is subject to strict State regulations as to rates and operation while the Government power business (TVA) has a free hand.

It is but a short step from Government competition with the power business in Alabama to Government competition with the Alabama milk business, retail clothing business, retail lumber business, retail hardware business, retail drug business or the farming business.

Recognizing the unfairness of Government competition with its own citizens, our Constitution gave to our Government only certain enumerated powers. These powers do not include the right to engage in any private business unrelated to the performance of a public function, whether that business is the sale of electricity, electric refrigerators, shoes, hats, lumber, groceries or farm products.

ANSWER THIS QUESTION FAIRLY:
What would be your attitude if your own business was confronted by the same unfair, and below cost competition of the Government of the United States?

IN LOVING MEMORY OF JACK COLLINS OF LAWLEY, ALA.

Our hearts have been saddened by when the death angel visited our home and took away from us our loved one, Jack, on Friday, July 19, 1935.

Jack will be missed by all who knew him. To know him was to love him. He always had a kind word and smile for everybody. He has left this world of sorrow to dwell in the mansions above.

I hope all of his loved ones and friends will see the way they are living and think they know not the time when they shall be called as Jack was. Let us put our trust in the Almighty God and meet Jack and our loved ones who have gone on to that beautiful heaven of rest. His sweet smiles and words will live on through the lives that knew him bacause to know him was to love him. We will miss him so much, but our loss is heaven's gain.

His remains were laid to rest in Rehobeth cemetery. Brother Bentley conducted the funeral services.

Closer Cooperation Is Urged At Conference

Montgomery, Ala.—Closer cooperation between county health units, agricultural agents, child welfare workers and school authorities was emphasized at a conference of public health workers from throughout the state held here last week.

The conference was called by Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, and was attended by more than 200 health officers, nurses, sanitation officers and others, to discuss plans for expansion of Alabama's public health program.

Representatives of all of the 53 county health units were present, and Dr. Baker said that prospects were that at least a half-dozen other counties would be organized within a year, bringing the system beyond the peak of efficiency of pre-depresson days, when 90 per cent of the people of the state had full-time health protection. Dr. J. M. Kimmey and Miss Irene Smitherman attended from here.

Words of optimism were brought to the conference by Lawrence Lee, Legal Adviser to Governor Bibb Graves, who told the county physicians and others that whatever appropriations were made this year, these appropriatons would be pad 100 cents on the dollar. He declared that Governor Graves considered the health system one of the most important arms of the state government.

Dr. Baker, along with representatives of the U. S. Public Health Service, outlined the manifold benefits that will accrue when the pending Social Security Bill is passed by Congress. Local authorities were urged to make plans to match federal funds that will be available for certain types of work.

Dr. L. N. Duncan, President of Alabama Polytechnic Institute; Dr. J. A. Keller State Superintendent of Education; and Mrs. Harry Simon, of the State Child Welfare Department, emphasized the importance of these agencies and departments cooperating with health department to a common end.

Survey Shows Sad State Of Nation's Timberland

The completed report on timberlands Minnesota—the first state to be surveyed in a nation-wide inventory by the Forest Service—is called a "picture in miniature" of the forest situation in the United States. It shows that a "century of use and abuse has made a profound change in forests." It shows "conditions typical of many states where destructive clearing and lumbering" have been common. But it also has brought together facts important in forming new programs of conservation and rehabilitation in all States.

Of an original forest area of 31½ million acres in Minnesota, there remains today only 19½ million acres much of which is classified as "forest" or lack of a beter name. Actually, 21 per cent of it has no tree growth, and 38 per cent is occupied only by aspen and scrub oak Only 41 per cent retains any semblance to the original types.

The changes in size and quality of timber are striking. The original forest contained at least 10 million acres of old growth pine, spruce, and hardwoods. The present area of old growth saw timber of all types is only 343,000 acres or 3 per cent of the original. Ninety-seven per cent of this kind of timber which was the mainstay of the lumber industry, is gone.

A few areas in Minnesota—such as the Superior district and the Chippewa National Forest—indicate what may be expected of cut-over lands with reasonable care and protection. The Superior district, burned over almost completely 70 years ago, now has more than 300,000 acres of second growth nearing merchantable saw-timber size and nearly a million acres of cordwood forest, over half of which is in valuable pulpwood types.

Shell Fleet Of Test Cars Visits Here

Six special white test cars passed through Clanton Sunday in a 25,000 mile test run being conducted as part of the continual testing program of the Shell Company. The fleet has been routed through every one of the 48 states, Canada, and Mexico.

Comprised of six new cars, two Fords, two Chevrolets, and two Plymouths, the fleet is engaged in making exhaustive tests of Shell products covering every conceivable driving condition encountered throughout the tour. Special attention, however, will be given their performance in everyday "stop-and-go" driving in rural as well as metropolitan centers.

Shell, through the cooperation of national traffic authorities, was first to give complete recognition to the fact that 80 per cent of the driving done by the average motorist is within 25 miles of his home. Present day driving conditions demand that motor fuels and lubricants must be made to stand up under the severe strain of "stop-and go" driving, which involves constant starting and accelerating on short trips, as well as longer runs.

The test itself is under the supervision of Dr. C. W. Rippie, Shell Research Engineer. Each of the cars has been equipped with the most modern scientific equipment for measuring gasoline and lubricant performance in actual operation. Two expert mechanicians form the driving crew of each car. Behind the scenes, extensive laboratory research is constantly being carried on by Shell to form a basis for comparative analysis of the results of the road tests.

M. Z. Atchison, local agent, and W. J. Harrell, salesman, acted as hosts to the personnel of the caravan during their short visit to Clanton.

REYNOLDS URGES PROPERTY OWNERS TO PAVE NOW

Sees Big Opportunity For Owners Of Propetry Here

Editor, Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Sir:

I have been requested by several to give my views on surfacing the main streets in Clanton and surfacing the balance of the Maplesville Highway to Plantersville. I feel like that it is hardly necessary for me to express myself to the people of Chilton County getting their share of the relief money, as I have stated time and again that if we do not spend any of this money at all, we, as citizens of the United States, will be just as much responsible when it comes time to pay this money back as if we had used hundreds of thousands of dollars of this money for public improvement.

On paving the streets of Clanton, we will get a donation of 45 cents in every dollars that we spend and then it furnishes work to the people of Clanton and Chilton County and on the Maplesville Highway, the State gives us one-third, the Federal Government one-third and we pay one-third. This project will furnish employment for hundreds of our people and we would get the results of the entire investment by having a hard-surfaced road in our county.

It is my opinion that this is the last chance that we will have to pave our streets with 45 cents of the money given to us and to surface the Maplesville road with 66 2-3 per cent of it being given to us.

I am sure that conditions in our county are improving, but yet we have hundreds of people that need employment which could be obtained if these projects were put over, and then, too, I do not think that any taxpayer of our county would say but what the road and streets improvements mentioned above are needed. I want to mention just one thing in connection with the Maplesville road that probably our people have not thought of. There has never been a highway from Texas into Mexico and on down into South America, but there has been one of the greatest highways in the whole country recently opened from Texas to Mexico City. Road No. 80 goes from Savannah, Georgia, through Selma Alabama, Mississippi, Texas and straight into Mexico City and the travel over this road will be increased in such proportions that we can hardly realize in the near future. Chilton County will be the gateway into Mexico from North Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, and clear up to Washington, and we know that travelers coming through our county will spend their money and that it will be a great help to Chilton County. As I am informed, the link between Clanton and Platersville will be the only unpaved portion of this great highway when Dallas has its part paved to Plantersville. Our county has a reputation now by tourists of being one of the most progressive counties in the State.

The fruits and vegetables standing along our highway are great advertisements for our county and the money they spend goes to our farmers along this highway and if we can open up the eighteen or twenty miles between here and Plantersville, I am sure the traveling over this road will be a great deal more in a few years through our county than the highway which we already have.

Not one dollar of relief money that has been spent in this county has been charged directly to the taxpayer of this county, but if the county had not received any of this money, it would have been spent in some other county. The $75,000.00 that was spent on the two miles of the Maplesville highway, including the expensive storm sewers in Clanton, would have been spent in some other county, if we had not met the requirements and accepted the work and the five billions that have been appropriated recently will be spent whether Chilton County receives one dollar of it or not, and as citizens of the United States, we will have to pay our share of it when it is paid back, and wouldn't it be better for us to receive our part of it than not to receive any of it?

I notice that a large appropriation has been made for mosquito control and drainage purposes in Alabama. I hope our county will get our share of this.

In conclusion, as I have stated, I think this will be our last chance to pave our streets and pave the Maplesville road and to drain our swamps with Federal money. I believe the people of Chilton County are entitled to their share of it and I hope we will get busy and get it.

Yours very truly,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

GIRL, 10, KILLED BY TRAIN AFTER SAVING SISTER, 6

Victim Tosses Tot To Safety, Then Dies Under Wheels Of Locomotive

enterville, Ala., July 28—Marion Suttle, 10, tossed her 6-year-old sister, Ann, from a railroad trestle to safety near here Sunday afternoon—and died a second later below the wheels of a locomotive.

Ann, one of eight persons caught unawares on the trestle by an oncoming train as they watched a construction project below, suffered a fractured skull as she dropped from her sister's arms to the mire below.

Project Watched

The two Suttle sisters had gone to Sandy Creek trestle at Trio, six miles from here, with Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Smelley, of Greensboro, Ala., to view a highway construction project on which Smelley was employed—and incidentally to get a ride in Smelley's new automobile.

Smelley pushed three persons from danger before leaping. None was seriously injured besides Ann Suttle.

The two sisters had wandered to the north end of the trestle and apparently no one heard the Mobile & Ohio train en route to Tuscaloosa until Smelley shouted a warning. A noisy crane was working below.

Turns For Sisiter

Witnesses said Marion started to jump, but turned to save her sister and was crushed after the smaller girl had been dropped from the trestle.

Besides the two girls and Mr. and Mrs. Smelley, Josephine and Minnie Chisholm, children of neighbors; Aubrey Smelley, 8, and Ed Pitts, construction worker, were on the trestle as Smelley yelled: "Train—jump quick!"

IN MEMORY OF JACK COLLINS

On last Frday, July 19, as everything seemed to be going along fine with our lives, the home seemed happy and all seemed well, our hearts were made sad when the sad news arrived of the sudden death of our dear one, Jack Collins.

It was such a shock to his friends and loved ones. It seemed more than we could bear. It was so unreal. He left his home that morning so happy and eager to get to his work, trying so hard to accomplish something for his family he loved so well. He bade his family farewell, not thinking it would be his last. But God in his great wisdom knoweth best, although he came and picked the flower of our home. We can only say, His will be done, not ours, not only will his home miss him. He will be missed this country-wide Only to know him was to love him. Everyone loved Jack he was such a cheerful companion always trying to smile. Jack has laid down the burdensome tools of this life and gone on to dwell where all is well. All that is left for us is to live and pray to reunite up there where we will part no more.

He is survived by his wife and three children Jack Jr., Margaret, Jeannette, and Sara Frances; two sisters and five brothers.

Life is filled with sorrow. Each day demands a call. We cannot predict tomorrow for any living soul.

So it was with Jack Collins, when angels called one day. They needed another flower in heaven, so they took Jack away.

The Family.

CARD OF THANKS

COIN REMINDS ONE OF FIRST CHICAGO WORLD'S FAIR, 1893

Many people in this section can rattle off details to you regarding the many things of interest at the recent World's Fair in Chicago. They can tell you of almost unbelieveable inventions that will someday startle the world, the eerie freaks, the curious people—and some, in seclusion, will break down and relate bits of information about Sally Rand.

But there are few in this country who can tell much about the Exposition of 1893. O. H. Lawrence, of Billingsley Route 1, has a half-dollar, souvenir of this event. On one side is a likeness of the head of the discoverer of this land, and on the other are the words: "World's Colubian Exposition Chicago."

Mr. Lawrence is interested in knowing if this coin is rare enough to demand attention from coin collectors, and if so, just how interested they might be in securing this particular one.

HIGHLAND REVIVAL

The revival at this place is moving along in a wonderful way. Brother Paul Oden is doing some forceful preaching. We feel that there is going to be some great good accomplished The services will likely go through Friday night of this week. The public is invited to attend these services.

REFUGE NEWS

Just a few lines to say that the services at this place was a wonderful success. There were only six additions, five for baptism and one by letter, but we are happy to say that the old church was greatly revived.

The Rev. Cunningham of Tallassee did the preaching and useless to say the messages were soul stirring

We will likely baptize the second Sunday morning in August. Further notice will be given.

MAZAR'S DOING EXTENSIVE REMODELING AMID BARGAINS

Announces Huge Clearance Sale Of Summer Shoes This Week; Will Also Award Beautiful Bed Room Suite In Near Future

It will almost take a map to get around in Mazar's Department Store in Clanton these days, since I. S. Levine, the likable manager of the store, has started his extensive remodeling and the addition of new departments to the large store.

The rear of the store is taking on new color and appearance. Mr. Levine is adding to the special bargain department and also adding a novelty section for children.

Mr. Levine is this week announcing a big clearance of all summer footwear throughout the store. This includes shoes for the smallest tot to the grown-ups. "We have over five hundred pairs of men's, women's and children's summer shoes we intend to move within the next several days," Mr. Levine stated. "And to move them we have marked the prices down to new, low levels that are hard to believe."

A special feature which is attracting a large number to Mazar's is the announcement last week that they will soon give away to some customer, a beautiful bed room suite. The exact date this event will take place has not yet been announced, but Mr. Levine stated that it will be in the near future.

Mr. Levine stated that during the period of the shoe clearance event, they were also placing all summer goods prices lower than usual and in proportion.

Of exceptional interest to the ladies of this territory is the announcement also from Mazer's this week that they have just purchased a stock of goods from a well known Birmingham ladies' shop.

Mazar's Department Store sends a message to the people of this section each week through the News. This week their advertisement will contain a few of the prices to be found on their large stock of high quality footwear. These prices are merely a sample of what can be found in their store, Mr. Levine stated.

being exhibited, Mayor Jones declared that he believes that practically every street in the town will be paved. Only a few property owners on all the main streets have failed to sign the petitions, urging the Mayor and City Council to take advantage of this opportunity offered by the federal government.

Streets that are practically assured are:

Second Avenue, from court house to cemetery; First Avenue, Polk Brothers Motor Company to high school; Second Avenue, South, W. M. Polk's residence to high school; First Street, Luther Teel's residence to Burns Goodgame's home; Third Street. Clanton Motors place to Luther Teel's home on First Street.

Fifth Street, Frank Callen's home to Dr. J. E. Edgarr's home on Second Avenue, South; Sixth Street, Court House to highway at Ellis Tourist Home; Eighth Street, Methodist Church to top of hill near Alabama Mills; Thrd Avenue, Methodist Church to Tenth Street; Tenth Street, from Second Avenue to R. J. Alexander's residence; Fifth Avenue from W. M. Wyatt's home to Clanton Grammar School; Second Avenue, West, from Wilson Hotel to Kincheon Road.

This gives about four miles of streets already signed for and Mayor Jones stated that he plans to call a special meeting of the council just as soon as he hears from all the petitions: The matter will then be presented to federal authorities in Montgomery and application for funds for the work will be made.

Practically all of the east side of the city has signed for the program, and it is believed that within another week the foundation will be laid for the inaugeration of a program that will call for the paving of every important street in the city.

evidence. Homer Roberts, superintendent, and Howard Mahaffey, assistant superintendent, spent Saturday in Birmingham, but it was not learned whether their visit to the Magic City had anything to do with the investigation of the burglary.

Evidently the burglar entered the office with a key, as there were no marks of molestation found on any of the doors or windows; they also seemed to have known the combinatin to the safe. It was opened by the combination, however, a screwdriver was used to open an inner compartment in which the money was kept.

Dragging the safe from the office into an adjoining tool room, it was opened and the door was taken from the hinges and carried down into a pasture several hundred yards away and thrown into a brier patch.

The burglar overlooked $400, part of a fund that has been raised for the building of a church in the mill village, which was in an envelope in the same compartment with the other money. Three hundred dollars of the sum taken was also a part of the church money.

Superintendent Roberts is said to have told Sheriff Hardy that he had given instructions the day before the burglary for the money to be taken to the bank, but by some oversight it was not done.

tion committee.

All clubs, business firms, public officials, and individuals will be urged to enter whole-heartedly in the plan so that no county in the state will have a better showing than Chilton.

Each business concern will be requested to choose its candidate for the honor of "Miss Chilton County," and when the list of fifty young ladies so chosen come out on the stage one by one on the night of August 15, it is predicted this will be the lovliest and most interesting stage attraction ever offered here.

Judges fully qualified will be secured from outside Chilton County, to pass upon the contestants. Entrants must be between 13 and 25, residents of Chilton County. Bathing suits or other unduly revealing costumes must not be worn in the show. Evening, afternoon or sports attire may be worn.

This is to be the official Unit Show in Chilton County of the State-Wide Beauty Pageant, and the sponsors expect to make it fully and fairly representative of Chilton County's young ladies who will have a chance to win the honor they deserve. More complete details of the procedure will be published in the papers next week.

Hirsch, the Solicitor said, was pos itive that no firing was done until af ter the car had passed for a distance of 30 feet. Hirsch, he said, described the pistol as being more than a foot in length.

Solicitor Huddleston said he picked up two automatic shells near the spot where the shooting occurred and found a leaden bullet imbedded in the pavement. One bullet passed through the lower part of the left fender.

The investigation completed Solicitor Huddleston faced the group in a room in the Exchange Hotel at Clanton.

"What do you want done?" he asked "You haven't given us a thing to work on. We have no description of the car, no description of anything.

Attorney Powell, he said, suggest they should go back to Tennessee.

Hirsch, he said, arose and charged that he had investigated the shooting with his "mind made up," that he had misled them and had obtained statements from them by "being smooth and nice to them."

Hirsch, he said, expressed a sincere hope that the Associated Press would be apprised of the story.

of cotton and cotton seed. In 1933 they received $865,805.84 for 12,072 bales of cotton, including seed and plow-up payments. In 1934, for 12,213 bales of cotton, cotton seed, gin certificates, rental payments, and parity payments, they received $1,126,931.71. Are Chilton County people willing to give that up in order to save a few cents on each cotton garment, and continue paying protective tariff prices that industry may reap the benefits? Is The Union-Banner willing for such a thing to happen?

By vote of approximately 20 to 1 farmers of Chilton County last December 14, declared themselves in favor of the Bankhead Cotton Control Act, which is a phase of AAA particularly affecting cotton producers. Our farmers want it, their vote endorsed it by a landslide, but there are some manufacturers who do not want it, because they do not want to pay the processing tax. The News has contended the farmers should have this program if they want it, that they are justly entitled to it, under all the circumstances. It seems reasonable that in its effects upon world markets, it would have results similar to the protective tariff, because both increase prices consumers pay.

Why is it, if the AAA is a bad thing for the South, that New England manufacturers are the ones to cry their protest, and not the Southern leaders who certainly are aware of conditions pertaining to the cotton industry? There is but one answer: These manufacturers do not raise cotton, but they are having to pay their 4 cents when they buy a cotton shirt, just like anybody else, and just like the Souhern farmer has been paying higher prices for his manufacured articles for years. It hurts them, because the benefits are coming to the farmers in the South. They cry out in pain, and The Union-Banner heard that cry of the Hoosac mills, and made their answer on July 18, 1935. It must warm the hearts of those manufacturers to know that they have a voice to sound their cry in the heart of the deep South, in the cotton fields of Central Alabama. But in conclusion, the News again repeats the query: To whom is The Union-Banner declaring its allegiance; the Eastern manufacturer or the Chilton County farmer?

DIRECT RELIEF IN COUNTY IS THING OF PAST

Staff Of Office Is Cut Down Here; Will Make Transfers

The status of relief in Chilton County has been greatly changed within the past few weeks, and according to the present outlook there will not be any direct relief here soon.

Five members of the office staff have been eliminated and all of the rehabilitation families in the county have been removed from the relief rolls, according to Miss Kittye Clyde Austin. Every effort is being made to transfer all relief families to the Works Progress Administration. where some kind of work will be found for them.

Miss Austin stated that there are now 120 men and 102 women to be taken care of in this transfer. Several WPA projects have been approved for Chilton County, but to date requisitions for workers have only been filed on one project, the road improvement program.

Until these other projects are opened, those who are now on work relief will continue in their present capacities, it is understood.

Miss Austin has been promoted to the position of field representative, succeeding Miss Virginia Denton, and will have supervision over the work in Chilton, Clay, Randolph, Coosa, Autauga, Elmore, Russell, and Tallapoosa counties. F. H. Harris has also been transferred to Ashland, where he will be field accountant.

E. Diefederfer, business manager of the organization.

Mr. Dennis and seevral workmen were busy Monoday removing office equipment from the Hayes Building to the new location. There will be many advantages, it was pointed out, in having the new warehouse near the point of shipping.

3,500 ATTEND COUNTY-WIDE PICNIC TUES.

Voted Huge Success By All Attending; Fine Program Given

A crowd estimated at between 3,500 and 4,000 men, women, and children. representing every nook in Chilton Couty, congregated Tuesday at the Simms Oak Grove, two miles north of Clanton on the Montgomery-Birmingham Highway, to celebrate the fourth annual County-wide Picnic and "Get-together" Party.

From early morning, long before time for the commencement of the program, the roads were lined with al most every type of conveyance, bearing loads enroute to the festival, which has grown to be an annual event; the number of automobiles parked in the surrounding woodland, along the highway, in near-by yards and fields, were estimated at more than 1,000.

Edward A. O'Neal of Chicago, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, was the principal speaker on the program. He painted a glowing picture of the future for farmers of the South if they will only build a co-operative organization that will demand recognition throughout the country. He also discussed at length the AA program and the rehabilitation movement.

"The farmers are going to keep their tariff, the processing tax," said Mr. O'Neal. "They are going to keep it through organization and constantly being on the alert to see that the men they elect to Congress and the United States Senate take an active interest in their welfare.

"If all of the United States senators were as alert and assiduous in their interest in the farmer as Senator Bankhead, of Alabama is, we would not have to wortk," continued the speaker. "Senator Bankhead has come to the front in the Nation through his close study of agricultural conditions and he knows the needs of the farmer and he is constantly seeking ways to aid the farmer And other senators and representatives of the Nation would be as alert as Senator Bankhead if the farmers of the Nation would let them know in no uncertain terms what they want and what they demand."

The program was opened with entire audience joining in the singing of "America," led by O. L. Devaughn, one of the county's leading singers. Following the song, Mayor C. Fenn Jones of Clanton delivered the Welcome Address, paying tribute to the idea of these county-wide gatherings, declaring that they are fast building a better understanding among our people and promoting a keener cooperation.

J. N. Dennis, head of the county farm bureau, responded to Mayor Jones' address, outlining some of the aims and ideals of the local farm organization; he declared that much of the credit for the improvement that has been made in farming in this section is a result of the untiring efforts of County Agent J. Another step nearer the realization of the dream of paving most of the streets in Clanton was taken Tuesday night, when members of the City Council passed a resolution authorizing Mayor C. WORK BEGUN ON FOUR ROOM SCHOOL ANNEX

Children Will Not Be Placed In Old Grammar School Building

Work was started this week on erection of a temporary four-room structure at the Clanton Grammar School to take care of the classes that have heretofore been placed in the old brick building.

At the close of the last session of school it was definitely determined that children should not be placed in the old building any more. It was hoped that suitable additions could be made to the new building necessary to install temporary facilities for use until the additions can be built.

The temporary wooden building will be erected on the campus at the east side of the new building. It will be constructed of material that can be used in making additions to the new building when that work gets underway.

Mr. Knight, of the firm of Warren, Knight & Davis, architects, of Birmingham, was here Monday and made sketches of the new building, and will draft plans for making addition of six class rooms, and covering the old brick building into an auditorium, to connect with the new building.

Superintendent Luther Little, has hopes that some plan may be worked out in the next few months whereby construction of the additions may be made to the present building, thereby making for Clanton a grammar school building that will be adequate for a long time, and safe and comfortable for the children.

GRAND JURY RETURNED 13 TRUE BILLS LAST WEEK

Approve Split Session To Enable Prisoners To Begin Sentences Early; Commend Manner Prisoners Are Kept; Investigate Robbery

A Chilton County grand jury in session last week returned an indictment against F. D. Ward, cashier at the Alabama Mills, for grand larcency in connection with the looting several days ago of the office safe of $927, it was learned today at the circuit clerk's office.

It is understood that Ward left the company's employ about a week ago, after circumstantial evidence seemed to connect him with the burlary. Sheriff J. R. Hardy stated Saturday that he understands that the man is in Birmingham and has employed Roderick Beddow, Birmingham attorney, to defend him.

Sheriff Hardy said that evidence gathered during the investigation revealed that Ward was seen about daybreak of the morning of the robbery at the place where the safe door was found. He also said that it was found that the cashier had been spending far in excess of his income.

Below is the complete report of the body's activities.

COURT DECLARES AAA VALID AND BENEFICIAL

Judge Martin Praises Act In Denying Plea For Recovery Of Processing Tax And Claims It Beneficial

Memphis, Tenn.—Federal Judge John D. Martin, of the Western District of Tennessee, was on record Monday as upholding constitutionality of the agriculture adjustment act.

The judge, recently appointed and still president of the Southern Baseball Association, expressed his views in an opinion dismissing the suit of a Memphis packer to recover $6,863 paid in processing taxes.

The judge also denied an injunction sought by Jacob G. Lacroix, the complaining picking company proprietor, to restrain the government from collecting a penalty of $1,267 for failure to file a tax return within the legal time limit.

"Certain district judges," Judge Martin said in his opinion, "have pronounced the act unconstitutional and the United State Court of Appeals of the first circuit has so held.

"But this court, with lack of binding authority, feels free, despite the decision of the respected judges and the respected Court of Appeals, to pronounce its independent views."

"The government maintains that, under Title 26, Section 154, U. S. C. A., the suit cannot ge maintained," Judge Martin said, and quoted from the United States code "no suit for the purpose of restraining the assessment of any tax shall be maintained in any court."

He expressed the opinion that an analysis of the act "leads to the conclusion that the taxing power is not delegated to the secretary of agriculture."

"Consider the background of the act," Judge Martin said. "It was passed when an emergency existed. The situation was desperate, manifestly new measures were needed if prosperity were to be regained.

"No more serious a problem existed

Let Home Talent Put On Our Plays

From time to time organizations of almost every kind, desirous of staging a play, import an out-of-town, out-of-county coach to help in putting it on. We believe that often this is an unwise policy when there are available local people who can and will do the work just as well, or better.

Nearly always these plays are staged for the purpose of raising funds for a worthy cause. The local organization recognizes a need and proceeds to supply it. These organizations deserve every bit of cooperation it is possible for anyone to give This includes people who take parts in the play, business men who help defray expenses of advertising, newspapers in giving publicity to the play, and all others. Most people are more than glad to give this cooperation.

However, this thing becomes a different story when a professional comes into the picture, one who is interested in making as big a salary as possible, one who uses every possible means, under the name of some local organization, to boost that salary, and the final result is that a large portion of the proceeds go to some outsider when these funds should by all means stay at home, to be used in the entirety for the worthy purpose in the name of which support is solicited.

It is not necessary for an organization to get outside assistance to stage plays with local talent. Many of the finest home-talent plays, especially in our schools, are put on under direction of local people. We believe that local organizations can obtain this local talent, and the expense will be much less, more of the funds can go for whatever program the organization is sponsoring, and the chief purpose of raising the funds will not be forgotten in the process.

Roosevelt Explains Social Aims At Press Conference

(By J. Russell Young, from the Washington Star of June 10, 1935.

President Roosevelt today in a brief and extemporaneous statement at his press conference explained the social objectives of his administration.

"The social objective, I should say, remains just what it was, which is to do what any honest government of any country would do—to try to increase the security and the happiness of a larger number of people in all occupations of life and in all parts of the country; to give them more of the good things of life; to give them a greater distribution not only of wealth in the narrow terms but of wealth in the wider terms; to give them places to go in the summertime—recreation; to give the massurance that they are not going to starve in their old age; to give honest business a chance to go ahead and make a reasonable profit and to give everyone a chance to earn a living.

"It is a little difficult to define it, and I suppose this is a very off-hand definition, but unless you go into a long discussion it is hard to make it more definite. And I think, however, that we are getting somewhere toward our objective."

Two Newspapers

An Editorial from The Montgomery Advertiser of August 3, 1935.

The newspaper situation in Clanton offers an amusing and instructive study of current political trends.

Clanton normally would have only one newspaper except for the fact that Chilton County is about equally divided between Democrats and Republicans.

The Chilton County News is Democracy's representative, while The Union-Banner is a staunch Republican paper.

Even in that period which has come to be referred to as "normalcy" The Union-Banner was in a somewhat isolated and embarrassing position. But for 12 years it had the cheerful knowledge that Republicans were entertaining guests in the Blue Room of the White House and otherwise ruling the country.

Lately The Union-Banner has been denied even that consolation, with the New Dealers swarming over the land, leaving the Republicans nothing to do except fuss, guard the Constitution and keep the weeds from growing on Abraham Lincoln's grave. All such tasks, however, are thankless and involve the spending of no Federal money—the spending of Federal money being the greatest pleasure that members of either party have.

But with 1936 fast approaching and with President Roosevelt's batting average slumping, The Union-Banner envisions the possibility of a change in occupants of the White House. Hence, its weekly issues are filled with denunciations of the New Deal, and it has set out to do its duty to save the country for the Republican Party and vice versa.

Unhappily for its well-being, The Union-Banner has become involved in the issue of processing taxes and the AAA.

"Most of us know about the processing taxes, and they have cost us considerable money," so begins an editorial in last week's issue. "One cannot well be a consumer, especially the head of a family, without having felt some of the expensive effects of the AAA program."

For a newspaper located in a strictly farming district, those sentiments are strange indeed—especially in view of the fact that The Union-Banner has not since 1894, when it was founded, complained once about the high cost of the protective tariff, and the grief that the tariff has caused the farmers of the South.

The Chilton County News sees the incongruity in an agricultural newspaper complaining about processing taxes—and says so down two columns of its front page this week.

"Shall we ignore our own people?" asks The News, and with that points out a few items on which the tariff costs the farmer about 10 or 15 times as much as the processing tax. In addition, The News calls attention to the fact that the Republican Party has catered to industry and that it never has given three hoots about how hot the sun was on the farmer's back.

Of all the issues that The Union-Banner might have brought up, it appears to us that the AAA should have been passed over without mention. In the first place, the farmers of the State are up in arms to see that the AAA is preserved. Furthermore, we don't believe that The Union-Banner's subscribers, regardless of how good Republicans they may be, will refuse to take the advantages Roosevelt has given the farmers. In other words, we suspect that a Republican will take a check signed by a Democrat as quickly as he will take one signed by a Republican.

The situation at Clanton is indeed interesting. But there is one thing that both papers should remember: Alabama is going down the line for Roosevelt and nothing either can do will change that. In view of that and in view of the fact that both are going to be in Clanton after 1936, they shouldn't get too excited.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

I went into the telephone office to pay my bill. The man behind the desk related a bit of his experience a year ago. The story ran thus. A year ago a man came into that office to pay his phone bill. He lacked three dollars of having sufficient funds to pay his bill and the man behind the desk thought him to be perfectly honest said to him: "Rather than upset you I will pay the three dollars out of my pocket and you can refund me tomorrow." This was done and the man thanked him with due grace and promised to return the three dollars right away. Two months passed and no money was refunded and the telephone man called the attention of the well thought of citizen to his promise and he politely promised again to pay the bill the next day. On two other occasions this man asked for his money and received fair promises. The telephone man told me that he would never ask that man for his money again. How cheap some folks are. If you will have dealings with folks in a financial way, you will most surely meet with the surprise of your life. Some who rate themselves as successful stars will stoop to mighty low dealings. An honest man is a gem.

And it came to pass that a ton of iron was given over to a blacksmith, a ton to a cutler, a ton to a needle maker, a ton to a watch maker and a ton to radio and X-ray producers. The blacksmith produced horse shoes and sold his ton of iron for ten dollars. The cutler made his ton into knife blades and sold it for twenty thousand dollars. The needle maker used his ton in the production of cambric needles and sold it for one hundred thousand dollars. The watch maker used his ton of iron in making mainsprings for watches and sold it for five hundred thousand dollars. Last of all the radio dealer made his ton of iron into the most delicate parts of the radio and the X-ray and sold it for one million dollars. Verily, verily, I say unto you. this is a picture of your life. It is yours to make into things of value. What are you going to do with it Make it into the finest and it will be of great value.

At one time Napoleon sent some engineers to examine the pass on the Alps at St. Bernard. After close inspection they came back and reported to the general, "To human ability it seems to be impossible to pass that place." Napoleon paused for a moment in deep thought "Then forward," replied the leader and they passed. During the process all of Europe held its breath and said "Impossible." While they waited Napoleon's army passed and met with victory. Have you a task before you that humanly speaking seems beyond your ability to do? The man who learns to say "Then forward" in the face of difficulties, that is the man who will succeed.

I passed a man standing on the street corner leaning against a lamp post. An hour later I passed that way again and the same man was standing at the same place. He seemed satisfied to be standing still. He was not anxious about anything that I could see. I found out that my man had made that spot his standing place and there he spent the most of his time just standing still. It is rather remarkable to find so many people who are doing nothing much but standing still. No progress in business, no progress in information, no progress in their spiritual life. Just standing still week after week and year after year.

Joan of Arc was lifted from the ground at the battle of Orleans with an arrow piercing her chest. Fearing that the soldiers had seen her fall and not willing that they should behold her wounded, she seized the extended end of the arrow and with her own hands pulled it from her bosom, shouting for the soldiers to push the battle for France. It is needless to say that the soldiers of France went mad with enthusiasm and won a great victory. Enthusiasm is the greatest asset in the world. You are full of it. Turn it loose. It beats money-power-influence. The world is redy to pay the highest price for its possession. It pushes aside obstacles and performs miracles. Give your enthusiasm expression and all opposition will crack and crumble. Shout and go on.

AN ANTI-CRIME SCHOOL

Under the supervison of the Department of Justice a new kind of school was opened in Washington on July 29. in which a class selected from the police departments of 22 cities entered upon a three month course of training in methods for suppressing criminals

The objectives of the school are to obtain closer cooperation between federal and state officers in checking crime; to train men in scientific crime detection; and to give instruction in the methods which have proved so successful by federal offcers in ridding the country of its most notorious bandits in recent months.

There will be lectures by prominent police officials ,crominologists and others whose study of the crime situation make them authorities on the various subjects to be discussed. In addition to the theoretical side, there will be practical instruction in the use of all types of weapons used by officers of the law.

Practice will be had on outdoor and indoor target ranges. Sharp shooting from moving vehicles, firing at moving targets, use of illumination flares, and night shooting will be among the phases of the training to be stressed.

The men completing the course will be sent to become instructors in their own police departments. It is planned to put about 100 selected me through the school each year for a period of five years.

There can be no doubt that the system of instruction outlined will be productive of much good, and make the way of the bandit a good deal harder than it has been heretofore.

SPEED TAKES MORE GAS

We heard of a motorist who, when he suddenly discovered his gasoline was very low, speeded up so as to get to the next filling station before the gas gave out. Of course he should have known that to get the most mileage out of a given amount of gas one must not drive faster than about 20 miles an hour.

Many tests have been made to determine the rate of gasoline consumption at various speeds, and these tests have invarably shown that the faster one drives the greater the consumption per mile. A typical illustration is given by the Bureau of Standards, taking a car that gets 18.9 miles per gallon as a speed of 20 miles per hour.

At 30 miles an hour the same car will get 18 mles per gallon.

At 40 miles an hour it will get 16.4 miles per gallon.

At 50 miles an hour it will get 14.6 miles per gallon.

At 60 miles an hour it will get 12.6 miles per gallon.

At 70 miles an hour it will get 10.6 miles per gallon.

At 80 miles an hour it will get 8.6 miles per gallon.

It is shown also that the consumption of oil at 60 miles an hour is six times as great as it is at 30 miles an hour.

Excessive speed places a great strain on an automobile and shortens its life, as the engine, tires and steering mechanism are all subject to unusual wear and tear. Not only as a matter of safety but as a measure of economy as well, driving at moderate speeds is recommended to all motorists.

SUNSHINE CHURCH LEADING IN LEADER'S PRIZE CONTEST

Interest Becoming Keen; The Leader Giving Three Votes Instead Of One This Week; Walnut Creek And Mulberry Baptist Close

With only nine more days left for the big $100.00 cash prize contest being conducted by The eLader, one of Clanton's huge and popular department stores, the interest in the event is becoming extremely interesting.

For awhile the two Clanton churches were in the lead and it seemed they were destined to come out at the end as winners, but somebody got busy last week and the entire picture has changed.

This week, the official count shows that the popular little Sunshine Church of near Clanton is leading by a large margin, with Walnut Creek church running second and Mulberry Baptist Church in third place.

Mr. M. Lande, the popular proprietor of The Leader, is having more work to do these days than he anticipated in counting the votes cast in this contest, it is becoming such a huge event and a grand success. "But, let it go," Mr. Lande stated. "All we want to do now is to impress upon the people of Chilton County that there are only nine more days left in the contest, and that our prices are still low."

The large advertisement from The Leader appearing in this issue of the News tells more about this contest, and it won't be long now until the one hundred dollars, in two awards, first and second, will go to some two churches in the county.

Maynards Chapel

Our new church has gotten to where we can have Sunday school, preaching and B.Y.P.U. in it. Our men put the windows in about two weeks ago and the floor last wee. Our place where the church is looks like a church now and we want to make our church a church of God, who is willing to help in everything. We feel that God in his wisdom has been with us building our church for his people to worship in. He felt the need of a church in this community, so let us all be very much in prayer for our new church and for our pastor, Brother Dewey Robinson. He is a wonderful pastor.

There will be Sunday school next Sunday at 10:00 and preaching at 11:00 Sunday afternoon at 3:30 there will be a baptizing of three, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Horton, coming from another church and Miss Olys Pate. B.Y.P.U. at 7 and preaching at 8 by the Rev. Robinson.

We fully believe that the principles for which the American Legion stands justifies existence of this organization and that each Ex-Service man should count it a privilege to be called a Legionaire.

Clanton Court Without A Case For Four Weeks

For four successive weeks now Mayor C. Fenn Jones has not been able to hold the Monday morning session of City Court--there have been no prisoners at the bar.

The mayor declares he is not just sure where the credit lies for this sudden improvement in the behavior of the people of this community. It could be the series of revivals that are in session over the county, he admits, but he seems inclined to believe the improvement is a result of fines that have consistently been imposed on offenders when they face the Clanton mayor.

For several months after Mayor Jones took offce, each Monday morning found several charged with various offenses in the City Court. He has imposed fines on nearly all who have come before him, though in many cases the punishment has been lenient.

However, it was pointed out that the cells in the new city jail are ready for occupancy now and if anyone wants to try them, they will be accomodated. Mayor Jones stated.

During the past three months there has been a decided decrease in public drunkenness in Clanton, the mayor claims.

Supt. J. A. Kellar Is Principal Speaker On Program

The first county-wide picnic staged by members of the Chilton County Unit, Alabama State League of Young Democrats was held last Friday at the beautiful Log Cabin Beach on the Coosa River, just south of Clanton.

Approximately two hundred members, friends and guests took part in this outing, which was a basket lunch affair. A large speakers stand was erected with plenty of seats to take care of the crowd.

In the morning, the program consisted of short talks by Hon. G. C. Walker, prominent attorney of Clanton and Hon. Luther E. Little, county superintendet of education. They were followed by the principal speaker of the day, Hon. J. A. Kellar, state superintendent of education, and booster of young people of Alabama.

Mr. Little, in a brief message to the gathering, gave his views of the vast possibilities of the local, state and national organization in this huge youth movement.

Mr. Walker in well chosen words told the crowd of the unwarranted, underhanded work which is being carried on over the country to attempt to obstruct the magnificent efforts of President Roosevelt to aid the entire country.

Supt. Kellar, coupling education, government and the youth of today, held the crowd spell-bound with his uncovering of the magnitude of the need of sound-thinking youth, men and women to carry on the work for a clean and better government.

Music for the day was furnished by members of the League from the Isabella club, who had no toruble in putting activity into the feet of those who were listening.

Shortly after twelve o'clock noon Billy Smith, president of the local Unit, who presided, gave the order and information that it was time to eat. Large baskets and boxes began to appear from the automobiles parked on the spcious and grassed grounds of Log Cabin Beach, and in a few moments the entire two hundred persons were busy enjoying delicious picnic lunches.

The afternoon session was devoted to a few contests, music by the Isabella boys, boating and swimming. Boy Guyse, manager of the popular Log Cabin Beach was tendered a vote of thanks by members of the League for his kindness in allowing the League to use his splendid beach and grounds for their outing.

Log Cabin Beach is ideally located for picnics and outings of all kinds. With its beautiful grass furnishing unlimite dshade over the spacious grassy plot, it is a pretty picture. Every convenience is also to be had at Log Cabin Beach.

Just How Big Is The Telephone Company

THE Southern Bell Company is only as big as the people of Alabama and the South have required it to be.

The two and a half million people of this great State would not be satisfied with or be properly served by a company of less size, incapable of furnishing the high type of dependable, nation-wide service now required.

The telephone service needs of the people of Alabama are large and it necessarily requires a large institution to do this big job. More than 22,000,000 local and long distance calls are made monthly in Alabama, and the responsibility for the continuous operation of a service of such importance is large.

To operate, maintain and expand this intricate system requires a small army of more than 1,500 workers, whose annual payroll is nearly $1,700,000.

Because of its size the telephone industry is also one of the largest contributors to the support of the State and its subdivisions by the payment of taxes. Its tax bill in Alabama for 1934 amounted to $448,000, not including federal taxes.

The telephone company of necessity is also a large user of raw materials, and spends large sums of money in Alabama for the products of the State.

Alabama is a big, important State, requiring a telephone company large enough to insure continuous, adequate and dependable telephone service—a service not limited by State lines, but world-wide in its scope.

A telephone company, smaller in size and resources could not render such a service and would not be capable of serving the people of Alabama satisfactorily.

Plan Expansion Of Rural Electrification

Birmingham, Ala., August 2.—By taking advantage of new construction standards which have been perfected for single phase (2-wire) lines the Alabama Power Company announces that it now believes it possible to expand the extension of electric service to rural customers. While the Company has for eleven years been active in the extension of rural electric service and now operates 2,159 miles of rural line, 40 of which were built this year, and serves 28,000 rural customers at city rates and only 8,700 at rural rates, it recently petitioned the Alabama Public Service Commission to liberalize the rural rates and rural line contract requirements so as to make possible a wider use of electric service among existing rural customers and to enable it to consider the construction of additional rural lines.

The Commission acted favorably on the petition August 1. Under the adjusted rate schedule, 5,500 or about 60 per cent of the rural customers being served at rural rates will enjoy immediate reductions amounting to $28,500 annually. Customers in Group B of the old classification E-1 have had their minimum bills reduced from $2.00 to $1.25. Customers served under the E-4 classification may now use 15 kilowatt hours for the minimum bill. The rate adjustment results in either a reduction or more electricity for less money for all customers served at rural rates.

A 25 per cent reduction in the capacity required to be contracted for per mile of line is also included in the revision. Alabama Power Company officials state that all requests for extension of rural service are considered in as liberal a light as possible, but that each case must, of course, be determined on its individual merits.

NEWS IS COMPLIMENTED BY GULF ON RESULTS OF ADS

Public Finds Booklet "15 Ways To Save Gas Money" A Valuable Item; Advertising Handled Exclusively By The News

It has been a regular service of the News to restore lost dogs, watches, wallets and whatnots to anxious owners. But today our attention is called to the fact that we have helped find something which the owners did not know they had lost.

"Thanks to the News," says W. L. Sims, local representative of the Gulf Refining Company, "a multitude of motorists have found that they have been losing gallons of good gasoline without realizing it—just as surely as if there were a leak in the gasoline tank!"

Mr. Sims refers to the result of a series of advertisments recently placed in the News by his company, offering all motorists the new free booklet, "15 Ways to Save Gasoline Money."

"Soon after the offer appeared in your paper, motorists began to flock to our filling-stations to claim their copies of the booklet, and the original supply had to be renewed. An enthusiastic demand for them continues," Mr. Sims states.

Among the 15 simple, money-saving hints illustrated in the attractive little Gulf booklet is a pertinent pointer on parking. It explains, to the surprise of most motorists, that a car figuratively "burns up gas" even when it is parked, depending upon where and how you park it. Other hints in the booklet that materially increase mileage-per-gallon deal with proper use of the selfstarter, accelerator; gear shifting and other ordinary operations in driving, any one of which wastes quantities of gasoline, if carelessly done.

Titled "15 Ways to Save Gasoline," the booklet is free for the asking at all Gulf service stations and dealers.

CHILTON COUNTY

Your county (including its municipalities) receives annually in taxes from electric utilities approximately

$69,000*

Of which amount approximately

Goes Directly to Public Schools

TVA pays no County taxes and no other taxes from which your County will receive any share,

If TVA takes over all electric operations in the State of Alabama, are you prepared, as tax-payers, to make up this huge loss? Are you prepared, as school patrons, to accept this reduction in school revenues?

*Includes County and City Ad Valorem Taxes and Licenses; also State 3 Mill School Ad Valorem Taxes; State Kilowatt Hour Taxes and State Franchise Taxes allocated to Counties. From reports for 1933, viz., State Auditor's Report, State Tax Commission's Report, State Comptroller's Report; and information obtained from State Department of Education and State Tax Commission.

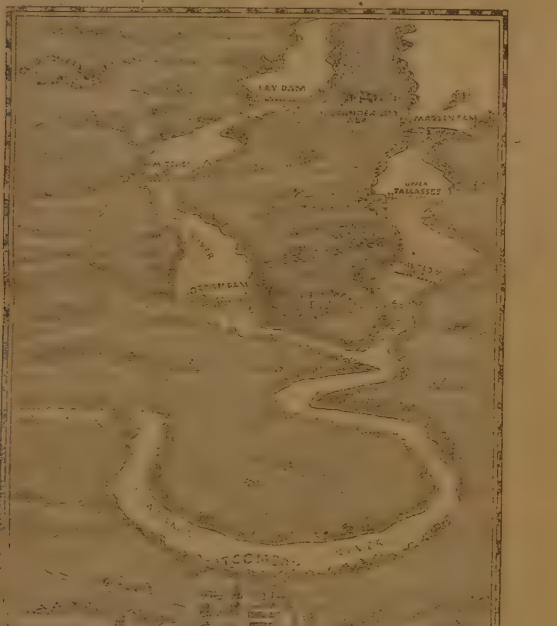
OPEN HOUSE MONTH

FOR ALABAMA POWER COMPANY CUSTOMERS AND THEIR FAMILIES



Pack Up A Picnic Lunch, Bring the Family and Neighbors With You and Enjoy Yourself

ALTHOUGH visitors are welcome to our power plants at any time, we have set the month of August aside as "Open House Month", and especially invite you and your friends to spend an enjoyable day at one of our many electric power generating plants. Plenty of refreshing drinking water is available and the shade of many trees makes a pleasant place to eat a picnic lunch.

FOREMOST IN POWER DEVELOPMENT

The power plants of this Company are among the outstanding ones of the Country. Mitchell Dam near Verbena, Ala., is the only one of its kind in existence. Martin Dam at Cherokee Bluffs on the Tallapoosa River backs up one of the largest artificial bodies of water in the United States, making a lake with a shore line of approximately 700 miles. The Gorgas Steam Plant, in the heart of the Alabama coal fields, was built to augment the hydro plants in seasons of drought, so that electric service could always be dependable. Lay Dam is the original large power development in Alabama and one of the first in the South. Jordan Dam, Thurlow Dam and Upper Tallassee all have features of great interest.

VISIT ONE OR MORE OF THESE POWER PLANTS

Your visit will be not only instructive, but you will be impressed with the manner in which electricity is made and will have a better idea of the great part this Company has played in the development of the natural resources of Alabama and the care it takes to keep your electric service dependable.

Any of our stores will give you directions to help you find the dam sites easily. See one or all of them. You will receive a cordial welcome.

Other Points of Interest

Altho not as spectacular as the hydro-electric plants, but fully as interesting, are the substations from which electricity is "directed" to the various towns and communities over the State. On your way to or from the dams, you may want to stop at one of the following substations, to which any filling station in the towns where they are located can direct you.

A. F. MIMS SEES FINE CHANCE FOR PROGRESS

Urges Citizens To Back Program For Local Meeting Place

Dear Editor:

I have been reading with interest what Dr. Gragg and others have written regarding a County-wide Community Center with a community house adequate for housing one thousand or more people. It is my understanding that this would mean a place for our farmers and the public in general to have an auditorium or assembly hall for any and all legitimate purposes that the people of Chilton County might want to use it for. Such as a county-wide "all day" singing, a political speaking, farmers' annual meeting or other such farmers' gatherings, or county mass meetings, too large for any auditorium now within the county. I also understand that this place could be used as an athletic field and a permanent home for Chilton County fairs, at any time our farmers and business people saw fit to use it as such. I also understand that with almost no cost to our county, that the Federal Government will finance the greater part, in fact, almost the entire cost of ths Community Center. In other words, about all that is necessary is to let the proper officials know that we want it, and it is ours for the asking.

Now if I am correct in my way of seeing it, let's go to it and get something for the farmer while it is yet time. It may be too late a few weeks later, and our farmers have not been over-burdened with free gifts anyway.

Yours truly,
A. F. MIMS.

More Men Will Be Put To Work

The first of several works projects in Chilton County which are to be financed from the recent four-billion dollar PWA allocation, is about to get underway, according to information given out this week by D. B. Slaton, manager of the local office of the National Re-Employment Servce.

Twenty-eight men. including four time-keepers, have been referred by this office to the "Works Progress Administration" project, he announced. This project in this county is a county-wide road building project. Mr. Slaton also stated that he is expecting work to begin soon on an extensive program at the local airport, but declared that he has not yet received any requisitions for workers on this project.

In discussing the new works program, he explained that men will be selected from a list of those who were receiving relief in May, 1935. Others will not be able to get employment, he declared is his understanding, until all those who were on relief last May have been taken care of. It is useless, he pointed out, for relief workers to report to his office until notified. Letters will be written them just as soon as requisition is made for them.

The requisition for employes for the county-wide road project calls for 44 men, but Mr. Slaton stated that he has not yet referred but 28 to this project. Others will be called soon.

The airport program will employ 38 men and women, but little is known yet of their duties.

State Farmers Favor 12-Cent Cotton Loan

Auburn, Ala.—The Alabama Farm Bureau Federation is on record favoring a 12-cent loan on the 1935-36 cotton crop, a test of the constitutionality of the protective tariff, and a constitutional amendment if necessary to continue Agricultural Adjustment Act Bankhead cotton act, and the processing tax.

"We endorse and request a 12-cent government loan on cotton for the 1935-36 season" said a resolution passed at the annual meeting of the organization held here the past week.

"We authorize our officers to join in any reasonable movement to bring a test case to the courts on the constitutionality of the protective tariff," says another resolution.

After stating that "these measures have geen instrumental in greatly increasing our income, bringing us out of the bottomless pit of depression into the road to recovery and a better standard of living," another resolution said:

We respectfully request our Congressmen and Senators to give their unqualified support to the continuation of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, including the processing tax, and the Bankhead cotton control act, and,

"Be it further resolved, that if a constitutional amendment is necessary for such continuation, we hereby unqualifiedly endorse such an amendment, and

"Be it further resolved, that the farm people are most appreciative of the great service which is being rendered the State by Senator Hugo Black, Senator John H. Bankhead, and other members of the Alabama delegation in Congress."

mately $35 worth of materials is required. There are about 25 cases of the disease known to exist in the county, according to records at the health office. At least ten cottages are needed badly to combat the spread of the malady.

Dr. Kimmey hopes that it will be possible to get other clubs, churches, and organizations to sponsor one of these cottages, which will remain the property of the health unit and can be transferred to any place in the county where it is desirable to isolate patients suffering with the disease.

The little cost of these cottages will be well spent, for the danger of the spread of the disease will be greatly lessened; and the greater comfort for the patient will be assured.

We wish to thank your Honor for calling us into session at this season of the year as we believe it will be helpful to law enforcement generally throughout the County. We feel that our two day session at this time of the year wll afford those prisoners in jail who are unable to make bond and that are indicted an opportunity to plead guilty if they so desire and begin working out their sentences without having to remain in jail until the Fall of the year when the regular term of court is usually held. We believe that by having a split session, that is, now and later in the Fall, that the time that we will consume by both sessions will be no more, as if as much, had we followed the old custom of disposing of all cases at one session in the Fall of the year. The expense that it will help the courts to operate more efficiently and will tend to aid generally law enforcement in the County.

We did not make an inspection of the alms house or any examination of the County officers at this session, it being our intention to attend to these matters when we are called back into session.

We, having complied to the best of our ability with your Honor's charge, respectfully ask that we now be dismissed until such time as your Honor may see fit and think proper to have us again convene.

This August 1, 1935.

endorsement of the proposal to establish a county community center and public meeting place at the airport property near Clanton.

We believe the establishment of such a meeting place, properly equipped and made accessible to the public interests and organizations of the county would prove a convenience to our people, conducive to a more universal acquaintance and a better understanding between all groups of our citizenship.

As rural citizens, we especially feel that such facilities provided by the county at a convenient place, such as the airport, would prove useful and advantageous on many occasions when gatherings of farm groups are to be held.

Further, we wish to express our satisfaction and approval of the action of our county officials in acquiring the airport property, and request them to continue their cooperation and participation with federal agencies in enlarging and devoloping the property and providing adequate buildings and facilities to make is useful to the people of the entire county as a community center and public meeting place.

We hereby authorize the adoption of this resolution, and request the recorder of these proceedings to furnish a copy hereof to the Board of County Commissioners of Chilton County, and als a copy to each of our county papers with the request that they give publicity to the same.

than that of the farmer, and so the agriculture adjustment act was born. It remained unchallenged so far as its constitutionality was concerned for many months until improvement in the agriculture situation was noted.

"In the opinion of this court, reasoning practically, if any legislation has ever been necessary for the good of the United States and its farmers, it was the AAA.

"Concerning its constitutionality, the general welfare clause of the constitution gives legality to such a tax. The most serious question argued by counsel is whether the act is delegating a taxing power to the secretary of agriculture. Congress has set out products to be taxed and has fixed the basis for such taxation rate. It is only left to the secretary of agriculture to follow this scale."

"I repeat," he emphasized, "that this tax was for the general welfare of the people."

Hugh Mageveney, attorney for the plaintiff, announced an appeal from Judge Martin's decision would be taken to the Supreme Court.

councils of his party.

Thousands of friends throughout this section and all Alabama will learn of the passing of this good man with genuine sorrow.

Fredrick Loyd Tate was born November 18, 1872, in Atanta, Ga., the son of William Greene and Victoria Turner Drake. His mother died soon after his birth and he was reared by his uncle and aunt, Col. and Mrs. John F. Tate, the latter being a sister of Judge Tate's father.

He was educated in the common schools of Alabama and Georgia and graduated in 1897 from the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn with B.S. degree, and M.S. degree a year later. In the summer of 1899 he attended the law school at the University of Virginia. From 1898 to 1900 he taught in the S.S.A.S. at Jackson, Ala., and on March 1, 1901, he was admitted to the bar at Wetumka where he located.

By appointment of Governor Jelks he became Solicitor of the 15th Judicial Circuit. In 1910, he was elected to this office and was again re-elected in 1914. He served as Attorney General of the state from June 1, to November 18, 1918, and was then appointed Supernumary Judge.

In 1932, upon the death of Judge George Smoot, he was appointed by Governor Miller, Circuit Judge of the 19th Judicial Circuit, and was later that year reelected to fill the unexpired term, retiring voluntarily at the end of that term because of impaired health.

On December 29, 1899, he was married to Lucia Phillips, daughter of Mrs. Eugenia and the late Little Berry Phillips of Tuskegee. To their union was born four children, a son, who died in infancy and three daughters the oldest daughter, Mrs. Charles (Lucia Tate) Storrs, a brilliant and lovable character, died three years ago.

Reared in a christian home amid Christian surroundings, he was always conscious of the higher duty which we all owe the Divine Master, and in early years he united with the Methodist Episcopal church whice he served loyally and faithfully. He was a Mason and Odd Fellow and a Knight of Pythias.

Surviving besides his wife are two chidren, Mrs. William E. Cooper, of Greensboro, N. C., and Miss Gene Tate of Wetumpka; and one grandson.

COOSA SHOWS INCREASE IN FARM NUMBER

Gain Of 122 Farms Noted Over A Period Of Five Years

By Howard C. Smith

Coosa County had 1.998 farms in January 1935, as compared with 1,876 in 1930. This makes an increase in Coosa farms of 122 farms in five years time.

In 1930 Coosa County had 201,724 acres in farms. In 1935 this had increased to 229,825 acres. This means that we had 29,101 acres increase in farm land in the five year period.

The farm census tells another good tale also for Coosa. In 1935 the total value of farms and buildings was $2,570,272. In 1930 this County had farms valued at only $2,035,855.

In this five years of time, our county farms had increased nearly a half million dollars in value, to be exact $434,417 worth.

This looks real well for Coosa County to make this increase in spite of the depression. As a matter of fact, Coosa has a farm population among the smallest of the 67 counties of Alabama, Bibb and Washington Counties along having less number of farmers.

Our population is almost all found on the farms. Coosa has suffered less from the depression than has Jefferson County. Our soils are strong and where not eroded produce very well. Our farmers know how to live within their incomes. May it not be true that Coosa has suffered less from the depression than any other of the remaining 66 Alabama counties.

In view of the above figures released by the U. S. Bureau of the Census in Washington, we are able to hold up our record for inspection.

Coosa has 413,440 acres in this county. We have 229,285 acres in farms. This means that we have 183,615 acres in woodland. Slightly more than half of Coosa is in farms. The average size of these farms is thus about 115 acres, according to figures supplied by Weogufka State Park Information.

Invites Expression As To Paving Other Streets

Mayor C. Fenn Jones is urging citizens who own property on streets other than the 11 which the City Council authorized the mayor to take steps to get paved, and if they, too, are interested in securing pavement of their streets to make their wishes known to his office.

"Although I would like very much to see every street in Clanton paved, I don't want to be placed in the attitude of forcing this program upon the people. They have a right to decide for themselves and it is my wish to respect that right," the mayor declared.

Most of the more important streets in the city are included in the group that Mayor Jones is now seeking federal funds for their improvement, still there are others that really should be paved, is the mayor's belief.

PARKING TIME IS LIMITED ON FIRST AVENUE

Purpose Is To Minimize Traffic Congestion And Danger Of Accidents

City Councilmen last week approved an ordinance, limiting parking on the highway between First Avenue and Third Avenue, to one hour.

Advertisement of this ordinance was begun last week and Mayor C. Fenn Jones has instructed John Browder, chief of police, to see that it is obeyed. Long-time parking along this thoroughfare, the mayor explained, causes traffic congestion and really greatly increases danger to both pedestrians and motorists.

Attempting to swerve around parked cars is likely to cause collisions or cause some pedestrian to be accidentally run down by a car.

Officer Browder seems slightly disappointed that the patronage of the new City Jail has been at such low ebb. Although the cells have been ready for occupancy for some time, he said Monday that no one has yet been locked in either of them.

Seriously, Mr. Browder says he is really glad to see less law violation on the streets of Clanton, but there's a twinkle in his eye that indicates that the officer is wondering just how a prisoner will react to a spell in one of those cells.

IMPROVEMENT FOR AIRPORT IS SEEN LIKELY

Committee Met With Commissioners Tuesday To Discuss Project

Machinery was set in motion Tuesday afternoon to secure a vast improvement to the county airport property here, when a delegation appeared before the Commissioners Court and petitioned the converting of the property into a community center.

Dr. V. J. Gragg, local flying enthusiast, was chairman of the delegation which asked that the Court secure an additional 32 acres of land adjoining the 60 already owned by the county. This, it was explained, would not only give more space for runways, but would also be ample for the erection of a community hall with dimensions of at least 80 by 100 feet, the installation of a large outdoor swimming pool, and various other athletic facilities that would make the field serviceable to a greater number of the county's citizens.

Thursday afternoon, it was agreed members of the Commissioners Court will meet a delegation at the field and the proposition will be discussed further.

Dr. Gragg and other speakers Tuesday explained that with the acquisition of this additional land and further participation by the county that it will be possible to get quite a bit more federal money for improvement of this project. Floyd Smith, local PWA di-

Golden Wedding Bells Ring For Jemison Couple Who Still Live In First Home

Mr. and Mrs. James S. Atchison who lve nine miles west of Jemison, have begun their second fifty years of married life together, celebrating their golden wedding anniversary several days ago.

They have spent their entire lives in the same community. Mr. Atchison who is 74, was born within less than 500 yards of his present home. Mrs. Atchison is 65; she was born and reared in Jemison.

Both are in the best of health and plan to spend many more happy years together. Mr. Atchison is still able to do much of the work on his farm, and Mrs. Atchison cares for her home herself.

The reason for so much satisfaction and so many divorces, as cited by this old couple, is too much travel. Neither have ever been outside Alabama—and only a few times so far as Birmingham. Fifty years ago, when they were married, Mr. Atchison brought his bride to the farm home that was all ready—they still live in the same house.

"If the young people of today would spend more time making a home, there would be less time for getting all dissatisfied with their lives together," Mrs Atchison believes.

They have eight chidren living and two are dead. M. Z. Atchison, of Clanton, is on of their sons.

SHERIFF HARDY AND DEPUTIES JAIL SEVERAL

Different Sections Of County Call Officers To Quell Disturbances

Law enforcement officers in Chilton County had a busy week end. From last Saturday afternoon until Monday morning, Sheriff J. R. Hardy and his deputies were kept busy rushing from one part of the county to another, quelling various disturbances.

Among arrests made were: Gene Killingsworth, Jemison, charged with assault with intent to murder in connection with the stabbing of William Price at a singing late Sunday afternoon; Robert Cleckler, of near Clanton, who is said to have assaulted his father William Cleckler, with a knife while intoxicated, is in jail on a charge of attempted murder.

Ted Bowden, was arrested on a charge of violation of the prohibition laws, and James Cooper, Verbena Negro, was arrested for intent to murder another Negro.

Just over the Chilton-Autauga county line, Rayfield Ray, alleged Negro Bootlegger, died Sunday from a bullet wound said to have been inflicted by Jim Sutley, Negro. The altercation occurred at a ball game Saturday afternoon.

FIRST BALE OF COTTON SOLD AT FIFTEEN CENTS

Ginned By Irby Deramus At Verbena For Negro Farmer

The first bale of cotton ginned in Chilton County from the 1935 crop, reported to the News, was sold at fifteen cents per pound in Verbena.

The bale was ginned in Verbena by Irby Deramus last week and weighed 580 pounds. It belonged to Wash Browder, a negro farmer.

W. H. Carroll, of near Clanton, gets credit for the second bale of cotton harvested this season. Mr. Carroll had the 557-pound bale ginned Tuesday at the Planters Gin & Warehouse Company here, and it was purchased for 13 cents per pound by J. R. Mullins & Sons.

A trip through the county shows that picking will no doubt get underway in many sections, within the week, while the crop is not yet showing very much activity.

The whole county has apparently been in need of rain for crops for sometime. Ginners are ready for work.

BENEFITS ARE CITED IN A RESOLUTION

4,000 Hear Recovery Program Praised; Has Helped Farmers

There has been some contention during recent weeks regarding the supposed attitude of Chilton County farmers to AAA program and its efforts to bring a better standard of living to the cotton farmers of the South.

At the County-wide Picnic, which was attended by approximately 4,000 local farmers and business men, a resolution was read and unanimously adopted which should go a long way toward clarifying the reaction of Chilton cotton producers toward the AAA

Below is given the resolution:

WHEREAS, the Agricultural Adjustment Act and the Bankhead Cotton Control Act have been instrumental in greatly increasing our income, bringing us out of the bottomless pit of depression into the road to recovery, and a better standard of living, and

WHEREAS, the processing tax and benefit payments made possible by the Agricultural Adjustment Act are the first effective semblance of a protective tariff for American farmers, bringing to them in simple justice benefits of the kind other groups have enjoyed for more than 100 years, and

WHEREAS, powerful organized groups who have benefited for over 100 years under the tariff and other similar legislation, are now attempting to destroy the Agricultural Adjustment Act whch was passed as the results of years of effort by organized farmers in the Farm Bureau and other organizations and the inspired leadership of our great President, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Now therefore be it resolved, that we respectfully request our Senators and Congressmen to give their unqualified support to the continuation of the

Miss Hilda Hart Weds J. B. Varnell Sunday

The marriage of Miss Hilda Hart attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Hart, and James B. Varnell, son of the Rev. W. H. Varnell of Scottsboro, was solemnized Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the bride's home.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs Marvin Byrd of Troy sang "All For You," and Miss Maralyn Hardy "Until" accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Elna Roberts.

The impressive ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. H. Varnell, father of the groom, in the presence of the families of the bride and groom and a number of relatives and friends

The living room of her home was effectively decorated for the occasion. Placed against a background of ferns were two tall floor baskets which were filled with white lilies, gladioli and tube roses. On either side of the altar were five branched candelabra in which burned white candles. The bride and groom entered the living room together.

The bride wore aquamarine blue silk crepe made extra effect with a blouse of silk lace. Her smart hat and accessories were brown. She wore a corsage of talisman roses and lilies of the valley.

After the ceremony an informal reception was held. The dining room was prettily decorated with white dahlias and white astors. On the table was a maderia table cloth with center piece of white astors and baby breath flowers. On either side burned crystal candelabras. On the table were white and green mints. Ices in white and green, the color scheme, were served to about one hundred guests.

The bride and groom left for a wedding trip to North Carolina and Tennessee for two weeks, after which they will be at home with the bride's parents. Mrs. Varnell expects to return to school in Montevallo in September. She wore for traveling a navy blue ensemble with accessories to match.

No One Is Willing To Pay The Price

The trouble with a lot of us is that we want to accomplish many things, but aren't willing to pay the price.

"He who would climb a tree," said Thackery, "must grasp its branches, not the blossoms."

Which means that you've got to pull yourself up over the rough places, and not expect simply to coast down hill all the time.

About the only thing that has ever come into our life without being worked for or sought after, is trouble.

And a lot of that could be traced back to a desire to take hold of the blossoms instead of the branches.

Thorns serve a purpose. They teach us the lesson that, even in plucking roses, one must go about it with care and skill and practical knowledge, or get stuck.—Selected

Buying Printing Away From Home

It has been called to our attention on several occasions of late that some of the local officers and business concerns were buying their printing from plants located in cities elsewhere, who offer them a slightly lower price, due to the larger volume of business they do.

Some of the firms which have been doing this are owned by men who have complained of the people of this section doing their trading in nearby cities or from mail order houses.

We realize that everybody enjoys a "saving" but there are other phases to be considered. It has always been our practice to patronize our customers and even though we had to pay a little more at times, we have consistently adhered to this policy, feeling that we could not conscientiously send our money out of town while making our living off of local customers.

Considering it from a personal angle the local printer as well as other local concerns pays taxes, supports the local schools, churches and other organizations that help make up this community which those firms of other cities do not do, in Andalusia. While it is possible for them to draw trade from a large territory and do a larger volume of business, the local business is dependent on the business organizations lying within its own borders. In addition to these things, any local newspaper is called upon to boost any and all kinds of local projects. They give away each week column after column of free advertising for worthwhile causes which are being undertaken. It is a pleasure and they expect to keep on doing just that, but on the other hand, it is rather discouraging to feel that the contribution of the local printer is not considered when time comes to have printing done. We feel that local business firms should support their supporters. — Andalusia Star.

Greetings To A New Alabama Journal

We have just received our first copy of a new publication in Alabama which has been christened, "Alabama Public Works and Highway Journal." It strikes out on the turbulent journalistic sea under the guidance of G. T. Watterson as publisher, W. J. Baldwin as editor, and W. Roy Brown as business manager, all of whom are widely known in Alabama.

The table of contents shows that this new magazine really covers its field in a competent manner, and a closer scrutiny of the articles and editorial matter show care in the preparation and breadth of understanding of conditions in Alabama.

This new journal shows all the earmarks of being constructive, and believing that Alabama is on the verge of greater industrial development, it should make a worthwhile contribution in hastening this growth.

Backbone Of Transport

In spite of all claims to the contrary, the railroads remain the backbone of the nation's transportation system.

Other carriers may supplement the rails and perform a valuable service. But it is a limited service.

Trucks can handle but a fraction of the nation's freight, and almost none of its heavy, transcontinental freight—wheat, machinery, etc.

Buses can provide inexpensive and excellent short-haul passenger service—but the vast bulk of travelers still go by rail when embarking on a lengthy journey.

There are definite limits to the airplane—its high cost, its relatively sparse coverage of the nation, its inability to handle freight.

The waterways are limited by geography and by seasons. In addition, they have proven to be constant money losers, and can only be kept in operation by vast governmental subsidies.

The railroads touch every portion of the country. They provide service to remote areas, tiny hamlets, little known farming and mining districts. They run on regular schedules. They provide maximum service at a minimum cost. The railroads did much to bring civilization to the wilderess in the beginning of this nation's expansion—they do much to keep civilized places from degenerating back to wilderness now.

In addition, the railroads are one of our greatest taxpayers, employers, purchasers of supplies. They offer a gigantic market in normal times for lumber, steel, copper, coal. They are a bulwark of all industry—and an essential public servant.

Flourishing During Depression

The farm cooperative movement continues to go forward, as recent statistics from Pennsylvania demonstrate.

In that state, farmers who buy and sell through co-ops did a total business of almost $35,000,000 in 1934, as compared with $27,000,000 in 1933. Both volume and sales were substantially larger.

Milk marketing associations handled 5 per cent more milk, and the value was 40 per cent higher. Egg marketing groups sold 50 per cent more eggs and livestock associations increased their volume by 60 per cent.

Finally, the total membership of Pennsylvania farmers in cooperative associations in 1934 amounted to 67,953—an advance of 16 per cent over the previous year.

Similar records have been made in other states, on greater or smaller scales. Each year shows advances in the size of cooperative groups—as well as improvement in the work done by the associations on behalf of their members. Cooperation is one thing that has actually flourished during depression.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

In one of the colored churches in Andalusia not many moons ago a wedding of prominence was about to take place. The house was crowded with friends of the bride and groom and many white people were special guests of the occasion. Just before the wedding march was to begin, the choir arose and sang "The Fight is On." The song may not have been in harmony with that occasion, but it is in harmony with so many wedding occasions until it should be one of the prominent wedding songs. Of many unions it can be said "The Fight is On," when the wedding ceremony has been performed, and this is true of the white folks as much so as it is true of the colored race. However, we can make married life harmonious and happy if we only try. It is the mixing up of the devils that is in the hearts of the two that causes much fighting.

One day I saw a youngster going by on a bicycle. His machine was giving out a grinding sound and I called to him, "Buddie, what is the matter with your bicycle this morning?" He shouted back over his shoulder, "It has sand and gravel in its bearings, but I am not going far." I took up his statement and began to think. Here was a lad who had sand and gravel in the bearings of his wheel and he said that he was not traveling far. It occurred to me that if we wish to travel fast and far in life we must travel light and free of sand and gravel in our spiritual lives. Happy is that man who can free himself of jealousies, hates, fears, bad habits, selfishness, sin. If you want a clean house do not sweep the trash under the rug. If you want to travel fast and far do not carry sand and gravel in the bearings of the soul.

In 1907 a strange thing took place on the ball diamond. Mt. Pleasant was quarter-back on the Carlisle Indian team and they were contesting for mastery over the Harvard team. In the middle of the game it was Harvard's time to kick off and just before the time came for the kick Mt. Pleasant was seen to be gazing up into the sky with his lips moving as he stood near the goal post. He was praying that the ball would come to him. The kick was made and the ball came like a thing of life into the arms of Mt. Pleasant. He grabbed it, dodged all interference and made one of the most spectacular touchdowns ever made in the history of ball. Tell me not that God did not hear the prayer of that Indian. He did not pray that God would give him the touchdown, but he prayed that the ball would come to him and he knew then that with the opportunity before him that he would do his dead level best to make the touchdown. It is all right to pray for anything to come your way, when you are resolved that when the opportunity comes that you will do your best to make good. Do not pray for success, but pray earnestly for opportunity.

In the days of boyhood I had a pal who had a passion for heights. He never failed to climb the trees, the gully banks and the grape vines just a little higher than the rest of us. We had a rope swing in the back yard and none of us had ever dared to touch the limbs of the tree in that swing. Along came this lad and he said that he could touch them. Soon he was "pumping" his way into the air. He would swing out and back, pumping higher and higher and soon he was in the limbs of the tree on both sides. He knew when to "pump" and he kept it up until he was higher than any other boy dared to go. There is always plenty of room "on top" if we have the courage and the will to "pump" our way up there.

From beneath the rock boulder high up on the hill a little stream trickled and found its way down the hillside. Other little streams joined it and before the water had reached the plain, it had wased out a deep channel. Worry is a little stream that can start in your life, and if allowed to flow on, it will be joined by other streams and soon a deep channel is cut, into which all the streams of living flow. Many a person knows nothing but worry over everything. When encouraged worry cuts deep into our living and all other streams flow therein.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO "BREAK IN" THE FORD V·8

You can drive it 50 miles an hour the day you buy it

THE FORD V-8 is ready for normal driving when you buy it. There is no tedious period of breaking-in for 500 or 1000 miles. You can drive it up to 50 miles an hour the first day. And after the first hundred miles you can drive it as fast as you desire.

That means greater motoring enjoyment for every motorist. It is especially important to motorists who are thinking about a new car for a vacation trip — to physicians, salesmen and all those who use a car for business. Instead of dragging along at slow speeds for days, you can make good time from the start.

The reason for this is as important as the result. The Ford V-8 needs no breaking-in because of unusual accuracy in the manufacture of moving parts and the smoothness of bearing surfaces. Clearances are correct when you buy the car. It is not necessary to depend on a long wearing-in period to eliminate tightness and insure smooth running. Longer life, greater economy and better performance are bound to result from such precision methods. The Ford V-8 gives you fine-car construction, along with fine-car performance, comfort, safety and beauty.

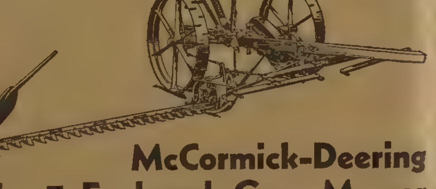
Built Like an Automobile
You have never seen a mower like this
It is Really New and Different



Come in and go over the entire mower. You'll agree that you have never seen anything like it.

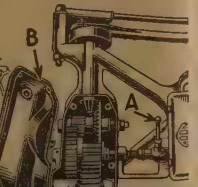
McCormick-Deering
No. 7 Enclosed-Gear Mower

WE are anxious to have all of our friends see the New McCormick-Deering No. 7 Enclosed-Gear Mower. We think it is one of the finest pieces of farm equipment we have ever sold!

Everybody who has seen it says they never had any idea that a mower could be built as this one is.

For example: The entire operating mechanism, including drive gears, differential, and countershafts, is assembled compactly in an oil-tight gear housing and runs in a bath of oil. There are four high-grade roller bearings. Operation is so smooth and noiseless that you can scarcely hear the light hum of the sickle!

Special oil seals at the ends of the main axle and fly-wheel shaft, and the oil-tight gear box prevent leakage and protect all working parts against the entrance of dirt and other abrasive materials. Floating action of cutter bar provides ample play without disturbing knife registration.



This compact nest of enclosed gears runs in a bath of oil—a full gallon. The cover, B, makes the gear case dust-proof and oil-tight. Clutch is thrown in and out by lever, A.

Method Of Controlling Pecan Weevils Given

Auburn, Aa.—The pecan weevil, the cause of wormy pecan nuts, can be controlled by placing picking sheets over the spread of the branches of the tree, then jarrng each limb and then picking up the falling weevils from the sheet and dropping them into kerosene, says H. S. Swingle of the entomology department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

"Each limb should be sharply jarred once or twice either from the ground by the use of a padded pole, or, in cases of high trees, by climbing the tree and jarring each large limb with a padded club," he advises. "Heavy jarring is not necessary or desirable."

Mr. Swingle says that the trees should be jarred once a week from the middle of August to the middle of September.

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Hallsville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'do-less.' My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." . . . If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician.

Cooper Men Hurt In Accident Are Better

Two men injured at Cooper last Friday afternoon, when they were pinned underneath a truckload of lumber, are reported to be improving.

Jack Lattiker suffered a broken back and Clyde C. DeLoach received severe bruises and lacerations. The men were pinned underneath the load of 16 foot green lumber when a log chain broke and let the load slide from the truck.

The accident occurred when the machine stalled near the top of a hill.. DeLoach, Lattiker, and Lane Allen were placing stones underneath the wheels to prevent it from rolling backward. Allen escaped injury.

Lattiker was brought to the Central Alabama Hospital after nearby sawmill workers had removed the lumber off of him. X-Ray pictures showed that he had suffered a broken back.

CITIZENS OF COUNTY URGED TO PUSH COMMUNITY CENTER

Completion Of Airport Would Mean A Fine Place For Entire County, Says Well Known Resident In Letter

Editor, Chilton County News:

Since June 26 I have been confined to the house. During that time I have read the county papers more than I have for a long time. I have thought much about the articles written by different people about county and community development. These articles have appealed to me. I wish to be counted on the side with those always for better communities and a better county. As I write this it just so happens that back in the kitchen one of my little girls is singing "Be A Booster." That should be our motto.

In the papers last week Dr. Gragg sounded to me a sad note when he called attention to the fact we had an opportunity to get $10,000 given to us for a hangar at the airport, but that this opportunity is forever gone. However, he said there is still an opportunity to get considerable aid to develop this part as a community center for the county. We need it and our people need the work.

Look at Jefferson County as an example of the amount of federal money being spent. The government has appropriated a definite amount to be spent, and it is going to be our debt. Then why not get all the benefits from it we are entitled to If we do not spend a dime of it, we will have the same responsibility of paying back that Jefferson or any other county will have. The only difference is, we may fold our hands and get none of the benefits.

This airport should be made the playground of the county. When so done, one person would feel as free as another, though he may be from the remote secton of the county.

While writing this I am thinking of the county picnic that will already have been held when this is in print. Would it not be a fine thing for us if ample provision had already been made and this picnic could be held at the airport? This is Monday. Perhaps tomorrow just in the midst of the program a cloud may come up and spoil the whole affair. If there were a community house at the airport, this would be taken care of. Not only that, but if the airport were developed and made a real community center, the day would be more fully enjoyed by all.

Perhaps there is another thing you may not have thought about. There is not a building in the county large enough to hold the people that attend gatherings held here in Clanton at least a dozen times a year. The reason more such meetings are not held is because we cannot accomodate them.

When Chilton County and Clanton wake up and realize the importance of such get-together meetings and make provision for them, the better off we will be socially, spiritually and financially. Constantly every big city is pulling for conventions of different bodies because they realize their value.

It is a fact we have a good reputation in the State as a county and a town; but unless we keep abreast in progress, other counties of the State will grow off and leave us. We will come to look like the "runt" of the whole State, and we will be. We can't afford not to go forward.

Not long ago I was in Columbiana. Everyone who knows Harry Gordon knows that whatever else you may say about him, he is one of the greatest hustlers and one of the most progressive men of his or any other community. He took me in his car and drove past the Columbiana airport.

Columbiana is away back in the woods of Shelby County. No reflection, because it is out of the woods that our great leaders come. If we are not careful, in spite of our fine location, and our fine farming lands, Columbiana, with all her handicaps, is going to make Chilton County and Clanton look like a "runt." They are doing things up there.

If we will do it, we can have a much finer community center at our airport. What are we going to do about it? We have already let one opportunity go by. Shall we miss another? I do not believe we are, but we must get busy.

I can lie here and name communities in this county that at one time were our leaders. One of these communities set the example for a large educational program for the county. But it came to that place where it was willing to travel on its reputation. Then the rest of the county moved off and left it. It took a long time for that community to realize that a reputation could not carry it on; that with a good reputation there are certain obligations

That community, after it had seen its mistake, waked up and is coming to the front again. I am a bit uneasy sometimes when people out in the State are saying so many good things about us. There is a tremendous responsibility on us. We must build and go forward. We must live up to our reputation.

I would like to see a county fair, or maybe a Central Alabama Fair held here. I do not know of anything that would be worth more to our farmers in the way of helping us to be better farmers. But where could we hold such a fair? If we would develop the airport into a real community center, we would have a place for it; a place where a singing convention could be held and everybody would be able to get in the house and hear the program. A thousand people is a big crowd. This community house could be made to accomodate such a number. Let's do it.

With kindest thoughts for all, and for a bigger and better Chilton County, I am

Sincerely yours,
B. LAWRENCE.

Agricultural Adjustment Act, the Bankhead Cotton Control Act, the processing tax and the amendments now pending in a conference committee in Washington, and

Be it further resolved, that if an amendment to the Constitution of the United States is necessary for this legislation to be continued, we hereby unqualifiedly endorse such an amendment.

Be it further resolved, that we express our appreciation to Senator Bankhead, Senator Black, and other members of the Alabama delegation in Congress for the great service they are rendering agriculture.

Be it further resolved, that we appreciate the great address delivered by Edw. A. O'Neal at this meeting and the great work he is doing as head of our organization, the American Farm Bureau Federation.

The high regard in which these measures are held by the people here and proof that ther support is not just petty politics is indicated by the fact that this resolution was presented by J. N. Dennis, Republican candidate for probate judge of this county in the 1934 primaries and one of the county's most prominent farmers.

GLASS-DAVIS MARRIAGE OF GREAT INTEREST TO MANY

An event of wide-spread interest in Clanton last week was the marriage Saturday of Miss Frances Davis to Virgil Glass. The simple ceremony took place at the home of Mrs. Audelle Miller, chief clerk in the probate office, with Mrs. Miller reading the vows.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Glass are widely known in this section. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Davis and is a graduate of the Chilton County High School. For the past two years she has held a responsible position with the V. J. Elmore Stores Mr. Glass has lived here for several months and is employed by the Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Company.

rector, stated that he is sure that funds will be available for the continuation of the project provided the county officials show a willingness to cooperate to this extent.

County Agent J. W. Fant read a resolution adopted unanimously at the County-wide Picnic last week, urging the Commissioners to take steps to turn the airport into a community center that can be used for farm gatherings—and which will not interfere with it as a flying field.

Both Mr. Fant and Luther E. Little superintendent of education, spoke at length on the possibilities of the movement as it will afford opportunities for further educational activities. The organization of a Central Alabama fair association was advocated, and it was explained that all county-wide farm meetings could be held at this center. Too, it can be used for large singings for which this county is noted.

A measurement of the natural water supply that is available showed that 25 gallons per minute is the minimum to be expected during any season.

Others in the delegation were W. M. Wyatt, editor of the Union-Banner Mayor C. Fenn Jones, and J. B. Atkinson, Clanton attorney.

Special Session Legislature To Meet In Jan.

Governor Bibb Graves bore down for his "human welfare program" in a vigorous speech to the Legislature today in which he declared he would call a special session early next January for submission of a sales tax coupled with a homestead exemption to the voters of Alabama.

Appearing before a joint session of the lawmakers, the chief executive pleaded for speedy enactment of bills to carry out his campaign pledges on poll tax reform, recall of public officials, regulation of industrial commissaries, ratification of the Federal Child Labor Amendment, liberalization of workmen compensation laws, and creation of state departments of labor and public welfare.

The governor omitted any reference to the prohibition question.

In urging enactment of referendum and recall legislation, Governor Graves recommended that petitions for referenda be not permitted on measures which have been the law for 90 days.

Wants Majority Rule

"This limitation," he declared, "will give ample time for the people to protect themselves and wil at the same time prevent the resurrection of old issues."

"I suggest a majority petition be required. I also recommend that an amendment be submitted providing for recall of all elective officers, including probate judges, save circuit an dappellate judicial officers, upon a simiar petition."

Urging adoption of his poll tax amendment reform measure, Governor Graves said: "I recommend that you adopt this amendment to our constitution. This will reileve those of limited means who have gotten so far behind as to make it impractical for them to return themselves to the voting lists and by limiting operation of the amendment to those who have heretofore registered, it will close the door against possible upset of our franchise provisions." Payment of three years' poll tax would reinstate voters to rolls.

RELIEF OFFICES OF COUNTY ARE DISCONTINUED

Officers Are Transferred To Other Places With More Territory

All relief agencies have been withdrawn in Chilton County, and several of the officials who have been in charge of activities here have been transferred to other sections of the state.

August 15th marked the official end of relief activities here, and it is understood that in the future there will not likely be any other than works programs. Work was resumed this week on the drainage project here draining the swamplands surrounding Clanton. Forty-three men have been assigned to this job, which is now classed as a malaria-control project and is under the supervision of the State Health Department.

Miss Kittye Clyde Austin, former head of relief in this county, has been transferred to a position as supervisor over ten Central-Alabama counties; Floyd Smith, works director, left Wednesday morning for Jasper where he will be connected with the Walker County office, and Florice H. Harris, disbursement officer, has been transferred to Athens, Ala.

Several WPA projects are expected to get underway here within the next few weeks. Thirty-eight workmen have been assigned to the airport and the program, it is understood, calls for the completion of the old project during this year. It is not known yet whether the dream of converting the airport into a community center will be realized.

The State Health Department will have supervision over the drainage work here, it has been announced, and C. C. Whte, staff engineer, will arrive here this week to assist in the york.

TOURNAMENT OF BASEBALL UNDERWAY

Fourteen Hard - Fought Games Have Already Been Played

Baseball fans in this section are being served a menu, a la carte, dishing their favorite sport in myriad styles, course, and concoctions. For ten days they have feasted—the Central Alabama Tournament of Amateur Baseball Clubs is in progress, and such progress as is progressing!

Fourteen hard-fought games have been staged, and the list of teams in the contest is gradually narrowing down. The winners of the tournament in both brackets should be known by the end of this week.

Eight clubs remain in. In the first bracket, Clanton, Randolph, Independence, and Plantersville are still vying for the championship; in the second bracket, Cane Creek, American Legion, Union Grove, and Lay Dam have withstood the eliminations. Two straight losses eliminate a club. Autaugaville Maplesville, Billingsey, and Isabella have succumbed to date.

The tournament got underway Monday, August 12, with Autaugaville and Randolph matched in the first bracket, and Cane Creek and Isabella in the second. Randolph and Isabella were losers. Tuesday, Plantersville took Maplesville for a ride, and the second-bracket winner was Union Grove who spanked the Lay Dam nine. Clanton and the American Legion clubs dished the ointment to Independence and Billingsley in Wedesday's games.

Thursday, Autaugaville bowed to Plantersville and Union Grove proved too strong for Cane Creek in the second line-up. Randolph put the pressure on Maplesville Friday, and the Maplesville boys took their bats and went home; rain prevented the second-bracket game. Clanton and Union Grove won the ribbons in Saturday's matches, when Plantersville and the American Legion bowed their heads in

Browder Remind Autoists Of Parking Law

Officer John Browder asked the News to remind the automobile drivers again that the parking limit on the paved highway, between Dief's and the Clanton Motors, is one hour.

Mr. Browder declared that he hates to give anyone a ticket for violation of this ordinance, but the Council has made it a city law and it is his duty to see that it is enforced, he said. "I want to ask the people again to cooperate with me in observance of this ordinance," he urged.

Court House Being Dressed Up On Inside

Chilton County's court house is being given a complete interior cleaning and painting. Work was begun Tuesday morning on mending broken places in the plaster and dressing up the interior of the building with a new coat of paint.

Judge Smith has also asked for bids on both materials and labor for the erection of a three-room addition to the Potts Building, which houses the offices of the county agent the superintendent of education, and the health unit.

These rooms are to be a temporary method of caring for the housing problems, Judge Smith explained. The county is not in position just now, he said, to erect desirable permanent quarters and the money that is now being paid for rents will care for the building costs of these additional rooms.

CHILTON HIGH P.-T.A. CALLS FOR SPECIAL MEET

Held Monday And Plans Are Made For Extensive Membership Drive

A special meeting of the executive board of the Chilton County High School Parent-Teachers Association was held Monday afternoon at the home of L. C. Warr, principal of the school, with Mrs. Hugh Jones, chairman of the board, presiding.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss plans for an extensive membership drive, and to formulate plans for the coming school year. A tenative program for this year's activities was presented by Mrs. S. J. Ezell, program chairman, who stressed the possibilities of accomplishment in this work.

There will be eight night and two afternoon meetings in which both the mothers and fathers will participate; one of these will be a Founder's Day Program. A reception is being planned for the teachers the opening week of school. Mrs. Grady Reynolds will be chairman of this reception program.

Mrs. Kin Vinson will be in charge of the membership drive. She declared that it is her hope to have every father and mother become members. Mrs. W M. Wyatt was appointed publicity chairman, and Mrs. Sophia Jones and Mrs. Grady Reynolds were named on the hospitality committee.

Legislators Add To Enrollment In Public Schools

If the average man on the street was asked to give a brief summary of the activities of the Alabama Legislature during recent months, no doubt his answer would be "raised taxes."

But according to Luther E. Little, superintendent of education, the legislature has been responsible for increasing the enrollment of Chilton County schools by 100 to 120 pupils.

With the passage of an Act permitting children who become six years of age before October 1 to enter school during that year, at least 100, and perhaps 150, will matriculate in the Chilton County schools this fall who would otherwise have had to wait until next year to begin their education, Mr. Little stated. Heretofore, a child must have been six by July 1 in order to enter school the following term.

Young Democrats Of Isabella Hold Meet

Members of the Isabella Club of the Alabama State League of Young Democrats met Tuesday night for a business meeting and a social gathering.

With approximately sixty present. Wallace Cox, chairman of the club, opened the meeting to elect two committeemen, two committeewomen and a secretary-treasurer for the Club. Considerable interest was manifested in these selections, which will be announced later.

Following short talks by Mr. Cox and Billy Smith, president of the County Unit, several new members were presented with membership cards.

Immediately after the business meeting, the crowd gathered a short distance from the schoolhouse to enjoy a real weiner roast and marshmallow toasting. Seated around a huge bonfire, weiners were soon changed into delicious sandwiches with toasted marshmallows to top the menu.

Later, the Isabella Racketeers, one of Chilton's well known group of music-makers, struck up familiar tunes and until a late hour the sixty odd present took part in a most enjoyable dance

Other Clubs in the county will hold similar gatherings in the near future for a social get-together and the completion of the election of committees and officers.

The News Will Pay Tribute To Those Who Toil In Its Next Issue, August 29th

According to plans now underway the Chilton County News will exert its every effort in the next issue, under date of August 29th, in paying a tribute to the men who labor. The entire issue will emphasize the important part which labor of every kind plays in our nation, county and community.

Labor Day this year falls on Monday, September 2nd, and is a legal holiday set aside particularly as a day to honor the man behind the plow and those who keep the wheels of industry turning.

To quote Billy Smith, publisher of the News: "At no other season, or upon no other holiday could the people of any nation pay a more worthy tribute than upon a day set aside in honor of the man who toils. It makes no difference whether he toils as one cog in the giant wheels of industry or as a lone farmer in an isolated section, he still is the man behind all progress. His is the job of furnishing the necessities of life, and his work makes possible all the other developments of a higher civilization.

"I consider it a privilege to honor him in the columns of the News. I sincerely hope that all of our readers will stop for a moment upon this occasion and out of a feeling of appreciation pay a tribute to the man who labors."

Merchants and business men who advertise in the News next week will be invited to cooperate in carrying out this idea. Editorially and throughout the columns of the News will be carried material designed to express appreciation and honor to those who toil in Chilton County and throughout the nation.

Music To Be Offered In Curriculum At C.C.H.S

The music department at the Chilton County High School will be reorganized this year, for the first time in several years, according to an announcement this week by L. C. Warr, principal of the school. "It is with a great deal of satisfaction that we announce this addition to our curriculum this year," Mr. Warr stated, declaring that it is indication that times are improved.

Mrs. W. L. Longshore, of Birmingham, has been secured as music instructor. She will offer courses in piano, voice, and violin culture. Mrs. Longshore is well known to the people of this section and the faculty feels that those students who are interested in music will appreciate the opportunity to study under her supervision. Many students have already signed up for courses and others interested are urged to get in communitcation with Mrs. Longshore before the opening of school if at all possible.

WORK FOR 197 PERSONS FROM RELIEF HERE

98 Men And 99 Women Included In Work Projects Here

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 21—With jobs approved and released for more than half of the 51,817 able-boded persons on relief rolls in May, Thad Holt, Alabama director of the Works Progress Administration, today was hopeful that Alabama would be the first State to exhibit the "No Federal Reilef" sign.

In Chilton County, where the May relief load totaled 260 men and women, projects had been released on August 10th to provide jobs for 98 men. Release of a project means that work will be provided as rapidly as materials are placed on the site or upon the completion of preceding projects. Projects are now being devised for the 99 women on May relief rolls in the county, Mr. Holt said, but the problem of providing needed and economically sound projects for women is necessarily more complex than the task of providing projects for men.

Meanwhile relief officers in 34 counties have been closed and the files

Returns Show Heavy Democratic Gains In Old GOP Strongholds of Calif. And Pennsylvania

First returns of registration figures reported from the former Republican strongholds of Pennsylvania and California show Democratic strength increasing in all sections of both the states.

In every one of the Pennsylvania counties where enrollment was completed Democratic sentiment was stronger than last November. In Cambria county, in the Southwest, there were 31,831 enrolled Republicans last year and 24,142 Democrats. This year's figures show the Democrats have 29,360 and the Republicans 28,565, a Democratic gain of 5,118 and a Republican loss of 3,266.

The changes in 1935 Pennsylvania registrations as compared with last year, all favorable to the Democrats, were as follows in the first counties reported:

Montgomery County, Democratic gain of 8,222 and Republican loss of 4,742. Erie County, in the Northwest, Democratic gain of 2,624 and Republican loss of 2,009. Bradford County, in the Northern tier, traditionally rock-ribbed Republican, remains Republican but 688 more registered as Democrats and 268 less as Republicans.

In Clinton County, situated in the heart of Pennsylvania, this year's registration has cut down what was a registration majority of the Republicans in 1930 of 4,504 to 1,032. Mercer County, on the western border, showed Republicans weaker by comparison with Democrats than last year and Berks County reported substantial gains for the Democrats, the figures being Democrats, 40,719; Republicans, 24,172.

Registration figures in the heretofore staunch Republican stronghold of San Francisco to August 1st were Democrats, 127,929; Republicans 116,166.

"The trend is still away from the Republican party," announced Registrar of Voters Charles J. Collins. "While we are not permitted by law to ask questions, in the lull between registration drives we have time to listen to voters who express themselves. And what they mostly say is that 'The President is trying to do the right thing and we are sticking by him.' "

Reports from Los Angeles were that the percentage of Democratic registration gains are higher than in San Francisco.

Long Beach was also Republican prior to 1932. The Press Telegram of that Southern California city reports total registration to August 3 was 77,720 as compared with 67,077 last December, 1934, there were 40,849 on August 3. The increase in Republican strength was from 29,566 to 32,666, a net Democratic gain in seven months of 3,652.

Local Bills Create Considerable Interest

Opinions For And Against Proposed Local Legislation Are Expressed; Agreement May Be Reached Soon

If a compromise that is being attempted here materializes, there is little doubt that the two local bills, pending before the State Legislature, which provide for the employment of a road supervisor for Chilton County and the allocating of a cent and a half of the county's three-cent gas tax to the State Highway Department for the hard-surfacing of the Clanton-Selma Highway to the Chilton-Dallas line, will be withdrawn.

Since the advertisement of the two bills were begun three weeks ago, considerable discussion and dissatisfaction has arisen over the county regarding their advisability. Probate Judge J. Lee Smith, who returned a few days after the first insertion of the advertisement from Mayo Clinic where he had undergone an operation, has been bitterly opposed to the bill providing for the employment of a road supervisor.

Last Saturday night several business men in the county met and a committee was selected to meet with Representative Cox and Senator Earle Thomas to try to effect a compromise

The committee, composed of Grady Reynolds, J. B. Atkinson, Grover C. Walker, and Judge Smith, met Monday morning with Senator Thomas Representative Cox, and members of the Commissioners Court and it is believed that a satisfactory compromise has been reached which will result in the withdrawal of the two bills, according to statements from both Judge Smith and Mr. Cox.

Senator Thomas made a motion that if the county will enter into an agreement with the State Highway Department wth reference to the hard-surfacng of the Selma road under any conditions that may be feasible that the local bill for this purpose will be withdrawn.

It was also agreed that this committee recommend to the Commissioners Court of Chilton County that acompetent and capable road supervisor be employed for a term of one year, and the local bill providing for the employment of such official will be withdrawn that Senator Thomas and Representative Cox may sponsor a local bill placing the commissioners on a salary, this bill to be submitted at the special session of the legislature in January, 1936, and the salaries to be agreed upon by Mr. Cox and Mr. Thomas and members of the court. This bill is to be introduced with the understanding that the Commissioners Court continue to employ a road supervisor, it is understood.

A special meeting of the Commissioners Court will be held this week, and the recommendations of the committee will be submitted.

AUTO LICENSE TIME REDUCED BY 3 WEEKS

Passenger Car Tags Get Reduction; Deadline October 25

Montgomery.—Alabama's new auto tag law which becomes effective the first of October will by three weeks shorten the time limit autoists have in which to purchase tags before becoming delinquent. The deadline has been advances from Nov. 14 to Oct. 25.

While little or no change has been made in the price of truck tags, passenger cars have been substantially reduced to a range of from $5 to $18 whereas, under the old law, prices were from $11.75 to $30.50. Due to a radical change in classifications very few cars will be eligible for an A tag.

Prices Are Listed

Schedule of weights and prices follows: Cars weighing 2,000 pounds or less $5, 2,000 to 2,500 pounds, $9; 2,500 to 3,250 pounds, $13; in excess of 3,250 pounds, $18. The old schedule was: Cars weighing 2,500 pounds or less $11.25; 3,000 to 3,500 pounds, $19.75; 3,500 to 4,000 pounds, $26.75; and in excess of 4,000 pounds $30.50.

A 50 cents issuing fee to be collected by the probate office will be added to these rates.

After October 1 tags will be sold on a monthly declining basis instead of the present quarterly plan, with a minimum price of $2. Owners must have the model, motor number and serial number when applying for a tag. The tags now are being printed at Kilby prison, it is understood, and will be ready for distribution to the 67 probate offices this month.

Miss Hogan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Hogan, and will be a senior at Chilton County High School this year. She is blond with brown eyes.

Selected for second place was Miss Theda Wyatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wyatt, and third place, Miss Maralyn Hardy, daughter of Sheriff J. R. Hardy.

The identity of the out-of-county judges who made the selection was not revealed.

VERBENA HONORS WILL ROGERS

To show respect, love and appreciation of Will Rogers, whose life brought so much joy to the world, Verbena citizens will pause for a moment with bowed and uncovered heads during the lowering of his body into its last resting place. We hope Chilton County residents and all of the entire Nation will do likewise and thus honor such a worthy man who can never be replaced. The world owes this expression of respect to Mr. Rogers.

Verbena people have also decided to start a cash contribution toward building in Arlington Cemetery a shaft or some suitable monument to perpetuate the memory of Mr. Rogers. We hope this movement will spread over our country and that at an early date a lasting memorial will be lifted in Arlington to show that our people appreciate a real great man. Mr. Jim Hurt of Verbena, was the first person to contribute toward this monument.

FARMERS URGED TO PLANT MORE COVER CROPS

County Agent Fant Tells Of Planting Peas And Vetch

County Agent J. W. Fant is urging farmers that it is time to make preparations for the planting of cover crops, and although the people in this section have begun to recognize the value of fall and winter crops, there is still many who lack appreciation of this phase of farming, he declared.

"The time is approaching for the planting of winter cover crops. It is unnecessary to tell you about what vetch and Austrian peas will do for the productivity of your land, but I want to call your attention to two things that cover crops will do for your farm: (1) Prevent soil erosion and (2) Make better crops," Mr. Fant declared in a statement sent out recently to most farmers in this county.

The first of these is perhaps the most important. Down through the ages the fertility of this country has found its way into the rivers and on into the ocean. The following figures are cited by the county agent in his argument for cover crops:

Lands with a 5 per cent grade lose only an average of two tons of soil per year when vetch is planted; without vetch erosion takes a toll of 12 tons; 10 per cent slope, three tons with cover crop and 38 tons without cover crop; 15 per cent slope, seven tons of soil when protected and 63 tons when not protected; 20 per cent slope, ten tons with cover crops and 86 tons without.

These figures demonstrate the wisdom of using cover crops when only erosion is considered, he declared. They show that average land washes about ten times more when no cover crop is used.

The following table is cited on production:

Check plot—no fertilizer, 7½ bu. corn per acre; 425 lbs. seed cotton.

5 tons manure per acre—38 bu. corn per acre; 1700 lbs. seed cotton.

Community Center At Airport

Elsewhere in this issue will be found a letter from Dr. V. J. Gragg, discussing at length the suggested program for converting the airport grounds, near Clanton, into a county playground.

No wiser suggestion could be made in regard to this property, in our opinion. Much money is invested in it already, and Dr. Gragg is indeed right in his contention that it should be made to serve more people.

As a community center, where our farmers could congregate for their annual county-wide picnic and other similar gatherings it would be ideal. The suggestion of a large club house, seating capacity of which would be around a thousand, is very timely. There is not a building in Chilton County that will accomodate the crowds that attend meetings of county-wide interest.

Political speakings, all-day singings, farm meetings, and many other conventions demand such a building. No better way could be devised to bring our people into closer harmony. There are many other phases of the program in addition to the community house that could be mentioned, including a swimming pool, athletic playgrounds, and other desirable features. But the most important issue is that of providing a place for our farmers to meet.

As we understand it the amount which the commissioners are being asked to put up at this time is small. Expense of developing the project can all be manipulated from federal funds, it has been shown, if the county will show its willingness to cooperate by securing a few acres more land, which within itself is not a bad investment. It can always be sold for as much more than the price that it is being asked for it now.

Better Business On The Farm

"So long as farming is unorganized," said Sir Horace Plunkett, British agricultural authority, recently, 'the greater majority of farmers will have to buy all they require for their industry at retail prices, and sell what they produce at wholesale pricess.

"It is a ludicrous sisuation, that unorganized farmers have to deal with the most highly organized business. The only solution for the farmer lies in 'better business'."

Statistics show that the agricultural cooperative movement is rapidly growing in almost every civilized nation—Sweden, England, Ireland, the United States, etc. It is a tribute to American initiative that its highest development has been reached by farm groups in this country.

Organized farming means eventual prosperous farming. Unorganized farming means the indefinite continuance of agricultural depression.

Definition Of The "New Deal"

(By Sen. Edward R. Burke, of Nebraska)

The "new deal" is an old deal—as old as the earliest aspirations of humanity for liberty and justice and good life. It is old as Christian ethics, for basically its ethics are the same. It is new as the Declaration of Independence was new, and the Constitution of the United States.

Its motives are the same; it voices the deathless cry of good men and women for the opportunity to live and work in freedom, the right to be secure in their homes and in the fruits of their labor, the power to protect themselves against the ruthless and the cunning.

It recognizes that man is indeed his brother's keeper, insists that the laborer is worthy of his hire, demands that justice shall rule the mighty as well as the weak.

It seeks to cement our society—rich and poor, manual workers and brain workers—into a voluntary brotherhood of free men, standing together, striving together, for the common good of all.

"I Felt That I Knew Him"

So far as we know, Will Rogers never visited Clanton or Chilton County in person. Yet when news of his death came, there was a unanimous expression which said, "I feel as though I had known him personally." It's a long way from Chilton County to the upper corner of Alaska, but in the realm of friendship the two places drew near as the radio and newspapers brought the story that Will Rogers and Wiley Post were no more. Post was well known and admired. Regret at his passing was sincere. But no other man we know had so strong a hold upon the affections of people as Will Rogers.

Statesmen ride to high pinnacles of glory upon tidal waves of political issues, but the tide recedes and all too often they become just another name in a dry history book. Inventors, writers, artists, give us useful things, inspiring books, beautiful pictures, but the man becomes secondary in comparison with his creation.

Will Rogers brought to the world a smile, a good humored smile that made you feel things weren't so bad after all, and untold millions mourn his passing. Others gave us newspapers, radio, and the silver screen—Will Rogers used them to cheer millions sadly in need of cheer. In a press filled with theories of many isms he found it unnecessary to attempt reform, on the air, overladen with the blare of jazz and crooning, he merely talked—never orated, and we suspect that Will Rogers was dialed off fewer receiving sets than any person who ever stood before a mike. On a screen filled to overflowing with beautiful faces and perfect figures, he brought a homely face in a simple story, and the world came to see, and smile and leave with a lighter heart.

We may acclaim others as greater men than Will Rogers, other men may be recognized as wiser than he, our heroes may appeal more effectively to our instinct of conquest. We doubt if Will Rogers would even be concerned about these things. Rather, he would calmly walk into a shanty in Old Shanty-Town or a mansion in the capitals of the world and with equal ease capture the everlasting affection of king or day laborer.

Sometimes we feel like condemning our fellow man, but we feel a greater pride after knowing that we belong to a clan which takes a character like Will Rogers to its heart.

How Quick Can You Stop?

Some time ago a questionnaire was submitted to motorists by the city of Memphis concerning the distance necessary for stopping cars going at given speeds. The survey demonstrated that the average driver has an exceedingly poor conception of stopping distances and that he believes he can bring his car to a halt in a much shorter space than is actually required.

For example, drivers were asked how many feet would be needed to stop a car with four-wheel brakes moving at a speed of 40 miles per hour on an ordinary highway. Two per cent of the drivers answered ten feet or less; 15.9 per cent answered 11 to 20 feet; the heaviest majority, 23.2 per cent, answered 21 to 30 feet, and 14.1 per cent answered 51 to 60 feet.

The true answer is 80 feet—and it was given by less than 6 per cent of the drivers. Only a minority of motorists realize that. no matter how good a car's brakes, it is impossible to stop within fifty feet—that a car going 40 miles an hour will skid farther than that with locked wheels.

Memphis has provided a good example showing that we vitally need continuous and intensfied "schooling" for drivers—and that the driver who has operated a car for twenty years should be given attention, as well as the beginner.

Adequate knowledge of the limitations and capabilities of the motor car is a fundamental of accident prevention.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

I went with the farmer out to his barn and witnessed the feeding of his cattle. He took a large basket and filled it with the shucks from his corn and carried them into the stalls of his two milk cows. When each cow had her supply she seemed to be well fed. There were many shucks but not an ear of corn. Then the farmer picked up his milk bucket and began to milk After much pulling, pushing and battering around, he stood erect and uttered his indignation at his cows for going dry. He said that he was feeding them well but they were giving him nothing. I ventured to remark, "When a man feeds his cows shucks, he need not expect much milk." I hear preachers talking much about the "stinginess" of folks, and sometimes wonder if they are not being fed "shucks" and not the bread of life. I wonder if it is not often true that many churches fail to be liberal for the reason that they are poorly fed.

I was sent as pastor in a community in which lived a good woman. Four years before my coming into that town this woman was taken ill and was never able to be out of bed after that. This woman said that during the four years of her sickness that no one had ever read to her out of God's word. Visitors would come and read the papers to her, read letters to her and sometimes they would read short stories but no one ever came and read to her out of the Book of Books. When you are sitting at home wondering if there is anything that you can do to help someone, do you ever think of that invalid near your door to whom you can go and to whom you can read God's word? It is not the doing of great things that will bring the reward, but it is the giving of a cup of cold water to one who is thirsty and in need. What a reflection on the Christian loyalty of any community to have in it an invalid and no one to read the Bible to that one in four years. Show your love for Christ by doing something for Him.

While standing on the street corner waiting for a car that was to pick me up, I spent the time watching the passing throngs. I observed that two aged ladies were approaching each other on the sidewalk. I wondered if they would bump into each other. Just then each one stepped out of the other's path and they passed without collision or accident. There was intelligence and no need for an accident. Many a time have I watched the stars and wondered if there would be a collision. Planets and suns move through space and sometimes I wonder if there will be a collision. Not so, for there is intelligence and order back of all movements in the universe. "Behind the dim unknown standeth God within the shadows, keeping watch over His own!"

And it came to pass that a certain husband carried his bride into a home where the floors had no polish. The bride suggested that the floors could be changed wonderfully if the husband would go down upon his knees and with a paint brush in hand, spread the floor varnish on the floor in all the rooms. After much knee work all the floors in all the rooms took on a gloss and a beauty that was a joy to bride and groom. That leads me to say that men and women can change the appearance of life and the complexion of any community, when they go down upon their knees and expend their strength and energy in spreading holy living everywhere. Verily I say unto you, knee work is a fine varnish for any life.

I heard a lady complaining because of a sleepless night. She informed me that her bed room was on the wrong side of the house to get the breeze and that was responsible for her sweltering experience. My inquiry was, "Why do you not move your bed to the place where the breezes blow?" We bring much of the suffering of life upon us and all because we do not use what little common sense we have in adjusting ourselves to existing conditions. God has provided breezes for us; He has given us a world that is full of sunshine; He has filled all of his universe with himself and if we will learn the art of adjusting ourselves to his provisions this life can be made happy. Move over to the breezes for they are blowing.

DR. GRAGG URGES ACTION ON COMMUNITY CENTER

Visions Place Of Recreation For All Citizens Of Chilton County

Mr. Editor:

I sometimes wish I could refrain from dreaming or allowing my imagination to carry me so far afield in speculation regarding the good things we miss. I came from "away back on the farm," and I am proud of it, and always will be. I still love the farm and its people. They are the best people in the world; and yet they are the worst enemy to themselves.

The rich bondholder has no tax to pay on his government securities. The rich manufacturer or tradesman (and even the gangster) usually finds some way to evade taxes. But the poor country farmer gets caught in the tax mill every time—and it grinds rapidly and mercilessly on. We face an era when the tax mill will grind harder than ever before. In fact, the screws have already been tightened considerably. Everything you wear and nearly everything you eat (if you have to buy it) comes through the exacting toll of the tax mill.

Listen to my prophecy: You will be paying both a federal and state sales tax within a few months. You are now paying more tax on gasoline than the gasoline itself costs. My recollection is that it was around $11,000,000 in this state last year. Just think of the tax on as little a thing as tobacco was $425,000,000 last year.

We are being literally ground up in the tax mill. Yet we are too simple-minded and child-like to accept any of the benefits when they are offered to us. It reminds me of a bashful child standing back in a corner and letting the others rush forward and take all the fruits, cakes and goodies, while he merely looks bashfully on.

Here we are in Chilton County, pure-blooded white farmers of the very best type to be found anywhere. Yet we stand back and let the people of other counties and other states (many of them negroes and foreigners) rush in and take our share of the nearly five billion dollars that will soon be gone. Then it will be too late to complain that we did not get our share.

Someone has said, "Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these —it might have been." But I think the words "Too late," are equally as sad.

I have had in my mind a vison of a large community house for Chilton County, fitted with portable seats of a capacity to seat more than 1,000. and to shelter more than 2,000. I visioned it with an arbor of kudzu vine or other growth to cover a seating space for another 2,500 or 3,000 in a cool shade in front of this building, so that an audience of 4,000 to 6,000 could be comfortably entertained.

I visioned this for all classes of our people, but more especially for the farmers of the entire county. In addition to this I visioned a county fair ground where our farmers of this county and several adjoining counties, perhaps, could have an annual fair. How would it sound to have a "Central Alabama Fair" at Clanton every year for one week in the fall

I had visioned an athletic field where your boys and girls could have nice respectable ball games and such other sports here at home, and not have reason or excuse to go so far away.

Certainly Clanton is the place for such a county-wide community center. It is the county seat, and almost in the geographic center of the county. Besides, I am told on good authority that Beat 4 is the home of about 25 per cent of all the farmers in Chilton County.

I think the airport is the logical site for such a community center for Chilton County people. It is about the proper distance from town. It has an adequate water supply for piping to all parts of the grounds to supply both man and animals. The airport land is already paid for, and all funds necessary have been allotted to finish it. So, outside of extending the end of a runway, none of the money would be applied to airport activities; but all would be applied to a community center for the benefit of the entire county, and especially the farmers.

This project would come under the WPA, and would require very little participaton locally. The federal government would probably stand more than 90 cents in every dollar that is spent. There are people who need the work. Chilton County people need the money that would be paid out, and our farmers and others need the community center. I have spent many hours, made some long trips, written several letters, and paid for telephone charges to get this for you. Mr. Fant, your County Agent, is doing all he can. But you need to help him by letting your County Commissioners know what you want.

You know the governor on an engine is very necessary to conserve its power and make the engine do good work. But if the whole machine were a governor, the engine would be worth only the scrap iron in it.

If your cause is not already lost, and you don't want to lose this money and let some other place get it, you had better act now before it is too late.

It will be used somewhere, and you will pay your share of the future taxes necessary to replace it, regardless of who is benefitted or where it went.

V. J. GRAGG.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Mr. Editor:

Would like to have just a small space in your paper this week. First I want to say we had a good spiritual meeting and a good revival and the Rev. Grady Williams was our helper. He did some wonderful preaching. Everybody voted on him coming back another year to help in our revival service.

Our Sunday school and B.Y.P.U. are getting along nicely, but there is still room for improvement. We would like to have all the young people and the old people to come out and take a part with us in our Sunday school and our church work. The deacons of Poplar Springs Church have been asked to announce in the paper that on our regular meeting day on Saturday, August 24th is the day set apart for the church to call the pastor for another year. We would like to see every member of Poplar Springs Church meet with us on that day. Please come and be with us. We need your help.

We need your help in our church work and we need your help in our Sunday school but that is not all. We need your help in financing our pastor. You know that brother Lowery has been faithful to us and now let us show a willing mind and do our part. Let us put our shoulders to the wheel and do a little and it won't hurt no one. Let us come and work together for the up-building of God's Kingdom.

—A subscriber and a deacon of Poplar Springs Church.

Jardine Declares AAA "Absolutely Necessary

An Associated Press dispatch from Denver quotes William M. Jardine, Republican leader and former Secretary of Agriculture, and American Minister to Egypt, as declaring that he "fears agricultural conditions will be chaotic if the Supreme Court were to invalidate the AAA."

"Sudden abandonment of the AAA would be disastrous to farmers," the late President Coolidge's close friend and adviser announced in a public statement.

"I know farmers. In fact, I am somewhat of a farmer myself. And I would say that 90 per cent of them are strongly in favor of the AAA.

"I don't believe the act is entirely sound. But some such measure was absolutely necessary. And it is too late to go back to conditions before the AAA. We must hold on to the proggress that has been made."

CHRYSLER RETAIL DELIVERIES NOW EXCEED TOTAL OF YEAR '34

As of July 27, more Chrysler cars had been reported delivered at retail this year than in the entire year of 1934, according to Joseph W. Frazer, vice-president of the Chrysler Sales Division, of the Chrysler Corporation. This date marked the end of a 30 weeks period in which Chrysler dealers reported 27,383 retail Chrysler deliveries. This figure not only tops the entire report for last year but for the years of 1933 and 1932 as well.

Plymouth deliveries by Chrysler dealers in this period of 30 weeks totaled 96,505 units. This is a gain of 31.3 per cent over the corresponding period of 1934 it exceeds by 2.4 per cent the delivereies for the entire year of 1933 and is two and a half times the number of deliveries reported in the entire year of 1932.

In the week ending July 27, Chrysler dealers delivered at retail a total of 3421 Plymouths and 909 Chryslers, a grand total of 4330 units. This is .3 per cent higher than the total of the combned lines for the preceding week, when 4319 units were delivered. Against the corresponding week of 1934 there was a gan of 17.6 per cent for Plymouth, of 31 per cent for Chrysler, and of 20.2 per cent for the combined lines.

The gain over the corresponding week of 1933 was 30.3 per cent for Plymouth, 6.1 per cent for Chrysler and 24.4 per cent for the combined lines. Going back to 1932 the record shows an increase of 279.3 per cent for Plymouth, 131.3 per cent for Chrysler and 234.4 per cent for the combined.

The total number of units reported delivered at retail by Chrysler dealers to July, inclusive, is 123,888, of which 96,505 were Plymouths and 27,383 were Chryslers. The Plymouth figures represent deliveries by Chrysler dealers only and are in addition to the fine business reported by the Dodge and De Soto dealer bodies.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Thedford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Thedford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

Miss Kelley Weds Mr. Grant Last Sunday

A wedding that is of wide interest in this section took place last Sunday morning, when Miss Delilah Kelley became the bride of Osmond Grant at a simple, yet impressive ceremony which was performed at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Aaron Dennis, South Clanton.

The bride's grandfather, the Rev. J. S. Kelley, performed the ceremony in the presence of a few friends and close relatives of the couple.

The living and dining rooms of the attractive home of Mrs. Dennis, were tastefully decorated in fern, California asters, tube roses tinted in blue and pink, and coral vine, forming a beautiful background for the arch where the nuptials were read.

The charming bride was attractive in navy blue travelers crepe with satin trimmed accessories to match. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kelley, and a member of a widely known family of Chilton and Coosa counties. She is a graduate of the Chilton county high school, the Alverson Business College and a member of the Clanton Pilot Club, holding a responsible position with the Peoples Savings Bank of Clanton.

Mr. Grant, one of Clanton's promising young business men, is a graduate of the Chilton county high school and holds a responsible position with one of Clanton's outstanding mercantile establishments.

Immediately after the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Grant left for a short wedding trip to Chattanooga and other points of interest. After their return they will be at home in Clanton. The News joins the countless friends of this couple in wishing them much happiness.

WESLEY FELLOWSHIP CLASS WILL HAVE SOCIAL AUG. 28

TO WILL ROGERS

By S. L. Gibson, Verbena, Ala.

After reading one of Will Rogers' wise and witty items about four weeks ago, the following idea of appreciation of him came to me and I wrote and sent the verses to him at Beverly Hills.

It seems strange that this notion occurred to me so short a time before his sad death. I received a letter of appreciation from Mr. Rogers' secretary August 10, saying he had filed my verses for Mr. Rogers until his return from the Northern trip with Post.

It is a terrible blow to the world that Will Rogers will return from his trip with happy voice stilled—with kindly eyes closed to us forever and with versatile mind inactive.

Had I the means I'd find a hill
  Whose summit reached the blue,
And build thereon of solid rock
  A monument to you
Whose wisdom true and humor rare
  Have blest a struggling race,
Whose wholesome wit so full of grit
  Is lined in your kindly face;
They've builded shafts to generals
  Whose chief aims were to kill
Men who knew not why they fought
  Nor bore no man ill will;
I wish that this great Nation
  Would means enough employ
To build a memory high and strong
  To you who brings us joy;
But even tho' they never raise
  A stone to honor you,
You've made a mark in our hearts
  Which ever will be new;
Now may the great director
  Of all life's mystery plays
Stand guard by you and keep you
  Thro' all earth's fleeting days,
And may your fertile mind and heart
  Continue dealing cheer,
And may your choice of happiness
  Be yours while you are here;
And when you've thrown your last rope
  And flown your finish mile,
May the Big Chief say "Come Higher Will,"
  You made My people smile.

Maynards Chapel

We had a nice crowd here Sunday and Sunday night. We would have had more but the weather was unfavorable.

Brother Robinson preached a splendid sermon Sunday night on "Talking After We Did." We had one addition to our church, Mrs. Flucher Blackmon who comes to our church by experience and baptism.

There was a mistake last week about when our revival would begin. Brother Hodgens got his dates mixed up so there will be no mistake in this. The revival will begin the fourth Sunday—next Sunday. Everyone come and bring whoever you can. We want this to be a time when many souls will be won to Christ. Repent and believe on our Lord Jesus Christ. That is all very easy. We have some young people who ought to join our church. We are very much in prayer for those who are out in darkness.

Everybody has a cordial invitation to attend.

The Rev. Robinson was dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shelby Sunday.

Miss Annie Ruth Brown is visiting her sister in Birmingham for a week.

Mrs. Bernice Streigth and Mrs. Ethridge Williams spent Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Charlie Barrett.

Miss Marie Barrett spent Thursday night with Mrs. Flossie Gulledge.

Miss Marzell Huett is spending a few days with her grandmother Huett below Clanton.

Mr. Roy and Troy Horton are at home after a weeks visit in Birmingham

Mr. and Mrs. David Robinson of Birmingham were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Robinson.

We are glad to know that Miss Mamie Robinson was able to be out at church Sunday night after being sick with poison on her face and body.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Barrett had as their guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Earl Barrett of Pleasant Grove route seven.

Miss Marie and Jewell Barrett, Mr. Windell Hayes and Mr. J. E. Bean spent a few hours with Miss Sadie Horton Sunday afternoon. She returned with them for a while.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Willingham of Birmingham were her parent's week end guest, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Horton. Juanita Horton returned with them for a week's visit.

Mr. Junior Williams is spending a few days with his cousin, Richard Williams.

Mr. Raymond Williams spent Saturday night with Mr. Roy and Troy Horton.

We are glad to hear the report of Mrs. Wilson Robinson getting along fine. Her husband is sick. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

Everyone remember Sunday school at ten o'clock Sunday morning and B. Y.P.U. at seven, and don't forget our revival. Come, we need your help and we will assure you we can help you.

PATES CHAPEL

The revival at this place closed Friday with sixteen new additions to the church. All of them were not baptized on account of the unsettled weather. There will be another baptizing next meeting day at 9:00 o'clock at the Pates Creek. This will be next second Sunday.

The people of this community wonderfully enjoyed the impressive sermons brought to us by the Rev. George J. McCoy and cordially invite them back with us again.

Mrs. M. Lockhart and children were visitors in this community Thursday night and Friday. Their presence was very much enjoyed in the homes they were in. We cordially invite them back again.

Mr. and Mrs. Rascoe Maddox and little son, David, were visitors to his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. E J. Hayes and daughter, Mary.

Mr. and Mrs. Verbie Sorrell visited his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sorrell, and Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Sorrell and Cordis and Ruth a few days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Maddox and children spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Riley Hayes and family.

Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Blow spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Vastine Hayes and son.

Icye and J. V. Blow were Sunday dinner guests of Hazel Jones and S. E. Maddox.

Everybody remember next Sunday evening is our regular singing evening. Everybody come and bring your Thankful Hearts song books and let's spend the evening in song service.

Leader Contest Closes With Enthusiasm; Walnut Creek Church Winner Of First Prize

One of the most intensely interesting contests ever sponsored by a local merchant came to a close last Saturday August 17, after running several months when The Leader, popular dry goods store, declared the polls closed at 9 o'clock.

After a careful check of all the votes cast Walnut Creek Church was declared winner of first prize of $75.00 in cash with a total of 14,671 votes to its credit. Sunshine Church won second prize of $25.00 in cash with a total vote of 14,392. Clanton Baptist was third with 8,960 votes and Mulberry Baptist fourth with 8,506.

According to M. Lande, manager of The Leader, the idea of the contest was to "Share the Profit" with our customers. It was our way of showing that we appreciated the business given us, and we not only were glad at being able to make a worthwhile award to the winners, but we were pleased still more to share the profits with every one of our customers in lower prices on good merchandise."

Continuing, he said: "We may not make another cash award in sometime. but our low prices still prevail, and any person can make his cash go further and buy more merchandise by visiting our store and selecting fall clothing for the whole family."

A great deal of interest was created throughout the county by this contest many new friendships were made, and management of The Leader and customers participating seem agreed that it was a fine thing in which to have had a part.

Winter legumes—33 bu. corn per acre; 1450 lbs. seed cotton.

"These figures show that vetch and Austrian winter peas increases the yield of corn about 25 bushels per acre and increase the cotton yield by 1000 pounds of seed cotton per acre over no fertilizer. Manure is a good fertilizer and I wish you had more, but our livestock is limited here. Nitrate of Soda is a good fertilizer but it costs more than cover crops and you do not get the benefit of soil erosion prevention.

"There is another problem every farmer should be thinking about at this time. There has never been a time when farm organization was more important than it is now. The farmers have a good program. Other groups are trying to destroy this program therefore the farmer must fight to keep what he has so that he may improve it. The only way to fight effectively is through organization.

"We have in Chilton County an organization which is affiliated with the American Farm Bureau. The American Farm Bureau has done more to help the farmers than any other organization, or group of people. I believe we should join this organization and help fight the farmers' battle."

NOTICE TO COTTON FARMERS

The Internal Revenue Department says: When a farmer gins a bale of cotton, the bale must be settled for at that time, either by exemption certificate, the tax paid, in cash, or a lien card attached to the bale.

In order to comply with this provision, and to avoid confusion and delay, it is absolutely necessary that all farmers, when they bring a bale of cotton to the gin, also bring their exemption certificates, properly signed.

If the farmer does not have his certificate at the gin, it will be necessary to place lien card on the bale. Then in order to secure certificate and bale tag, it would be required that the farmer send his book of certificates to the Internal Revenue Collector at Birmingham, and bale tag and certificate would be issued direct from that office to him.

This trouble and delay can be avoided only by the farmer bringing his exemption certificates with each bale of cotton brought to the gin.

All of the ginners in Chilton County, listed below, are uniting in this request and urging all who bring cotton to be ginned to comply with provisions of the revenue department.

In letters to all members of local advisory boards of county relief administrations, Mr. Holt expressed the appreciation of the Alabama Relief Administration for their services for the past two and one-half years. He offered to cooperate with the State Child Welfare Department in setting up local County Public Welfare Departments, which, under the proposed State Department of Public Welfare could take advantage of the provisions of the social security legislation recently enacted by Congress and signed by the President. Etowah County was the first county to set up formally a County Department of Public Welfare and numerous other counties have already formulated their plans to do so. These local County Departments of Public Welfare will be given aid on administrative expense through trained personnel, surplus commodities purchased by the Federal Surplus Relief Administration, and clothing and food produced on the WPA work projects in Alabama.

TWO DAMAGE SUITS PLACED AGAINST CITY

Two Women Claim To Have Been Injured On Streets Here

Two damage suits, totaling $11,500, were filed last week in the office of Circuit Court Clerk J. C. Pattillo against the city of Clanton by two women who allege they received permanent injuries in falls on the city's sidewalks.

The complaints were filed by Clanton attorneys, J. B. Atkinson, former mayor. and Percy M. Pitts. Both alleging that their clients had suffered permanent injuries.

Mrs. E. B. Wyatt, represented by Mr. Atkinson, is asking $10,000 for injuries suffered when she fell on the sidewalk near the Upchurch Drug Company's store. She received a broken hip, the complaint alleges.

The other suit filed by Mr. Pitts for Mrs. Saderia Meeks, of Randolph, alleges that she was injured when she stepped into an open water meter box last November at the south entrance to the Hayes Chevrolet place. Mrs Meeks is asking $1,500.

Both cases will be scheduled for hearing at the regular fall term of Circuit Court, Mr. Pattillo said.

Mr. John Mullins and Mrs. Frank Scott motored to Aliceville for the week end. Mrs. Mullins and daughter, Mary Elizabeth, returned home with them Sunday after a visit with Mrs. Mullins' parents.

Dealing with the sensational mystery murder of Claud F. Avant, principal of the Slocomb, Ala., High School, on Sept. 25, 1928, this account is well written and gives a complete and vivid picture of all the details of the unsolved crime that are known and the long drawn-out hunts for the perpetrator.

Mr. Pattillo is one of the most versatile men in this section, and his acute grasp of minute details in this crime story indicates further that his brain is capable of reaching successfully into new and untried fields.

HOPE TO GET MORE MONEY FOR COUNTY

Judge Smith, Commissioners Will Confer With State Director

With the hope of bringing more money into Chilton County and creating work for all the unemployed possible, Probate Judge J. Lee Smith and members of the Commissioners Court plan to go to Montgomery this week, where they will confer with Thad Holt, State director of relief, urging that Chilton County should share more liberally in the expenditure of Federal funds.

"It seems that our county is not getting its share of the Feleral funds being expended in this State and we hope to convince Mr. Holt of this fact," Judge Smith stated in discussing the court's proposed visit to Montgomery. "There are many worthy projects that could and should be carried on here and we believe that our people should share equally with those of other sections of the State," he continued.

At present there are less than 100 working on Federal projects in this county. Forty men recently began work on the continuation of the Clanton

Back of All This Is Labor

Clanton is seeing a building boom such as we have not witnessed in recent years. We're proud of the new City Hall building, the new Post Office Building, the new business structures now being built and the new homes already finished or under construction. We tell our neighbors in other towns about these things with pride. We explain that still other things are being contemplated, that more streets will be paved soon and that other structures will be built. It is a sign of prosperity, and its effects are felt by many citizens not directly connected with construction.

All of this seems to make it more fitting for Clanton and Chilton County to pay its best tribute to those who labor on this Labor Day, September 2. For we are not forgetful that behind all these things there is the important factor of labor. Tasks to be done; jobs for men, too often taken for granted, and the nobility of toil overlooked.

No less should this day be commemorated in honor of Agriculture. No laborer anywhere is more worthy of his hire and the commendation of his fellowman than the tiller of the soil. The News, and we believe also all the business and professional people of Clanton and Chilton County would feel that a celebration of and Chilton County would feel that a celebration of Labor Day would be lacking in appropriateness without special mention of those who operate the farms of our county. Fundamentally, they are the ones who make all these other developments possible.

Along with all the other days we have set aside for recognition of worthwhile things, we consider it a privilege to have one day in the year to memorialize the honor and dignity of Labor, and in our case to include particularly those fine citizens who carry on in Chilton County's greatest industry—Agriculture.

SCHOOLS WILL OPEN DOORS ON MONDAY MORN

Eight Schools Welcome Pupils Over County September 2

"Still sits the schoolhouse beside the road . . . ," and next Monday morning its doors will swing open as the bell rings, calling thousands of Chilton County's youth from their work and from their play back to books again.

Vacation, with all its thrills and all its glamour, is over. It is time again for serious study and hard work in the world's competitive struggle to gain the top rung of an educational ladder—where it is hoped will await an opportunity for better citizenship.

Vital Services To The Farmer

An example of the vital services that good cooperative institutions provide for their members—services that are not obtainable elsewhere—was provided during the recent eleventh annual sesion of the American Institute of Cooperation.

Executives of cooperative dairy associations, coupled with research experts, made the most searching probe in ten years concerning the national and international outlook for marketing America's dairy products.

The probe and the ensuing appraisal included factors of production; the trend of consumption; the effect of imports on both dairy products and competitive oils and fats; the extent to which two years of operation under federal and state control has changed market conditions; the possible influence of reciprocal trade agreements upon dairy products, and similar questions which effect the future welfare of the dairy farmer.

It is impossible to exaggerate the worth of such a probe. Leaders of dairy cooperatives throughout the country will be much better prepared to cope with the marketing and price problems they face, and to inform their members as to the best course of future action. They will be able to scientifically develop plans, and to proceed with greater confidence and certainty.

Can You Answer "Yes"?

Most of us, knowingly or otherwise, take chances with fire. And that's a game in which the player always loses. He can't win.

Here's a simple little questionnaire that may aid you in eliminating common fire risks—and may also give you an inkling into the unnecessary chances you have been taking:

Have your furnace, its pipes, and other heating devices and equipment been recently inspected and approved by an expert? Has your electric wiring likewise been checked by an approved electrician—not by an amateur? Do you make it a practice to keep your basement, attic and unused rooms free from accumulations of paper, rags and other waste? Do you keep your property free from dry grass? Do you store explosives and inflammable liquids in safe places, and in approved metal containers? Do you take constant care with matches, tobacco and smoking materials? If you have done any building or remodeling, have you conformed to an up-to-date building code calling for the most approved construction and the most fire-resistive materials? And, finally, do you take advantage of expert investigation services offered by fire marshals, insurance organizations and other bodies?

If your answer to any of these questions is "No," you are taking chances with fire. You are imperiling your property and that of your neighbors—and perhaps imperiling lives as well. Most fire hazards can be eliminated with but a small expenditure of either time or money—whatever investment you make will pay big dividends in safety and security.

"As the months go by, the plight of the Republican party becomes increasingly touching. It would be rediculous for them to make windy charges about the Roosevelt administration throttling the engines of industry. Thus instead they drag in inuendoes of anarchy, dictatorship and communism. It will be difficult to ignor such irrefutable symptoms of recovery as the announcement by General Motors of a $50,000,000 plant extension program and similar plans announced by Chrysler and a long list of steel companies."—Brooklyn Citizen. Everybody's Business

During the last few years there has been a steady and encouraging decrease in the average annual fire loss. However, figures for the last year, issued by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, show that a decided slow-up has occurred in the rate of decline. Fire costs the nation less than it did a few years ago—but we are now experiencing less success in forcing the loss down still further.

The 1934 loss amounted to $2.08 per capita. That may not seem a large amount—but, looked at in the light of the fact that it amounted to utter and nunecessary waste, it is important. Between two and three hundreds of millions of dollars a year is being sacrificed to fire—millions that could otherwise be used for home and business building, for investment, for all the articles and services that keep the wheels of industry turning.

Further, the true size of the fire waste cannot be shown in figures. A fire, for example, may destroy a $100,000 factory. Yet the factory's destruction may mean that several hundred men are thrown out of employment, that a town's principal industry no longer operates, that taxes are lost to the community, that local merchants, a large part of their customers gone, are forced out of business. A hundred thousand dollar fire can thus cause a total loss of many times that amount.

Fire is everybody's business. We all pay for fire waste—we all benefit when it is reduced. And the best friend of fire is public apathy, that permits hazards to grow unchecked, and allows the commonest risks to multiply and get out of hand.

Fire prevention should not be regarded as somebody else's business. Foresight and caution impose the same responsibility upon us all.

It Happens Every Now And Then

The Covington News, Andalusia, headed an editorial "it happened near Andalusia." Similar things are happening every now and then near Andalusia, and near Greenville—and even in Greenville. Most of the people who get stung on these schemes, however, are not "legitimate" advertisers. They not only use regular forms of advertising, but fall for such as is described in the following:

A hitch-hiker dropped off in a small town and was broke. He had ideas though and wasn't broke long. He went into a print shop and asked the price of fifty printed placards. The price was $7.50.

He then went to the chief of the fire department and asked him for a letter endorsing Fire Prevention. Naturally he got the letter. He then took the letter and with his line of gab sold practically every merchant in that town a small advertisement to go on that placard. Within three hours after he had arrived in town he had $42.00 in his pocket. He gave the copy to the printer, paid him for the placards, gave a small boy fifty cents to wait until they were printed and put them up around town. He left that town about four hours after he arrived with $34.00 in his pocket.

We haven't had the Fire Prevention scheme here yet but we have had several of a like nature. It is a perfectly legitimate racket and costs business people over the country untold thousands of dollars every year.—Greenville Advocate.

Just One More Word

Although too much has already been said about our most recent plague of investigators, that preposterous little junket should not be forgotten without first calling attention to the efficient manner in which Governor Graves disposed of the five writers, charges that they had been fired upon by vicious Alabamians.

Without mincing his words the Governor stated that the committee members "shot their own car as a cheap publicity stunt." Governor Graves' quick and decisive action helped to offset the reflections on Alabama created by the incident.

In addition the Governor refused to furnish a police escort to guide the visitors out of the State. Had he complied with their request he would have helped the writers prove their charges that Alabama is an unsafe place for an outsider. Furthermore, they would have had photographers and newsreel cameramen there to show the world what had happened.

Governor Graves was at his best in dealing with the whole situation.—Montgomery Advertiser.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

—o—

I heard of a company of young men who were out in the woods at night hunting coons. They had plenty of "Red Elic" along with them and some of them were drinking freely. One young man refused to drink but finally told those urging him that he would drink with them if his hound would drink with him. His offer was accepted and whiskey was poured on the top of a rock and the dog was called and shown the liquor, but he smelled of it and trotted away. The young man handed the bottle back to its owner saying "I will not set a bad example, even for my dog." Did you know that whiskey is so foul that not even a dog will drink it? It may be the dog has better sense. My hat is off to the dog.

When I was a school lad I was a pupil in a school taught by an aged bachelor. He was a man of fine ideals and one who loved his pupils. He took a fancy to me and soon I was known as his "pet." Every day this fat, affectionate, old gentleman would call me to him and would take me upon his knee. He would slap me so hard until my little body would quiver under the blows. Then he would laugh and say, "My dear little boy, those are love licks." I knew that the old man did not intend hurting me willfully, but to save me I could not understand how he could hurt me so keenly if he loved me so much." I had sense enough to know that his love would have been sweeter without his love licks. I know some folks, preachers, who are out talking of God as One who beats up his children with love licks. The God I worship is not dealing with his children in that way. God loves his children and he does not beat them up to show it. Remember my friends, God does not take you across his knee and slap you hard because he loves you. God is tenderness, kindness, gentleness, love.

In a prominent daily I saw this big headline: "Rush on here for Beer stamps. Dealers file application, pay fees, and pray to get by another year." This reporter was making a clear case out of the action of those who expected to sell beer and whiskey. They knew that they were planning to break the law; planning to degrade society and yet they were praying to some god that they might be able to escape the punishment that justice would measure out to them. It is nothing short of blasphemy for any man who knowingly, willfully breaks the law and degrades society—and they pray to God for protection. It is like the man of the underworld who prays to God to protect him while he kidnaps or kills.

I came around a brick corner and faced two men who were in conversation. I heard one of them say "I do not give a d—— for what I have done, but what I want to know is how to escape the g—— d—— law." I must say that I blushed with shame and hurried away from a varmint of that kind. That animal that I saw and heard had on pants, shoes and a shirt. Can flesh and blood be human when the life that lives is that flesh and blood cares nothing about what he does and then in plasphemy calls down the wrath of God on the laws that governs human society? The sooner the law makes it impossible for such animals to get by the law, the better it will be for society.

In the mythology of long ago we read that there was a sea serpent that had nine heads. Hercules made battle on this serpent and cut off his head. Then two other heads were lifted above the water. He fought valiantly until these two heads were cut off. Two other heads were lifted and the battle continued. After much hard fighting Hercules finally succeeded in killing the serpent. In modern society we are in a strggle with the serpent of society and this serpent seems to have nine heads and more. When we overcome evil, another springs up. When we overcome one evil two other evils lift their heads. In modern society we have to battle with a serpent that must have more heads than nine. God give us grace to keep on fighting.

TRIBUTE TO WEEKLIES WAS ONE OF WILL ROGERS' BEST

Chicago.—Some of the late Will Rogers' philosophic and humorous paragaraphs will go down in literary history as masterpieces. And perhaps one of the finest of these is his tribute to the "home town paper," one of his last writings.

"Take away my ham, take away my eggs, even chili," said Will, "but leave me my newspaper. Even if it has such purely local news as 'Jim Jones came home last night unexpectedly, and bloodshed ensued' or 'J[illegible] [illegible] our local M.D., is having one of the best years of his career, practically speaking—but they just won't pay him when they get well,' 'the county seat was packed yesterday with prominent people from out of town, attempting to renew their notes' and 'election ain't far off and everybody is up for office that can sign an application blank.'

"Now all that don't seem much news to you. But it is news to you, especially when you know the people and they are your own folks. So no matter how punk you may think your local newspaper is getting, why just take it away from you and see how you feel. The old newspaper, I think is just about our biggest blessing.

"So let's all read and be merry, for tomorrow the paper may not have enough ads to come out."

Dog Trainers Must Secure Licenses

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 28.—The new Swift Act, setting up a State Conservation Board and changing the name of the Department of Game and Fisheries to the Department of Conservation of Game, Fish and Seafoods, requires all persons engaged in the business of training dogs in Alabama to procure a $5.00 dog trainer's license.

The new law provides that:

"All persons engaging in the business [illegible] hunting or field purposes for remuneration or profit, [illegible] a dog trainer's license from the Commissioner of Conservation and pay for same the sum of five ($5.00) dollars, such license to be procured and such fees to be deposited in like manner as provided for other licenses set forth in this Act

"Any person in this State who trains dogs for hunting or field trial purposes for remuneration or profit without first procuring from the Commissioner of Conservation a dog trainer's license shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifteen ($15.00) dollars not more than twenty-five ($25.00) dollars for each offense."

SPORTS FANS FOLLOW THE AMERICAN BOY

Boys and young men of this city who wish to improve their tennis service, their basket-shooting eyes, their forward passing talent, or their crawl stroke, can enlist the aid of the nation's foremost coaches and players by subscribing to THE AMERICAN BOY magazine and following the sports interviews and fiction stories that appear each month.

"When I was in high school," says a famous decathlon champon. "I read a track artcle in THE AMERICAN BOY that gave me my first clear-cut idea of the western style of high jumping. At practice I laid the open magazine on the grass and studied it as I worked out. That afternoon I increased the height of my jump three inches."

That was a long time ago, but today thousands of future champions just as eagerly follow THE AMERICAN BOY.

"This year," states Griffith Ogden Ellis, editor, "our staff writers have gone to the two greatest football teams of the country—Minnesota and Pittsburgh—for first-hand tips on strategy, blocking, tackling, passing, and the fine points of play. They have interviewed Jack Medica, the world's fastest swimmer, and his coach, Ray Daughters. Gone to Eastern High School of Washington, D. C., Easter Interscholastic basketball champions. In the past they have followed the Grapefruit Circuit of the major leagues in Florida, sat on the bench at the Rose Bowl, sought out the famous runners, divers, All-American ends, tackles and backfield men, to bring their story of how to play the game to the young men of America.

"In addition to our fiction, adventure, exploration, hobby counsel, and vocational help," we shall continue to encourage young men to improve their game in every line of sport."

Send your subscription to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. Enclose with your name and address $1 for a year's subscription, $2 for three years, and add 50 cents a year if you want the subscription to go to a foreign address. On newsstands, 10 cents a copy.

IN MEMORY OF OUR FATHER, J. M. MAHAN

It cannot be that earth is man's only abiding place. It cannot be that our life is a bubble cast up by the ocean of eternity, to float a moment upon its waves and to sink into nothingness. Else why is it that the high and glorious aspirations which leap like angels from the temple of our hearts are forever wondering about unsatisfied. Why is it that the stars, which hold their festival around the Midnight throne, are set above the grasp of our limited faculties, forever mocking us with their unapproachable glory? And finally, why is it that bright forms of beauty are represented to our view, and then taken from us, leaving the many streams of our affection to float back in alpine torrent upon our hearts. Surely we are born for a higher destiny than that of earth, where the beautiful beings which here pass before us like shadows, will stay in our presence forever.

We are most intimately connected with our loved one whom we have loved and still is an object of our deepest and holiest affections. He is with us in our solitary walks; and his voice still speaks to our hearts in the silence of midnight. His image is impressed upon our dearest recollections and our most sacred hopes. They form an essential part of our treasures laid up in heaven. We are separated from him but for a little time. We are soon to be united with him. If we follow the narrow path we too, shall soon join the company of the "spirits of just men made perfect."

If God has made the world so fair
Where sin and death abound
How beautiful beyond compare
Will paradise be found

PRESID'T URGES YOUTH TO FIGHT TORY FOGYISM

Unite, Challenge Ways Of Old Order, Roosevelt Tells Young Democrats

Washington.—Rapping sharply at "tories" and "the reactionaries of 1935," President Roosevelt Saturday night urged American youth of all parties to "unite and challenge" the methods of the old order.

Seated at a desk in the basement oval room of the White House, two microphones before him, the president spoke primarily to the convention of the Young Democratic Club in Milwaukee, but also to the nation at large.

"Rules are not necessarily sacred—principles are," he said. "The methods of the old order are not, as some would have you believe, above the challenge of youth."

The chief executive asserted at the outset that, despite reports to the contrary, his address would not be devoted to answering his political critics. He would, he said, employ the same words if he were "addressing a convention of the youth of the Republican party."

Hitting again and again at those he said were "united in standing still on the same old spot," he spoke in general terms of a need to improve social conditions, health and security, financial and economic machinery and government. He did not refer directly to any of the work of the adjourning Congress.

"Facts are relentless," he said. "We must adjust our ideas to the facts of today."

As the president spoke, movie men ground away at him from a glass-enclosed booth designed to prevent outside noise from creeping into his microphones. Newspaper cameramen were others in his direct audience in the soberly tinted oval room.

Includng his final "challenge" to "the youth of America of all parties," he said:

"Let us carry on the good that the past gave us. The best of that good is the spirit of America. And the spirit of America is the spirit of inquiry, of readjustment, of improvement, above all a spirit in which youth can find the fulfillment of its ideals.

"It is for the new generation to participate in the decisions and to give strength and spirit and continuity to our government and to our natioal life."

The president, at one point, recalled to many his recent references to "back to the horse and buggy days."

"The rules that governed the relationship between an employer and an employe in the blacksmith's shop in the days of Washington," he said, "cannot, of necessity, govern the relationship between the 50,000 employes of a great corporation and the infinitely complex and diffused ownership of the corporation."

His "horse and buggy" reference was made at a press conference at which he crticized the Supreme Court's overthrow of the NRA and hinted at the possibility of a new constitutional amendment.

Continuing from the "blacksmith" analogy, he spoke then of the need of labor being allowed to choose its representatives to "bargain collectively in their behalf." And next of the modern need for protecting investors in huge corporations who might otherwise "be exploited" without their knowledge.

The original concept of credit control for financing the economic life of a nation of 3,000,000 people, he said naturally would not be adequate for the United States today, therefore making "constant development" necessary He then turned to improvements in social life, citing efforts to better slum conditions, and recalled his own experiences as a member of the New York Legislature in 1911.

"The reforms, however, for which we were condemned 24 years ago," he said "are taken today as a matter of course And so, I believe, will be regarded the reforms that now cause such concern to the reactionaries of 1935."

He asserted people had learned they can carry their burdens effectively "only by cooperation," he added:

"Let me emphasize that serious as have been the errors of unrestrained individualism, ' do not believe in abandoning the system of individual enterprise."

He then spoke of the needs of government, asserting "government today requires higher and higher standards of those who would serve it."

"Mere party membership and loyalty," he said, "can no longer be the exclusive test. We must be loyal not merely to persons or parties, but to the higher conceptions of ability and devotion that modern government requires."

After a final slash at the "forces of reaction" and the "tories of the world," he came to the end of his address with these words:

"Therefore, to the American youth of all parties I submit a message of confidence—unite and challenge."

OFFICERS ELECTED

Milwaukee.—Frank Wickhem, 34-year-old assistant United States district attorney at Sioux Falls, S. D., was elected president of the Young Democratic Clubs of America at the organization's convention Saturday. He was chosen on the first ballot.

Others nominated were Ralph Chambers, of Picher, Okla.; William F. Dorn, of Detroit, and Joe Cordell Carr, of Nashville, Tenn. Before the nominations had been concluded. Carr withdrew in favor of Wickhem. George Williamson, of St. Paul, who had been boomed for president, seconded the nomination of Chambers.

Wickhem received 94 votes to 75 for Chambers. Dorn, who had made no active campaign, received only Michigan's five votes.

COTTON LOAN IS HIKED ONE CENT

Southern Senators Given Some Consolation By AAA, President

Washington, Aug. 28.—A revised Agricultural Adjustment Administration cotton program calling for a 10-cent loan and a 12-cent guarantee on Bankhead allotments emerged today as a result of the battle between Southern Senators and the Department of Agriculture.

The plan, evolved at a White House conference in an effort to break the congressional deadlock on the third deficiency bill, applies only to cotton produced under Bankhead allotments on AAA adjusted acreage.

Farmers must sign up for the 1936 program, which the AAA warned will provide for a sharp reduction, to receive benefits of the plan.

The AAA announced the increase from nine to 10 cents on the amount to be loaned and a simplified 12-cent guarantee reluctantly.

Plans Differ

Failure of Congress to accept the compromise does not affect the new program, which requires no legislation.

There are several important differences between the new AAA 12-cent guarantee plan and that announced last week. The old plan provided:

Cooperating producers might place their cotton with the AAA and draw nine cents cash while holding for a higher market. When they sold the AAA would wait until January 1 and then compute the difference between the average price paid for 7-8 inch low middling in 10 spot markets between September 1 and January 1. The difference between that average and 12 cents would be paid Bankhead growers, regardless of what he sold for.

The new plan provides:

Not A Guarantee

The AAA will loan 10 cents to all cooperating farmers. Whenever the grower decides to sell his Bankhead allotment cotton the AAA will pay him immediately the difference between the average for 7-8 inch low middling in the spot markets on the day he sold and 12 cents.

Actually the plan does not guarantee the grower a flat 12 cents on all Bankhead cotton, though it would work out to about that average in practice.

For example, if a farmer sold a low grade of cotton for only 8 cents when the base average was 10 cents for that day, he still would receive only two cents extra—the amount between the average and 12 cents—from the AAA, giving him a net of only 10 cents.

Works Both Ways

It works the other way around, too. If a farmer had a high grade of cotton which brought him 11 cents on a day when low middling averaged 10 cents he still would get the two cents extra, for a net of 13 cents.

The new loan and subsidy program, the AAA said, will go into effect "as soon as it is physically possible to set up the necessary machinery. Loan forms will be available for 10-cent loans during the week of September 2.

WPA REPAVING 22 MILES IN 31

Worn Out Road North Of Calera, Now Motorists' Terror, To Be Replaced

Unofficial advice was received Tuesday from Washington at WPA headquarters, of approval of the reconstruction and repaving of the approximately 22 3-4 miles of the Bee Line Highway (U. S. No 31) that traverses Shelby County, which has become so rough motor traffic of every description passing over it has to slow down to a low rate of speed.

The surfacing placed on this road was laid during the administration of the late former Gov. W. W. Brandon, and was one of the first high type bituminous paving projects to be carried out in Alabama. According to engineers it has become rough through settlement since it was laid, and the change in volume, of the natural soil composing its base.

Plans for the repaving which it is estimated will, with relief labor, call for the expenditure of from $175,000 to $200,000, contemplate resurfacing of the present paving with bituminous material, and the widening of the shoulders on either side of the roadway, also widening of the roadway itself from its present width of 18 feet, to 20 feet, wherever adequate rights of way are obtained by the county.

The project, it is stated, is one that lends itself readily to the utilizing of relief labor, as limestone to be used in the resurfacing is available along the roadside, and quarrying and crushing the stone will give employment to a large number of men. As soon as necessary rights of way are secured by the county, crews will begin clearing and widening operations preparatory to repaving, it was announced.

All work on the project will be under the direct supervision of the State Highway Department, acting in cooperation with the WPA. Cost of the reconstruction and repaving will be borne jointly by the WPA and the Highway Department, the latter's contribution being funds that would be made available for maintenance of the section of road to be improved.

Legion Gets Behind Community Center

Local Post Heartily Endorses Movement To Improve Airport; Sees Fine Things There For Entire County

Editor, Chilton County News:

Chilton County Post of the American Legion is much interested in recent discussion of efforts to develop and enlarge the airport near Clanton, and to provide there recreation facilities and accomodations as a community center and public meeting place for all the people of Chilton County.

We recall the first movement made here for locating an airport. It had its inception with this Post of the American Legion, acting upon a suggestion from our National Department, when the Legion first undertook the matter of interesting the smaller communities of the entire country in airport developments.

Promptly upon the suggestion of the Legion here, the Kiwanis Club joined in support of the proposition, designating a committee to work with a similar committee of the Legion.

Later, when the airport property was purchased by the county Dr. Gragg, a member of the Kiwanis Committee, advanced the idea of making the project not only a landing place for airplanes, but a community center, public playground and meeting place as well.

The American Legion is interested in an airport, believing that the advantages of same to the community in the future will be large and beyond our present ability to estimate. We are likewise, and ever more so at present, interested in the proposal for making the airport a community center. We would not have to wait any period of years to utilize a community center to the advantages of the community. We need it right now. We have needed it all along. If we had the kind of buildings and accomodations as have been suggested at the airport, we could and would begin using them to the advantages of our people in a public manner at once

The Legion is constantly interested in advancement of wholesome and properly supervised athletics among the youth of our locality. It would be a distinct advantage to us in this work to have an athletic field, such as we could have at the airport property.

We commend our county and city officials for the interest they have taken so far in developing the airport We wish they would go as much farther as is necessary to provide the facilities necessary for making it a community center, capable of accomodating any public meeting of our citizens from all over Chilton County.—Chilton County Post No. 6, American Legion, Percy M. Pitts, Commander, and Vaughn C McKee, Adjutant.

AND MAKE A HOLIDAY OF YOUR WASH DAY

—It give us real pleasure to pay a sincere tribute to labor. We recognize the importance of men and women who toil, and keep the wheels of industry, as well as the progress of agriculture moving.

—One thing, however, we cannot endorse because it is needless, and that is DRUDGERY. Especially the kind of drudgery old, out-of-date methods of laundry place upon the shoulders of women. The lives of our Mothers and Wives are too precious to be sweated out over washboards.

—And furthermore, nothing is saved by such methods. Clothes not only look better, but last longer when laundered and cleaned by modern, scientific methods.

GOVERNOR PUTS FINAL OKEY ON NEWSPAPER ACT

Bill To Guard Sources Of News Given Approval By Graves

Montgomery, Ala., August 22.—Governor Bibb Graves today signed the Calhoun bill granting immunity to newspaper reporters from revealing confidential news sources before grand juries or other investigating bodies and the measure immediately became a state law.

The bill, introduced by Representative Perry Calhoun of Dothan, provides that "no person engaged on any newspaper while engaged in a news gathering capacity shall be compelled to disclose in any legal proceedings or trial, before any court or before a grand jury, of any court, or before the presiding officer of any tribunal, or his agent or agents, or before any committee of the legislature or elsewhere, the source of any information procured or obtained by him and published in the newspaper on which he is engaged, connected with or employed."

The law, patterned closely after New Jersey's law, received only minor opposoition in either House or Senate and was sent to the governor's desk last week for his assured signature

"I'm for the bill," the governor told newspapermen earlier in the session "I think you should be protected in safeguarding confidences. But now that you've got this law, I want you to keep your house clean."

the Basis of Progress and Systematic Saving is the Basis of Financial Independence

—The Progress of our nation has been predicated upon hard work. Strong men have wrested from the bounties of a liberal nature these things which mark our progress. Labor, in Industry and in Agriculture, typifies America. We are founded upon the ideal of the Dignity of Honest Toil. Permanent progress in the future will find fruition in the same ideal.

—But progress made must be held and not thrown lightly away. Financial independence of individuals must be a fact if we maintain stability. During the years of maximum earning power, systematic saving, is the answer to the important question of Financial Independence in later years.

Confederate Home Retains Old Dignity Tho Old Soldiers Gone

By Victor Norris

—o—

Less than three hundred of those who marched to the strains of "Dixie" are alive in Alabama today. No longer can one see the familiar figures that characterized the Old South, strolling or sitting in groups about the grounds of the Old Confederate Soldiers Home at Mountain Creek.

But a quiet, unmistakeable dignity remains, recalling days of big plantations, grand Southern gentlemen, beautiful women, fine horses and carriages, quiet luxury—all those things that should surround the Southern home of pre-Civil War days.

When one enters the gates of the Old Soldiers Home, time rolls back, and amid the faded splendor one is still able to reconstruct life as lived by those who followed Jackson and Lee. The place, seemingly walled in from the outside world and all that is modern, fairly breathes aristocracy. It is typical of the days of Andrew Jackson; it is easy to forget that the buildings are empty and fast going to decay. Again they are peopled with the generation of yesterday.

This is perhaps the only spot in Alabama—perhaps the whole nation—where such a vivid picture of Southern life of a half-century ago can be found. Walking through the grounds one almost expects to see Negro slaves, bowing their way through the doors of the homes. An old Negro man forking grass into a dilapidated wagon lends color to this idea. No thoughts of modern America can hold sway in these surroundings. Far removed from the highway and traffic, the place might as well be in another world. Only the lazy roaring of an aeroplane motor overhead interrupts the dream.

At the home not a single old soldier is left. The fourteen houses, former homes of more than a hundred standard-bearers of the "Stars and Bars," are empty—and soon, unless repaired, like those they housed will pass away. Seven aged women, wives of sons of the Confederacy, are the sole occupants of the institution. They live in a single building, once the hospital. Thirteen other former residences are occupied only by imaginary figures and the spirit of an age gone by.

It was two years ago that death claimed the last old soldier. His name was Giles Morgan; his widow is among the seven women who live here now.

Mrs. N. L. Yarbrough remembers well when things were far different than now. She has lived at the home for nineteen years—and recalls when the place was not only a home for indigent members of the Confederacy, who so valiantly wore the Gray, but was also a mecca for the young people of miles around. Sunday afternoon it was a scene of gaiety and enjoyment. Hundreds of couples thronged about the place and their laughter rang through the grounds. Many times each year entertainments were sponsored in the auditorium of the community house that stood near the main entrance to the grounds, and the audience was always spotted with venerable heroes who nodded their gray heads in approval as they watched the youngsters in their enjoyment.

Mrs. Yarbrough reflects that the shows put on by Mr. Hughes, an old Soldier magician, always drew a crowd. The old fellow was a good showman and had many worthy tricks up his sleeve. He gave many hours of pleasure to the others in the home and to those that visited here. Then there was the Reverend Hornaday who delivered many sermons in the old auditorium before it was destroyed by fire in 1924. It was after this fire that the change began. There was no place for the young couples to congregate after the community house was gone and gradually they quit coming on Sunday afternoons.

Established in 1902, this is the only institution of its kind in Alabama. Land for the home was given by Captain Jefferson Manley Falker, of Company B Eighth Confederate Regiment of Calvary. A bronze tablet in memory of him still is on a pillar of the burned community house.

In the near future the home may be either closed or converted into a S Sanitorium for the treatment of tu culosis. Gov. Bibb Grave recentl a committee from the Alabama L lature to inspect this institution render a report to him upon th visability of its continuance as a for old Confederate Soldiers and widows. Representative Propst, headed this committee, is said to declared upon his return to Montg ery that he intends to recommend it be closed. It is understood $7,500 is appropriated annually fo maintenance of this home. Since now serving so few, and the time come when not much longer will t be ay old soldiers in the state committee, he stated, decided that not advisable to maintain it longer

Senator Earle Thomas plans to gest to the governor that the pla should be used for a tubercular torium. He has long been intereste in health work in this section for eral years and believes this is an portunity to give Alabamians sufferin from this dread disease their ch With Dr. J.M. Kimmey, Chilton C health officer, Representative C.B and this writer, he visited the a few days ago and made an exte study of its possibilities as a T.B. Dr. Kimmey declared that the pl of sufficient size and the buil adequate for the care of several dred patients.

Senator Thomas has discusse idea with Dr. J. N. Baker, state officer, and has found him anxi cooperate in this work. Dr. hopes to have established in Al at least ten such institutions fo treatment and isolation of the malady." The Old Soldiers Hom ideally suited to be one of these tutions. It is located in a fairly spar ly inhabited section of rural County, about three-quarters of a m southeast of Mountan Creek, and acreage is sufficient for the compl isolation of patients. Already there fourteen large buildings, which repaired at a nominal cost, that be ample for the housing of al any number that may desire ad tance. Hundreds of beautiful oak tr shade the grounds and the topog of the land will make it an eas to enhance the beauty of the with landscape improvements houses are equipped with running wa and electric lights. The water is plied from a huge tank that is rep ed from a nearby creek. The is adequate for any sprinkler that may be needed for the ground

Maplesville.

Winners in the tournament were: Clanton, first bracket, and Lay Dam, second bracket.

Clanton won the first bracket championship last Friday, beating Plantersville one game, and had trounced Independence twice.

Last Monday saw three second bracket teams still in the running, although all three had lost a game each. Cane Creek was paired against Lay Dam latter winning 7 to 2.

That drew Lay Dam and Union Grove into the final game for the Championship. Union Grove had played jam-up ball all through the tournament and in addition seemed to be a favorite of lady luck up until the final game. In this scrap the Union Grove boys were too much on edge, realizing the importance of the game, and blew up completely, committing 10 costly errors, losing to Lay Dam 7 to 8, making every kind of bobble in the catalog.

LOCAL BILLS

and Omar Reynolds, county attorney, went to Montgomery Monday night and conferred with the senator and representative and it was agreed that one-third of the gas tax would be granted to the State until the expense of paving this piece of road had been completed with the understanding that both local bills be withdrawn.

A few days ago, Commissioners Duke, Oden, and Atchison held a conference with representatives of the highway department and it was virtually agreed that Chilton County would share to this extent in the paving of this stretch of the Clanton-Selma Highway. At a special meeting of the Commissioners Court Monday afternoon, it was decided to make another trip to Montgomery to confer with Mr. Cox and Mr. Thomas, inasmuch as Judge Smith and Commissioner Bean were not present at the former conference.

Cost of paving on this road will be approximately $6,000 per mile, according to figures submitted by highway engineers, and the county's share in the 21-mile stretch will be approximately $42,000. It has not been learned when work on the project will be started. It has been estimated that about half of the money spent will be for labor, a majority of which will be Chilton County men.

In the discussion Monday afternoon, members of the court declared that they were convinced that the people of the county were not in favor of the bill providing for the employment of a road supervisor, declaring that they were sure that Mr. Cox and Mr. Thomas would not want to pass it if they were assured of this fact.

It was shortly after the close of this session that the group left for the capitol city for the conference which resulted in the compromise.

Car Belonging To Hardy Jones Stolen; Youth Out On Parole

Ted Wilson, 22, Clanton youth who seems to have an unusual fancy for automobile riding, is in the County Jail charged with stealing a car belonging to Hardy Jones, Sunday night at the Poplar Springs Church.

The youth was recently granted a 30-day furlough from Kilby Prison where he is serving a three to five years sentence for automobile theft Officers Monday morning recounted that this is the fifth car that Wilson has stolen in this vicinity. He was convicted several months ago in Circuit Court in connection with the theft of Odis Miller's car.

Wilson was apprehended about midnight at the Boswell Tourist Camp by Night Policeman Plyler. Sheriff J. R. Hardy and his deputies and Officer John Browder had been searching for him for several hours.

He was locked in jail and Sheriff Hardy notified authorities at Kilby Prison of his escapade, and likely his furlough will soon be over, the sheriff opined.

Election To Be Asked On City Street Paving

MAYOR WRITES TO RESIDENTS

Election Leaves Decision On Paving With City Voters

A special election for the purpose of deciding if the majority of the voters of Clanton are in favor of the city government taking steps to borrow money from the Federal Government for the purpose of paving the city's most important streets will be held soon, it was announced by Mayor C. Fenn Jones Tuesday.

Under the regulations of the government in advancing funds, on the 55-45 percentage basis, the Clanton mayor states that he finds it will be much quicker and more satisfactory to call a special election and let the people of the town express their wishes. The cost of paving will be assessed against the property along these streets.

Property owners along almost every street in the city have petitioned Mayor Jones to make application for funds to do this paving. Petitions were circulated by interested citizens, and practically every property owner along these streets signified his desire for the program. Forty-five per cent of the cost will be an outright grant from the government.

The special electon, the mayor explains, is just the quicker way of getting the project underway. Much time will be saved by letting the people of the city express by ballot their wishes in the matter.

Following is a letter from the mayor. explaining in detail the plans:

DRAINAGE OF SWAMPS SEEN AS SPLENDID

Former Probate Judge Recalls Old Days Of Mosquitoes

Of all the work that has been carried on in Chilton County through the activities of the relief agencies and the expending of many thousands of dollars of Federal money, draining of the swamplands surrounding Clanton has been one of the most advantageous projects conducted in this county and has benefitted more people than any other phase of the Government program, other than the AAA Cotton Program, is the opinion of Judge L. H. Reynolds, former probate judge here for a quarter of a century.

Before the project was begun two years ago, he recalls that it was almost impossible for anyone to sit on their porch in Clanton during the summer months because of mosquitoes. Although there was never any epidemic of malaria or other maladies caused by the bite of mosquitoes, they were a great menace. During the past summer, few mosquitoes were seen even in sections of the city nearer the swamps.

Draining of the several miles of the marshy swamps was begun with RFC was begun again recently on the conlabor about two years ago, and was continued through the CWA. Work tinuation of the project under the supervision of the State Health Department, which now has this work as one of the several malaria-control projects in Alabama. Forty men are engaged in extending the five miles of ditches even farther from the city area.

For many years various civic-minded men and organizations have debated the question of this necessary drainage and tried to devise means of its accomplishment. Always in the foreground of these plans was Judge Reynolds, and it was largely due to his splendid cooperation with the State Relief Department that the project was finally listed as one of the county's main works programs. Though the leader of the Republican forces in Chilton County for more than a quarter of a century, officials in the State relief offices praise his cooperation as greater than that received from most counties with Democratic officials.

With the expansion of Clanton, perhaps more rapidly than any other Alabama municipality, this movement for the improvement of health conditions will mean much to the city's future development. Draining of these swamps will not only give room for the natural spreading of the city, but it has open-

Prominent Citizen Is Laid To Rest

JOSEPH ALLEN HESTER

WELL KNOWN MAN SUCCUMBS TO ILLNESS

Joseph A. Hester Died Sunday In Hospital At Montgomery

Joseph Allen Hester, a native of Chilton County and for many years agent for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company at Clanton, died Sunday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock at a Montgomery hospital, where he had been undergoing treatment for the past month. He was 69 years of age.

Forced to retire from his duties as L & N agent here because of failing health, Mr. Hester has spent much of his time during the past five years in various health resorts. He spent the past two winters in Mobile and Florida.

Returning to Clanton a few months ago his health continued to fail. About a month ago he was taken to a Montgomery hospital for treatment and his family felt that he was showing great improvement.

Born in 1865 on a farm in Chilton County, he has been a lifelong resident. Educated in the public schools of the county, he entered upon his business career as telegraph operator at Clanton. Holding this position for six years, Mr. Hester was promoted to the position of agent and stationed at Verbena, where he worked for nine years.

Becoming agent at Clanton in 1905 he served in that position until a few years ago when declining health forced him to retire.

Mr. Hester was married to Miss Beverly Mae Herring, of Brmingham in 1899.

Funeral services were held Tuesday

Alabama's Popular Senator Pays Visit To Clanton While In State

SENATOR HUGO BLACK

Alabama's Senior Senator Gives News His Opinion Of New Cotton Loan In Interview Here Tuesday

Cotton farmers of Chilton County Alabama, and the South are really misleading themselves, or allowing themselves to be mislead, when they find reasons to object to recent action of Congress in setting the loan price of cotton at ten cents instead of twelve, is the expressed opinion of Senator Hugo Black in an interview twith a News reporter here Tuesday afternoon.

Although he made a hard fight to have the price pegged at 12 cents, Eenator Black declared that he believes the cotton farmer will be benefitted more in the future by lowering the price to ten cents in order to compete in foreign markets, and thus unload our heavy surplus of cotton.

There is no way under the provisions of the plan for the cotton farmer, who is willing to continue to cooperate, to lose. He will receive 12 cents for his cotton and at the same time reap the benefit of ridding this country of its great cotton surplus by being able to compete on the fereign cotton markets.

Had the price been set at 12 cents again, the possibilities are that this country would have been left with a

"Gragg Field" Is Name Given Local Airport

Register in Chancery 1-1-36

His Name To Be Given Field Here

DR. V. J. GRAGG

COMMISSIONERS MAKE DECISION

Recommendation Made By Chilton County News Monday

By Victor Norris

In recognition of the meritorious service rendered Chilton County in the development of the local airport properties, members of the Commissioners Court voted unanimously Tuesday afternoon to name this property "Gragg Field." in honor of Dr. V. J. Gragg.

Presented in the form of a written recommendation, the suggestion was made to the court by the Chilton County News, pointing out that Dr. Gragg has given more liberally of his time and money to the development of this project than any other man in the county.

When the suggestion was read to the court by Judge J. Lee Smith, Commissioner C. D. Duke made a motion that this property be designated "Gragg Field." The motion was seconded by Commissioner Howard R. Oden, and was adopted by a unanimous vote.

So, in the future Clanton's airport will be known as "Gragg Field" in tribute to the man who first conceived the possibility of securing a landing field here for aeroplanes; in tribute to the man who has consistently been in the lead in all movements for its development, and is still working to secure a community center here that may be shared by all the people of this county.

It has been some years since Dr Gragg became interested in aviation, and for a long while he was the sole local flying esthusiast. He talked aviation constantly and finally persuaded

COMMUNITY CENTER IDEA FEARED LOST

City Council Puts Thumbs Down On Request For Their Aid

Opportunity for development of the airport property, near Clanton, into a county-wide community center was lost, it seems, to the people of Chilton County Tuesday night, when two members of the city council and the mayor of Clanton voted "No" to the proposition of a $200-participation with the Commissioners Court in the purchase of 32 acres of additional land for this project.

Judge J. Lee Smith, representing the court, appeared before the council at its regular session Tuesday evening explaining that the commissioners had voted to share on a three-one basis with the city in the development of this property into a community center, which could be used to the advantage of every citizen in the county. It was pointed out that, without interfering with its aviation possibilities, that all types of athletic activities could be developed, ample water is available for installation of a modern swimming pool, the place is ideal for a Central Alabama fair.

After a lengthy discussion, Councilman L.E. Diefenderfer made a motion that the city grant $400 as a one-fourth participation in the purchase of the needed lands; this motion was seconded by J. Watts Moore, but met its defeat when Mayor C. Fenn Jones cast the deciding vote with Grady Heflin and H. S. Shaw in opposition to the city's participation.

The vote was unchangeable even after J. Mell Martin made an offer in behalf of the Clanton Kiwanis Club to share this $400 equally with the city, leaving Clanton's participation in the land purchase at $200. Mayor Jones said that the city did not have the money, and that he would refuse to go to the banks and ask for a loan for this purpose.

Wrangling over the proposition for the past three or four weeks, the Commissioners Court had agreed to decide the issue not later than last Monday afternoon; the time was extended until Tuesday, when the proposition of Clanton's participation was advanced.

Delegations from every section of the county have appeared before the court in behalf of the proposal. It has been explained from every angle—the educational advantages have been cited; the business possibilities have been pictured, and many other advantages.

Final date for application to the State office of the WPA has been placed at September 9. Efforts were being made to get all dissatisfaction ironed out and the presentation of the application before that date in order that the maximum amount of government assistance might be expected.

Judge Smith stated to the council that the commissioners felt that the city of Clanton would benefit more directly than any other section of the county, therefore should be willing to participate in its promotion. The advantage of bringing business into Clanto was cited.

Judge Smith declared that the proposition offered Clanton is open to any other community in the county, which may desire to establish a community center. The county, he said, will grant three-fourths of the amount necessary to purchase and develop such a project at any place in the county.

SUGGESTIONS FOR HEALTH POINTED OUT

Health Officer Tells Of Precautions For The School Pupils

Within the next month approximately 1500 Chilton County children will have entered school for the first time. This means that these children, practically all around six or seven years of age, will leave the comparative safety and protection of their homes and begin a life filled with new experiences, in which the foundation of their future education will be laid. And while the first grade teachers throughout the county realize and accept a great part of the responsibility of seeing that their education is properly begun, the parents must realize that they also have the responsibility of seeing that their boys or girls have the proper physical and mental health that will enable them to enjoy and profit by their first year in school.

Every child, before entering school for the first time, should have a complete physical examination by a physician, and at this time should be vaccinated for smallpox and immunized against diptheria if this has not already been done. The importance of this is plainly seen when it is remembered that the child will, more than ever before be liable to exposure to these diseases, due to a wider contact with other children.

Another very important part of the preparation for school should be a visit to the dentist. It is about this time in a child's life that the first permanent teeth make their appearance. It is these teeth, which the dentists consider the most important of all since they are the ones around which the future dental "arch" is to be built, that are most often allowed to decay. Parents too often think they will be replaced in the future, and do not realize that if they are allowed to decay to the point where they must be lost that they will never be replaced.

And so this is in the nature of a plea to those parents who have children entering school fo rthe first time to see to it that they are free from those defects which are likely to prevent them from getting the most out of their new experience, and see that they are prepared to properly begin to learn to "shift for themselves," which is such an important part of their education.

Sixth District Contest

Quite the most arresting political item of the day is that to the effect that Rear Admiral Richmond Pearson Hobson will become a candidate for congress from the Sixth Alabama district in case Representative W. B. Oliver's health prevents him from serving longer in the house. Admiral Hobson was a major political figure in Alabama a quarter century ago when he served in congress from 1907 to 1915 and then made a memorable but unsuccessful race for the senate against Oscar W. Underwood.

The Sixth district promises to become a lively place politically in case Mr. Oliver decides not to run again. Hubert Baughn in the Birmingham Post publishes a list of potential candidates including Hobson. He mentions Thomas E. Knight, Pete Jarman, J. J. Mayfield, Jr., and Ed Livingston.

Contests for congress in several other districts promise to be spirited next year, and though 1936 will be what is known as an off year in Alabama politics, it promises to be anything but an off year so far as public interest is concerned, with congressmen, a senator and delegates to be chosen.—Alabama Journal.

Flying Will Not Stop

Hollywood is more dramatic than wise. Now it is thinking seriously of forbidding any of its actors to ride in airplanes except when making pictures. But each actor may own two or three automobiles, although 30,000 Americans die annually in automobile accidents, while many thousand more are maimed. We can neither prevent the use of modern transportation machinery nor prevent fatal accidents.—Montgomery Advertiser.

Interesting Fall Ads

Advertising is a mirror of the times. It is the harbinger of all seasons. On its present extensive scale, advertising tells each half of the world how the other half lives. The time is past when one can keep his one hand from knowing what the other hand is doing.

A change of seasons is at hand. What will the new season be? Newspaper advertising fortells that it will be the season of radio, phonograph, new household furnishings, books, and wearing apparel appropriate to the period of transition between the two extremes of climates.

Late summer and early autumn turn the American mind to thoughts of long winter evenings and home. The auto has emptied the front porches of America but the home fireside still calls when winter winds blow and the radio is at its best. The great quantity of radio, phonograph and furniture advertising completely refutes the jeremiad about the unloosing of the home ties.

Current advertising reflects another change recent years have wrought in the American scene. The predominance of automobile advertising is explained by the custom of many car owners to buy the new car in the late summer or early fall when new models are making their debut. It is to autumn that one looks for perfect motoring days, and the temperate days of September and October seem made especially for breaking in new motors.

Seasonal buying is as natural and irresistible as the changing of the seasons. Before merchandising and advertising had been developed to their present state of near-perfection, a bereft populace avidly poured over the pages of the almanac for the pills and potions of the season. Today it has something better to shop for in the advertising columns.—Prattville Progress.

The War Lord's Prayer

Amid the tenseness which exists over the seemingly inevitable war between Italy and Ethiopia, and the fear which grips Europe over the possibility of another world conflict, an almost forgotten piece by Mark Twain is being republished.

Mark Twain was a delightful humorist, but there is no humor in this bitter piece of writing, called the "War Lord's Prayer," which follows:

"O Lord our God, help us to tear their soldiers to bloody shreds with our shells; help us to cover their smiling fields with the pale forms of their patriot dead; help us to drown the thunder of the guns with the wounded, writhing in pain; help us to lay waste their humble homes with a hurricane of fire; help us to wring the hearts of their unoffending widows with unavailing grief; help us to turn them out roofless with their little children to wander unfriended through wastes of their desolated land in rags and hunger and thirst, sport of the sunflames of summer and the icy winds of winter, broken in spirit, worn with travail, imploring Thee for the refuge of the grave and denied it—for our sakes, who adore Thee, Lord, blast their hopes, blight their lives, protract their bitter pilgrimage, make heavy their steps, water their way with their tears, stain the white snow with the blood of their wounded feet!"

If Your Job Was At Stake

The private automobile driver has much to learn, so far as safety is concerned, from the operator of commercial vehicles.

From 1927 to 1934, the number of passenger cars registered increased 7 1-2 per cent—while the number of such cars involved in fatal accidents rose 55 per cent.

By contrast, during the same period the number of trucks in use increased 11 per cent—while the number involved in fatal accidents rose only 5 per cent. Similar favorable records were made by buses and taxicabs.

The private driver is his own boss. He can take chances, get in accidents, and be as reckless and incompetent as he pleases without losing his "job"—unless the authorities step in. The commercial operator has to drive safely—or look for another calling. The reckless and incapable driver lasts about as long with a commercial vehicle concern as does a snowball in Hades—and the accident figures reflect that situation accurately.

If every driver adopted the attitude that his job and his livelihood depended upon his being safe and competent the accident toll would go into a tail spin at once. As a matter of fact, he has something even more vital at stake whenever he takes the wheel—his life, and the lives of others. Thirty-five thousand people died unnecessarily last year because of recklessly or incompetently driven automobiles. Will that happen again?

The midsummer offensive of the Old Guard was a complete flop. Comment in the independent press from every cornor of the country makes the verdict practically unanimous and confirms the predictions of some of the more astute counselors in the Republican party that the drive was premature. The owner of the hardware store carried me behind the counter to look over his supply of guns. He had them in all varieties and forms. His assortment of pistols was very interesting to me. He had them with steel handles, horn, nickel and ivory. They were beautiful in trim and shape, but a chill ran over me as I touched each one. I knew that each one, regardless of type and beauty, was made to kill. There is something about a pistol that gives me the "shivers" every time I see it. Such fire arms should be taken from the market and their manufacture should be prohibited by the government. In nine cases out of ten a man with a pistol is a dangerous citizen.

While passing the children's playground I observed a little boy standing with his face up against the trunk of a tree, and he was counting to a hundred with all the speed that he was able to make. When he shouted "a hundred," then he shouted louder, 'all eyes are open." I could see children scurrying here and there while he was counting, but when he made the announcement that all eyes were open, not a child was in sight. This was only a child's game, but it made me think of others than the ones who were there. Life is a game and I am wondering if you are playing it with your eyes open. Do you keep your eyes open and looking all the time? The open eye, the looking eye, will be able to see God in nature, will be able to see humanity in their suffering and able to see opportunities for service at all times. Blessed are the eyes that are wide open.

The homing pigeon is a bird of interest. Its main work is to fly and it never seems to be in too big a hurry to get its work done. We see it rise above the earth, poise itself in midair as if waiting for some supreme intelligence to direct its flight. It is never in too big a rush to get home to fail to take its bearings and to know its course. Once it has these then the journey home becomes an easy matter. It can not be swayed to do the wrong thing. Go to the homing pigeon thou impatient one and learn the lesson of taking time to get your bearings. In this time of rush and push we need to learn how to pause and take our bearings. We should lift ourselves above the world and there take our bearings for indeed we are spirits away from our eternal home.

Those who are familiar with the habits of homing pigeons have observed that they become confused when they are near a broadcasting station with heavy voltage. They pause in mid-air and cast about for directions. At last when they go beyond the range of the voltage then they circle a few times as if studying the air, and then sail away in the right direction as true as the needle is to the pole. Many a time have I observed Christian men and women as they have entered the high voltage of the world and they too, have become confused. Some of them, not like the homing pigeon, have come down to earth in ther confusion and never reached the home of the soul. Others have been seen to flounder about for a while and finally, like the pigeon, to get their bearings and sail away towards their eternal home.

It was my privilege to walk about in one of the best vegetable gardens that I ever saw. It was large and well cultivated. In this garden there were peas, potatoes, turnips, tomatoes, cabbage, carrots, lettuce, onions, okra, spinach and squash. The garden was crowded full of good things for the table but I observed that the garden did not feed from any of its own supply. The roots of the vegetables ran deep into the soil and fed from God's supply, and then they all gave of themselves to feed the family living on the top of the hill nearby. Is that a picture of your life? Are you living in God's world and drawing from God's supply that you may let your life be a blessing? Are you feeding from God and then feedng the hearts of men? Be as unselfish as a growing garden.

SENSATIONAL HIGH JUMPING HORSES AT ALA. STATE FAIR

A death-defying, sensational high-jumping, horse-riding act that is more thrilling and different than anything ever attempted before has been booked as one of the feature grandstand attractions at the Alabama State Fair from September 23 to 28.

In this new outdoor attraction Ted (Suicide) Elders uses three horses. He rides one horse alone, seated in a saddle, and while on horse back, riding at a terrific speed, has the horse jump over an automobile. Then circling the track he changes to a team of horses; jumps over the automobile, seated on one horse and leading the other. Then circling the grandstand again he gets into a standing position, with one foot on the back of each horse, and takes a flying leap with the horses over the automobile. It promises to be one of the real thrill moments of this year's big fair which also includes: auto races, tractor races, harness horse racing, Zacchini, the human cannon ball, and many other sensational acts, as well as the mile long midway of the Royal American shows with 14 big riding devices and 24 big side shows.

Legume Planting Will Begin Soon

Auburn, Ala.—Beginning September 15 and continuing through the first half of October, Alabama farmers will plant thousands of acres of hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas for enriching their soils during the winter months. That the acreage will be high is indicated by the fact that farmers of the state have already purchased over 4,000,000 pounds of seed through their cooperative organization, the State Marketing and Exchange Association in Montgomery.

"Hairy vetch should be drilled at the rate of not less than 20 pounds of seed per acre, and Austrian winter peas at the rate of 30 pounds per acre, advses J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist. "Apply superphosphate at the rate of 400 pounds per acre or the equivalent in basic slag. Basic slag may be mixed with the seed and inoculating soil and put through the distributor, but superphosphate may kill the inoculation if used in this manner. Basic slag also contains lime, which has been shown to be very beneficial to winter legumes."

Graves Becomes A 4-Star Admiral

Mobile, Ala., Sept. 1.—Before an audience of gulf coast yachtmen, Gov. Bibb Graves was made admiral of the Buccaneer Yacht Club here today, and Mrs. Graves was appointed 'admiral of the admiral," in ceremonies at the club's headquarters here. The executive and his wife were here for the Lipton Cup Regatta in Mobile Bay.

Circuit Judge Claude Grayson presented the governor a uniform cap of the Buccaneers, complete with insignia, gold braid and the four stars of a full admiral.

"From the stars I notice I'm not a rear admiral. nor a vice-admiral, but the whole thing," said Graves.

Mayor Cecil Bates then presented Mrs. Graves, who, the governor said. "is the only commanding officer of the admiral," a uniform cap and the title of "admiral of the admiral."

RUSSELL SUTLEY AND MISS JEWEL FOSHEE WEDDED SAT.

A social event of wide interest in Chilton County was the marriage last Saturday evening of Miss Jewel Foshee to Russell R. Sutley. The simple ceremony took place at the home of the Rev. G. G. Williams, near Clanton, with the Rev Williams officiating. Only a few close friends and relatives were present.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Sutley are well known here, Mrs. Sutley having held a responsible position with a local business firm for several months, and Mr. Sutley has been employed as clerk at the Clanton Postoffice for the past six years.

The bride is the attractive daughter of A. B. Foshee, Clanton R.FD. 6, and Mr. Sutley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Sutley, of Jemison.

Courthouse Looks Like New Since Renovation

Chilton County's courthouse looks like a new building these days. A complete renovation program has been in progress for the past week or ten days, and the result is very satisfying. The entire interior of the building has been painted and broken places in the plaster have been repaired; the floors have been cleaned and new linoleum has been placed on the floors in the probate offce and the commissioners court room.

Members of the Commissioners Court have also undertaken to care for the problem of office space for the departments of education, farm agency and the health unit. All have been crowded into the old Potts Building, near the courthouse, and the space has been inadequate. Last week work was begun on the erection of new office space on the rear of this building, which it was explained will be sufficient until such time as the county will be is position to erect more permanent quarters for these departments.

FORMER RESIDENT OF CHILTON LAID TO REST SUNDAY MORN.

Funeral services for W. D. (Billy) Dunlap, a native and practically a lifelong resident of Chilton County, who died last Saturday afternoon at his home in Selma, following an extended illness, were held Sunday morning at 11 o'clock from the Highland Baptist Church, near Clanton. The Rev. A.E. Trice officiated. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery with Spigener in charge.

Mr. Dunlap was born and spent most of his life in Chilton County, living for many years at West End, Clanton. He removed to Selma about a year ago. For several months, he had been ill.

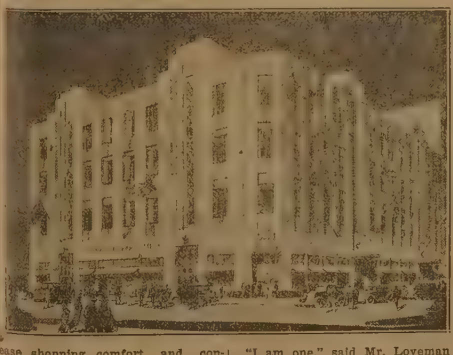
Surviving are his widow; three daughters, Mrs. Julia Ward, Clanton, Mrs. Maggie Scroggins, Mrs. Nancy Williams; two sons, Jim and Huey Dunlap, all of Selma.

NEW LOVEMAN STORE TO HAVE MANY CONVENIENCE FEATURES

Comfort of Public and Employes Adequately Assured—Continuation of NRA Hours Carried Over Into New Store.

With the opening of the new Loveman, Joseph and Loeb Department Store in Birmingham, around the middle of October, Alabama will boast the South's finest and most modern retail establishment.

Scores of innovations will be introduced in the new building, features seen for the first time in the South, most of which are designed to increase shopping comfort and convenience for the public, and better working conditions for the store's hundreds of employes.



Designed to increase ease of movement from the first to the second floors is a modern escalator, or moving stairway, the first to be installed in the Southeast. This will be supplemented by a battery of quiet, swift elevators to all floors.

Twelve-month air conditioning—the first year round system in the South—will be installed. This plant, the same as that in the huge Rockefeller Center in New York City, is scientifically arranged to avoid the sudden changes of temperature experienced in many of the temporary (hot weather) installations.

Rest-rooms for the public will be splendidly equipped—large, and comfortably furnished, increasing the popularity of Loveman's as the place to meet your friends while in Alabama's largest city.

Separate rest-rooms for employes will be the finest of their kind in the South. A feature of the new Loveman's is the installatión of separate splendidly equipped hospitals—one for white employes, and one for colored employes. This is in line with the policy of Mr. Joseph H. Loveman that it is the duty of modern retailers to care for employes as painstakingly as for the public.

"I am one," said Mr. Loveman recently, "who greatly regrets the official passing of NRA. So far as this institution is concerned we hope and intend to hold for our employes all the gains made in wages and working conditions under NRA. It is our intention to continue these conditions in our new building, as we have since the beginning of NRA."

Visitors to Birmingham will find the new Loveman's one of the showplaces of the South. Constructed of Alabama steel, and concrete, finished in Alabama limestone, and equipped with fixtures furnished by Alabama manufacturers it will stand as a monument to Alabama energy, and initiative—an institution as truly representative of our State as the Jones Valley bed-rock on which it is erected.

Cattle For Exhibit Need Special Care

Auburn, Ala.—Cattle to be exhibited at fairs should be given special care and feed for a month, or more, before they are to be shown.

As a feed, F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist at Auburn, recommends a mixture composed of 30 pounds of crushed oats, 25 pounds of wheat bran, 7 one-half pounds of linseed meal and 7 one-half pounds of cottonseed meal.

Blankets placed over the animals during the fitting period will help give their coat a sleek, glossy appearance. The blankets should be removed daily and each animal given a good rubdown with brush and hand. Clip the head, ears, neck, belly, and tail setting a few days before exhibition time. Trim and polish the horns and hoofs.

It Pays To Trade in Clanton.

Amendments Are Passed Legalizing AAA

Auburn, Ala.—Amendments have been passed by Congress and signed by President Roosevelt to insure the constitutionality of the Agricultural Adjustment Act. The amendments do three things:

1. The authority of the Secretary of Agriculture is defined and limited in great detail, so that it will be unmistakable that Congress is not delegating to an adminstrative officer powers vested only in the legislative branch of the Government.

2. Operation of the Act is rightly limited to interstate commerce, and the interstate commerce clause is redefined to bring it in line with language previously used by the Supreme Court in decisions on this question. At the same time, definite provision is made for cooperation of the Federal Government and the State governments where this is advisable to make a program effective.

3. All previous and existing taxes, benefit payments, contracts, instituted prior to the adoption of the amendments, are legalized and ratified by Congress.

CHRYSLER DEALERS PASS 100,000 MARK, PLYMOUTH DELIVERIES

Retail deliveries of Plymouth cars by Chrysler dealers in the current year passed the 100,000 mark in the week ending August 10 when 102,641 were reported for the 32 weeks including that date. This is exclusive of the large business done by the Dodge and DeSoto dealer bodies. In the same 32 weeks, Chrysler dealers had delivered at retail 29,146 Chryslers, a grand total of 131,787 units, according to J. W. Frazer, vice-president of the Chrysler Sales Division of the Chrysler Corporation.

This figure is far ahead of the reports for the corresponding periods of the last three years. Plymouth deliveries are 29.6 per cent, 93 per cent and 253.6 per cent ahead of 1934, 1933 and 1932 respectively for the same number of weeks. Chrysler deliveries are 79.5 per cent ahead of last year, 70.8 per cent ahead of 1933 and 56.8 per cent ahead of 1932, for the same number of weeks. On the combined lines the advances are 38.1 per cent over the first 32 weeks of 1934, 87.6 per cent over the corresponding period of 1933, and 176.8 per cent over the corresponding period of 1932.

The week ending August 10 showed a big increase over the corresponding weeks of the last three years. Retail deliveries reported totaled 2926 Plymouths and 839 Chryslers, a total of 3765 units, a remarkable showing for so late in the summer. This is an increase of 7.5 per cent in Plymouth deliveries and of 45.4 per cest in Chrysler deliveries over the week ending August 11, 1934. The increases over the week endiny August 12, 1933 are respectively 20.5 per cent for Plymouth and 7 per cent for Chrysler. The deliveries of Plymouths are up 276.6 per cent over the week ending August 13, 1932 and the Chrysler deliveries show an increase of 152.7 per cent.

The used car situation with Chrysler dealers continues excellent. They delivered 6511 used cars to customers in the week ending August 10, leaving only a little over 4 one-half weeks' supply at the current rate of deliveries.

ernment I find it cheaper, save time and work, to proceed with paving the streets by first allowing the property owners, or the people to vote on the question, and in due time an election will be called.

I am pleased with this procedure as it places the responsibility on the people to authorize the paving or reject it. In the very beginning of the discussion, I told the property owners in your issue of July 15th, if they desired the paving, to signify their own wish by filing a petition wth me asking that the street on which they live, or own property, be paved. If there is any one who doubts the property owners on the most used streets want the paving, I invite them to call at my office and examine the petitions left with me requesting the paving be done.

I have not directly or indirectly made any effort to force the paving on the people, and unless there is a great change of heart since the petitions were filed, there will be few opposing votes as is evidenced by the petitions left with me approving the paving.

To the limit of my ability and knowledge, I shall protect the property owners against graft, inferior materials and poor workmanship on these improvements to our city if ordered done in the coming election.

It is true that all legal voters within the City limits have a right to vote on the matter. But the property owner, or the property improved will not have to pay the debt. It is a fact however, the Government will look to, and make settlement with the City Officials for the payment of bonds when they fall due, but the City will collect from each property owner the amount assessed against the property for the paving.

The person without property gets the benefit of paved streets without cost to himself, but should he desire to defeat the wish of the property owner to pay for the paving in front of their own property, he is at liberty to oppose the paving. I am not prepared to say at this time when the bonds will be due, but they will be serial, that is coming due over a period of possibly ten years or more. The property owner may pay cash when the work is completed, or to make yearly payments, but will not be permitted to defer all payments until the last bond is due. That would be very poor business for both city and property owner.

Application has been made to the Government for sufficient money to pave the streets, extend the water mains to the people recently included in the City limits, and to seat the City auditorium. The exact amount of money needed cannot be known at this time, but be assured more money than is necessary to complete the work will not be borrowed. In fact the Government will not allow the money to be used for any purpose other than that specified in the application.

I hope the people who have lived in Clanton all the while will approve of the water extension to our friends, giving them fire protection also. They too, have a right to vote, and I hope will not forget to do so. Remember the Government pays 45 per cent of the total cost of the street paving, the extension of the water mains and seating the City auditorium. We are not likely to ever have another opportunity like this.

C. FENN JONES, Mayor.

SENATOR LONG IS KILLED BY YOUNG DOCTOR

Career Of Colorful Man Ended As He Left La., Capitol

Baton Rouge, La. Sept. 10— United States Senator Huey Pierce Long is dead.

The Louisiana "Kingfish" who rose from the obscurity of a farm boy to become the most powerful individual state political leader in the history of America, died of an assassin's bullet at 4:10 a. m. Tuesday.

He was shot and mortally wounded Sunday night by Dr. Carl A. Weiss, young Baton Rouge eye specialist, in the state capitol building here, while directing one of his many dictatorial sessions of the Louisiana Legislature.

Dr. Weiss was slain on the spot by Long's ever-present bodyguard, his body pierced by no less than 15 submachine gun and pistol bullets.

Brothers Reconciled

Senator Long fought a game but losing battle for life, succumbing only after doctors had used every means known to medical science to keep him alive. Blood transfusions. heart stimulants, oxygen administrations were of no avail.

His wife, his three children and his three brothers, were at his bedside. The brothers, bitterly estranged from the Kingfish in life, enacted a dramatic reconciliation as Long lay dying.

Also in the room were Gov. O. K. Allen, Lieut.-Gov. James Noe, and his trusted confidant, Abe Shushan.

All were profoundly affected by his passing.

Politically, the death of Senator Long assumes estate and national significance. His Louisiana machine tottered under the loss of his vigorous ruthless leadership. His national influence was at an end.

Lights Sgnal Death

The closing hours of Senator Long's life were tensely dramatic and tragic.

With the end inevitable, he lay motionless on his bed in the Our Lady of the Lake Sanitarium, encased in an oxygen tent. His eyes stared ceilingward.

Two physicians, their faces grim, stood in attendance. Two nurses and a nun moved silently but swiftly about the room.

The senator's bodyguard stood grouped on the main floor, waiting for the end they feared.

Members of the family and political friends who owed their all to the dying man, stood hushed in silence.

Rain beat steadily against the window of his dimly lighted room.

With a suddenness that forebode the end, lights were darkened; then flashed on again.

It was 4:10 a. m.

Huey Was Dead

The waiting group was hushed.

Governor Allen, tears streaming down his cheeks, stumbled into the corridor.

Others moved silently away into the early dawn.

Huey Long was dead.

MODERN BEAUTY SHOPPE WILL GET NEW HOME

Announcement Is Made Thru The News Of The Business Change

Among the occupants of the new Moore Building, which stands on the well known Mullins Corner in Clanton, will be The Modern Beauty Shoppe, one of the city's newest business establishments.

Announcement was made this week by its operator, Mrs. W. C. Robinson, that the shop will be in its new location within the next few days, by this week end at least, and with the installation of additional equipment, among which is the new Royal Patricia permanent waving machine, Mrs. Robinson declared that the service available at this establishment will be without superior.

Removing from the present location, west of the highway, the expert staff which has been responsible for the recognition won by The Modern Beauty Shoppe in so short a time will be retained, Mrs. Robinson stated. The new Royal Patricia permanent waving machine will be an innovation in beauty culture in this section, it is believed.

Another feature of the service to be rendered by this firm in the future will be the scrool of beauty, which will be conducted in connection with the shop.

City Reconsiders On Community Center

$1,500 Offered By City On Airport Center Work Here

Developement of the property at the local airport into a community center for the benefit and enjoyment of every citizen in Chilton County is still just a pipe dream, and apparently has little chance of ever becoming anything more.

Failure of the Commissioners Court last Friday afternoon to take any action on the City's offer of a $1500 participation with the county in purchasing 32 acres of additional land and its improvement, it seems has doomed the possibilities of securing any further aid from the Federal Government for this project.

Applications for Federal aid were required to be on file in Montgomery

It was announced this week by Mayor C. City policemen began this week chalking cars along this street, and one driver who was parked for five hours was given a minimum fine after he insisted that he was unaware of the regulations. Signs have been posted, several to the block, reminding autoists of this ordinance.

Mayor Jones Is Of Opinion That Something Wrong

Several burlaries have been committed in Clanton during recent months, and Mayor C. Fenn Jones feels that it is high time that something be done about it.

When thieves get so brave that they will enter the mayor's home in broad daylight and make off with his best suit and overcoat—and winter approaching, then the evidence is rather strong that the police department has work to do.

The mayor felt a hint of cooler weather in the air yesterday and decided maybe he'd better see if his overcoat was in readiness should the temperature do a toboggan some of these mornings.

A search of his clothes closet revealed that his overcoat and two practically new suits were missing. He esticated the loss at above a hundred dollars.

AAA Payments Boost Chilton County Income

Farmers of Chilton County who are cooperating in the agricultural programs received a total of $149,010.76 in rental and benefit payments during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, reports J.W. Fant, County Agent.

These payments together with the increase in prices paid to farmers for their commodities have been reflected in the larger income being received by farmers, said Dr. L.N. Duncan, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and director of the State Extension Service.

From 1932 to 1934, he pointed out, the total cash income of Alabama farmers increased from $59,605,000 to $114,162,000. The 1933 income was $92,737,000.

The total AAA payments to farmers of the State during the past fiscal year ran to $9,780,926.15, divided as follows: Cotton farmers, $9,322,776.44; corn-hog producers, $454,221.11; and tobacco growers, $3,928.60.

Dr. Gragg Expresses His Appreciation Of Honor Bestowed By Commissioners Here

Editor, Chilton County News,

Dear Sir:

It is in order, and gives me pleasure, to express my thanks to the Commissioners Court for bestowing on me the honor of naming our little flying field for me. I also want to thank those who suggested this, among whom are members of the Kiwanis Club, both our county papers, and others, especially Mr. Victor Norris.

However, I want to say frankly that I would a thousand times over preferred that our Commissioners could have added more land to this field, and provided a county-wide center; including a large community house, a fair ground for our farmers, an athletic field for those who liked games, and a pool for those who liked to swim. I say that I would a thousand tmes over preferred this for our farmers and our boys and girls than to have it named for me.

This place was not selected by me, the land did not belong to my friend John Smith, nor to anybody's cousin Francis Marion or Aunt Sallie Brown. It was the land selected by Mr. Hoppin of the Department of Commerce. Washington, D.C., who spent a whole day looking over land for miles all around Clanton. He said it was an ideal place, and he is the man who selected Montgomery airport as well as hundreds of others all over the United States.

The American Legion's Committee selected it. It was the choice of our farmers, led by Mr. Fant. It was the choice of our Educational Department led by Mr. Little, and it was the choice of both of our county papers representing both old political parties.

It was level land, supplied with plenty of good fresh running water at all times, situated about the proper distance from town, near the county seat, and almost in the geographical center of the county and state; and the Federal Government stood ready to give us many thousands of dollars to develop it and offered to let us have this under the Works Progress Administration which required so little of us locally as to be practically nothing.

However, no use crying over "spilled milk"; it is gone now and we would better forget that and look forward, hoping there will be another time coming.

Again thanking all.

Yours for better things for all,

V. J. GRAGG.

COUNTY AGENT EXPLAINS ON COTTON LOAN

Follows Idea Expressed By Senator Black Here Recently

In many ways the 10-cent cotton loan offered by the government this year to producers is more advantageous than the old 12-cent loan. For the man who expects to continue to cooperate with the administration's efforts in behalf of the cotton grower, there is no chance for him to lose. He can sell his cotton on the open market, or borrow from the government, and still be assured that he will receive 12 cents per pound for his product.

County Agent J. W. Fant, writing on the subject this week, ponts out these improvements. Senator Hugo Black in an interview with a News reporter last week cited the advantage that is to be be had from being able to compete on the world market.

Had the government pegged the loan value of cotton at 12 cents again this year, this would have been in excess of the price offered on the world market, consequently the government

STORES TELL OF BIG INCREASE IN BUSINESS

Past Week-End Shows Boost In Buying Over The County

Clanton merchants and business men reported that there is a decided pick-up in business in the county since marketing of the cotton crop has begun. On every hand Monday was heard the assertion that the past week end was the busiest in many months, perhaps since last Spring.

Tellers at both banks here stated that deposits Monday were far in excess of the average Monday, resulting no doubt from the fact that business was better with the various firms over the week end. Clerks in the stores and other establishments reported that Saturday was te busiest day in a long time.

Although cotton buyers estimated that only a very small percentage of the county's crop s being placed on the market, there is no doubt that the pick-up is due to the money being received in the rural sections from this staple. One source of income is that of cotton-picking. Practically all of the money expended for this labor is spent not later than the following week-end.

One cotton buyer declared that he doubted if more than 1000 bales of cotton have been sold in the entire county. He said that less than half of the crop has been harvested and stated that he did not believe that more than 15 per cent is being sold.

All lines of merchandising enjoyed their share in the "buying spree" here Saturday. From shoes for the family to lollypops for the baby, every retailer smiled his agreement that "things were pretty good Saturday." Although it is harvest season, and farmers are expected to be garnering in much of the food produced during the year, grocers reported that their sales had been boosted along with all other lines.

CHILTON STAR TEAM WINNER IN TOURNAMENT

Final Game Is Played At Maplesville Sunday Afternoon

The Chilton County All-Stars won over the Shelby County All-Stars in a seven-game duel, which has been in progress here for the past ten days, with a four to three victory, when the Shelby boys dropped their luck Sunday afternoon in the final game at Maplesville, and the Chiltonians chalked a 12 to 3 score.

Climaxing a two-weeks tournament of the amateur baseball players of Central Alabama, selection of an all-star team was made from the 196 players participating in the tournament, and this nine was matched with Shelby's all-stars in seven hard-fought games.

Sunday afternoon's contest was the deciding battle. A tie of three to three had been the result of the first six games. The Shelby boys seemed to have lost all their luck, as the Chiltonians tripped off 12 runs against their three.

Score throughout the series was: Shelby, 9-2; Chilton, 4-3; Shelby, 5-1; Shelby, 10-5; Chilton, 5-4, and Chilton, 12-3.

Farmer Getting A Little Of The Gravy

Of course, government should hold the scales on a plane of equality, meting out to all groups and businesses equal and exact justice and special favors to none, but that happens to be one of those beautiful goals which we extol but never attain. Just now the American farmer is enjoying a share of government favoritism for the first time in his long struggle to survive. This helping hand is being begrudged by some and hailed with approval by others. Says the Omaha World Herald:

"'The farmers,' says Mark Sullivan, 'will be seriously misled if they think it is possible to keep permanently anything so contrary to the average American point of view as the processing tax on hogs.' Wherein Mr. Sullivan gives no credit whatever to the average American sense of fair play. The American has tolerated the tariff until it has become apparently an inescapable part of the American system. Even when agriculture was most prosperous and satisfied, the tariff was discriminating against it and placing it at a disadvantage. Since the war, that disadvantage has grown to the point of slow starvation for agriculture. Is the average American point of view against passing the gravy around? If it is, then our publicists had better put their time trying to educate it to a sense of fairness instead of egging it on to hatred of the producers of the nation's food and textiles. If we know anything about the temper of agriculture, and we think we do, it is sick and tired of being spit upon. From now on it is going to have its place in the American sun or know the reason why."—Selma Times-Journal.

The Printer Gets Things Mixed

A printer up in the Valley of Virginia had been imbibing a little too freely in ABC liquor, but was determined to go to press with his publication. After receiving a column of type from the linotype operator containing an account of a marriage and an auction sale he accidentally dropped it on the floor and in putting it together obtained the following result relative to the marriage writeup:

Mr. John Eaton and Miss Mary Thompson were united in marriage at public auction, on the premises, on last Friday at high noon, in the presence of two yearling heifers and 13-3-year-old steers. The bride wore a gown of two tons of unbaled timothy hay and several hundred bundles of fodder, trimmed with two spring-tooth harrows and one riding cultivator. She carried a bouquet of beautiful sausage grinders, stuffers and cooking utensils. The groom has been a lifelong resident of Bentonville, being general manager of two dozen Berkshire pigs and about 100 Leghorn hens. The bride was given in marriage by two draft mares, to foal by day of sale, and the bridesmaids were: one Oliver chilled plow, a 6-hoe drill and two shares of telephone stock. The groom's best man was a cider press, wheat fan and two barrels of cider vinegar. Miss Emily John, a friend of the bride, softly played "O Promise Me" on one New Idea manure spreader, a cornsheller and two copper kettles and stands. The color scheme of lavender and yellow was carried out, the room being decorated with a 1929 Ford sedan, one double-barrel shotgun and 14 Jersey heifers, eligible to registration. After a luncheon and reception, the happy couple left for a trip of two months time, with 2 per cent off for cash, and upon their return will be at home with 2 sets of flytraps, and one slightly used baby carriage. The officiating minister was Charlie Hilbert, auctioneer.—Exchange.

We Commend Our Local CCC Boys

Many of the CCC boys stationed at Clanton speak Spanish, and the result is natives of Chilton County do not understand much of what they say. But some things are easily understood in any language.

Take, for instance, an incident which happened last week at the local camp. Earl Adams, one of the boys from Key West, Florida, received word that two brothers, one sister and four other relatives had been killed in the recent Florida storm. That was a tragic message for anyone to receive, and it was doubly so to Earl, because he had no funds with which to pay his fare home. About forty dollars were needed, and he possessed only a mere fraction of that amount.

He was in a dilemma, until the other boys were informed of the situation. They had no money worth mentioning either, for they get only a small allowance each month. But one after another they came forward and pledged a portion of their next payday as security to obtain money for Earl's fare home. Last Friday, he left to be with his bereaved parents in a time of sorrow.

We may not be able to understand the every day conversation of these boys as they pass on the street, but we can easily understand acts like this, and it makes us glad to know that whatever language they speak their hearts beat in unison with the best that is in all of us.

A Clipping For Everyone

Here is a clipping from the pen of George Matthew Adams we have been carrying around for sometime. It needs no explanation; just read it yourself.

Just Be Yourself

Too many of us are trying to be somebody else. The interesting person is the one who uses his own equipment—and secretly glories in the fact.

There isn't a human being living does not have something distinctive and original about himself. Our frames are similar, but the substance of us is what counts in presenting the picture of us to the world.

Just be yourself and you will not only be unique in a large way, but you will be an honest expression of a human being.

I know a bootblack who interests me every time he shines my shoes. He is intelligent, painstaking, and alert. I often go out of my way to patronize him, for I know that I get the best "shines" to be had, as well as coming in contact with a man who takes pride in his work and is happy in what he does. I know many of his customers who go to him for the same reason I do.

I admire the man or woman who will stand on his or her own feet and not be stampeded by every whim of fact or fashion. I like the one who will dress to fit his personality and not to please a tailor. I like the one who will refuse to do the things that other people do—just because he honors his own sense of independent right. And who doesn't? It is a mistake that the "different" person outcasts himself. He creates a separate world! And usually that world is greatly envied.

Carry your enthusiasms along with you. Never mind what other people think of them. They are yours. And remember that your thinking machine is the most individual affair that you own. Therefore, do your own thinking. Be proud of your ideas if they please you and make you feel honest and comfortable. Even though many of them may be wrong, keep them as property—until they prove themselves worthless.

It is not always simple to understand why we are here in this world—but since we find ourselves here, let us make a grand success of it—by being ourselves to the utmost.—From The Opp Weekly News.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

-o-

Have you ever driven a car? Have you ever ridden in a car? If so you are familiar with "back seat driving." You know such expresions as these: "Look out for that cow—Slow down please—Get over on your side of the road—Do not take this curve at such speed—You just did miss that truck—You must be blind—Blow your horn, etc." In a like manner the most of us who are riding with God in His heaven bound car, do a lot of back seat driving. We are inclined to tell God what is wrong with His car. We tell Him when there is danger. We inform Him when to slow down and when to speed up. We tell Him to go easy around the curves of life. We instruct Him to blow his horn, and sometimes we even charge Him of letting us escape by the skin of our teeth. It is rather amusing to listen to the amount of "back seat driving" that we hear in God's car.

A lone man was sitting in his car by the roadside when two highwaymen stepped from ambush and covered him with their guns. They entered his car and placing the muzzle of a gun against his ribs, ordered him to drive. The man at the wheel started his car at a slow speed, but was ordered to go faster. He stepped on the gas still more and the car was making forty miles per hour. This did not satisfy the thugs and they demanded more speed. They kept demanding "'Go faster." Those who have the habit of drinking whiskey sitting by them and ordering them to "speed up" may expect to turn turtle on the curves of life.

The county superintendent of education had a county map hanging on the wall of his office and two newly elected teachers came in and began a close study of that map. They seemed to lose all interest in maps of a larger size. The Prime Minister of Great Britian addressing Parliament said, "Gentlemen, we might study larger maps." To be sure we are living in an age when human life has become complicated. We should know our county maps of the world. A localized citizenship is too selfish for the new age. We might study larger maps.

A steeple-jack was putting on a wall climbing exhibition in Montgomery. Thousands of people had gathered on the square to see this artist climb to the top of the Exchange Hotel. With caution he had made his way up the wall to the fourth story and all at once he seemed to have become confused. He paused and lifted his eyes upward and quietly studied his path. The wall was perpendicular and the climb was hard, but this man rested there with his eyes looking upward until he regained self-confidence and strength to clmb on higher. The climb of life is steep and hard, and the fellow who loses self-confidence is sure to fail in his efforts. To succeed we must not look down, but we must ever look upward and keep our hearts full of self-confidence. We win in the climb of life by keeping our vision upward.

At the Tuskegee Institute Doctor Carver, that Negro wizard of the South, was asked: "Doctor, why do you not accept a larger salary than this institution can give you and go elsewhere for your investigations." The simple old darkey replied: "Like Booker T. Washington I prefer to let down my bucket where I am." He meant to say that there is a wealth of life where we live. A Roman king and his son were fighting side by side in the battle, when the son complained to his father that his sword was too short. The old king then said to his boy: "If your sword is too short then step up many inches closer." Many of us think that we could do wonders if we were elsewhere, or if we had more perfect equipment. Better see what you can do by doing your best were you are.

There's lots of room in the

FORD V·8

EVERY ONE who steps into the Ford V-8 for the first time is surprised at its roominess. There's exceptional seat room, leg room and head room in all body types — the whole car gives you a feeling of substantial size.

The Ford gives you extra body room because of the compact design of the V-8 engine — an exclusive Ford feature at a low price. This V-8 engine takes up less space in the hood and permits more of the car's length to be used for passenger comfort. Many a car selling at a higher price does not give you as much interior room as the Ford V-8.

Rear seats are wide and restful . . . three people can ride comfortably in the front seat of the Fordor Sedan, Fordor Touring Sedan, Convertible Sedan and Phaeton, and in the Coupes and Roadster. The seat of the Ford V-8 Roadster is 52 inches wide. A ride in the Ford V-8 will show that it combines unusual body room with fine-car performance, safety and comfort.

Youths In CCC Camp to Start Soon On Erosion Program

The process of acclimatizing the 200 recruits at the Civilian Conservation Corps Camp, three-fourths of a mile west of Clanton, has been just about completed, according to Capt. F. G. Martin, and work will soon be started on an extensive soil erosion prevention project throughout Chilton County.

For 10 days, the recruits have been undergoing shots for typhoid prevention and vaccination for smallpox, and other "hardening" processes preparatory to beginning work in the fields. Capt. Martin declared Friday the boys are in fine shape, and said that he expects orders almost any day to assign them to F. E. Cooper, superintendent of the soil erosion project, who will have charge of them at work.

Grounds Beautified

Much time has been spent in beautifying the camp grounds. Driveways throughout the 12 acres have been lined with rock, a tennis court is being prepared, and a boxing rink is ready. There are several amateur fighters in the enrollment and some real, up-to-the minute fights are anticipated.

The enrollment is composed largely of boys from Key West, Miami, and West Palm Beach. Many are of Spanish and Cuban extraction, and a few speak only the Spanish language. Thirteen local boys will be enrolled within the next few days, Capt. Martin stated

Land for the camp site was leased by the city and county governments several months ago, as local participation in the project. For several weeks approximately 50 recruits from a Bessemer camp have been stationed here, assisting in the work of erecting the 16 camp buildings, which include office quarters, barracks, gymnasium and recreation hall, educational building, and several other structures.

Groups To Be Formed

When working, four groups will be formed and assigned to various localities. Mr. Cooper, with technical engineers, has been studying the possibilities of the erosion work for the past month. This work will consist of eliminating "gullies" and assisting landowners in protecting their property from the greatest of all enemies, erosion.

Working in conjunction with the office of the county farm agent, the project will be carried on in every section of the county. Some months ago, County Agent J. W. Fant inaugurated a terracing program here and machinery was purchased by the Court of County Commissioners for this purpose. It is understood that present plans call for a continuation of this program.

Composing the official staff at the camp are: Capt. Martin, Lieut. R. F. Strickland, Lieut. W. C. Golden, medical supervisor, F. E. Cooper, superintendent of the erosion project, and P. J. Benrimo, educational supervisor.

Educational Plans

One of the most interesting phases of the camp life is in the educational plans being developed by Mr. Benrimo. Efforts are being made to secure experts instructors in the art of woodcraft and other similar subjects, with the aim of teaching the boys something of a profession while they are enrolled better equipping them to earn a living when they return home. Courses in regular academic work will also be given, Mr. Benrimo announced.

The one qualification these boys can boast of, is a healthy appetite, according to few items checked off the monthly grocery list, which includes: 4,500 loaves of bread; 2,000 pounds of Irish potatoes; 3,300 pints of sweet milk; 810 dozen eggs, and six cows.

It Pays To Trade In Clanton

Miss Baldwin And Mr. MacLawrine Are Married Sat.

The marriage of Miss Betty Sutton Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Baldwin, of Mountain Creek, to William S. MacLawrine, of New Orleans, formerly of Fitzpatrick, Ala., was beautifully solemnized Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, the family's home, Eidelweis.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Louis MacLawrine and the late Mr. MacLawrine.

Decorations in the rooms were of unusual beauty. The ceremony took place in the drawing room, before an altar of improvised palms and Woodwardsia ferns, with other exotic greenery making background for standards holding huge clusters of snowy dahlias, these alternately placed with wide spreading candelabra in which burned tall tapers.

Miss Mathilde Taber and Miss Frances Smith lighted the candles.

Mrs .B. B. Mabson, Jr., played a program of selections during the assembling of the guests. During the ceremony "To A Wild Rose," (MacDowell) was softly played. The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was processional.

Mrs. Benjamin Fitzpatrick Baldwin was matron of honor.

Miss Celia Baldwin was maid of honor, and Miss Sarah Baldwin, bridesmaid.

They were dressed similarly in pink crepe, made in graceful mode. Their flowers weer arm clusters of pink asters.

Fred MacLawrine was best man.

The bride entered with her father by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a lovely gown of bridal satin made on princess lines. The neck line, "V" in front, was finished with a small Elizabethan collar in the back.

A coat of the satin extended into a court train.

A hat of white satin was worn with a brief tulle veil.

The bridal bouquet was of brile's roses, showered with valley lilies.

Mrs. Baldwin, mother of the bride, wore a gown of black lace. Her flowers weer a corsage bouquet of pink roses and African violets.

A reception followed the ceremony. The bride's table was laid with a rare lace, and was centered with the tiered wedding cake, embossed in white roses and valley lilies. Garlanding the center piece were gorgeous pink dahlias Pink tapers in antique siver candelabra were end pieces on the table.

Wedding candles filled silver comports on the table, and the smal cakes and molded ices were in bridal symbols.

Chesterfield
CIGARETTES

Welding

. . . the best way to make a perfect union of two pieces of metal is by welding them together.

. . . and the best way to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette is by welding together the different types of tobacco . . .

That is just what we do in making CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes—the three types of mild ripe home-grown tobaccos, that is tobaccos grown in this country, are welded together. Then they are welded with aromatic Turkish.

When these tobaccos are welded together you get a combined flavor which is entirely different from any one type of tobacco.

It is this welding of the right amounts of the right kind of tobaccos that makes CHESTERFIELD a milder and better-tasting cigarette.

Third Annual Memorial To Rev. D. S. Martin To Be In Near Future

Plans are being arranged for the third Annual Memorial Service and Home Coming at the Martin Memorial which stands on the site of the old Besthesda Baptist Church, near Equality, in Coosa County, according to information from J. Mell Martin. The all day memorial services in honor of the late Rev. Darius S. Martin will be held Sunday, Sept. 29, according to present plans.

Dedicated in honor of his lifelong work as a Baptist minister in that section, the memorial services and home coming have become an annual affair, not only for the family of the beloved minister, but for his friends throughout the State.

Many years ago, a new church was built to house the worshippers of that community, but rather than see the old church, where he had attended since early boyhood, torn away, the Rev. Martin purchased it. When his death came a few years ago, the building was renovated and dedicated as a memorial to him and his work of "soul saving."

Details of the program will be announced later, J. Mell Martin, son of the late minister. announced.

Milt Tolbert Show Here For One Night, Saturday, Sept. 14th

The old timers from Dothan are on the road again, with everything new but the name. Milt Tolbert tent theatre is coming to Clanton for one engagement—Saturday night, September 14th. This will be welcome news to the many friends of that organization, which used to make this territory every fall until the state license was made prohibitive four or five years ago.

Mr. Billy Wagoner, the advance man, was in Clanton last Thursday putting up signs, arranging for advertising, etc. He stated that they had an entirely new outfit, new scenery, larger tent, better seats, and everything.

The entertainment consists of a number of feature vaudeville acts, including Jona's Twins, celebrated night club entertainers—big-time vaudeville dancing act.

IN MEMORY OF W. D. DUNLAP

On Saturlay morning, August 30, God called from us our loving father. He suffered so long with such pains. All was done for him that loving hands could do but the Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away. But Papa, your empty chair is still there. Your corner looks so lonely. Our home is sad—so sad.

I cannot help but weep and mourn for Papa, you are gone forever. The years you spent with us were so sweet. The time you spent with us was so sweet. I am going to live the life you lived, Papa, so I can meet you in heaven above.—One who dearly loved you, Mrs. L. L. Williams.

Application Made For Funds For Rural Electricity

Birmingham, Ala. Sept. 9— In connection with the Company's rural electrification program, Mr. T. W. Martin, President of Alabama Power Company, today, made the following statement:

"On May 22 last, we filed with Mr. Morris Llewellyn Cooke, Rural Electrification Administrator, Washington. application for approximately $1,400,000 with which to construct 850 miles of rural lines in Alabama. This application is still pending. Meanwhile the Company has begun construction of approximately 400 miles of these lines at an estimated cost of $555,000 located in 37 counties in the State, and they should be completed within a period of seven to nine months. The Company is now serving rural consumers in every county in the State except two, and the present constructios is merely an extension of the program on which the Company has been engaged in its efforts over the past fifteen years to extend electric service to rural areas of the State."

Clanton Methodist Church News

Rev. A. E. Middlebrooks, Minister

1935

Last Sunday was a great day in church attendance. The morning service had the largest crowd in several months. If you were not present last Sunday do not miss next Sunday.

Sunday week has been designated by the Board of Christian Education as Rally Day. Let's make it a real RALLY DAY for both church school and all the church services. Vacation time is over and you are settling down to work again. Remember the church is waiting for you. Put it first in your thoughts and plans. Join Stanley High and others in saying:

"I pledge myself to spend as much time on the work of the church as I spend in the work of any other organization.

"I agree to accept no responsibility in any undertaking that I am not ready to accept in the undertakings of the church."

Keep the habit of going to church and then you will want to go. If you allow yourself to develop the non-church-going habit you will not want to go to church. "If you let yourself go you are gone."

How A. T. & T. Ownership Aids Your Service

THERE is no mystery about the fact that the Southern Bell Telephone Company is owned by the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, and that the Western Electric Company is the manufacturing branch and supply agent of the entire Bell System.

The Bell System set-up is a natural one. It was not created by artificial means. It was created by the evolution of telephone service over a period of fifty years, as there developed a need for the various units.

This relationship has made possible the extensive and unequalled telephone service which Alabama enjoys today.

A striking illustration of its economy and value was seen when Birmingham, Alabama's local and long distance service was severely crippled during the disastrous fire of March, 1934. While the fire still raged, equipment, apparatus and supplies were on the way to Birmingham by truck and by train from Western Electric warehouses in Atlanta, New Orleans, Louisville and more distant points. Skilled Western Electric installers and other workers were rushed from all sections, even as far away as Pittsburgh.

The entire resources of the Bell System were placed at Birmingham's disposal and except for this the service would have remained crippled and the public greatly inconvenienced for many weeks.

As a result of Southern Bell's relationship with the Bell System, Birmingham's service was restored in record-breaking time and in an orderly and economical manner.

It is this coordination of effort and resources that has made Alabama's telephone service so valuable and dependable and such an important factor in the welfare and happiness of the people of this great State.

not later than Monday for this type of project, it is understool. Unless some provision should be made later by which the government will lend its assistance in the development of this project, there is little hope that the county will ever have such a recreational center as has been pictured by those who have repeatedly appeared before the court and petitioned its cooperation.

The city of Clanton retracted its refusal of last Tuesday evening to participate,when the council in special session Thursday night voted unanimously to appropriate $1500 to the project. An offer had been male by the Commissioners Court to appropriate three dollars to the city's one in the purchase of the additional land needed for the development of a community center and any other improvements.

When the proposition was first presented to the council, it was refused. But Thursday night, when recalled by Mayor C. Fenn Jones, it was voted unanimously by those members present to appropriate $1500. Four hundred dollars, necessary for the city's one-fourth partcipation in the purchase of the 32 acres of land, had been raised by private donations.

Had the Commissioners Court decided to accept the proposition, this would have given $6,000 in the fund for improvements after the land had been paid for, and it is believed that a large appropriation from the government would have been available, also.

Judge J. Lee Smith stated Monday that he did not believe that the commissioners thoroughly understood the city's proposition, and he would be willing to call a special meeting of the court for further discussion with the city officials. However, if the time limit for application for Federal aid has expired there would be little necessity for this, for it would be almost impossible for the county and city to develop this project without government aid.

At the council meeting Thursday night, the motion for the $1500 appropriation was made by Councilman H. S.Shaw; seconded by J. Watts Moore, and when voted upon met the unanimous approval of all the councilmen present. Grady Heflin and L. E. Diefenderfer were not present at the time of the vote.

There has been some contention that this property is unsuited for a community center, Judge Smith stated, and indicated that the court would be willing to purchase lands for this purpose at some other point in the county.

Judge Smith appeared before the council at the Tuesday night's meeting and explained that the commissioners were willing to contribute three-fourths of the cost of local participation for this project, provided the city would share to the extent of one-fourth.

about her neck but it had been only a short time since her tonsils had been removed and they supposed that this condition was due to the tonsilectomy.

After the condition showed signs of spreading, physicians here were consulted and a partial diagnosis revealed symptoms of petrification. Later she was taken to specialists in Montgomery with the result that similar diagnoses were made. Little hope is held for recovery in these cases, physicians declare. Although often many years elapse before the entire body is petrified, the chances of cure are few.

So, instead of going to school for the first time this year, as would be the normal procedure for a six-year-old girl, Dorothy will stay at home as the horrible fate changes her tender flesh into stone.

Her legs and the lower part of the child's body seems unaffected so far, but already her arms are stiffening. Even her winning little smile has gone, and in its place is seen a "frozen-looking expression." When the affected part of her body is pinched or pricked with a pin, she can feel it but says that it does not pain her. Her skin is dry and of a spongy firmness.

CONTEST

tion of T. L. McKee, A.,D. Martin, and J. C. Pattillo, Democrats.

Hearing of evidence in the case was set for Friday, but the climax of several months of political debating ended with Mr. Pitts' motion.

Testimony was taken in the Culp-McKee case July 22-23, when defense attorneys endeavored to prove that the absentee ballot box, about which the contest centered, had been "tampered" with since the election.

The contestants suffered a great blow when O. D. Street, Birmingham attorney, withdrew from the case.

COTTON LOANS

woull have found itself with a huge surplus which could not be disposed of abroad. Pegging the price at 10 cents, the farmer is still assured of 12 cents with the provision that the government pay the difference, and at the same time he reaps the benefit of ridding the country of a large cotton surplus.

Following is Mr. Fant's letter:

The Government is offering a 10-cent loan on cotton to the producers who signed 1935 Cotton Acreage Reduction Contracts, and in addition is offering a subsidy payment which virtually guarantees the producer 12 cents per pound on his 1935 cotton crop.

If a producer sells his cotton on the open market he should get a bill of sale to present as proof that he sold on a particular date. The subsidy payment will be the difference between the average price on the 10 spot markets of the south and 12 cent on the day the producer sells his cotton. The price received for the cotton does not necessarily have anything to do with the subsidy payment, for example: A producer sells cotton in Clanton for 10.25 cents per pound. The average of the 10 spot markets will probably be about 10.35 cents which would mean that the producer would receive as a subsidy payment the difference in 10.45 and 12 cents per pound in addition to the 10.25 he received when the cotton was sold.

A producer may borrow 10 cents per pound on his cotton but he would not make application for a subsidy payment until the cotton is sold. If the producer sells his cotton after making the loan the subsidy will be based on the average price on the 10 spot markets on the day he sold and not on the day he made the loan.

The question as to whether to borrow the 10 cents or to sell on the open markets is asked frequently. This is a problem for each producer to solve. If cotton should get to 13 cents within the next six months, it would be profitable to borrow, and of course the higher the price goes the more profitable it would be.

The whole government program is based on a control program for 1936 and everyone who borrows 10 cents or makes application for subsidy payment will be required to sign an agreement to cooperate in a 1936 Crop Control Program.—J. W. Fant, County Agent.

High In Praise Of Work Of The County Agents Here

Refuting statments, allegedly made by radical labor organizers who, it is said, are attempting to prejudice farmers of this section against county agency work, the Farm Bureau, and the AAA programs, three outstanding men of this county threw aside political party lines and termed these organizations and programs "the greatest friend the farmers of Chilton County have ever known," in interviews with a News reporter this week.

Anticipating that the enemies of these programs will label any favorable comment in this paper in behalf of the government programs and county agency "just Democratic politics," the writer selected three men who have been leaders in the Republican Party in this county for many years, and solicited their opinions regarding these issues.

Former Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds, J. N. Dennis, candidate last year for probate judge on the Republican ticket and J. Dudley Collins, former Republican sheriff of this county, were asked to comment briefly regarding these alleged attacks upon what many citizens of this county consider "the best friend the farmer has ever known." FIRST COUNTY AGENT BURIED LAST TUESDAY

W. H. Conway, Age 80, Died At His Home Last Monday

William Henry Conway, the first county farm agent in the State of Alabama—serving Chilton County in this capacity for 10 years, died Monday night at his home in Jemison at the age of 80 years. In 1908. Mr. Conway was named county farm demonstration agent for Chilton County, the first man to serve in this capacity in the State of Alabama. Connected for many years with the Farmers' Alliance, a cooperative farm organization, his interest in the problems confronting the farmers of Chilton County was paramount.

Proposed Union Termed "Radical Attack" Upon Programs

STRONG PROTESTS SEEN COMING UP

Friends of the AAA and county farm agency work in this county are resenting what they have termed "a radical attack" upon these programs by labor organizers, who are, they allege, attempting to profiteer off the people of this county by stirring an undeserved prejudice against this work.

Attempting to organize the farmers of Chilton and other counties into a labor union, these alleged radicals are trying to discredit the Farm Bureau county agency, and the Roosevelt Administration and its efforts in behalf of the Southern cotton farmer, it is claimed.

Holding out promises that have little or no chance of fulfillment, these men are soliciting Chilton County farmers' membership in a farm union and it is understood that a membership fee of one dollar is being charged for admission, according to those who have come to the defense of county agency and the government agricultural programs.

Leading men over the entire county have expressed the belief that county farm agency work has been the greatest boon that ever came to this section. Recalling days prior to the time when extension work was begun among our farmers it was pointed out that there

Possibility That Paving Prog'm Will Be Delayed

Danger of losing the chance to pave the streets of Clanton under the PWA offer to municipalities, has caused considerable discussion here this week Mayor C. Fenn Jones is still hopeful that this project will not be among those that the administration is going to deem it necesary to trim

Information has been received by the Clanton mayor that Jim Goodwin, a representative of the Van Keuren firm of architects in Birmingham who have charge of the preparation of plans for this project, has gone to Washington to make a personal appeal in behalf of the Clanton paving program

Just as quickly as it is determined that the money will be available, the mayor stated an election will be called to let the people express their desires in regard to the advisability of the program There is little doubt, however, regarding the outcome of the election he believes, since practically all the property owners on streets under consideration have signed petitions urging this paving.

FARM UNION MEETING HELD LAST SAT'DY

First Of It's Kind To Make Showing In This County

With the aim in view of cementing the interests of the farmers of Chilton County into closer relationship, and the organizaton of a coperative system whereby farmers will be asured of better prices for their produce, a special meeting of the local Farmers' Cooperative Union was held last Saturday at the New Salem Baptist Church.

Several speakers appeared on the program. W. C. Irby, state secretary of the organization, was the principal speaker. He contended that the farmers should be organized into a labor union and that by this movement the sympathy of other union labor could be obtained.

Although Mr. Irby's talk indicated he is too radical to be practical, many of his ideas might well be the foundation for the building of a closer farm organization, which through cooperation might accomplish much.

Many objected to his theory that the Farm Bureau and the county agent are enemies to the farmer; his attack on the AAA also aroused some resentment, it is understood. Approximately 100 farmers were present.

C. S. Yearger, president of the Birmingham Trades Council, was also a speaker. He pledged the cooperation of organized labor in the effort to build a cooperative union among the farmers.

American Neutrality

One of the most dramatic acts of the late Congress occurred, entirely unexpectedly as far as the general public was concerned, just before the session passed into history.

This act was the passage of the so-called "neutrality plan," proposed by the White House, originated by the Senate, and forced through the House by Administration leaders under a gag rule which forbade any amendments and limited debate to the absolute minimum.

Reason for this unprecedented occurrence does not require a microscope to discover. Everyone knows that Europe is closer to a major war than at any time since 1924. The American State Department doubtless has a much better idea of how close war is than any other domestic agency—it is a possibility that inside Secretary Hull's handsome, impassive, white-thatched head there is knowledge that, if disclosed, would make headlines throughout the country. And, with the memory of the "incidents" that brought America into the World War still fresh, the Administration, which has consistently pursued an extremely cautious foreign policy, seems determined to keep us out of future conflicts if that is at all possible. High spots of the neutrality plan include:

Prohibition of the export of arms and ammunition to any foreign belligerent until February 29, 1936 (by that time another Congress will be in session, and will be able to cope with changed conditions.)

Prohibition of the use of American vessels in arms traffic until February 29, 1936.

Establishment of a strict licensing system for American munitions manufacturers and exporters.

Authorization fo rthe President to require a bond of any ships suspected of transporting arms and munitions.

Authorization for the President to restrict or entirely close territorial American waters to the submarines of belligerents.

Authorization for the President to forbid American citizens to travel abroad during war except at their own risk, unless such traveling is made necessary in order to escape a zone of conflict.

It is an interesting fact that the neutrality bill passed both houses by close to unanimous votes—yet a number of Congressmen, including some who voted for it, are dubious. Senator Johnson, old-time advocate of U. S. isolation, said it would not prevent our getting into war. And a few voices, including that of Senator Wadsworth, potential Republican Presidential candidate, spoke up against the principle it represents, on the grounds that small, persecuted nations will be harmed by the policy while big, aggressive nations will not. For example, Italy could get by without purchasing arms abroad—while closing of foreign buying to Ethiopia, which has no industrial resources that might be turned to munitions production, would make it impossible for her to defend herself in the event of war.

However, editorial response to the plan has been highly favorable—papers which oppose the President in most of his policies are for him when he attempts to keep us out of the pending European super-war. The provision whereby Americans traveling on ships belonging to belligerents must do so at their own risk in perhaps the most important single part of the bills—remember the Lusitania!

Education For The Farmers Of Tomorrow

The satisfactory solution of many agricultural problems, in the opinion of Dean Chris L. Christensen of the College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin, will be greatly advanced by better education for farm youth.

Any sound curriculum of study must be built around social and cultural, as well as vocational interests. The young farmer must be taught nutritional chemistry, bacteriology, farm mechanics and engineering, forestry, the handling of farm insects and pests. And he must be taught, as well, the importance and methods of cooperative activity, which is the greatest social, as well as economic factor in the life of the modern American farmer.

The farmer's reliance on cooperative organizations, Dean Christensen believes, will steadily increase in the future. These organizations, when well-managed and supported, have proven their worth—they have passed the realm of theory. They have brought business technique to agriculture —and doing that, in many cases, has wrought order out of chaos.

The youth of the farm is its great hope for the future—and soundly-conceived programs, designed to educate boys and girls in all the problems they will face as time passes, will immeasurably brighten the long-pull outlook for agriculture.

He will find that more trucks have been sold thus far this year than in any year since 1929, to say nothing of greater passenger car increases. Residential building will be discovered to be double a year ago. We predict that if Chairman Fletcher is looking for political ammunition against the Roosevelt aministration, he will not publish the recovery check up."—Grand Junction Sentinel, (Ind.)

Fire Prevention Week

In about a month, Fire Prevention Week will be observed again. Starting on October 6, the week will run through the 12th.

The week is usually inaugurated by Presidential proclamation. Governors of states and mayors of cities follow suit. Fire marshals, fire departments, insurance organizations and other public and private groups coöperate in seeking to spread the ABC's of fire prevention and control to the general public—which has most at stake, and which must accept the responsibility for almost every fire, large or small, that occurs.

During the week every citizen will have a chance to learn, easily, thoroughly and "painlessly," the simple lessons that will enable him to keep his home and other property safe from fire. He will be told of the menace of old and improperly-done wiring. He will learn the need for periodic inspections of his heating plant—one of the most prolific modern municipal building codes. He will be shown the vital necessity of fire-resistant building, and of modern municipal building codes. He will hear of the tragic school, hospital and other major fires which have destroyed thousands of lives, and property valued at millions, which were absolutely unnecessary.

To learn this, the citizen will have to contribute a little of his time. He will have to look at exhibits, read editorials, news reports and pamphlets. He will have to listen to a radio address or two. He will have to keep his mind open and his memory awake—a lesson that is not retained is obviously useless.

In return for this small expenditure of time, he will receive knowledge that may be the means of saving his property from destruction and his loved ones from violent and horrible deaths. Is it worth it to you?

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

I entered the business place of a man just across from the county jail. While standing to together in the door we glanced up and saw a white man standing behind the bars in the second story window of the jail. My friend remarked to me "Parson, that building over there is crowded, and the thing that hurts me is that two out of every three men in that jail are young white men. Every day I see young wives with babies in their arms, coming across that lawn and they will go to a place there where they can talk to them." What a pity. Tell me why it is that young white men are taking the places of the one time colored race behind the bars? The records will show that the negro race as a whole is growing better year after year, but the white race is growing worse. Well do I remember the day when there were five negroes to every white man in our jails, but now the figures are different. No one can deny the pointing of the finger of broken laws.

I stood on the mill dam and watched the water as it ran down to the wheel and then turned it and then went rejoicing on its way. Close beside me was a old discarded oil barrel and it was filled with water to the brim. It sat there with its water foul with scum and wiggle tails. The water did not move all day long and it did nothing but breed germs and insects that were dangerous to life. That is the difference in many people. Some are moving on with the currents of living, others are standing still. Some are blessings to the race, others are a curse. Some are self supporting and producing, while others are leaches on society, and breeders of corrupt ideals of living. Which are you—Water turning the wheel, or are you water standing still in the barrel?

Looking out from my study window every day I see where a man's good resolution went to the bad. This man decided to have a garden, and went so far as to pulverise the soil, buy his seed and plant them in good order. I never saw a more promising garden, but nothing was done in that garden after the seed came up. The man moved off and left it and nothing came of his good resolution. Around the first of the year many of us plat a garden of good resolutions. We stand by them until they become promising for good results, and then our resolutions are discarded. Many of us actually move off and leave them as though they had never been made. Tell me honestly, what has become of those good resolutions that you made in the beginning of this year?

I saw mother setting an old hen. She carried the eggs to her in her apron, and took them one by one and placed them under the anxious fowl. When the last one had gone under the feathers my mother addressed her thus, "Now old hen you have your job, set there properly quiet and do your stuff." My mother knew that the old hen could not hatch little chicks running around and sticking her bill into everything on the fowl yard. All she had to do was to sit still and the laws that govern life would bring the little biddies into the world. The same is with us. Our souls will not, they can not grow, while we run all over God's creation sticking our nose into every form of life. There comes a time when we must be still and know that God is God. In the hours of quietness with God we are able to multiply the growth of the soul.

One of my boyhood friends came into possession of a conch and it being something new to me, I had to listen to him as he described its wonder. He filled it with paper and then asked that I hold it to my ear and see what I could hear. I listened ever so hard but could hear nothing. Then he instructed me to place my ear against the mouth of the empty shell and this time I could hear a roaring that was strange to me. I was told that I was listening to the roar of the sea. When you fill your heart with the world, there are no voices of a heavenly sound echoing through your life, but when you empty your heart of all the world and worldly things, there is a heavenly voice echoing through your life that is wonderful to hear. Once we empty ourselves of our selfish desire, we then hear the echo of God's voice within.

How To Select Good Seed Corn Discussed

By J. C. Lowery
Extension Agronomist

Selection of a supply of good seed corn is an important October job for every Alabama farmer.

Careful selection on the farm will give a corn that is superior to varieties grown in some other section under different soil and climatic conditions. Selection should be done both before and after harvest. Before harvesting go through the field and select good ears keeping in mind the following points:

1. Select for vigorous stalks as shown by superiority over surrounding stalks. Do not select stalks that are good because of extra space or other favorable conditions. Select stalks of medium height that do not break.

2. Select for two or more ears per stalk and preferably with ears turning down. Use both ears from a stalk.

3. Select ears with shucks extending well over tips. Good shuck covering affords considerable protection against weevils.

4. Select ears from stalks which are free from disease.

It is necessary to select many more ears than will be needed for planting for these should be re-selected after harvesting. In this last selection the following points should be kept in mind·

a. Select ears having smooth, hard, dense, heavy, and relativey large grains.

b. Select long, heavy ears, with not too many rows of kernels.

c. The shuck and cob should be clean and show no discoloration.

d. Preferably the ears should be well filled out. This character, however, is of minor importance.

e. Store seed corn so that it will be protected from mice and insects.

GOVERNOR IS INTERESTED IN PUBLIC HEALTH

Legislature Gives Body Blow To The Menace Of Tuberculosis

Montgomery, Alabama, September 18—Sincere interest in public welfare as shown by Governor Bibb Graves and members of the legislature in measures passed during the session which has just adjourned will result in a "body blow" to the tuberculosis menace in Alabama, in the opinion of Dr. J. N Baker, State Health Officer.

One of the measures providing an annual appropriation for the next four years of $75,000—when, in the opinion of the Governor, the funds can be made available—for a state-wide tuberculosis program. The fund will be used to assist the various counties in caring for tuberculosis patients.

"There is every reason to believe," Dr. Baker declared, "that when the legislature reconvenes in January in special session, provisions will be made for this appropriation and then very quickly thereafter the State subsidy program, for which we have so long laboured, will likely become a reality."

Georgia, Mississippi and other Southern States are spending hundreds of thousands of dollars annually in the maintenance of centralized state sanatoriums, but the Health Officer said that the problem can be met more effectively and more economically by the construction of small hospitals throughout the State, each serving one or more counties.

Despite the fact that tuberculosis in its early stages is usually curable, it ranks third as a cause of death in Alabama, while for the nation as a whole it ranks seventh. The concept that a certain climate or a certain altitude is necessary in order to effect a cure has been proven false, the Health Officer said. Under proper medical and sanatorium care tuberculosis can be cured anywhere in Alabama as readily as in any other climate.

"It has been abundantly proven that a sanatorium properly and scientifically operated can produce results quite as satisfactory in one section of the country as in another," Dr. Baker asserted. "When the state-wide program begins, we will have made an important advance in the preservation of human life in Alabama."

Thorsby Has Organized Fire Fighting Volunteers

Not A Vacant House In Town, Says Mayor Soberg; New Water Works Getting Along In Fine Way

Thorsby is fast growing into a real little city. It's latest development toward this goal is the establishment of a volunteer fire department and the installation of modern fire-fighting equipment, offering protection to the lives and property of the town's 771 according to the 1930 census, inhabitants.

Organization of the fire unit is a result of the installation a few months ago of a city water works system, a PWA project costing approximately $28,000. This project was completed last May, and consists of a 60,000-gallon tank, supplied from two deep wells; 15,000 feet of two-inch pipe; 1,600 feet of eight-inch and 800 feet of six-inch pipe.

Mayor M. J. Soberg boasts that there is not a vacant house in the entire town; neither is there a vacant store building. Within the past two months have been built three new business houses, and several others are being modernized, he said.

Organized two weeks ago, the Thorsby Fire Department is composed of C. R. Foss, chief; Earl Leary, assistant chief; Ralph Pate, driver; Arnold Littleton, assistant driver; Charles Cleckler, Thomas Hayes, Orville Freeman Eugene Littleton, hose men; Ervin Gentry, Horace Lowery, hydrant men; Jack Higgins, Ray Higgins, Harold Cleckler Milton Higgins Clyde Meade and L. C. Lowery ladder men.

The equipment consists of a speedy little fire truck carrying a chemical tank of large capacity; 1,500 feet of water hose and 10- feet of chemical hose. Nine fire hydrants were installed recently. The 60,000-gallon tank is equipped with a chlorinator which purifies the water, it was explained.

FIGURES SHOW SLIP WAS MADE AT SOMETIME

Figures Unearthed By Citizens On Amount Missed Here

Renewed cause for grief was seen here this week by those who have put up an enthusiastic fight for the installation of a community center to serve the entire county at Gragg Field when it was learned that in all probability that the United States Government would have appropriated not less than $50,000 to the development of this idea, had local officials cooperated by purchasing necessary lands.

Rep. C. B. Cox declared that he was informed by Major Sumpter Smith state president of the National Aeronautics Association, that had the Commissioners Court matched $1900, raised by the city of Clanton and local persons interested in the promotion of the project, on a three-to-one basis as formerly suggested by the court that he was almost sure that no less than $50,000 government money would have been available to this project.

Hayden Brooks, state governor of the National Aeronautics Association is said to have stated that he believed the amount might have possibly been as much as $75,000.

Final date for making application for these allocations was last Monday, and it is feared that the opportunity may not come this way again.

HEALTH SHORTS

(Alabama State Health Department)

Contrary to general opinion, the bite of the Black Widow Spider is not extremely dangerous nor often fatal. Undoubtedly some deaths have been due to unwise treatment by non-medical friends. As in snake bite alcohol by common belief is supposed to be a soverign remedy. It is the worst possible medicine in both spider and snake bite. See a physician if bitten by either.

In 1934 there were 192 deaths from suicide in Alabama, according to complete records just compiled by the State Health Department at Montgomery. This was seven death per 100,00_ population, slightly higher than the preceding year. Of the 192 deaths from this cause 171 were white and only 22 negroes. From these figures it is seen that suicides are primarily a problem of the white population.

Rabies vaccine which is very generally used in Alabama for individuals who have been exposed to "mad dogs" is made from the brains of rabbits which have been inoculated with the virus of rabies. It was originally prepared by Pasteur in the last century and has been the means of saving many lives from this dread disease. The people of Alabama are saved thousands of dollars anhually by the fact that the vccine is manufactured in the State Health Department Laboratories.

Recent news dispatches tell of the most miraculous recovery of two ys one in New York and the other Atlanta whose sheer grit and will live did much to pull them through Harold Pflegar entered a New York spital eight months ago suffering om osteomyeltis, a serious inflammaon of the bone and marrow of one his legs. The infection spread and s leg was amputated, but his courage d not fail. While in the hospital he derwent 85 blood transfusions necesry to keep life in his body, a greater mber of transfusions than any person s ever had before.

Recently he was sufficiently recover to be taken home in a wheel to celebrate his 15th birthday.

other case was that of 16-year Leon Powers of Atlanta who a more than two months ago was ntally shot in the abdomen with d .32 caliber pistol thought to be The bullet tore through his in , making 19 perforations. Grady hospital a surgeon opened his abdominal cavity and literally lifted his "insides" out while he stitched up the 19 holes. For nearly two weeks young Powers seemed to be continuously at the point of death, but at intervals he consoled his mother by saying: "Don't worry; I'll make it." He did make it, and is now able to be up. Doctors say his recovery will shortly be complete.

These desperate cases, as well as many others, illustrate what modern surgical skill aided by courage and determination on the part of the patient can accomplish.

PUBLIC CONFIDENCE CONTINUES TO GAIN

Bankers Report Nation-Wide Improvement in Attitude Toward Banks—Educational Campaigns Play a Part

NEW YORK.—Ninety-six per cent of over 300 reporting clearinghouses throughout the United States find concrete evidence of favorable turns in public opinion regarding banks, it is shown in the results of a survey made by "Banking," the monthly publication of the American Bankers Association. City and country districts in every state are represented, it is pointed out.

"The outstanding conclusion is that there has been a genuine nation-wide improvement the last few months in the attitude of the public toward its banking institutions," the publication says. Statistical evidence on which the bankers base their conclusions which warrant this statement is as follows:

The Evidence

"How do bankers know there has been an improvement in the public attitude? They have certain statistical evidence. They have seen their deposits increase substantially in nearly all the cases reported, and tremendously in some cases. Many letters tell of increases of 100 to 300 per cent from the low point of the panic.

"For another thing, they know that fewer people are using safe deposit boxes as a repository for their savings, and that, in many instances at least, postal savings are declining.

"However, many express the view that they could throw out the statistical evidence and still realize that the public is in a better mood where the banks are concerned than before. The best evidence offered on this point, numerous bankers say, is to be found in the acceptance by the public of the newly instituted service charges and the reduced deposit interest rates."

A Summary of the Returns

The statement presents the following summary of the survey:

"We find on breaking up the general classifications of replies to the poll that the 65 per cent of those answering with an unqualified 'yes' represent only a partial measure of the optimistic feeling. Adding the favorable replies included in other groups, (i. e. 'yes' with qualifications, 'no change,' and 'mixed') we find that the vote shows a definitely healthy situation in 84 per cent of the localities reporting; at least some signs of improvement in another 12 per cent; a continuance of unfavorable conditions in 2 per cent, and a change for the worse in another 2 per cent. It is not too much to say that this is substantially 96 per cent favorable."

Reasons for Changed Public Opinion

As to reasons for the changes in public opinion regarding banks reported by the clearinghouses "more than one organization has a word to say about the American Bankers Association advertising and educational material," the magazine says.

It mentions in addition the benefits of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation in the emergency, improvement in the general business situation, the weeding out of weak banks and the banking moratorium.

"The response to the survey can be put down as encouraging and informative," the magazine concludes. "It holds out the definite hope that with a continuance of a cooperative, educational attitude on the part of the bankers the rest of the journey back to normal may well be completed in the not too distant future."

BANKERS ACTIVE IN SOIL SAVING MOVE

Issue Book Describing Causes, Ravages and Means of Prevention of Erosion

MADISON, Wisc.—Under the title "Protecting Investment Values in Land," the American Bankers Association Agricultural Commission has published a booklet dealing with the conservation of soil resources as a pressing national problem.

"Careful estimates indicate that 750,000,000 tons of soil, suspended and dissolved, are carried off to the sea each year by running water," the commission's book declares. "An equal amount removed from its source is left en route. This means a total of 1,500,000,000 tons, equal to approximately one ton for each acre of land in this country. The Soil Conservation Service estimates that 35,000,000 acres have been ruined.

"There are 125,000,000 more acres that have lost the valuable topsoil, and it is estimated that still another 100 million acres are being converted into marginal or sub-marginal land, bringing disaster to those trying to eek out a living from erosion enfeebled soil, and threatening ruin to the next generation, since these destructive forces are going on at an increasing rate."

In a chapter devoted to control and preventive measures for soil losses it describes terracing, strip cropping, wind erosion control, gully control and the control of losses from leaching.

Other chapters are devoted to soil resources, the toll exacted by soil erosion, methods for keeping soils productive, state and national uses for non-agricultural land, forestry in a soil conservation program and wild life in a land use program. The booklet describes in detail the marshalling of many forces which is being brought about under the leadership of the Soil Erosion Service to meet this national problem.

DRIVERS LICENSE BILL BECOMES LAW

LICENSE TO COST FIFTY CENTS FOR OWNERS; OTHERS 25 CENTS

New Highway Patrol Is Also Set Up Over Alabama

LICENSE REQUIRED WHEN AT WHEEL

Every person who expects to drive an automobile in Alabama must obtain a driver's certificate before November 15, 1935, and must pay a fee of ten cents to the probate judge of the county issuing the license in addition to the cost of the license which is 50 cents for every owner of an automobile Owners of automobiles who have members of the family who desire to drive a car must pay 25 cents a head for a license with a fee of five cents a head to the probate judge issuing the certificate.

These provisions are contained in the new drivers' license act which is designed to take care of from 150 to 200 men in a State Highway Patrol, depending on the amount of annual fines produced, and the opening date on which probate judges will receive applications for licenses is October 1, 1935. And licenses must be renewed every year thereafter to take care of the newly created force.

The probate judge is made the sole arbiter of who is to get a driver's license. It is provided, however, that a driver's license card shall not be issued to any person under 16 years of age o,r whenever an operating privilege is suspended, or whenever operating privilege is revoked, or to an habitual drunkard or to the user of narcotics, to an insane person or an idiot or to any person suffering with a physical or mental disability "which in the opinion of the probate judge will prevent such person from exercising a reasonable or ordinary control over a motor vehicle.

The law creates and establishes a highway patrol and makes the head of the revoke or suspend the license of a driver. He can do this when a driver fails to appear in court, when he operates a motor car while under the influence of intoxicants or any habit-forming drug, or for using a false or fictitious name in any application for a license. He can also revoke a license upon conviction of any person operating a motor vehicle for an accident resulting in personal injury to another person or for leaving the scene of an accident.

It is made a misdemeanor under the law for any person to operate a motor vehicle without having a driver's license in his possession. And it is also made a misdemeanor for any person to operate a car in Alabama from any other State without having a driver's license in his possession, providing the laws of the State from which he carries a tag have a driver's license law.

It is provided in the law that all fines from vioiations of the driver's license law shall go into the highway patrol fund and no officer of the patrol shall receive any fees. All officers of the patrol shall receive $1,500 a year salary and there is no limit to their number. This will depend upon the amount of money received from the driver's license law plus the cash fines. It is estimated that the driver's license fees in Alabama will amount to approximately $3,000,000 the first year This should be sufficient to put 15C men on the State pay roll. If the fines are sufficient, more could be added after the first year. All officers must have a $2,000 bond and they will all have the power of peace officers which means that they can make arrests for any crime that other peace officers of the State can make.

The law provides for a chief highway officer at $2,700 a year, two captains at salaries of $2,250 a year, four sergeants at $1,800 a year and an unlimited number of appointees at $1,500 a year.

Exposure Damages Bales Of Cotton

Auburn, Ala.—Unless given the greatest of care, cotton stored on the farm will be seriously damaged.

Actual tests by the United States Department of Agriculture show that almost half of the bales of cotton stored flat on the ground in the open had to be picked off before the manufacturer could use it. The outside cotton was of very inferior quality and had but very little value. The average loss of cotton from the bales left flat on the ground in the open was 273 pounds a bale.

Cotton stored on timbers and covered with tarpaulins lost only 10 pounds a bale while bales stored in properly constructed warehouses lost only 4 pounds.

"Those tests show that it will pay farmers well to store cotton in a good building if possible or at least to place the bales on timbers and cover them to protect from as much exposure as possible," says G.S. Meloy of the cotton marketing division.

"Going To The Dogs" Not A Modern Theme

"There was a day," said President Roosevelt in his radio address to he national convention of Young Democrats in Milwauke, ''when political parties, or those who controlled them, had the attitude that anything new, and what they called 'new fangled.' would lead to dire results. There is nothing new in those prophecies of doom. I read trese lines in a paper the other day—a little poem entitled 'Going to the Dogs':

My grandpa notes the world's worn cogs,
"And says we're going to the dogs;
His granddad, in his house of logs,
Swore things were going to the dogs;
"His dad, among the Flemish bogs,
"Vowed things were going to the dogs;
"The caveman, in his queer skin togs,
"Said things were going to the dogs;
"But this is what I wish to state—
"The dogs have had an awful wait."

ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS GROUP IN COUNTY WOULD DO GREAT WORK

Tuberculosis can be controlled! Altho this is accepted as true by those interested enough to inform themselves on the subject, much remains to be done before this statement can be changed to Tuberculosis has been controlled!"

To briefly review control measures already being employed in Alabama, one of the first that comes to mind is the traveling Chest Clinic maintained by the State Health Department. This clinic is operated by experts in the field of tuberculosis and is for the purpose of aiding physicians in the early diagnosis of the disease. Through early diagnosis the case is given a far greater chance of recovery, and a source of infection to others is discovered that can in many instances be isolated and thus prevent further spread. This clinic will be in Chilton County in the offices of the County Health Unit on October 1st and 2nd. Cases referred by physicians will be x-rayed and if the x-ray indicates trouble, will be given a complete chest examination.

Another control measure is seen in the work of local health units as members of the unit visit cases of tuberculosis and endeavor to instruct the family as to methods of spread of the disease and ways and means of preventing this spread.

And there are other valuable control measures being carried out by various agencies such as the distribution of instructive literature, research as to better methods of prevention and cure, etc.

Altho the measures discussed above are showing results as evidenced by a decreased number of deaths from tuberculosis there is still far too great a number of people dying from this preventable disease.

Perhaps no single step would prove of more benefit in advancing the cause of tuberculosis control than an aroused and informed public—a public that realized the great need for sanatoria for the isolation and treatment of cases of tuberculosis; that realized the insidiousness of the disease in its onset and subsequently the greater need for periodic physical examinations; that was willing to take active interest in helping to stamp out this most damaging and widespread of all major infections.

In thinking along these lines one can not help thinking of the great amount of good that could be done by a well planned exhibits in some unused show-window the subect of tuberculosis control could be better brought before the public. Through the sale of Christmas seals funds for supplying much-needed sanitary sputum cups to the cases of the disease throughout the county. and possibly for building tuberculosis cottages, could be made available. And in many other ways this group could help control tuberculosis.

If you are interested in forming an Anti-tuberculosis Association in Chilton County express this interest to the County Health Officer. The Clanton post of the American Legion has already expressed such an interest, and with others joining in the organization of a worthwhile group would be assured.

Tuesday Is Editor's Day At State Fair

Tuesday, September 24th has been set aside as Editors' Day at the Alabama State Fair to be held at Birmingham from September 23rd to 28th. It is a testimonial to the newspaper editors of the state, whom Mr. P. T. Strieder Manager of the State Fair feels have played a very important part in making the revived Alabama State Fair the huge success that it was last year and created so much interest in this year's big fair among exhibitors throughout the state.

Manager Streider reports that already ten more counties than last year have arranged for agricultural displays and more are coming in every day All in all, everything around the Fair Grounds is just 100 per cent ahead of this same time last year, said Mr Strieder.

The new all-steel buildng 112 x 140 feet which has just been completed, to take care of the many new commercial and industrial exhibitors who have applied for space, will house twenty-seven new exhibits plus the many exhibits that will be seen in other exhibition halls and the demand for space has been so great that it was necessary for one exhibitor of farm implements to arange for an outdoor exhibit space of 100 by 150 feet due to lack of sufficient space available in the buildings

In the passing of this good man his church, community, friends, relatives and his family have suffered an irreparable loss.

SCOUTS DISAPPOINTED

Everyone will sympathize with the 30,000 Boy Scouts of this and other countries whose great jamboree in Washngton, which was planned to begin on August 21, was called off through fear of an infantile paralysis epidemic

Announcement of abandoning the jamboree, decided upon by President Roosevelt upon recommendation of health authorities and high Scout officials, was made too late to prevent many foreign Scouts from starting on their journey to Washington, but arrangements were made for entertaining them in the vicinity of New York and elsewhere.

Cancellation of the big event was made because of the prevalence of infantile paralysis in several states, one locality affected being in Virginia, within 100 miles of Washington. The President said his decision was made with very deep regret, but that this was considered the only safe course to take under the circumstances.

Dr. James E. West, chief Scout Executive, explained the reasons for calling off the jamboree in a communication to various units of the organization. He, too, expressed great regret at having to spread the bad news, but added: "Let's take it as Scouts—with chins up." And they did.

DR. GRAGG COMMENTS ON FLYING PROGRESS

In a letter to the editor of the News Dr. V. J. Gragg, of Clanton has the following to say this week in regard to flying, the community center:

Editor, Chilton County News:

Well. I read in a daily paper, one day this week, where the Russians are putting it over in a big way in flying. Dropping a whole army, equipped with rifles and machine guns, behind the lines of the enemy by flying over and jumping with parachutes. Those Russians are doing things. Authorities tell us they have eight million parachute jumpers while the United States has only around 20,000 pilots and a handful of chute jumpers.

Well, maybe our folks will wake up some day. Don't you imagine some of them would think they were "seeing things" if they could behold those Russians dropping from the sky by the thousands?

However, thinking about our loca' affairs here, I don't mind our loss of a good large field so much as I grieve about the loss of our county-wide community center. I believe the time will soon come when the government will provide good flying fields at reasonable distances apart. However, we may not be a lucky locality, and most probably will not because we have shown so little interest.

So far as the community house is concerned, I suppose it is lost forever; and so also, is the turning loose by the Federal Government, of an amount of probably fifty or seventy five thousand dollars to our folks needing it if we had asked for that much; but I, for one, am willing to help donate funds to buy the proposed land adjoning the field, for the purpose of furnishing a place for a fair ground for farmers and an athletic field for our boys and girls, and grown-ups as well I, if I have to borrow it, will be one of twenty men to donate $100 each for this purpose. That will buy the land and have some left. What say you let's have acounty-wide community center anyhow.

PULLING STUMPS WITH POWER EJUIPMENT

Stumpt pulling, though it is not a part of terracing it is very closely related to our terracing program since we very often have to pull stumps out of our terraces and we do this work with our terracing equipment. The Catepillar Deisel 40 which we use in our terracing work with a good cable will pull almost any stump in Coosa County. We have stumped 46 acres of lands during the past season at a cost of approximately $2.00 per acre. This will figure from twelve to fifteen cents per stump. The advantage of pulling stumps with a tractor are it is economical, it pulls all the roots out of the ground and at the same time gives the farmer plenty of good fire wood.

Farmers Are Offered Meal For Cottonseed

"Cotton oil mills of the state will at this time swap a ton of cottonseed meal for a ton of cotton seed and give a considerable premium," say R. J. Goode State commissioner of agriculture.

After stating that cottonseed meal provides one of the most economical protein supplement for work stock dairy and beef cattle, Commissioner Goode suggests that farmers see their cotton ginner or oil mill operator and "get the very best trade possible. We believe that now is a good time to make a trade with the mills on the present basis for the remainder of the year as the trade will hold good regardless of the prices of seed and meal in the future."

Mr. Goode advises farmers to ask their county agent or a nearby oil mill operator for full information about feeding cottonseed meal and hulls to all types of livestock, especially work animals, dairy. and beef cattle.

Be at church Sunday. Let Rally Day spirit stir you and join your fellows. Summer time is over. Fall is here. Renew your loyalty and determination to be at church every Sunday.

Is this true of you?

"I forgot my church in the summer time,
As I lazily lay in bed.
While the faithful few had my work to do,
I was spiritually dead.
"I forgot my dues in the summer time
When He needed them most of all
While my cash was spent. I was pleasure-bent,
"I forgot my soul in the summer time
Got along without spiritual food;
While my Lord on high sent me blessings, I Showed Him naught but ingratitude."

Now is the time to begin anew. ATTEND CHURCH SUNDAY!

Dig Sweet Potatoes Before First Frost

Auburn, Ala.—Sweet potatoes should be dug before the first frost arrives advises Julian Brown; extension horticulturist, who urges farmers to handle their potatoes carefully. "If they are bruised or roughly handled they will decay," he says.

Before potatoes can be successfully stored for any length of time it is necessary that they be cured or dried he points out. This is best accomplished by keeping them at a temperature of 80 to 85 degrees and given plenty of ventilation for ten days to two weeks. Farmers who do not have sweet potato curing houses may use their brooder houses for the curing process.

choice. He served from 1908 to 1918. The value of protecting farmlands from erosion by the installation of proper terracing was one of the chief features of his program.

Inaugurating a "Live At Home" idea, he increased the yield of food and feeds in this county manifold. For the first time in the history of the county corn was shipped to northern markets. At that time, little was known of cover crops, but Mr. Conway spent much effort teaching farmers the composition of various fertilizers and aiding them in selecting the types most suitable to their farms.

After the establishing of extension work and the employment of a county agent through this administration, he was an enthusiastic supporter of the program. He was also considered a leader in the Republican ranks for many years, serving at one time as county commissioner.

Surviving him are his widow; four sons, W. G., Calera, C. C., Dr. A. A. and E. F. Conway all of Jemison; four daughters Mrs. Susie Middlebrooks Mrs. Nat Smith, Mrs. W. J. Chilton Wins In First Practice Game

—o—

The football eleven of the Chilton County High School evidently had ideas of starting the season off right last Friday afternoon, when they pushed the Verbena boys about the grid for a 19 to 0 victory.

Both teams have had little practice and last Friday's game is not believed to be a fair test of the ability of either team.

The uneven race for the goal posts began when Durwood Robinson rounded left end and crossed the line for the first touchdown of the afternoon. Emmett Parrish and Erman Johnson did some fancy pass work for the extra point.

John Thomas Marlar and Jack Gillespie carried the pigskin over for the second and third touchdowns. Extra points were lost both times.

Here's One You Can Let Soak In For Awhile

"Honesty is the best policy" is one of our oldest adages, and The Golden Rule sometimes is something we hear about but seldom see, and Eugenia Calhoun, Negro woman of Clanton has a star marked down for her crown for carrying out both these rules.

It happened like this. Eugenia has been on the relief rolls of the county for sometime and has been working in a sewing project along with other women of her age. She has been a good worker and a hard worker, sewing all day, making quilts and drawing her weekly relief check of $2.31.

The work stopped sometime ago, but the workers were still allowed that amount for two weeks extra. Eugenia failed to get her two weeks checks and they were sent to her.

Eugenia, in the good darky she is called at the back door of the home of Mrs. Hattie Alred, overseer of the project, and handed her the checks saying, "I just don't believe I will take these checks, Mrs. Alred. I've got a ltle work now, and I don't believe it's right to take this money I've got a little boy that I'm trying to raise right and I'll give this money back."

So the checks were returned, and Eugenia has a job.

is absolutely no comparison between living conditions on the farm now and in those days. The improvement, they aver, has been 300 to 400 per cent. Through the efforts of the county agent and others who have been connected with these farm organizations. the farmers of this county have learned many advantageous lessons that otherwise could never been included in their knowledge of farming.

Enumerating the benefits brought to the county, the following were stressed: use of cover crops; greater production; better terracing; improved cattle and poultry; good pastures; establishment of a local cream station which brings the farmers of this section more than $150 per week throughout the year; development of the strawberry industry in the county; the growth of soy beans for hay.

Cooperative buying and selling; improved hogs; and without doubt the the boys and girls 4-H clubs in every greatest of all, the organization of community, with a total membership now of more than 600, these boys and girls are learning worthwhile lessons in improving living conditions on the farms.

The use of cover crops, it was estimated, save at least $12,000 to $20,000 annually in fertilizer bills. Had the county agent made no other contribution to the farmers of this county, he would have been worth many times his salary, it is easily seen.

This illustration holds true in all the other mentioned accomplishments. The question was asked: 'What chance is there of even imagining the value of teaching that is being given the 4-H club boys and girls?' There are three, and perhaps will soon be two others vocational schools in the county. No less than 60 to 75 scientifically-trained farmers are being turned out each year by these schools.

Development of the strawberry industry here has meant an annual income of from $200,000 to $500,000 to this county. This could never have been accomplished without the aid of the county extension program and the cooperation of the Farm Bureau Thousands of tons of soy bean hay is being reaped every year from acres sown in this crop.

The money that is receivdd from cream in this county is for a product which before the establishment of the local cream station was wasted. Likewise thousands of dollars of the farmers' income can be traced to development that has resulted from work of the county agent and farm extension program, it is contended.

"I am the telephone, friend of rich and poor alike. My body is brass and my heart, gold. My arms reach around the world and enfold it to my bosom. Through them courses electricity, my life-fluid. I speak all languages.

"Mine is the voice of commerce and romance. I transact busines for the millions and convey the love notes of the world. I announce glad tiding of weddings, births, graduations, promotions. It is my equal duty to echo when a sob vibrates into the night I am the voice of man . . . amplified, magnified, ramified.

"Routine is not beneath my dignity. I will order a limousine and a bag of salt in the same breath. I will send for a doctor, or summon a priest. I make hazardous the work of the prowler, and peaeful the slumber of all. A word from me, and the community's firemen leap into action.

"I am the telephone, companion of the many. I am a friend to the lonely, to the shut-in. I send the traveler on his way with the assurance that I shall keep watch in his absence; that I shall notify him in an emergency; that I shall take to him the voices of his loved ones (and his to them), though sea and mountain separate them.

Citizens Discuss Farm Program

know and understand the problems fa ed by Chilton County farmers; the know conditions that have existed f the past 30 to 50 years, and each de clared that never before have farme been given the recognition that the are accorded today.

Judge Reynolds traced briefly far agency work in this county from its beginning. It was back in 1908 that W. H Conway, of Jemison, was elected th first county agent in Alabama. Throug his efforts, a "live at home" progra was promoted in Chilton County, an for the first time in the county's his tory corn was shipped to norther markets.

"Why, I remember when farme used to to smell of fertilizer to detern ine whether it was good," Judge Rey olds declared. Fertilzers that it is no against the law to sell, were sold rig here in this county for from $30 to $ per ton. "Our farmers, since count agency has taught them something judging fertilizer contents, wouldn even haul that junk home if it wa given to them."

There is absolutely no comparison the condition of the farmer of th county been given the recognition an county today and 25 to 50 years ag Today, he is recognized along with bu iness men in other fields and it is a a result of education through such or ganizations as county agency and Far Bureause, the former probate judge de clared.

Mr. Collins, who was born and rea ed in this county and declares that h has made a crop every year for 3 years, said that never before in his ex perience has the farmers of this count been given the recognition and coopera tion tat is being accorded them toda by the government through coun agency work and other government pr grams.

"I believe that the AAA cotton pr grams have been absolutely essenti to our farmers. I was connected wi the work last year, and I think th I know the inside well enought to sa that it has been a life saver to Chilt County cotton growers," Sheriff Colli declared.

All three men pointed out numerou accomplishments and improveme brought to the county through the w of the extension programs. Impro ments that perhaps would never l been realized had it not been for t cooperative program inaugurated in be half of the farmer.

J. N. Dennis stated, that in his op ion, farmers are 200 to 300 per c better off today than they would h been had the extension service nev been given them. The Farm Bur he said, has always been the farmer friend and he can see no reason radical criticism.

Discussing the AAA program, Judg Reynolds declared that it is true th it has worked hardships on some co ton growers, who were farming on lan without cotton history. but he beli that should the program be discontinue that the price of cotton would drop five cents per pound within 30 day

THREE MURDER CASES ARE SET IN COURT SOON

Criminal Court To Open Here Monday, Oct. 7; 149 Cases

When the criminal term of the two-weeks session of Circuit Court convenes here Monday, October 7, jurors will be faced with the duty of deciding the fate of three alleged killers; one charged with first-degree murder, one with second-degree murder, and the third facing a first-degree manslaughter charge.

George Bolton will stand trial for the knife-slaying of Barney Littlefield last February; Dan Lockhart will answer to a charge of cutting his cousin, C. A. Johnson, to death on a lonely road near Billingsley about a year ago, and William Tucker, Negro, will see re-enacted the scene when he is alleged to have beaten another Negro, Walter Williams, to death with a board.

The altercation which resulted in the death of Littlefield took place in the men's rest rooms at the courthouse in Clanton last February 27, during the Spring term of court. Both were said to have been in an intoxicated condition, according to witnesses who were with them a short time before Littlefield was stabbed through the lung.

At the time of the cutting, only three men were believed to have been present: the dead man, George Bolton, and a brother, Ernest Bolton. During the preliminary hearing, P.L. Robinson, former deputy-sheriff, told of hearing George Bolton threaten to kill Littlefield and seeing him lunge toward him

T B CAMP WILL BE URGED FOR SOLDIERS HOME

Kiwanis Clubs Aiding To Convert Home Into A Camp

The Clanton Kiwanis Club is endorsing the idea of converting the old Confederate Soldiers Home at Mountain Creek into a sanitorium for the isolation and treatment of tuberculosis, it has been made known by Senator Earle Thomas, president of the club and an ardent supporter of health programs in this section.

At the club meeting last Thursday evening, a committee, composed of Dr. J. M. Kimmey, Luther E. Little, and Senator Thomas, was appointed to contact civic clubs in Shelby, Autauga, and Elmore counties to determine the probability of making the institution serve a larger section of the state.

Health authorities hit upon the idea of turning the home into a tubercular sanitorium, after it was learned that in all probability it will be closed as a home for Confederate soldiers. There are no longer any of the followers of the "Stars and Bars" living at the institution. Only seven old ladies, wives of old soldiers, occupy any of the several spacious buildings.

Those in favor of converting the home into a place for the treatment of sufferers of tuberculosis are not in favor of interfering with the lives of these old ladies, it was pointed out. There will be plenty of room for them to stay on at the home, or another place can be maintained for them at much

DEDICATION SERVICES FOR NEW BUILDING

To Show Appreciation For Clanton's New Post Office Here

A dedication program for Clanton's new $45,000 post office building is being planned and will likely be held on or about October 12, according to plans revealed this week by Postmaster H. F. Downs and members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club interested in the idea.

Completion of the building is expected early in October, and the removal of the office from its present location into the new structure will take place immediately after the contractors have released it.

Believing that the people of Clanton should show some appreciation to the government for this contribution toward the city's progress, several members of the Kiwanis Club became interested in the promotion of a dedication service. At a recent meeting of the club, J. Mell Martn made a suggestion that the idea be sponsored by the club, and it received the unanimous approval of all present.

It was referred to the Public Affairs Committee of the club which began working out the details for the staging of the event. However, complete details of the program are not yet available.

Mayor C. Fenn Jones has agreed to cooperate in the dedication and will speak in behalf of the City of Clanton, it has been made known. Several other brief addresses will be a part of the program. Plans include speeches of apprecation from various civic organzations, churches, and county officials.

When completed, few cities in this section of the country will have finer postoffice buildings. In planning it the architect apparently visualized Clanton several years hence and the structure was built to be serviceable should the city double its present size

License Buyers Are Urged To Avoid Last Minute Rush; Buying Time Is Near For New Auto Tags, Licenses

License-buying time is approaching again and clerks at the Chilton County Probate Office are urging people to secure their licenses before the last minute rush that always causes so much grief as the final dead-line nears.

Automobile tags must be purchased before November 15 if the purchaser is to escape extra penalty. Tags will be on sale October 1 and can be bought through November 14 without payment of penalty, it was explained.

Drivers licenses must also be purchased by November 14. All persons who expect to sit underneath a steering wheel during the coming year will be required to have a drivers license. For the owner of a car, this permit will cost 50 cents plus a ten-cent fee; other members of the family who will drive the same car will be required to have a permit which can be secured for 25 cents plus a five-cent fee. All drivers of trucks must have the fifty-cent license, it was explained.

Business licenses will go on sale October 1 and can be purchased until November 14 without extra penalty. The last few days are always the time chosen by the majority of people to secure licenses and an undesirable congestion results, so to avoid this rush, the public is urged to attend to this business at the earliest possible convenience this year.

No doubt in the future, Leo will be seen often as he streaks across Chilton County's skyway.

Home Agent Planning New Fall Program

A reorganization of the home demonstration clubs in Chilton County is being carried on this month under the supervision of Miss Ruth Pardue, home demonstration agent, in preparation for the fall program, it was announced this week.

With the inauguration of the fall program to take place October 3, Miss Pardue explained that it is necessary to completely reorganize the several clubs in every section of the county to be in better position to carry on this new work Many clubs have recently installed newly-elected officers and they must become accustomed to their duties.

The major project for the new program will be "Home Management," it was announced, and minor projects will be gardening and poultry care. A county-wide leadership school in Clanton will mark the official opening of the fall program. Miss Nell Pickens, home management specialist from Auburn will be in charge of the program at the leadership school.

At present there are 14 clubs in the county and Miss Pardue states that she believes the membership will be above 450 this season.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Gowan and Mrs. Oscar Jones were in Wetumpka Saturday to attend the funeral of Mr. W. S. Alston, a former resident of Chilton County.

It is understood that cases which have been taken care of by the county will be transferred to this roll which will be financed jointly by the State Relief Administration and the county government.

Judge Smith stated some time ago that members of the Commissioners Court intended to ask for the cooperation of the towns in the county in carrying on this program.

FARMERS OF BULLOCK CO. ENDORSE AAA

Meeting 'Backfires' On Enemies Of Cotton Control Program

BULLOCKS PRESIDENT RESIGNS FROM POST

Union Springs, Ala., Sept. 21. — The farm meeting, called by leaders of the newly-organized American Cotton Growers' Association to protest the AAA cotton adjustment program, today endorsed the Agricultural Adjustment Act and asked that it be continued for the benefit of farmers. Only one farmer, a large land-owner of Montgomery County, voted for the AAA program to be abandoned.

Endorsement of the program came after Dr. L. N. Duncan, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and director of the State extension service, praised President Roosevelt, Secretary Wallace, Senator Bankhead and others for the constructive farm legislation and urged the farmers not to wreck the program but to work together to improve it.

A. D. Lewis, of Midway, resigned as president of the new American Cotton Growers' Association, and nominated Bibb Folmar, insurance man of Troy, as president. With less than a dozen farmers voting, Mr. Folmar was elected

REPUBLICAN PAPER BOOSTS ROOSEVELT

Finds Widespread Loyalty To President Thru Wide Canvass

The staid old Boston Transcript, recognized organ of Republican ultra-conservatism in New England, has been sounding out political sentiment west of the Back Bay. The survey was made by Daniel Rochford, the Transcript's aviation editor. It is described in the issue of September 4, as follows:

"Large talk with little people, on a 6,000-mile transcontinental air trip the past two weeks, indicates widespread and continuing personal loyalty to President Franklin D. Roosevelt and practically no interest in or knowledge of Rhode Island or New England reaction against the New Deal.

"Stopping at such cities as Buffalo Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis Tulsa, Ft Worth, Phoenix, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Las Vegas, Salt Lake City Cheyenne, Omaha, Minneapolis, Madison, Cleveland and Albany, conversation with chance strangers, many of them disclosed presidential interest in practically no one but Roosevelt. If such a canvass is worth anything, Roosevelt would be re-elected today by a greater vote than he received in 1932.

"Except for meeting one of Col Frank Knox's presidential campaign managers on the plane into Detroit who told me that Knox's friends are organizing "Young Republican clubs," in every state, I found no one who

Sense And Speed

It has been rather well established that laws which arbitrarily fix speed limits for automobiles are little protection against accidents. The speed at which one may safely drive depends upon the road and traffic conditions involved.

A high executive of one of the leading automobile manufacturing companies, who has made a close study of speed in its relation to accidents, declares that 50 or even 60 miles an hour over good open roads in the country may be safer than 15 miles an hour in cutting corners in town.

The safe driver is not necessarily the slow driver, but one who uses common sense whether driving fast or slow. Careless driving while turning corners, passing pedestrians or other cars, crossing railroad tracks and maneuvering in congested traffic is the greatest menace to life and limb.

Sense, not speed, is the important factor in determining whether a driver is safe or unsafe.

Where To Find A Mate

Statistics are generally pretty dull reading, but to a man or woman in search of a mate in a community where unmarried persons of the opposite sex are few, a recent publication of the Department of Commerce may be of interest.

It is shown that the real happy hunting grounds for women seeking husbands should be North and South Dakota, where the single men outnumber the unmarried women 10 to 1. On the other hand, the greatest surplus of unattached females is in Washington, D. C., where there are twice as many unmarried women as men.

A little surprising is the information that in the country as a whole there are twice as many single men as single women, therefore it should be entirely possible for any woman with a modicum of good looks, or money, to get her man.

Taking A Wider View

Although many writers deplore the alleged lower standard of current magazines which are extremely popular with a certain class of people, reports from booksellers and librarians declare that there is a growing demand for the better sort of literature.

Works dealing with travel, history and biography are being called for in increasing numbers, especially those pertaining to foreign countries.

There is no doubt that the war and the important events which have followed it have given the American people a wider outlook on the world and a desire to know more of the countries and peoples which are playing such important parts in its affairs.

Newspapers generally, both dailies and weeklies, find their readers are interested in a wider range of topics than formerly, and are giving more space to news and editorials dealing with national and international matters.

This all means that the people of America, and particularly the rural population, are outgrowing the narrow provincalism of the past and are eager for contact with the rest of the world, through books, newspapers, moving pictures and the radio.

"Republicans have every right to feel hopeless. They haven't an issue and they haven't yet proposed a candidate who could possibly have any public appeal. The opposition, meanwhile, has the efficient, smiling Roosevelt, a man of forthright action, foe of quibblers, a man whom the masses trust as one who is trying his level best in their behalf."—Springfield, Mass., News. "Business Man's View"

In a recent statement written for the Richmond Times-Dispatch, J. Pinckney Harrison, wealthy vice-president of the Universal Leaf Tobacco Company of Richmond, spoke the views of many thoughtful business leaders. He wrote:

"Mr. Roosevelt has fought and continues to fight for the progressive elimination of unemployment, for the saving of thousands of homes from forced sales, for the preservation of maximum hours and minimum wages—for old-age pensions and unemployment insurance, regulation of utility and power companies and other ideas of social justice.

". . . I honestly believe that if politically tomorrow Roosevelt and his entire administration were swept out of office this is a better and greater country by reason of his policies and experiments. That the bitterest critic of him and his policies, today, consciously or unconsciously, has been made more cognizant of social justice than would have seemed possible only three years ago."

With Mr. Pinckney more and more business men are realizing that security for business in America depends upon such advances as the New Deal has provided between the extremes of radicalism on the one hand and reaction on the other."—Raleigh (N.C.) News & Observer.

Do Your Part

Fire Prevention Week is to be observed from October 6 to 12. And here is a thought worth considering in the meantime:

Friendly fire—fire under control—is one of man's greatest boons. It keeps us warm, cooks our foods, motivates our industries, and serves us in countless other ways.

Unfriendly fire—fire out of control—is one of man's greatest enemies. It destroys property—causing irreparable economic loss. It menaces life. It hampers progress. It threatens community development, and industrial activity and employment.

A building for example, represents something beside money. It represents energy, achievement, labor. If it is a factory building, insurance will give back part of the money it cost, but nothing can give back the energy that was wasted. Nothing can make up for the work lost, the jobs destroyed, the diminished purchasing power the fire caused. The indirect costs of fire—costs which cannot be put into a balance sheet—are the real measure of our national fire waste. Those indirect costs are many times the direct costs.

Somewhere, as you read this, a home is being burned to the ground. A factory building is a smoldering ruin. A man is screaming in pain from a burn that will prove fatal. All this is the result of someone's oversight, someone's carelessness, someone's stupidity. Are you willing to do your part to minimize such happenings in the future?

o-o-o

Ever so often we are asked, "Whatcha think about Long?" Well, we haven't had much time to think about him, but we believe we will still manage to get two or three meals a day.

A big relief for homesickness or sometimes called "stomach Flu" among college students who are away from home, is the home town paper every week.

Over in Fayette, Alabama, there is Bill Ford, editor and publisher of The Northwest Alabamian, one of the state's well known and well printed weekly newspapers. Bill, you are certainly getting somebody straightened out over there in your column "Bill's Kolyum of Komments." Yes, Bill, we read it every week.

Congratulations to Prattville on the opening of its new bank. For years Prattville and Autauga County have been without a bank but now with Mr. Roosevelt at the steering wheel of the country, Autauga county is proudly boasting of her new bank, the only one in the county. Seems like Prattville should find a big place in its coming centennial celebration for our President. The State Legislature recently appropriated $5,000 toward this celebration.

Mister Hall's new newspaper building at Alexander City is a dandy. We congratulated you last week, Mister Hall, and we learned the other day that you had something to do with a bent-up fender on our car, and now, Cody, whatcha got to say for yourself?

When a Nebraska man's wife passed away he married her sister so he wouldn't have to break in a new bunch of in-laws.

Everyone has had his say about that Ethiopian war except the King of Italy.

Selectivity in radio sets would be more important if there were more programs worth selecting.

D. W. Haskew

A news item from Paris, Tennessee carried the sad news that a crawling babe fell into a lily pool and was drowned while the Negro nurse slept. This nurse went to sleep on the job and the child crawled into the pool and lost its life. While the babe was dying its parents were chatting on the front porch of their home, not knowing of what was taking place nearby. Ah my friends, this awful tragedy is being repeated in many a locality throughout this land of ours. We are not speaking of nurses going to sleep on the job and the babe crawling into a lily pool, but we are speaking of parents who are sleeping on the job while their children go down into a life of shame and disgrace. Tell me, do you know where your children are in the early,—in the late hours of the night? Many a child is going down into ruin while parents chat and sleep.

No one has ever seen the odor of a flower. No one has ever handled that odor, nor heard it make a sound. Nevertheless, all of us have detected that odor in the room while the flowers have been removed from the room. The flower has the good habit of fillng the room with its fragrance. Have you not been in homes, in communities where you could detect through the vision of the eye and by way of the fine culture of life, that a fragrant life had been lived there Cultured souls have a habit of leaving behind them an influence and a beauty that can be detected by all. Fine spirits in the home. in the community have a habit of leaving a fragrance behind that can be felt and known long after that soul has been removed.

The way magnets are made is to put pieces of hardened steel near a magnet and let it stay there for a time Nothing will be seen to enter the steel bar, and so far as we know nothing passes from the magnet into the steel resting nearby. Yet the steel bar will catch something from the magnet that will cause it to become a magnet like unto the one out of which it draws its power. Silently the magnetism of one flows out into the other and both alike become magnets. When we locate ourselves near unto Christ and live quietly in proximity to His Divine magnetism, His life flows out into our hearts and we become like unto our Lord. We obtain the drawing power of the Christ only when we live close to him.

And it came to pass that a great big husky, being loaded with many things from the church said to his wife: "Dear will you not carry my Bible for me." The little lady gladly reached out her hand and took the Bible, but did not forget to reply: "That is one of the troubles of you men, you always want your wife to carry your Bible for you." Verily, verily, I say unto you, every man should cease to put his Bible in the hands of his wife and should be man enough to lay aside some of his other burdens so that he would not expect his wife to be religious for him It is my command that every man carry his own Bible.

There stood a customer at the counter of the grocery store and he was making his wants known unto the salesman. Many sacks were filled according to the petitions of the one who needed supplies. Finally the buyer stated that he was through. His bill was made out and presented for collection. The man stammered for a moment asking for credit, but was told that no credit was given to anyone. Then he replied, "Place those groceries behind the counter and I will go out and get the money and return for them." Three days had passed and the man had never returned for the goods bought. He never returned to claim them because he could not meet the condition of their deliverance. In a like manner many church members petition God for His supplies. They inform Him that they want this and the other, but when they learn the terms of the deliverance of God's supplies, they never come back after the answer to their prayers. We have got to meet God's requirements before we will be allowed to carry His blessing away as our treasures.

Isabella School Activities

Mary Carr Mims and Frances Sexton were recently elected news reporters for all the Isabella High School activities. They wish to ask all class reporters and club reporters to cooperate by turning in all news promptly.

In a mass meeting of the entire student body Sara Calfee, Lillian Scarborough, A. D. Headley and Carson Willams were elected cheer leaders for the comng football season. These leaders extend a pressing invitation to all football "boosters" to join them for a brief pep meeting each afternoon at 2:30 o'colck in front of the church. From the volume of the "rah! rah! rahs!" they seem to have a very large and "peppy" following.

We are disappointed, along with quite a number of other school communities that we have not been authorized by the P.W.A. to proceed with the construction of our school building. We have not given up hope, however, and are still thinking that the day is not far distant when this welcome news will reach us. We believe that we could do credible work more easily with more convenient quarters, however, good work is being done now despite the many handicaps. Our enrollment is holding up remarkably well under the circumstances, and no student need fear to enroll with us on account of credit for the work done here. All this has been carefully checked with the proper authorities.

We still have the "Isabella Spirit,' and when the going gets hard, let's everyone who has ever gone to school here, who is going now, and who ma go in the future, cooperate to the utmost that our school may be a bigger and better high school than it has ever been.

Every afternoon our football team is putting in some strenuous practice getting ready for the hard schedule which will begin at Isabella October 4. Our boys will begin by playing Thompson High School of Siluria.

The schedule for the season is as follows:

Siluria—October 4 at Isabella.
Plantersville—October 11 at Isabella
Verbena—October 25, at Verbena.
Goodwater—October 25, at Goodwater.
November 1—open.
Marbury—November 8, at Isabella.
November 15—open.

Gentlemen:

The other evening when I came home from my work I walked out into the kitchen and found the maid ironing and putting the ironed clothes on top of the oven of our electric range. We always have biscuits for supper so I knew that our oven must be hot, and I scolded the maid for her carelessness. She merely laughed and said, "Put your hand on the oven, boss," and much to my surprise the outside of the oven was barely warm. Then she said, "Now open the oven door," and there was all the heat in the oven.

My wife had been telling me about how clean and cool an electric range is and I thought that some salesman had just gotten her over-enthusiastic. We agree with you when you say that electricity is cheap in Alabama.

You may use this statement in an advertisement if you like.

Yours very truly,

School Is Theme Of Pilot Club Program

School was the theme of the program rendered at the regular semi-monthly meeting Tuesday night of the Clanton Pilot Club.

Supt. Luther E. Little addressed the group upon the subect, "School Problems," giving facts and figures in a discussion of problems faced today in the schoolroom, not only in Chilton County, but throughout the state.

"Necessity of Education" was discussed by Mrs. Sophia Jones, who pointed out the disadvantages faced by those who fail to get an education in early life. She urged the club members to lend every possible cooperation to the teachers in making Clanton's schools places of accomplishment.

One of the most interesting features of the program was an illustration by Mrs. Reid Mullins of the three major stages in childhood education. Rendering "Mary Had A Little Lamb," Mrs. Mullins played three roles: the frightened little girl reciting for the first time; the embarrassed little maid having trouble pronouncing her words through a mouthful of fingers, and the assurance of the person who has mastered an art.

Mrs. Ruth Martin, teacher at the Clanton Grammar School and a member of the club, had charge of the pogram.

Clanton Establishment Is Raided By Officers

A raid last Saturday night by cty police officers, the third during recent months, of a prominent Clanton firm, yielded a quantity of whiskey, gin, and beer, according to a report given out this week by Mayor C. Fenn Jones.

The operator of the establishment was charged with violation of the prohibition laws and placed under bond. On two previous occasions, he has been placed under arrest by the sheriff and his deputies and, according to reports, is now facing three similar charges in three cases which likely will be scheduled for trial during the coming term of court.

Participating in the raid were City Officers John Browder, Reuben Culver, B. R. Plyler, and Deputy-Sheriff J.A. Nivens. The liquors confiscated are said to be bottled and bond products.

HAL KEMP'S ORCHESTRA SIGNED FOR GULF SERIES, STARTING 29

Hal Kemp's orchestra, one of the country's leadng radio and recording bands, has been signed to support Phil Baker when the comedian appears as "The Great American Tourist" on the new Sunday series sponsored by Gulf to be heard over the Columbia network from 7:30 to 8:00 p.m., E.S.T., starting September 29th.

The Kemp band is noted for its individual, staccato interpretations of popular tunes and has been frequently flattered by the sincerest of compliments—imitation. In addition to directing his orchestra, the youthful Alabama maestro will serve as one of Baker's stooges.

According to his mother, Kemp got his musical start at the age of three, watching his sister take piano lessons. As he grew older he began learning the wind instruments and at the age of ten playe din a Charlotte, N. C., military band.

His frst orchestra, known as "The Merrymakers" was organized when he was in high school. He attended the University of North Carolina and while there began his climb to fame. The University dance orchestra, under Ambassadeurs in Paris and the Casino at Ostend.

Kemp's many succesful tours in this Kemp's direction, became known throughout the United States and Europe.

Hal kept his boys together as a unit after graduation. A large part of every year was spent abroad, filling engagements at such famous foreign gathering places as the Pccadilly Hotel in London, the Cafe de Paris and Les country have won him a host of followers. his season he will be featured at the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York. Further details of Phil Baker's supporting cast will be announced as soon as they are settled upon.

Thorsby Institute News

A week from Saturday night at 7:30. the Helen Keller Literary Society will hold its first open meeting. The public is invited. The admission charge is ten cents, the same as in the past. Miss Klingelhoefer has charge of planning the program. She is using pupils in this year's and last year's Thorsby Institute Bible classe. A very nteresting program has been arranged.

The Philomathic club met on Friday and elected as sponsor, Ruth Cosby and as girl's athletic manager, Mary Nelle Pate. The boys' athletic manager is Robert Minor. Miss Mattingly is Faculty Adviser.

The Pushmataha club elected as sponsor. Mary Frances Duke; as girls' athletic manager, Ruth Higgins; as boys' athletic manager, Richard Peterson. Miss Ford is Faculty Adviser.

On October 19 at 7:30 P.M. in the auditorium, Miss Kathryn Foss, music teacher at the Institute. expects to give a voice recital containing pieces used on her graduating recital from Piedmont College. She will be accompanied by Miss Jane Roberts of Clanton. Those who have heard Miss Foss sing, will feel that a treat is in store for them. Miss Foss has at present all the piano and voice pupils she can find time for. If a vacancy should occur later, she will notify any on a waiting list, unless they are taking elsewhere. Besides individual pupils she has charge of the Girls' Glee Club, which numbers nineteen; two choruses of girls; and a group of boys who are interested in singing.

We hope, in October, to be able to start a music club to meet one night a week, spending part of the time studying about music, authors, etc., and part of the time in singing. There will be a slight charge — probably twenty-five cents a week. If anyone should be interested in such a club or class, please speak to Miss Foss or to Miss Jenkins. This would probably not include any Institute pupils, but anyone in town interested in good music would be welcome. Round notes wll be used. If there are some not familiar with the come. Round notes will be used. If such a class, probably some time may be taken to teach them.

As so many Thorsby Institute graduates have attended Piedmont College Demorest, Georgia, and three of Piedmont's graduates are teachers at Thorsby Institute, it might be interesting to know that according to an article in a recent "Northeast Georgian" all of last year's Piedmont graduates have been placed in positions. The college could not fill all the places open to its graduates. Piedmont has made quite a name for itself, particularly in Georgia, in turning out well-trained graduates of high ideals. Often its graduates have been prefered to regular Universty graduates.

Christian Endeavor News

The members of the Christian Endeavor who did not go to Shelby last Sunday night had their meeting at the fish pool on the Thorsby Institute campus. Lois Rister and Ruth Cosby were in charge of the program. The subject was 'What Welcome Would We Give Christ Today?" Several members had parts and Miss Glasson gave an interesting talk. Appropriate hymns were sung.

Last Saturday night members of the Christian Endeavor Society enjoyed a social at the parsonage. Many interesting games were played. We were glad to have Miss Davison. Misses Jenkins, Glasson, Ford, Klingelhoefer, and Fairbank. The social ended with the society singing "Blest Be The Tie That Binds," and a prayer by Rev. Lawrence Stanley.

One section of the Thorsby Christian Endeavor Society, consisting of the members who live in town, went to Shelby Congregational Church. with the Rev. Lawrence L. Stanley on Sunday evening. These members gave an interesting program. the topic of which was, "A Well Rounded Life." Juanita Each and Ruth Primm sang a duet "Ivory Palaces." A trio. consisting of Juanita Each, Ruth Primm, and Richard Peterson, sang "Beautiful Garden of Prayer." There were eight talks given on various phases of the subject, and as each speaker began, he placed a colored piece of paper on a circle bearing his topic. After all were through, there was a round circle bearing the colors of the rainbow and that made a chart showing a "Well Rounded Life." After the Christian Endeavor program Mr. Stanley delivered a short sermon.

Back Again And It Looks Good

This story may not strike you as being unusual, nor funny nor interesting. It may not strike you at all.

But, to the News and its employees this story and the cause of it bears a certain significance.

It happened this way—sometime ago a popular and well known grocery store in Clanton used a space in the columns of the News for advertising bargains whereby readers of the News could know what this store had to offer that week to save its customers money.

For a long time there were no ads from this store. Then it happened this week. Mr. G. Cleve Armstrong, a good friend of the working man and every man, and the congenial manager of the A & P Store of Clanton, walked into the News office Tuesday with a big advertising order from this well known store.

A smile could be seen on the face of all the boys at the News—there is a large A & P ad in this issue. The boys at the News want you to read it. go to the A & P Store in its new home on the corner, and tell them you saw their ad in the News.

Yes, sir, this story means something to the News.

JEMISON STUDENTS HAVE INTERESTING PROJECTS

PAPERS PREPARED BY STUDENTS ARE VERY INTERESTING

Worthwhile Projects At School Combine With Home Work

By Mary Lane Cobb. Home Economics Class

What a high school girl does during the summer is a good test of what she has learned in home economics or what kind of home maker she will be.

Many personal and family problems arise in the life of every girl which cannot be solved in the classroom but which can be solved in the home.

During the school year each girl is required to take three projects relating to three phases of home economics Where teachers are employed for a longer period than the regular school term a project may be carried on during the summer months which proves most interesting as well as beneficial to the girl and her family. To the girl it may mean an extra half unit of high school credit. To the family it may mean more pride and joy in their daughter. The real value cannot be measured The following are two very interesting projects:

Can You Can?

Certainly! With the aid of modern labor saving devices, who could not? There has been a great revelation in food preservation since the ancient period in history. Only a few vegetables such as onions and cabbage were known to those ancient people. Today we enjoy a wider selection of foods which enables us to prepare wholesome meals.

Let us consider what has brought about such a great revolution. Scientific methods, improved devices, and education are among the most important factors. The steam pressure cooker aided in the preservation of food in my project. If a pressure cooker is not available, other methods may be substituted. The cold pack method is a desirable means of canning certain foods. As a rule, however, the non-acid foods will not keep quite as successfully. The open kettle method may also be used for certain foods, such as jelles and jams. The oven method may be used but is probably the least used of all methods.

Today knowledge gained in home economics plays an active part.

Summer canning projects aid the home economics girl as well as her family. On June 12, 1935, I began my much enjoyed food preservation project. On this date I canned a number of quarts of home-grown string beans

Supervised projects work was needed The home economics teacher with a number of girls who were taking similar projects held spend-the-day meetings. At these meetings food was canned, and talks and demonstrations were given by the teacher.

Later during the summer I canned and dried other foods for winter use Among these were tomatoes. beans cabbage, soups, figs, pears, berries and grapes.

I canned a total of more than 500 quarts and spent approximately 300 hours on the project.

Through my project I learned a great lesson of thrift in money, in labor and in time. I have also lessened the winter food bill for my family.

My project ended when my teacher placed an "A" on my project blank.

My Kitchen Project

By Emmarene Raspberry, Jemison High School

I have always adored a tidy and easily cleaned kitchen and with much fun I did over our kitchen during my school holidays.

This kitchen had not been completed so my first job was to finish some ceiling, put in corner rounds, and face windows and doors. With the aid of my dad we finished these.

My next job was to give the cabinet four chairs, and a table a lye bath This wasn't so funny, of course, because I used my hand in doing so and it wanted to bite my fingers. My dad and I made a nice little woodbox from some old ceiling, put it on legs, then everything was ready for painting.

I had a grand time the next day I used for my prime coat some old left-over grey paint. My next coat was a pretty blue grey mixed by Miss Newell and me. I had lots of fun painting my furniture, in fact more than any other job I did.

My linoleum was now to be put down and as daddy and I started this late one afternoon, it became a night job. We didn't mind though, because a neghbor came in and joined us. We also enjoyed some piano and guitar music by a visitor while we worked To be sure the very first thing to greet the new linoleum was the stove pipe which came down and kissed her with its dirty mouth. I now had a job of moping the linoleum about bed time.

My curtains for the windows are of yellow checked gingham; the linoleum is blue grey, yellow and brown, and the furniture is a blue grey. The kitchen is large enough for all the kitchen equipment at one end and the table and four chairs on the other side. For everyday use we eat there as we prefer it to the dining room.

The Home Management Class Of Jemison Search For Ways Of Making Home-Maker's Work Easier

By Margaret Kelly Moore, Class Secretary

We, as a class of home economics girls have studied the various ways in which to lighten the work of the home We have studied the ways of saving time, so there would be more recreation available, and energy to protect the health of the family, and more time to enjoy guests and the other members of the family.

The class voted the three following topics best: Making family washing easier; cleaning the bed room, and family ironing.

The family ironing will be easier done if: The wash place is convenient tc the water and the wash materials. The bench should be high enough so that the worker won't have to bend. The pot and tubs should be large enough and tubs should be of an adequate number. If a clothes line is located near the house and is a slip type, it will save the use of pins, but if the line is not of that type, a clothes pin apron is very fine to carry the pins in.

The clothes should be sorted so all that are supposed to be boiled at one time will be together. The white clothes are put in the first pot of cold water, then the fire is fixed and the clothes should boil from fifteen tc twenty-five minutes—not over. The different cleaning agents and the different methods may solve a problem of keeping washing from being a task. Al' the stains should be removed before the garment is wet. The clothes should be starched after rinsing, and a light weight bucket or basket should be used to carry the clothes in to the clothes line. A trough for removing waste water from the wash place, saves much time and work. If it is possible tc have a wringer, it will help the clothes to be wrung drier and they won't be nearly so hard to rinse and starch.

A task that sounds very simple, yet takes a great part of the home-maker's time is cleaning of the bed room. This task can be made into a very simple one by first making the bed and putting all of the clothes away as they're taken off. A soiled clothes basket set in the closet is very convenient tc put the clothes in when they are taken off, and a waste basket for putting trash in saves much time.

The floor should be swept and the dust allowed to settle, before dusting is done. The chairs and other articles can be put in place while the dust is settling. The room should be thoroughly swept once a week, then it can be "brushed" every morning, not taking up much time, yet looking clean and neat.

Ironing will be much easier done if all the folds are shaken out of the garment and it hung straight on the line. The clothes won't be so wrinkled if they are folded when taken off the line and placed in the basket.

The ironing board should be suited to the height of the worker. The sprinkled clothes and the place where the ironed clothes are to be put, should be convenient to the place where the ironing is being done. If the clothes are sorted as they are ironed, and placed in piles of a kind, they are much easier to put away. The iron should be of medium weight so as not to tire the ironer.

If all these points are kept in mind while working, the work will be more easily done.

Again Chevrolet Wins First Place At Nat'l Auto Show

For the ninth consecutive time, first choice of exhbit space at the National Automobile Manufacturers' Association to the automobile manufacturer with the highest dollar volume sales—goes to the Chevrolet Motor Co.

While the show was held under the management of te N. A. C. C., the custom of alloting first selection of space to the sales leader was followed for many years, as being the fairest method of awarding this coveted honor.

Last year, when the Automobile Manufacturers' Association, successor to the N.A.C.C. turned the show management [illegible] to the New York Automotive Merchants' Association, the latter organization adopted the same method. With the exhibit again sponsored by the manufacturers, the same system is being followed, and Chevrolet, as in all [illegible] since 1[illegible]7, will occupy the choice position on the main floor of Grand Central Palace in New York, and at the show in Chicago.

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Hallsville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'doless.' My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." . . . If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician.

NOW is the time to have your child's eye sight tested

Have your children been complaining of dull headaches? Do they have to hold a book within a few inches of their face in order to read? If they do they should have their eyes tested at once. See that they are physically fit for school work. Poor eyesight has caused many a failure. Don't let it happen to your child.

URGES RESPECT FOR PROHIBITION

Editor. Chilton County Neys:

It seems like in spite of the good will of our good people voting for Alabama to be a bone-dry state, that the bootlegger is still trying to do his part. The bootlegger says, 'take and drink and be merry. for tomorrow we may get caught.'

Whiskey has robbed many homes of their pleasure and happiness that should be in each and every home. It causes many heartaches that could be avoided. It also leads the young boys to destruction and to commit crimes that otherwise might be avoided by not being intoxicated.

Just stop and think, dear people, of how many fathers and mothers today that have tried to set a good example before their dear children, for them to live a sober, upright life and the bootlegger has slipped around and persuaded those innocent boys to drink and be merry, as they call it, which is leading their lives to crime and destruction.

We should all live a life that is law-abiding that we can look the world square in the face and say with a clear conscience, 'I am not guilty.'

So, dear people, think it over and help us to destroy this stuff that has wreckel so many homes in the past with heartaches and sorrows that causes our lives to be destroyed by its use.

Yours for the prohibition law, had even heard of him. Right in Chicago I asked dozens, varying from presumably well-read to Negro porters. Apparently he is saving Chicago for later efforts.

"Roosevelt has won the loyalty of the common people. Reactions from a woman high school teacher in Minneapolis and a Wisconsin retired farmer living in Madison are typical. She said: "Whenever I hear the talk against President Roosevelt, I think of that first talk of his on the radio when all the banks were closed. He has the genius to say just the right thing; he understands the psychology of the people. His great strength of character goes to the hearts of the people Nothing has made me doubt that faith There is no man in America who could take his place in the years that face us." The Wisconsin farmer's statement was short, equally sincere. He said 'Well, you hear newspaper talk against him but. Roosevelt is doing the best he knows how. After all, that's all you can ask of any man. I wouldn't vote for anybody else.'

"Outside of the newspapers and political circles, the people of the country are not excited today by presidential talk. The problems of local public works, bond issues, business conditions, are enough to cloud any wondering about the next presidential election. Even in strong Republican centers, the average citizen has not decided that Roosevelt can be defeated As a gasoline salesman told me in Ohio: 'This has always been a strong Republican county. But who is there who can stand up against Roosevelt?"

"And that's the question. Until the people can see the man who is wiser more honest, more sincere and human than President Roosevelt, even the Republicans outside New England and a few industrial centers are going to stick with Roosevelt. The President today has a hold on the hearts of the people. And elections are decided not by heads but by hearts."

During the recent session of the legislature, a committee was sent to make an investigation and report upon the advisability of continuance of the institution, and it is understood that the report was that it should be closed or used for other purposes, inasmuch as it no longer serves a large enough number to justify the expenditure of the $7,500 annual appropriation for its maintenance.

Local physicians have long seen the possibilities of converting it into one of the best tubercular sanitoriums in this section of the country, and since Dr. Kimmey came to Chilton County as health officer, he has been intensely interested in putting forward an anti-tuberculosis program here. The plan it is understood, meets the approval of Dr. J. N. Baker, state heatlh officer who hopes to establish at least ter such institutions over Alabama. Governor Graves, too, favors the program according to Senator Thomas, who has discussed at length the proposal with him.

The isolated location of the old Soldiers Home makes it ideal for a sanitorium. Occupying one of te most beautiful spots in Chilton County and far removed from highway or other undesirable disturbance, those who have seen it believe that no better site could be found. Fourteen large houses ir fairly good condition stand among the oak trees that spot the spacious grounds. Most of these buildings could be used advantageously in the proposed program.

Dr. Kimmey declared that space for 100 beds would be ample to serve four or five counties, as the average number of cases of tuberculosis that would require hospitalization would be less than 30 to the county. With an institution of this type made available to people of this section, many lives could be save each year. It has been seen that chances for recovery without proper hospitalization are few.

president to succeed Mr. Lewis.

Over 200 white and colored farmers attended the meeting, which was called to order shortly after 10 o'clock by President Lewis, who stated that the newly-organized association has no definite program but expects to formulate one after 5,000 farmers become members. After talking at length about the allotments under the Bankhead cotton control act and the price adjustment through which the Agricultural Adjustment Administration is assuring cotton farmers about 12 cents per pound for their cotton this year, Mr. Lewis introduced Dr. Oscar Johnson, of Pike Road, operator of a 1,943-acre plantation in Bullock County. who criticized the cotton program.

O. A. Austin, of Pike County, condemned the processing tax from which Alabama farmers have been paid almost $30,000,000 in benefit and parity payments during the past three years.

Dr. L. N. Duncan, the last speaker on the program, explained how the Agricultural Adjustment Act was brought about and assured the farmers that everything possible will be done to correct any errors which may have been made in administering the act. He stated that, through State and county committees, farmers themselves are in complete charge of the program and that county agents and other extension service officials are working with farmers in helping them obtain the greatest good possible from the national farm legislation.

After talking for almost an hour explaining different phases of the cotton adjustment program and picturing the conditions existing before the Agricultural Adjustment Act became law, Dr. Duncan asked all those wanting the program to continue to stand. Practically all those present jumped to their feet. He then asked those desiring the program entirely abandoned, to stand. Only one farmer stood, after which the meeting adjourned.

As the farmers entered the courthouse on their way to the meeting they were handed a printed sheet showing how the Bullock County cotton values increased from $307,906.05 in 1932, the year before the AAA cotton program started, to $765,347,.42, the second year of the AAA cotton program at length. "Don't be misled into destroying our cotton program," the statement said.

NEW HOME OF LOCAL BANK IS COMPLETED

Inspection Day Is Set At Peoples Savings Bank Building

By next Tuesday, October 8, the Peoples Savings Bank of Clanton will again be back at the location where it has served the public of this section since December 7, 1901. But it will be housed in a completely remodeled building; one of the finest banking buildings in any small city in Alabama, is the belief of Frank J. Callen, president of the institution.

Three months ago, the bank with its staff removed to a temporary location where the regular activities of its business have been carried on without interruption. At the site where it has stood since its founding, a miracle in improvement was taking place. Practically a new building was erected.

Purchasing a ten-foot frontage from the Mullins corner lot, the bank building was made larger, and Mr. Callen declares that if the city continues to grow as it has in the past few years the new facilities will be sufficient to care for its business for at least another quarter of a century.

The new limestone front has added a charm to the street on which it stands; new equipment is seen throughout the place, and a beautiful tile floor lends an atmosphere of dependablity to the structure. An entirely new arrangement has been made of the offices in the bank, with the exception of the president's office, which will still be the first on the left as one enters the lobby.

Charles McCauley, Birmingham architect, drew the plans for the new building, which was erected by the Empire Construction Company. John Still also of Birmingham, was superintendent of the work.

This is one of the most beautiful buildings in any small city in this section of the country, it is believed, and it takes its place with pride along side of the new city hall, the new post office, the new Mullins Building, all improvements added to the city within the past few months.

Tuesday, October 8, has been set aside by the management of the Peoples Savings Bank as a day of welcome to patrons and the general public, who are invited to visit and inspect the new building and facilities. "We aim to carry on with that same spirit that fired the souls of the old pioneers who founded this institution," Mr. Callen declared.

"We appreciate the privilege of presenting to our friends this testimonial to the splendid pioneering spirit out of which Clanton and Chilton County grew and to the forward-looking faith which inspire them to continue their work for future progress. We want to pledge this structure as a monument to the sincerety of our purpose in serving the people of this section," he continued.

GULF STATION IS ADDING TO ITS SERVICES

Melvin And Joe Mims Take Over Gulf Station Here October First

The New Gulf Service Station, next door to the Bus Station, is under new management. Melvin Mims and Joe Mims, both well-known Clanton business men, assumed the management of the business Tuesday morning, and are announcing many improvement to be added to its service in the near future.

Melvin Mims, who will be in charge of the station, declared that it will be his aim to make this the best service station in Chilton County. A complete renovation of the building housing the station is being made; the adjoining building, which has been used by P. A Taylor as a warehouse for his produce business, is being remodeled for the installation of one of the most modern greasing and car-washing departments ever seen in this section, Mr. Mims declared.

This will be a complete one-stop station with the most modern equipment and the highest type of service it is possible to render, it was announced.

Good Gulf gasoline and oils and greases and other needs of the automobile driver will be among the stock of merchandise marketed at this station.

MAN STABBED IN QUARREL OVER PECANS

K. D. Hayes In Hospital Seriously Injured; No Arrests Made

K. D. Hayes, 38, of near Jemison, is in a serious condition in the Central Alabama Hospital here, where he is being treated for a stab-wound in his chest, suffered last Sunday about noon when he and Walter P. Scott, a neighbor, engaged in a fight over the disposition of pecans grown on the place where both are tenants.

Hayes told officers that Scott stabbed him when they engaged in a fight after, he said, Scott had cursed one of his children for getting pecans off a tree near his home.

Dr. V. J. Gragg stated that the man had suffered a serious wound and lost considerable blood from internal hemorrhages. He underwent an operation immediately after being taken to the hospital.

Hayes admited that bad feeling had existed between the two families for some months. The pecan trees, Hayes declared, are on the land which he is cultivating. The argument Sunday began, he said, when the Hayes children attempted to knock pecans from a tree into which Scott had climbed. Scott cursed them, their father declared, and stabbed him when he attempted to protect them.

No arrest had been made Monday afternoon, but Sheriff J. R. Hardy declared that he was making a thorough investigation.

Judge Smith Cites Costs Of Tags, Drivers License And Other License; Urges Buyers To Get Tags, Etc., Soon As Possible

During the next few weeks, there will be approxmately 10,000 applications for the various types of licenses to be issued through the Chilton County Probate Office, Judge J. Lee Smith declared Monday in a statement urging the cooperation of the people in purchasing licenses as early as is convenient this year.

With the drivers license law in effect he explained the work in his ofifce will be almost doubled and there is no provision for any increase in clerical help, so it will help greatly if those buying licenses will make arrangements to purchase as early as posisble and avoid the last-minute rush.

License will be issued to at least 2,600 automobile owners; estimating three drivers to each car, drivers licenses will amount to approximately 7,200; business licenses usually run around 650; and hunting licenses about 1,200.

An error was made in last week's issue of the News relative to the expiration date for the purchase of business license to avoid penalty. These license went on sale October 1 and to avoid extra penalty must be bought by October 31. In last week's paper, the date was given as October 1 to Nov. 15.

PROMPT ACTION BEING URGED BY CONGRESSMAN

Judge Smith Is Advised Of Project Which Is Approved

Information that there is a possibility of the location in Chilton County of the proposed $2,000,000 Government hospital for veterans of the World War met with enthusiastic approval here this week.

Judge J. Lee Smith was the recipient of a request from Congressman W. B Oliver's office Monday for suggestions of possible sites for the institution in Chilton County, and Judge Smith declared that he intended to make investigation of several possible sites and forward information to Washington regarding them. Among these was the old Confederate Soldiers Home at Mountain Creek.

Present plans for the veterans hospital call for 500 beds, it is understood and a building which the erection and equipment of will cost approximately $2,000,000. Several places are making a fight for the location of the hospital and it is not known what chance Chilton County will have, but Judge Smith stated that he believes we can offer as desirable sites as any other county in this section of Alabama.

Judge Smith stated that he will forward description of what he believes suitable sites to Washington this week and every encouragement will be given the Government to locate this institution here.

The Story Of Joe And John And Herb

This is the story of the adventures of three upstanding American citizens under the New Deal—Joe Green, John Corntassel and Herbert Hoover.

Consider Joe Green—that isn't his name, but he's a real person in Chicago. Joe is a skilled mechanic. He is employed by the International Harvester Co. He helps make machinery that John Corntassel uses in his business. But back in 1932, when low prices put John out of the machinery market, Joe was automatically laid off and ceased to be an economic unit.

He managed to squeak through, however, because the company loaned him money against the day of returning prosperity, and he was handy at odd jobs. Today Joe is back in the picture working five and a half days a week at good pay.

Which brings us to John Corntassel. You remember him. He's the fellow who, as the story goes, was paid for loafing and plowing under things. But it now appears that his plow struck something yellow and exceedingly beautiful. Anyway, the newspapers have discovered that thar's gold in them thar fields. Publishers are inviting national advertisers to come out and get some of the money through the use of space in the papers that farmers read.

"Farm Comeback Over Whole Nation Now Opening Up Vast, Rich Markets," is the pleasant headline that graces the front page of Editor & Publisher, national newspaper guide, in a supplement devoted to John, his tall corn, fat hogs, lowing kine—and pocketbook. " . . . the present fact is that the farm population, comprising one-third of the whole, is now prepared to spend money for urgently needed supplies. "This is good news for sellers and advertisers of commodities," observes the editor.

Althought Mr. Hearst is personally shrieking to high heaven against the New Deal, a writer on his Omaha paper, the Bee-News, happily informs us that, aided by $40,000,000 corn-hog AAA reduction fees, "a golden stream of buying power" is blessing John in Nebraska. "New automobiles and trucks flash along the highways," he reports. "Farm machinery sales have advanced and all products have wider and surer markets."

And while the Chicago Tribune's editorial columns burn with indignation against "Corn" Wallace and all his works, Frank Ridgway, farm editor of that journal, contributes an article with the information that dollars are rolling along rural Illinois roads.

Here's the news, too, that may or may not chirk up Sen. Dickinson, Iowa's No. 1 old dealer. Anyway, it should remind him of the good old days that he's been yearning for. "Iowa," reports J. S. Russell, farm editor of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, "sees a half billion dollars in farm income, the biggest since 1930. . . . In the production of new agricultural wealth today, Iowa farmers lead other states with an average of approximately $40,000,000 monthly in farm income during the first half of 1935."

So it goes. From all over the broad, fat land the story of John's gold strike is repeated: "Farmers of Indiana using black ink; gain $100,000,000." . . . "Implement dealers and manufacturers report nearly 100 per cent increase in business." . . North-west farmer has chin up—Agriculture staging a tremendous comeback this year—Trade revival in full swing."

"Kentucky merchants jubilant as farmers harvest good crops." . . . "Southwest in spirited recovery—live stock now selling at a profit—stockmen making more money than ever before during like period." . . . "Gross Winsconsin farm income this year will top $300,000,000 for the first time in five years." . . . Millions in new wealth pour into North Dakota farmers' pockets." . . . "South Dakota crop comeback puts farmers in market for goods." . . . "Sale of 1935 crop will start river of wealth flowing." . . . "Michigan harvesting better than average fruit crop . . ." So much for John.

Now let's turn to the happiest story of all—the one about Herbert Hoover. It appears that while Mr. Hoover is publicly and politically viewing with alarm, privately he is getting in on the New Deal's prosperity ground floor. According to John E. Pickett, editor of the Pacfic Rural Press, Mr. Hoover and his son, Allan, are among the largest investors in farm land.

"The smart money men feel," Pickett says, "that farm land is the soundest investment of all, and they are encouraged by the fact that agriculture has made the best recovery of any major industry and has a cheerful outlook ahead."

So it seems that things are looking up for Joe and John and Herb. Joe has a job making implements for John. John is in clover. Herb is getting in on the "smart money." We're all feeling better. What could be nicer?—Editorial from the Chicago Times (Independent) September 3, 1935

The Farmer And Winter Foods

If W.M. Brunson, of Elba, newly appointed People's Counsel to serve them before the Public Service Commission, gives the whole people as good advice as he gives his rural newspaper readers, he should do well.

Brunson's heart is in the soil and in the people of the soil. He writes a weekly column called "Farmer Jones and His Cowpen" for a number of Wiregrass newspapers. Recently he told his readers what he had done to prepare for the damp, chill days of winter, and at the same time ventured some broad hints to his neighbors and friends. In other words, Counsellor Bill counsels the farmers of his section in this manner:

"Our fall garden is all planted and up, our fall grazing crops are planted and up and Sallie has her first fall biddies off, with more to come each week. Healthy pigs, calves and chickens will be in order at our house this winter. Sallie is a great believer in good things to eat during the winter months. She claims that your system needs better food in winter than in summer. Suppose you look around your place and advise me as to how you are coming on with your fall patches and chickens. How many acres do you have planted in rye? How many different patches of rye do you have? How much garden do you have planted? How many biddies do you have at the present time? How many eggs do you have setting for future hatching? I'm sure that you fully realize that you and your family are just as good as mine and that you are entitled to all the good things to eat. Then tell me why it is you do not have the ordinary good things as many other families are having? If I could only cause you to realize that the entire responsibility rests on your shoulders you might do just a little better. If you would only realize that your conduct or management is causing your family to suffer for the good things of this life you would at least try to do better. How can you expect your family to love and respect you if you do not do your full duty toward them?"—Montgomery Advertiser.

The Killing Of Pedestrians

While it is the custom to place blame upon the driver is discussion of the wholesale killings upon public highways, inquiry proves that a large share of the responsibility rests upon pedestrians.

An analysis of the casualty record of 1934 shows that nearly half of the 36,000 persons killed were pedestrians.

Causes of these numerous deaths among pedestrians include "jay walking," or crossing streets between intersections; crossing intersections against the red light, the playing of children in public streets, stepping from between parked cars into lines of traffic, walking on the wrong side of rural highways and stepping before automobiles or trucks without looking.

Not all the 16,000 deaths among pedestrians were due to carlessness on the part of those using the streets and highways in walking about, but an appalling number were due to this cause and the situation proves that the need of care by those on foot is almost if not quite as great as is the need of care on the part of those at the wheel.

The remedy is to "stop, look and listen" before entering the line of traffic.—Tuscaloosa News.

D. W. Haskew

Have you not observed that the birds do not fly away in haste every morning when they first open their eyes after a night of rest? They sit for a few moments, filling the air with a song. They may be ever so hungry but still they are in no haste to be away in search of the worm. Some one has said that the birds sing the first thing in the morning as an expression of gratitude to God. Not so with the human race. When we open our eyes we rise in a hurry and with haste we are away to find our daily food. Why not be like the mocking bird? Why not stop for a few moments of meditation and worship. If we should become more anxious about worshiping God, expressing our gratitude to Him, we would find the path to our daily food very much more easily traveled. The little bird opens its eyes and then sings, but mankind opens the eye and then rushes for the worm.

In the early spring we see a farmer sitting on a goods box in his crib. This farmers is husking his corn,, inspecting every likely ear with close attention. When he finds an ear of corn that is well filled out and has a well rounded body, we note that he shells the grains from both ends and then tosses it into a barrel. The selected corn is not to be fed to the stock and neither is is it to be shelled for the mill. The ears of corn tossed into the barrel have been selected as "seed corn." If that farmer should decide to eat his seed corn rather than to plant it, he would most surely have an empty crib the next fall. Listen to me; when a business man devours his customers by cheating them, he is just as foolish as a farmer who decides to devour his seed corn rather than to plant it. If you are not prospering, it could be that you are eating your seed corn.

A business man was going through his file. He observed that the rubber bands used in holding his papers together had lost their usefulness. They had been stretched and left idle for months and in that condition of inactivity they had lost their power of service. It is a fact that rubber. the most pliable thing made, will lose its elasticity, its very life, if it is not constantly stretched. A tire that is kept too long as a "spare" will lose its life and safety. Steel will rust when not in use; good food will spoil when not used; ink wil dry up. In a like manner if we have love, loyalty, fidelity and like virtues in our lives, if we fail to use these, they will lose their saving and supporting strength. Remember that we have got to keep our virtues in use, or lose them.

An ambitious father observed with alarm the tendency on the part of his sixteen-year-old son toward idleness. This boy rebelled against all school requirements, he rebelled against all home authority and he rebelled against all church life. To be idle and free were the chief aspirations of his heart. He was seemingly happy only when he was an idler, acting the part of a sponge, an endurance sitter, a chair-warmer, a thumb-twiddler. He had rather fold his hands and suck a cigarette than to be engaged in his studies, or pursuing his duties. If you have a son who is developing a tendency toward idleness it is time for you to become alarmed over his attitude. One of the best tonics to be used in strengthening the youth of today is that of work and service.

Often have we seen men and women sitting at tables in hotels, or in the privacy of their own homes, playing a game of cards. The game they were playing was called "solitaire." We look at those solitary sitters and shifters of cards in a state of pity. The game looks drab and selfish to those who are not playing it. Individuals may be able to play solitaire alone, but this game of life is not a solitaire game. We all admit that there are some folks who seem to be trying to play the game of life alone, but that is an impossibility. No man can be his best seperated from others. None of us are able to play the game of life without having to contend with the cards that the other fellow is placing on the table before us. The game of life becomes interesting only when we play it with other folks.

AMAZING CAR ECONOMY

If the dream of some of the country's leading metallurgists comes true and the price of aluminum through a much greater output is brought down materially in price, it is likely to completely revolutionize engineering practice. It has been pointed out that in the automobile industry alone the use of cast aluminum for cylinder blocks would cut 35 to 40 per cent from the weight of the engine, thus contributing materially to the performance of the car as well as to its economy.

The possibilties of aluminum cylinder block castngs as well as its use for an infinite range of other purposes both in the automotive field and in other industries, are seen in the employment of a Bohnalite cylinder block for the first successful Diesel-passenger car engine.

This engine, an American design known as the Cummins, placed in a stock pasenger car, recently traveled from coast to coast at a fuel cost of a little over $7. It has shown on tests throughout the country that it traveled for about one-seventh the cost of a similar gasoline-powered unit. This engine employs Bohnalite aluminum alloy for the cylinder blocks, cylinder head, crankcase and other important units.

A similar employment of aluminum in gasoline engines would likewise increase their efficiency and economy, engineers declare.

Chilton Man Shows Talent As Real Artist

It is always a pleasant experience to discover that someone has unusual talent. Especially is it interesting to ifnd it in places where least expected.

A few days ago, a man walked into the News office. He was clad in overalls and it was easy to place him as a farmer by occupation. The hesitancy in his speech would indicate that his education was limited.

But for pure, unadulterated talent it would be hard to locate a person who showed more promise in his field. R. E. Kemp was the man's name and he lives in the Sardis community, near Maplesville. Mr. Kemp had brought with him some cartoon drawings by himself which were far better than many published in leading periodicals today.

Without training, this man has developed a sure hand and an accurate eye in drawing his cartoon figures. He said that he only has an elementary school education, and oftentimes, he remembers, that his fancy for drawing made him the recipient of a scolding from a teacher who insisted that he should be studying his history or arithmetic.

After he has finished his day's work in the field, Mr. Kemp, who is 32 and the father of a four-year-old son spends hours at his drawing. He wishes that he could do it for a living.

Besides the monkeys, Silver Cape Baboon, and other displays of interest, there was a special feature of the exhibit. This was the strange animal that was caught in Montgomery two and a half years ago after it had roamed this section of the country for some time. It had hands resembling those of a human—and no other animal has even been seen like it. A number of town people saw the exhibit, as well as the students.

On Tuesday morning students and faculty enjoyed a varied chapel program planned by Miss Foss. After scripture and prayer a piano solo was played by Mae Pearl Sorrell. BANKHEAD ASKS PATIENCE FROM CRITICS OF AAA

Admits Farm Legislation Is Not Perfect But Says It Can Yet Be Bettered

By Atticus Mullins in The Montgomery Advertiser

United States Senator John H. Bankhead is not one of those statesmen who think either the AAA or the Bankhead act has reached perfection but he is of the opinion that the two together have made vast increase in the annual income of the farmers of the United States.

"I realize that we have not reached perfection in our efforts," said Senator Bankhead in discussing the AAA and the Bankhead act. "Things have been done, perhaps, that should not have been done and other things have been left undone that should have been done. It is very easy to find flaws in man-made legislation, particularly when it affects so large and diversified a group as may be marshalled under the banner of agriculture. But we must remember that our greatest achievements have been perfected through developments that involved an unconventional approach during a period of trial and error. We have but to look around us at our stream lined trains, our high-powered automobiles and our three mile a minute airplanes and remember their humble beginning to realize this fact."

"I believe that in the agricultural adjustment act we have the basic principles for a square deal for the farmer. There is one thing we do not want to lose sight of. namely, that it is absolutely necessary to adopt a long-time viewpoint in dealing with farm problems. We have spent too many years watching the economic position of the farmer haphazardly rise and fall. The programs inaugurated with the agricultural adjustment act should appeal to the judgment and hearts of all good men and women who are anxious to help the farmer get fair prices for his products."

Senator Bankhead points out that the AAA has made great strides in reducing farm surpluses. Along this line he says.

"The agricultural adjustment administration has made remarkable strides towards its main goal that of eliminating the tremendous farm surplus that have served to depress farm economy. Since the cotton program went into effect the world carry-over of American cotton has been reduced from 11,500,000 bales to 8,500,000 bales. At the same time increased from $448,000,000 in 1932-33 to more than $870,000,000, including rental and benefit payments in 1934-35.

The views of Senator Bankhead come at the time when industrialists of the East and North are striving with might and main to break down the agricultural adjustment act and other farm acts including the Bnkhead cotton act. Senator Bankhead does not claim that either act is perfect but he believes that amendments to the acts should come from the friends of the farmer rather than from his traditional enemies.

While Senator Bankhead was giving his views on the value of the federal farm acts to the farmers of the nation Cully A. Cobb, director of the cotton division of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington was pointing out some of the reasons why some handlers and exporters of cotton are trying in every possible way to break down the control act. Along this line he says:

"It is probably true that the years of the largest cotton exports have meant the years of the largest profits to the handlers of cotton in general and the exporters of cotton in particular. The exporter ordinarily handles a bale of cotton on a fixed margin. A child can see that the exporter's interest so far as his own particular business is concerned is in volume.

It is true that the reduction in the number of bales of cotton has adversely affected the business of cotton exporters and other cotton handlers. It is true that this in tur nhas caused some unemployment, perhaps but does it follow that the farmer is duty bound to support individuals and institutions beyond him and be ground down into the very dirt to do it?"

Corn Cribs And Bins Need Good Cleaning

Auburn, Ala.—Corn cribs and bins should be cleaned of all insects, especially weevils, before the corn is stored, advises Prof. J. M. Robinson entomologist of the Alabama Polytechnic institute Experiment Station here.

"To rid the empty crib of insects all old corn and shucks should be removed, the walls and floors should then be thoroughly swept, and trash and live weevils thus collected should be burned. It is sometimes desirable to fumigate with carbon disulphide, as the fumigation is more effective than the 'clean-up' without the fumigant." Robinson advises.

Saturday Was Hoodoo Day For Jemison Man

Evidently a black cat must have crossed the path of H. L. Hamilton, 32-year-old farmer of the Thorsby community, last Saturday night. What started out to be a peaceful evening turned into a nightmare, with the demons of fate dogging the young man's every move.

Walking along the Clanton-Birmingham Highway enroute to Thorsby, a south-bound transfer truck struck his left arm, breaking his wrist. Attempting to dodge the truck, Hamilton said that he threw out his hand, which was struck and broken.

At Thorsby, Ocie Blackmon loaded him onto his truck and started to Clanton to take him to the hospital. When they drove into the highway from underneath the Franklin Garage the truck collided with a north-bound passenger car. and Hamilton was thrown from his seat and his nose was badly cut.

DON'T BLAME MILK IF ITS FLAVOR DOESN'T SUIT YOU

Good milk is pleasant to the taste. When it's unpleasant—don't blame the milk.

Milk flavor and odor depend largely upon what and when cows are fed and the care given milk by dairymen and housewives. Some feeds affect the paltability of milk. Others have hardly any effect. Proper aeration and cooling of milk, and storing at low temperatures, reduces feed flavors and odors. sometimes eliminating them.

To avoid undesirable flavors many dairymen feed highly flavored feeds after milking. Silage made from corn alfalfa. sweetclover, or soybeans; and green alfalfa, cabbage, turnips, rape and kale when fed an hour before milking produce noticeable flavors in milk tests by the United States Department of Agriculture show. Green rye green cowpeas, potatoes, dried beet pulp, and carrots affect milk slightly. Green corn, green oats and peas, green soybeans pumpkins, and sugar beets show little effect.

Wild onions and garlic in pastures often give milk an objectionable odor and flavor. Cows should be removed from pastures infested with wild onions and garlic from 4 to 7 hours before milking.

Verbena High Defeats Prattville, Score 7-6

Verbena won her second football game of the season last Friday by defeating Prattville by score of 7-6. Both teams fought hard from the start. Verbena scored in the second quarter when Veston Jones hit the left side of the line for about three yards. Mit Dennis made the extra point off tackle. Prattville scored late in the fourth quarter by a line buck to the right. They failed to make the extra point.

The outstanding players for Verbena were Veston Jones, half-back, Dovard Huett, center, and also Melton Hughes and Robert Jenkins did some hard charging to open up the line.

Verbena plays Marbury next Friday at Verbena. This is expected to be a good game. Several boys were hurt last week in scrimmage but Coach Bryant hopes to have them all back in condition by Friday.

A. A. DRIVE REGAINS WORLD AIR RECORD LEADERSHIP

America's drive to regain world lead- ship in the air has brought this coun- to undisputed first place among the tions of the world in the number of records held. On March 15th of s year, President Wm. G. McAdoo nounced that the National Aeronau- s Association would sponsor an ef- t to re-capture our lost laurels in eed, altitude and distance records d within six months 21 new air rec- ds had either been established or ised by American pilots and planes. ast March France led the world th a total of 45 air records for light- than-air and heavier-than-aircraft ile the United States was a poor cond with 32 records. In a series of ord-smashing attempts during the t few months, the United States boosted its total of 46 world air ords as compared to 40 now held France. The latest record breaking empt of Howard Hughes, California rtsman pilot, raised the world's air- ne speed record from 314 m.p.h to 46 m.p.h The N.A.A. announces t during the record trials just con- ded, American planes have estab- hed 7 new world marks, raised the eds in 6 other events and won back records from other countries. The ited States now holds 35 per cent the total world air records listed by Federation Aeronautique Interna- nals, and included in this number are plane speed records with and with- loads, amphibian and light seaplane ed distance records.

The United States has by no means ieved its final goal in establishing se new world records,' 'said Chair- n V. J. Gragg of the Clanton N.A.A. mmittee. "National Headquarters s that new assaults are to be soon on other existing records is believed that these trials will America well out in front in the f competitive aviation. This ef- win first place for American products is just one of the fea- f the nation-wide effort of the al Aeronautics Association to fo- ntion on aeronautics during the ance of 'Air Progress.' It is our sincere hope to arouse greater interest and to create a wider acceptance of aviation in all its branches by the American public."

Those who appreciate the beauty and art of flying should not fail to attend the air races in Birmingham Sunday, which will be held at Municipal Airport, Dr. Gragg said. There will be no admission charge, it is understood, and one of the most thrilling entertainment menus ever presented in this section of the country will grip the imagination of the audience for several hours.

Featuring some of the most outstanding flyers of the whole nation, this program will be one that will awaken an appreciation of the important role that flying is to play in the future development of this land. Dr. Gragg is urging as many persons as posible from Chilton County to attend.

IN MEMORY OF WILL COBERN

Out of the sky there came a voice
To whisper soft and clear;
" Your work on earth at last is o'er
You are not needed here.
"But up in heaven you have a task
That none but you can do.
So won't you come with me today?
Your Father is calling you."
That voice had stilled a longing
His heavenly place to see;
As the curtain of life was falling
He whispered low, 'I come to thee.'"

COTTON IS WORTH MORE THAN ITS SHORTEST STAPLE

Cotton farmers of the Old South are adoptng a new system—the one-variety community. Instead of planting "gin-run" mongrel seed, farmers in many localities are agreeing to plant one good variety, and no others. The result is a longer, more even staple, and a market price enough better to mean the difference between profit and loss on a crop.

The mixing of seed shortly after the Civil War, when custom gins replaced the private plantation gins, began the gradual detoriation of seed stocks. The planting of better varieties by a few farmers was nullified by mixing the seed at gins and cross-pollination in the field. No cotton is worth much more than its shortest staple.

The one-variety plan has been advocated by the United States Department of Agriculture for the last 25 years. It has been used almost exclusively in the extreme western cotton-growing States for about 15 years. Georgia is a good example of an Eastern State which is using the plan successfully. In 1931, three Georgia communities decided to try one-variety cotton production. This year there are about 100 one-variety communities in the State.

One-variety communities have received an extra profit of several d lars an acre—as high as $12 in so cases last year. Georgia—standi next to the bottom in past years— rising rapidly in quality of cott grown. The amount of cotton reac ing the standard of 15-16 inch a longer, has increased 165 per cent si 1931, when the one variety was fi used.

PEACH TREE DISEASE CONTROL

The Alabama State Department of Agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture are cooperating in the project of helping control peach tree diseases.

The farmers who have old diseased peach trees and would like to have them taken up and destroyed should make application for this work either to the County Agent or Mr. A. J. Lecroy, Maplesville, Ala.. route 1.

Disease has become so prevalent in this area that it is very difficult to produce good fruit. We believe that if all the old diseased trees were destroyed that we would have much less trouble with peach diseases and insects.

This work is being paid for by the State and National Department of Agriculture. It will be free to the farmers.

Watch next weeks paper for Rockett's Annual Shell Sale week.

patrol set up by the law, and the other 10 cents goes into the county's general fund. Non-car owners who drive will pay 25 cents for the license and five cents issuance fee.

Looking over his calendar Judge Smith said the time allowed for issuing the driver's licenses and the automobile tags was only 38 or 39 days. Penalties go on both the driver's and automobile licenses after Nov. 14.

The probate judge announced the new price schedule of motor vehicle tags as follows: Cars weighing up to 2,00 pounds, $5.50; cars from 2,000 to 2,500 pounds, $9.50; cars from 2,500 to 3,250 pounds $13,50; others over 3,250 pounds $18.50. These prces nclude a 50-cent issuance fee.

Before an automobile tag can be issued the applicant will have to go to the tax assessor's office and assess his car, then to the tax collector's office and pay the ad valorem tax. From there he goes to the probate office for his tag.

Certain information will be essential for the applicants to have in their possession when getting their tags. The most important facts include the weight of the car, the motor number and the serial number.

Suspicion was directed toward Ward officers said. after it was learned that he was seen in the vicinity of where the safe was found within a few fet of hours before the robbery was discovered. One of the employes at the mill told officers that he had seen Ward coming out of a brier patch near the mill about daybreak the morning after the robbery, and going to the scene, the door which had been removed from the safe was found wthin a few feet of where Ward is said to have been standing.

Although the man was questioned for several hours by Sheriff Hardy and his deputies, he was never placed under arrest. When the grand jury returned an indictment against him, Ward had left Clanton and it was only a few days ago that Sheriff Hardy learned of his whereabouts.

TEACHERS INSTITUTE WELL ATTENDED HERE MONDAY

Dr. J. A. Keller Is The Principal Speaker On Program

"You hold the key to the future of this nation," Dr. J. A. Keller, state superintendent of education, told a group of approximately 200 Chilton County school teachers at the annual Teachers Institute held in Clanton Monday. "You are the molders of character and this country 20 years from today will be what you have made it."

"The Key is Yours" was the subject from which Dr. Keller addressed the group for more than an hour. Urging a more practical education, he declared that no teacher is worthy of the name who teaches nothing more than is laid down in text books. "Look about you in everyday life for teaching inspiration and material," he said in urging that more field trips should be taken.

Education should be practical, something that is applicable to everyday life, or it is useless. Too many students know more about Greece and Rome than they do of their own state and county, he charged. Text books are only guides to education; the real education is garnered bit by bit by observation and keen thinking.

At the close of his talk, Dr. Keller declared that the duty of selling the public the idea of a sales tax rests with the teachers of the state. "Upon this depends whether or not you are paid this year," he said. Declaring that this legislature has been more friendly to edueation than any legislature he has ever known, the state superintendent declared the duty of preaching the sales tax has been passed to the educators of this state.

Tribute was paid to Supt. Luther E. Little by the speaker, who declared that Mr. Little is a team worker with the State Department of Education. "He is able to see a program bigger than just his own county," he stated.

Discussing the teaching profession, Dr. Keller declared that only big men and women are needed. The surplus of teachers are little, untrained girls who have gone into the field long before they should. A teacher's chance of accomplishment is measured by his influence in the community where he works; he must become a part of that community, a leader if his work is to bear the best fruits.

The State Department of Education is trying harder than ever before to give the elementary teachers a break. Ten departments in Montgomery have been combined into five to give funds for the field, and every dime that is spent there must show results in the schools of the state, Dr. Keller stated. Too often only left-overs have been sent to teach the lower grades, where the best talent of the profession is needed.

Supt. Luther E. Little discussed briefly plans for the operation of the schools of this county during the coming terms, explaining the motive behind the idea of furnishing books to first grades.

Other speakers were Dr. C.B. Smith. of the state department, who discussed curriculum-making; Dr. J.M. Kimmey county health officer, who explained a health program that he hopes to carry on in the schools this year; Miss Irene Smitherman, staff nurse of the local health unit; Miss Ruth Pardue, home demonstration agent; and Miss Icie Belle Cobern, attendance officer.

Prof. Curtis Matthews, principal of the Isabella High School, was elected president of the County Teachers Association; H.A. Harris was elected vice-president, and Miss Laura Lamar, secretary-treasurer.

F. A. GULLEDGE SUCCUMBS TO LONG ILLNESS

Widely Known Pioneer Citizen Passes At Verbena Home

F. A. Gulledge, Verbena's oldest resident and one of the most revered men in Chilton County, died Sunday morning at 7:10 o'clock at his home in Verbena where he has lived for the past 59 years. Mr. Gulledge had reached the venerable age of 86, having celebrated his birthday September 25.

Although his health had been declining for several years and for the past three years he had been rather feebl, the illness that proved fatal lasted only a few days. eH was stricken with a chill last Wednesday and remained in a semi-conscious condition until his death Sunday morning. From the time he was stricken, he was unable tc speak loud enough to be understood.

Though his family realized that the end was near, his death came as a surprise. Late Saturday night he seemed to be slightly stronger and it was hoped that his condition would improve due the exceptional vitality that he possessed.

Funeral services for Mr. Gulledge were held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Verbena Methodist church, of which he was a member with the Rev. Cecil Ellisor and the Rev. J. E. Hamrie officiating. Burial was in te Verbena cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge.

Throngs of friends, most of whom had been his customers fo rthe many years that he operated a retail mercantile business in Verbena, stood with bowed heads as his body was lowered to its final resting place. Few men in this section of the country were more widely known that was Mr. Gulledge.

Born in Coosa County, September 25, 1849, Mr. Gulledge had reached the age of 86. He lived in his native county of Coosa, where he was engaged in farming, until the fall of 1876, when he removed with his family to Chilton County, settling at Verbena and starting in a modest way the retail mercantile establishment that one day was to be the largest business of its kind in the county.

This business he operated until 1903 Retiring then and turning the store over to his sons, he became interested

CLANTON LOST CENSUS FROM GOVERNMENT

Next Federal Census To Be Made In 1940, Official Letter States

Government plans for a program, contemplated for months, to take the census of the entire country as a means of creating employment for the "white collar" classes have been abandoned, according to information received from Washington recently by Mayor C. Fenn Jones.

The Clanton mayor has been interested in securing a new census for Clanton since the extension of the city limits have more than doubled its area, and it is believed almost doubled it population. Some months ago, Mayor Jones made application for this program here, but a recent letter from W. C. Smith, acting chief statistician of the Washington Census Bureau, doomed this possibility.

Mr. Smith wrote that this program for the entire country had been abandoned, and unless some similar program should be inaugurated in the future, there is little liklihood that Clanton will be able to get such a service.

He explained that a representative of the bureau will be sent here to supervise the taking of the census. in case the city is willing to pay for this work. The figures tabulated by him will be official, but will not be printed in government census records. Another federal census will not be taken until 1940.

Mayor Jones declared that he had not discussed with the council the possibility of taking a census under this plan and is unable to say whether it will be done.

YOM KIPPUR IS OBSERVED BY SEVERAL BUSINESS FIRMS

Several Clanton stores were closed last Monday in observance of the Jewish holiday. Yom Kippur, which is perhaps the oldest known holiday. It has been observed, it is claimed, for the past 5690 years.

Street Paving Will Be Delayed

Project Placed Among Others, Mayor Is Advised Rec'tly

Along with the news of a possible delay of several months, comes assurance that, in all probabitility, Clanton will eventually get federal funds for the paving of most of its more important streets, according to an announcement this week by Mayor C Fenn Jones.

The Clanton mayor said that he is in receipt of a message recently from Washington to the effect that Clanton's application had been approved as a worthy project, given a number and placed on file with other similar projects which will eventually be begun This information no doubt means a long delay in the starting of the program, Mayor Jones declared, but it is good news to know that without unforeseen difficulties, the money will eventually be available for this program.

The application received approval in the Montgomery offices several weeks ago, but was held up in Washington Coming among the very last of the PWA applications, much of the PWA money had already been transferred to the WPA before the application was received in Washington. Too, it was explained, school projects have been given preference in the allocation of these funds.

Shall We Destroy The AAA?

(AN EDITORIAL)

According to a recent editorial statement in The Union-Banner, official Republican organ of Chilton County, if there had never been any AAA program that in its belief cotton would be selling for fifteen cents a pound, and farmers could raise all they wanted to.

If that assertion be true, this program should certainly be discontinued as quickly as possible. If amid all the grave problems that confront us the above stated editor has some knowledge, some plan. some scheme—some anything which could bring to the people of the South this addition to the price of cotton, he is, to say the least, unpatriotic not to give the cotton farmer the benefit of his shrewd knowledge. He should have shared such rare information with Mr. Hoover when cotton was considerably cheaper, and when we had no AAA to hamper his idea.

Who Is Opposed To The AAA?

The Union Banner would have its readers believe strong opposition is developing to the AAA, along with other features of the New Deal. But before we swallow that idea, suppose we give closer inspection to the identity of some of the objectors.

First there is The Union-Banner itself, which if we properly interpret its editorial matter, is opposed to the AAA as well as all other phases of President Roosevelt's program.

Second, certain New England manufacturers who object to payment of the processing tax by which the AAA is financed.

Third, W. C. Irby, who recently visited Chilton County and charged that County Agency work and the Farm Bureau are the greatest enemies the farmers have.

And there is another one, over in Bullock County. Recently a meeting was called in that county for the avowed purpose of formulating an organized attack upon the AAA cotton program. But when the session came to order with over 200 present, only one man raised a voice of protest against this program, Dr. Oscar Johnson, operator of a 1,943-acre plantation. One lone voice out of 200 against the cotton program, and he a man operating a plantation of nearly two thousand acres. What of the other 199 who were tenants or small farm owners? Why did they not raise a protest at this meeting?

Why should these men object to the AAA? There is but one answer: for selfish gain. The Union-Banner, a Republican paper, would benefit if its party could be placed in power, in the nation and in Chilton County. Therefore, it is only natural to expect condemnation from it of anything that bears a Democratic label. The New England manufacturers would not have to pay a processing tax if they could defeat the AAA. W. C. Irby would build up his organization, in which a membership fee is charged, by first destroying those things that have already been of large benefit to the farmer. Mr. Oscar Johnson could again place his tenants and laborers under the plantation system that grows nothing but cotton. and destroys the very fundamentals of human ambition and enlightenment.

These self-styled leaders cry out for a following. They drive the wedge of discontent into every possible fault they can find. They offer no help to the farmer, but condemn the program which has brought thousands of dollars to those who till the soil in Chilton County, and millions to the South. They condemn the government for spending money, and then condemn it for not spending more. Theirs is a message of destruction. They would sacrifice all progress which has been made and go back to the chaos of the Hoover regime in order to attain their selfish goals.

Will our people follow such leadership? The answer is a thunderous "No!" Four thousand Chilton Countians at the county-wide picnic endorsed the present farm program, 199 out of 200 in Bullock County endorsed it, when put to a vote throughout the South it was overwhelmingly endorsed.

Improvements will be made, but they will be made by the farmers and those who are sincerely trying to remedy any misadjustments to be found, rather than destroy the progress already attained. Attention is also directed to an editorial comment on the editorial page of this issue of the News, headed "A False Criticism Of Cotton Control."

Two Negroes Drawn For Jury Duty As Circuit Court Opened Here Last Monday

An all-time precedent in Chilton County was broken Monday morning, when the names of two Negroes appeared on the list of petit jurors to serve during the current term of Circuit Court, which is in session this week and next week.

The Negroes, Edd Ford, of Beat 8, and George Gulledge. of Beat 5, asked to be excused from service and had already left the courtroom when the jurys were empaneled.

Because of a recent ruling of the United States Supreme Court, growing out of the famous Scottsboro case, it is imperative that Negroes names be included in the jury lists. Several counties have faced the same condition as prevailed here this week, but in all known instances the Negroes have asked to be excused.

The following are drafted for jury service this week:

LOCKHART GETS FIVE YEARS IN PENITENTIARY

Several Other Cases Are Also Disposed Of In Court Session Here

A Chilton County jury meted five years in the penitentiary to Dan Lockhart, 38, as punishment fo rthe knife-slaying last October 20 of his cousin C. A. Johnson, in a fight on a lonely road near Billingsley. Lockhart was under indictment for murder in the second degere, but the jury found him guilty of manslaughter in the first degree.

Most of Monday and Tuesday were spent in painting for the jury a picture of what happened that Saturday afternoon, when young Johnson, 23 was so badly stabbed that he died a few minutes after reaching the hospital here. Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Johnson, parents of the dead man, were the only witnesses of the affray.

Through his attorney, Percy M. Pitts Lockhart made a plea of self-defense declaring he used a knife only to protect Health work in the schools is being begun this week, it was announced by Dr. J. M. Kimmey. Thorough examination will be given every child in school, and those in the first grade will be given the Schick test to determine the succeptibility to diptheria.

Dr. Kimmey stated that he hopes a little later to be able to work out a schedule of visits to the schools in order to permit parents to be present so that the defects in their children may be explained to them. Parents will be urged to be present at school at the time of these visits, he said.

M'KEE BROS. OPEN FILLING STATION HERE

Re-Open Former Dief's Service Station With New Equipment

"Service anywhere—anytime" will be the slogan under which the new McKee Bros. Super Service Station in Clanton will operate, it was announced this week by John W. and Thomas D. McKee, managers of the new establishment.

Located at the former stand of the well-known Def's Service Station, the McKee Brothers aver that they believe they will be able to serve a real need in the gas business here. Day and night service, with delivery anywhere is a new idea in the service station business in this locality.

Formal opening of the station will be held Saturday, October 12, when an invitation is extended all automobile owners in this section to visit the new establishment and become acquainted with the services that will be rendered by its staff.

Selling Sinclair products, the management is confident of rapidly building a clientele of appreciative patronage. "We expect to grow by giving just a little better service than can be had anywhere else," is the philosophy of the operators.

"Realizing that the American public demands super-service, we are equipping our station with the best facilities for rendering this service." they said. The sons of T.L. McKee, Chilton County tax collector, the McKee brothers, are well known throughout this section. Both have had years of experience in the gas and oil business and are familiar with its most intricate problems.

M. E. Church Banquet Set For October 18th

The committees have been appointed, the program is being put in order refreshments are being planned, and in practically every way imaginable plans are fast taking definite form for the banquet to be held at the Clanton Methodist Church Friday night, October 18. L.J. Stewart is the general directing chairman, and his corps of able assistants and committees are cooperating splendidly. He states that all prospects point to an unusually large attendance.

Singing, solos, duets, quartets, games and a general social get-together is the idea of this meeting, according to Mr Stewart and the committees who are working on the different phases of the event. Practically everybody in, or who should be in, the local Methodist Church, is already planning to attend but if there should be anyone with plans that might keep them away, it is suggested that they change their plans and be there, for a fine time is assured all.

The city police have arrested several on this charge during the past few months, and Mayor Jones declared that though he does not wish to be too severe, driving while in an intoxicated condition must stop dn the streets of Clanton.

FARMERS CALL MASS MEETING FOR OCTOBER 23

Condemn Present Set-Up Of AAA Program As Being Unjust

A gathering of farmers was held at Jackson Chapel schoolhouse last Saturday night, October 5th. and resolutions were passed relative to the Agricultural Adjustment Act and the cotton allotment plan. The gathering also moved and ordered that a county-wide mass meeting be called at the county courthouse in Clanton on Wednesday October 23rd, at 10 o'clock, a.m.

With W. L. Sanders actng as chairman and G. C. Donovan as secretary the Jackson Chapel gathering moved and carried that the county-wide meeting be called, as stated above, and also that both county papers be asked to carry the announcement. It is the desire of those calling the meeting that all farmers and other interested citizens of the county attend.

Resolutions Passed.

The following resolutions were passed by the Jackson Chapel meeting without a dissenting vote, and the signatures attached as below:

We, the undersigned citizens of Jackson Chapel community do agree that the Agricultural Adjustment Act in its present form is unjust, and that it is lowering the standard of living among most small farmers. To prove this, the following is submitted:

1. That the allotment plan based on the five year average is unjust, because:

(a) False reports given and accepted as to the base average in order to secure a larger allotment.

(b(That farmers who have already cut to a reasonable acreage were asked to reduce the same percentage as those with large crops.

(c) That a man's financial ability to use large amounts of fertilizer during the five year period, entitled him tc a higher yield per acre.

2. That the passage of any law discriminating between two adjoining farms is unjust.

3. That the collection of taxes tc the amount of fifty per cent of the farmer's income from cotton above a

A Young Samaritan

A few days ago the editor of the News was driving from Birmingham to Montgomery when he encountered trouble on Shades Mountain. The carburetor on his car chose this particular section of road to "act up," and to say the least, it was inconvenient. It was a Sunday afternoon and traffic was heavy. Scores and scores of cars passed the stalled auto by with only a glance, which was absolutely all right—no assistance was being asked.

But after a while a light model open car came by loaded with a group of boys, who, to all appearances were out for an afternoon of fun. They were going the opposite direction from which the editor should have been going. However, the driver of the little car stopped, and with a smile that said, "Don't give up the ship" or an idea to that effect, inquired if he could help. When told of the trouble he promptly offered to push the stalled car over the mountain, and upon a precarious grade turned his car around to execute his offer.

Now, as it happened, he did not have to do a great deal of pushing, and when he saw that we were safely on top, he turned and went his way. He waited for no introduction, nor wanted any thanks. He wore no Boy Scout uniform, but he might have done so with honor.

I think it likely this young man enjoyed himself better that Sunday afternoon after lending a helping hand. I know the act meant far more to the News editor than just having his car pushed a few yards. A new appreciation for the standards of a generation we too often condemn was born as a result of that act.

Air Navigation Week

The following proclamation by the President of the United States emphasizes the fast-growing importance of air navigation which appears likely to take its rightful place along with other major means of transportation in the near future. Clanton, with its airport, and further possible development of same, stands in line to move forward with the nation in development of better air navigation facilities, and this proclamation should meet with a spirit of cooperation from all our people. The text of the official proclamation follows:

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA—A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, the social and economic progress of the Nation is dependent to a large degree upon the development of transportation and communication facilities; and

WHEREAS, the development of safe and rapid commercial air transportation has made notable progress during the last decade; and

WHEREAS, a vital factor contributing to the outstanding accomplishments of the United States of America in this field has been, and still is, the establishment and operation of a federal airways system reaching into all sections of continental United States; and

WHEREAS, the National Aeronautic Association has determined upon recognition of the progress made in aviation, and has set aside the period between September 23 and November 1, 1935, in recognition thereof;

NOW THEREFORE, I, FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate and proclaim the week beginning October 14, 1935, as Air Navigation Week, and I particularly urge State and municipal officials, civic and commercial organizations, school authorities, and the press to call attention to the aerial-transportation achievements already accomplished, to set forth the advantages which may accrue as the result of continued development in this field, and to encourage the study of ways and means by which aerial transportation can contribute more effectively to the social and economic progress of the human race.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington this twenty-sixth day of September, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and thirty-five, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and sixtieth.

*—Seal FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT,

By the President: Cordell Hull, Secretary of State.

A False Criticism Of Cotton Control

One of the most convincing reports published in some time regarding the cotton control program was commented on by The Birmingham News of Sunday, October 6 in an editorial which is reproduced below. Written by a sound-thinking man, these comments immediately and decidedly offset criticism of the cotton control program. The editorial comments from The Birmingham News follows:

"Ever since the cotton acreage reduction program went into effect, we have been hearing from some quarters that it was operating adversely to the interests of many small tenant farmers and sharecroppers; that when production was curtailed large numbers of these were forced into inactivity, because they were prevented from growing cotton, or from growing enough of it to give them a livelihood; that as a consequence the relief rolls in many of the Southern states were burdened with dispossessed tenants.

"This has been one of the chief criticisms advanced against the cotton control program. It now turns out that this criticism is false. An official survey conducted by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in 52 counties in 11 Southern states discloses that only 1.8 per cent of the tenant farmers on relief rolls had been evicted from their homes from January 1, 1934, to March 15, 1935.

"The survey was made "to determine what relationship, if any, existed between acreage reduction program and the number of tenants on relief" in that period. W. J. Green, director of the survey, reports: "Conclusions drawn from information secured by this survey show beyond any doubt that there has been no increase in relief rolls due to the cotton contract, and that there has been very little net displacement or change in status of tenants in violation of the contract."

"Fifty-two "typical counties" were studied in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisana, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas. Thus the cotton-growing region was thoroughly covered. Lists of rural relief clients were compiled and the clients were interviewed. Information was received from 14,320 tenants on relief rolls, and complete information from 13,575 of that number, indicating the thoroughness with which the survey was made.

"The principal reason given by the tenants interviewed for being on relief were: Financial difficulties, in 28.4 per cent of the cases; crop failure, 28.1 per cent; unemployment, 14.4 per cent; illness and physical disability, 9.3 per cent; miscellaneous, 13.1 per cent. A few other reasons were listed, such as inability to secure farms, emergency loss, fires, etc., but the percentages of cases of these kinds were small.

"From this it is evident that most of the tenant farmers were on relief for reasons that correspond pretty well to the reasons for other people's being on relief. There is no evidence to support the claim that the relief rolls have been increased as a result of cotton control.

"On the contrary, there would undoubtedly have been a much heavier relief burden in the rural areas if it had not been for cotton acreage reduction and the resulting improvement in cotton prices. For certainly if matters had gone on as they were going before the cotton reduction program was adopted comparatively few farmers, whether tenants or landowners, would have been able to make a living. Cotton farmers cannot make a living when their cotton brings them less than it costs to produce it, or barely as much as the cost of production. Certainly they were receiving no more than the cost of production before the cotton control program went into effect. If that situation had continued, there is no telling how many Southern farmers would have had to go on the relief rolls."

Easy For The Quacks

The ease with which charlatans of all kinds, particularly medical quacks, defraud the public would be incredible were it not for the evidences to be seen on every hand. A few of the schemes whereby the gulible and superstitious have been separated from their money by these swindlers are mentioned in an article by Dr. Morris Fishbein.

Soon after Franklin made his famous kite demonstration in electricity, everyone was discussing the wonderful new force. A doctor named Elisha Perkins manufactured a lot of short metal rods, which he claimed were charged with electricity and therefore capable of drawing disease from the human body. He sold many of the rods—one pair to George Washington.

Electric belts and similar appliances have been sold by the millions, not one of which, of course, had any curative value whatever. A few years ago a widely advertised product called Sanatogen had an enormous sale, and testimonials were obtained from many persons of prominence. The stuff was composed of 95 per cent cottage cheese and the remainder glycerine phosphates, neither of any medical value.

One promoter acknowledged making $45,000 profit in a year from the sale of a "chemocal ring" supposed to cure diseases of the blood, but in reality no more efficacious than a twine string tied around one's finger.

But we can hardly wonder at the success of quackery in a state of civilization which still accepts a mass of medical superstition as gospel truth.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

Experience proves that the best way to enter a pool of cold water is to plunge into it and have the shock over in a moment. That person who enters cold water by first dipping the feet into it and then slowly, gradually forces the remainder of the body into it, will have much more suffering and many more shivers than the one who goes down into it all over at one time. We should enter the Christian life just as we enter the refreshing stream. We should plunge into it, body, mind and soul and then go to work with zeal to offset the shock in the change. We all are acquainted with deeply religious folks who have become happy in the Christian life, but who suffered much while attaining to its joy. They entered it very much like a cold natured person enters a cold stream—an inch at a time, and they suffered and shivered much. When you go into the church and plunge into the stream of salvation, forget your nerves and fears and plunge in all over and go to work.

In the early evening hours of a spring day if you will take your place in a bee garden you will be aware of a buzzing sound. A light in your hand will enable you to trace that sound to the mouth of the bee gum. Standing there in the mouth of that gum will be a host of "Fanner Bees" with heads bowed and wings lifted and moving with all possible speed. It is the task of those "Fanner Bees" to keep their wings in motion and thus draw out the hot air from the hive and pull in the fresh air. For the most of the night they are there ventilating the hive and protecting their treasure from harm. The "Fanner Bee" gives to us an insight into a great work that Christian people can do. We must not be content to give over the social life, civic life, political life to the bad influences of the world, but we must create the currents that will blow through these conditions and renovate and purify the atmosphere of life. The best way on earth to preserve the society is to pull out the bad and then pull in the good.

While looking over the pictures of animal life in the pre-historic period of the world we are made to wonder how the human race could master such huge animals should they live in our day. When those tremendous animals did live they were not driven off the face of the earth by human skill and power. They were destroyed and their existence ceased because of the change in climatic conditions. They could not live after the change in the climate and finally became extinct. That is the best method known to man for the destruction of the huge evils of our age. If we will change the climatic conditions into a clear atmosphere of our Christian faith, slavery, intemperance, impurity and the like can not live and thrive. The huge sins of our day are growing and thriving and all because we are making favorable conditions for their growth. When we learn the art of purifying the atmosphere, and are willing to pay the price for the possession of correct ideals, all that is impure and vile in life will die away. The best method of purifying a room is to draw out the impure air and draw in the pure.

It is a record of the early history of the New England states that not one Quaker was killed by the Indians with whom they lived. These settlers of the Colonial day refused to pull in their latch strings at night, and were never known to carry a gun or fire arms during the day. The Quakers came among the Indians to live uprightly and to deal fairly with them and at the same time to contact them in every way as a brother. The result was that the Indians refused to harm them. Not a child or a woman was ever touched by the warriors of the Indian tribes. Was that mere happen so? It is a fact left on the pages of history to inform us that it pays for us in every age, in every generation, to deal justly and practice righteousness. Much of what we have coming to us is brought in on the wings of the same carrier that carried out the same things to others. When we hurt our fellowman, we may expect them to hurt us. It is a fact as true as the truth of God that "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." Do evil with your hands and other hands will do evil to you.

Facts About Diptheria

By Dr. J. R. Kimmey

There are few diseases that we know so much about as diptheria. We know it is caused by the diptheria bacillus; that it is spread largely by discharges from the nose and throat of cases or carriers; that the disease can be diagnosed by means of a throat culture. Also, we have a method of treating the disease and preventing death through the use of Antitoxin. And most important, we know how to prevent the disease through the injecton under the skin of a single dose of toxiod.

Yet in spite of this knowledge of the medical profession, that has been repeatedly passed on to the public, we continue to have cases of diptheria, and many young children die yearly from a disease that is preventable.

There were five cases of diptheria reported to the Health Department by physicians of Chilton County during the month of September. And although there have been no deaths from this disease reported so far this fall, deaths from diptheria, a PREVENTABLE DISEASE, will occur unless parents can be awakened to its danger, and can be made to realize that through proper preventive measures the disease can be practically wiped out.

All parents should remember these things:

1. Diptheria is primarily a disease of young children.
2. A single injection of toxoid, given by your family physician or by members of the Health Unit, will immunize 90 to 95 per cent of children to whom it is given.
3. The best age at which to give toxoid is when the baby is six months old.
4. Toxoid takes about six weeks to three months to establish full protection.
5. A Schick test three months following toxoid will tell whether or not full protection has been established.
6. Diptheria is treacherous in its onset, and the child may not appear acutely ill until the disease is far advanced.
7. Do not delay in calling your physician if your child has a sore throat or is "croupy." He can tell you if the child has diptheria, and through early use of antitoxin may be able to stop the course of the disease before serious damage results.

C.C.H.S. Wins From Billingsley High S.

The Chilton County Tigers won a close decision from Billingsley High School in a heated contest.

After going scoreless for the first half the Tigers came through with the only score of the game when the pass from Ermon Johnson to Emmett Parrish was good in the third quarter.

The local boys were in striking distance several times and most of the game was played in Billingsley's territory. Although their offense failed to function perfectly the boys should be commended for their showing on defense.

The outstanding playing of Charles Wilson, Emmett Parrish, Ted Reynolds and Captain Frank Hogan was exceptionally good on defense. On offense the wde-awake Williamson and Marlar showed they could use good judgement in the time of need.

Substitutes for C.C.H.S. were Morris Mims and Ermon Johnson. Billingsley's outstanding players were left end and left tackle.

One of the best attended and most enthusiastic football games of the season is expected here next Friday afternoon when Wetumpka High School invades C.C.H.S. Tigers. It will be remembered that our boys defeated Wetumpka there last year. They are expected to retaliate for that game. A huge crowd will be there. Come yourself and "root" for the boys.

The many friends of Mr. D. O. Manning wish him a speedy recovery and hope he will soon be able to visit our fair city again.

Mr. Van Potts, a student of A.P.I., spent the week end at home and he certainly did enjoy the football game Friday but his only regret was that he could not play with them.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Camp spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Maples. They returned to Auburn Sunday evening.

Mrs. J. L. Kincaid and family of Bessemer spent the day with her sister, Mrs. Stanley Hayes, Sunday.

Mr. Carl Foshee, Jr., who is attending the University of Alabama, spent the week end at home with his parents.

Miss Elizabeth Cobern, who is a student at the State Teachers College at Troy, spent the week end at home with her parents.

The many friends of Mrs. Harry Pritchett, who is ill at the home of her parents in Tuscaloosa, extend to her wishes for a speedy recovery and hope she will soon be back with that "sweet smile."

The director, leaders and officers extend to everyone a cordial invitation to attend the B.T.U. each Sunday evening at 6:45.

Everyone who attended preaching Sunday certainly did enjoy the splendid each first Sunday.

An ad from The Bank Of Maplesville appearing on another page calls attention to the insurance on all deposits with that bank. The Bank of Maplesville is a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

M. H. S.

The football team played a splendd sermons delivered by our pastor, the Rev. Bentley and he extends to everyone an invitation to attend services game September 20. even though they were defeated they played a hard, fair and clean games—13-0, Verbena.

Strange as it may seem! M. H. S. scored on Bibb County High School. B. C. H. S. is known everywhere as having one of the strongest high school teams in the State but that did not keep our boys from playing hard and holding them down. They expected to defeat M.H.S. by a large number of touchdowns but they were disappointed because we have a real team.

October 4, our boys played a tight game with D.C.H.S. Both teams were well matched. The game was a hard one for both teams it seemed to the last that neither was going to score but during the last three minutes they scored 6-0.

Although we have not won a game we are proud of our boys and just wish them the best of luck during the rest of the season.

Grammar school opened October 1 Everything is in order now. We have about thirty beginners this year and it certainly has been amusing to watch them trying to get started. The following are the teachers: Miss Annie Laurie Potts, Miss Susie Mae Hayes, Mrs. J. P. Payne, Mrs. Chambers, all of Maplesville.

The following cheer leaders were elected by the student body to keep the pep and spirit up this year: Helen Baisden, Sr. I; Helen Nix, Sr. II, and Billie Smitherman, Jr. III. Help them with the yells and come out to the pep meetings each Thursday afternoon at the beginning of Physical Education.

The student body regrets very much to know that Douglas Hayes was injured in the football game Friday but hope he will soon be back at school feeling fine.

FUR CATCHERS LICENSE IS EXPLAINED BY QUINN

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 9.—Reports having reached the state conservation department of some confusion among hunters as a result of new legislation reducing the cost of the fur-catcher's license, Commissioner I. T. Quinn said today that no change has been made in the cost of hunting licenses for the coming year.

"Any person who hunts outside of the county in which he maintains his permanent residence must procure a state hunting license and pay therefor a fee of $3," said the commissioner "and any person who hunts within the county in which he maintains his permanent residence may hunt in said county by procuring a county license and paying therefor a fee of $1.

"All persons who take or catch fur-bearing animals for the purpose of selling the furs. skins or pelts therefrom must first procure a fur-catcher's license for which a fee of $2.50 is required. This license replaces the old $15 trapper's license. In addition to the fur-catcher's license, every fur sold or offered for sale or shipped within or without the state must bear a tag which may be procured at the office of the judge of probate."

Hunting licenses went on sale in this state Oct. 1.

Approximately 12,000 murders were committed in the United States during 1930. This is about 17 times the murder rate of England.

EXTENSIVE SANITATION WORK TO BE CARRIED ON IN COUNTY

An extensive sanitation program is being started in Chilton County, according to announcement ths week from Dr. J. M. Kimmey, county health officer, and Floyd Smith, local WPA director, under whose supervision the work is to be carried on.

A state-wide program has been approved by the WPA to continue for twelve months. Under the provisions of this set-up, labor can be furnished for the purpose of carrying on any type of sanitation program, either public or private.

In this county, the program outlined calls for the building of as many sanitary privies and the installation of as many septic tanks as is possible in the next year. At present most of the work is being carried on in schools, but any property owner can obtain this service without cost if he will furnish materials it was explained.

Columbiana Mayor Is Top In Getting Monies

Illustrating the wide-awake spirit of of Harry Gordon, mayor of Columbiana, and his accomplishments in behalf of his town during the granting of government monies to various types of programs, the following clipping from a Columbiana paper is reprinted:

"Mayor Harry Gordon's progressive spirit, energetic activities, and untiring efforts in behalf of the people of Columbiana, has won the distinction of having Broadway, New York, telephone the Mayor of Columbiana, to state that COLUMBIANA had received more improvement funds for its population than any other town in the United States. An article is being written about this achievement and will appear in a National magazine. The publisher of this magazine phoned for Mayor Gordon's permission to release the article. Who says Columbiana is not on the map? And who says we haven't the best Mayor n Alabama?"

All of this sounds mighty, mighty good—for Columbiana. But where does Clanton and Chilton County stand, is a queston that is in the minds ot a great many people here. They are wondering if Clanton and Chilton County will win recognition as being the locality to receive the least from these programs.

VERBENA DEFEATS MARBURY BY SCORE OF 16-0 LAST FRIDAY

For the first time in about five years the Verbena football team defeated Marbury by a score of 16-0.

Marbury got in Verbena's territory one tme during the game when early in the first quarter Robert Williams failed to make a punt because he fumbled the ball, and Marbury got the ball on Verbena's 15-yard line.

Verbena scored first in the second quarter, when Mit Dennis made a lateral pass to Robert Williams who ran about eight yards for a touchdown. The extra point was made by Mit Dennis on a line drive.

The second score was made when James Tatom tried to run the ball out from behind his own goal line and Marshall Williams and Melton Hughes tackled him behind his goal line and made a safety and 2 points for Verbena. The half ended wth the score 9-0. The half ended with the score 9-0.

The second half started and both teams still had the fighting spirit. Marbury started passing in the last quarter, completing several. They tried one too many, for Veston Jones intercepted one of their passes and ran 55 yards for a touchdown. When he caught the pass every man seemed to cut down a Marbury man. The extra point was made by a pass from Marshall Williams to Leonard Jenkins.

The CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

OFFERS

$200.00 in Cash Prizes

IN ADDITION TO

LIBERAL COMMISSIONS ON SUBSCRIPTIONS

First Prize $150.00

Second Prize 50.00

FOR SOME

Church, Club or Organization

Here is the plan whereby some church or organization can win one of the two big cash prizes totalling $200.00 to be given by the Chilton County News.

The church or organization wishing to enter the contest, must officially enter by giving its name and the name of a solicitor to be selected by the church or orgaization. These names must be given to Mr. Victor Norris, manager of the campaign, immediately.

All members of the church or organization may solicit subscriptions to the News, but they must be turned over to the official solicitor who will make a report to the manager every Saturday and receive his or her commission on each subscription.

Votes, made out to the church or organization, will be issued to the solicitor each Saturday when a report is made. The church or organization having the largest number of votes at the close of the campaign will receive first prize of $150.00; second largest will receive second prize of $50.00.

One of the attractive parts of this campaign is the liberal commission offered to all solicitors taking part. Twenty per cent of what is turned in by the solicitors will be given to them as a commission for their work. This commission, which is really a salary, will be paid each Saturday when the solicitors make their reports to the manager of the campaign.

Make Some Extra Money

This is a splendid opportunity for the solicitors to make some real money in their spare time. Or, it will be worth their while to put full time on this job at such a iiberal offer.

START NOW

The time to start is RIGHT NOW. Come in to the News office. Get an official registration blank, your receipt books and start to work for yourself, your church or organization.

The News is easy to sell and the special offer of $1.00 per year during this campaign will add much to the attractiveness of this contest. This applies to new or renewals but only to those persons residing within Chilton or adjoining counties. Outside of this territory the price per year is $2.00.

During this campaign the price of The News will be

$1.00 PER YEAR

-:- HERE ARE THE REGULATIONS -:-

Here are the rules and regulations of the campaign. These rules can be changed at any time suitable to the publisher of the News.

Only those churches or organizations located within Chilton County are eligible to enter a solicitor in the contest. Not more than three official solicitors can be registered by any one church or organization.

The official solicitors must be registered with the manager of the campaign and receive their credentials. The solicitors must agree to carry out these rules and regulations.

When any question arises, the decision of the manager of the campaign and the publisher of the News must be final.

Subscriptions to any one person for over four years will not be accepted. Subscriptions to persons residing within Chilton and adjoining county will be $2.00 per year. The special $1.00 offer applies only to persons residing within Chilton County and adjoining counties

This applies to new subscriptions and renewals.

Any or all members of churches or organizations entered in the contest may solicit subscriptions, provided they are turned over to the official solicitor who MUST make a report each Saturday during the campaign not later than four o'clock. Commissions will be paid each week at the News office.

At the close of the campaign, the count of votes by the judges, to be selected. will be final. Anyone may enter the campaign for the commissions only, if they so wish, but will not receive any votes on the grand prize. The News will not accept subscription at the office unless accompanied by a request they be given to some certain solicitor.

We hope that this rally may becom a traditional affair between the stu dents and the community.

Friday afternoon the entire schoo turned out to see two of the hardest fighting teams play a fine clean game of football. Next, Friday October 11, at one o'clock we shall again have the opportunity of seeing the Isabella eleven in action against Plantersville High School. Everyone come out to support our team and to see a hard-battling team climb to victory.

The Senior Class enjoyed a picnic at Log Cabin Beach last Friday night. Their greatest fun came when jokes, games, and eating began.

President, George Kyser.

Vice-president, Chalmus Jones.

Secretary and treasurer, Mitchelean Scott.

Reporter. Mary Jo Suitte.

Program committee, Willard Davenport, Marietta Foshee, and Evelyn Lecroy.

Social committe, Esther Owen, Annie Lee Bates, Jessie Eiland, Jack Lenoir.

Last Tuesday morning the school had a pleasant surprise when Supt. Little announced that the money had been allotted for our new school building. Plans are being made for constructing the building as rapidly as possible.

Wednesday, October 9, has been designated for the first programs of the F.F.A Club, the F.H.A Club, the Cosmopolitan Literary Society. These organizations did some excellent work last year, and we are expecting great things from them this year. Miss Madeline Heflin will sponsor the F.H.A. Club; Mr. Smith, the F. F. A. Club; Mrs. A. B. Foshee and Mrs. Alfa Brown, the Cosmopolitan Society, and Mr. S. Porch and Mr. M. Mims the Jeffersonian Society.

The Seniors have been studying an interesting chapter on Poverty in their "Economic Society and its Problems." The class, with its teacher, Mr. Matthews, has made this chapter very interesting and worthwhile. Good suggestions were given on how a person in poverty could find a way out of it and prosper without hurting someone else.

Isabella Evening School

On each Tuesday night, the Isabella Vocational teachers are conducting an evening school at the Agriculture building. Both men and women are enrolled. The ladies, under Miss Heflin, are taking up problems in nutrition that are common to most house wives; while the men, under Mr. Smith, are studying such problems as soil improvement, meat curing, etc.

At the end of each meeting a joint session is held, as the social feature of the evening. Two captains have been selected, Mr. E. Grooms and Mr. Davenport, and they in turn have selected the members for their teams. Each captain and his team mates are striving for high score. At present the Davenport team is leading. The captains, together with Mr. Smith and Miss Heflin take this means of inviting all who have not already enrolled.

The first meeting of the Helen Keller Literary Society was held last Saturday night. As this October commemorates the 400th anniversary of the first translation of the Bible into English, it was fittng that members of the Bible classes taught by Miss Klingelhoefer, should take part in the program which had the Bible for its theme—centering especially around the Apostle Paul. Aside from a talk by Dora Holt on the missionary journeys of Paul, a dramatic reading "Paul before Festus" was given by the following students: U. L. Mims, Thomas Hays, Gladys Martin, Lance Franklin, Norwood Johnson as characters. Mary Maud Knight as reader. This was followed by a piece entitled "The Writing of an Epistle." The closing feature of the evening was a short play, "The Test." The following students took part: Frederick Dunlap, Inez Jackson, Bernard Adams, Bernice Robinson, Edward Roy. The banner for attendance went to the Pushmataha club.

A week from Saturday night at 7:30 in the Institute Auditorium, those who enjoy music will have an opportunity to hear Miss Kathryn Foss, music teacher at Thorsby Institute, who will give her graduating recital in voice. STATE SHOWS HUGE INCREASE IN TAX COLLECTION

NEW TAX COMMISSIONER ROUNDS UP TAX DODGERS WITH RESULTS

Graves Carries Out His Promise Made In Campaign

An increase of well over two million dollars in direct tax collections by the State Tax Commission for the fiscal year which ended September 30, 1935, showed the offset of the more vigorous tax enforcement policy of the Graves regime. When he was a candidate for a second term, Governor Graves told audiences all over Alabama that he would employ enough men in the Tax Department to secure a full and impartial enforcement of the State's revenue laws. Since he took office, the State Tax Commission, under the leadership of Henry S. Long, who is serving his second term as Chairman, has been getting results and bringing in more money by rounding up the tax dodgers. The field force of the Tax Commission has been strengthened and its work in rounding up escapes is a big factor in the boost in revenue.

Total tax collections for the fiscal year 1934-1935 were $15,598,840.03, as compared with $13,231,423.06 for the year 1933-1934—an increase of $2.367,416.97. The fiscal year 1934-1935 which ended September 30, 1935, embraced the last three and one-half months of the Miller regime and the first eight and one-half months of the Graves administration, while 1933-1934 was the last complete year of Governor Miller's term. The increase achieved by the Graves forces came largely through the more thorough enforcement of the existing revenue laws, as the general revenue act of 1935 did not take effect until October 1. The above figures do not, of course, include Ad Valorem and privilege license taxes, and automobile tags, which are collected by the Tax Collectors and Probate Judges of the various counties and not direct by the State Tax Commission.

The biggest single item of increase was in Gasoline Tax, which advanced from $8,859,517.88 in 1933-34 to $9,994,793.16 in 1934-35, an increase of $1,135,277.28. Several other classes of taxes showed a greater percent of increase. however. For example, Income Tax collections more than double—from $373,169, to $867,548. Another notable item of increase, due to more effective enforcement was in the Store License tax, which brought in $66,259 in 1933-1934 and $104,502 in 1934-1935. The Tobacco tax showed a substantial gain amounting to more than $400,000 from $1,636,109 in 1933-34, to $2,049,054 in 1934-35. One of the most signifecent features of the entire report was the big jump in tobacco tax penalties, which amounted to $4,499 in 1933-34, and $37,692 in 193435, an increase of close to 900 per cent. This big advance in penalties levied on violators of the Tobacco Tax Law has gone far to break up the bootlegging of cigarettes and helped bring about the heavy increase in tobacco tax collections.

Interesting Letter From Chilton Man Now In Honolulu

Editor, Chilton County News,
Dear Sir:

Here is a few lines you might find room for in your weekly paper.

I have just been inspired to say a few words to friends and citizens of Chilton County through the courtesy of your paper. A friend of mine also told me in a letter that I should write a few lines of interesting news from Hawaii.

All the pleasures which are mine in Hawaii are not necessarily locally acquired, because I read the Chilton County papers with keen interest. It seems that ole Chilton is climbing so rapidly that I may feel as a new alien when I return. Hawaii seems to have the same good spirit. Rapid progress seems to have a successful determination here for a long time. In likeness to the Chilton County News, concerning local welfare, Hawaiian citizens and inhabitants are boosters, and promote all necessary efforts to afford a fascinating life. Enlisted men highly congratulate the idea of the Union Banner, which is that soldiers should have the re-enlistment bonus. We, too, believe it would be the right thing. I am sure the natives of Hawaii wouldn't be envious about it. They should rather be glad.

September 14, 1934, was the last I saw of Chilton County, and Alabama. I spent a few of the following months in New York, and various other parts of the states, and departed from Brooklyn in February. Most of the following month was spent aboard a ship, and in different towns in Panama Canal Zone, then on to Oahu, which is the island on which I have enjoyed every day since my landing at Honolulu, a city of great social interest. After having been on the waves of the deep sea for days, Honolulu is some eye-opener. There are many other cities and towns on the island that offer unlimited amusements.

We've often heard very interesting stories about Hawaii, including many interesting things different to some of our experiences in the States. As traveling is one of my greatest desires, the predominating one had long been the one to visit Hawaii. Now, I will agree with the many others who have said that the actual experience of life in Hawaii exceeds the ordinary expectations of people who spend vacations here. The vast history of Oahu, Hawaii. and the various other islands of the Hawaiian group has been very interesting to me so far as I have learned. In the near future I expect to get quite a lot more travel and knowledge of all Hawaii than I have yet acquired.

During the past five months, I have had the pleasure of being in three wonderful reviews exhibited by the Hawaiian Division and Hawaiian Department of the U. S. Army, one of which was in honor of General Hugh A. Drum, commander of the Hawaiian Dept. Gen. Drum came to Oahu on the same boat I came on. More than fifteen hundred men passed in review for him at Schofield Barracks review field, with various kinds of war equipment shined to perfection. Hundreds of people filled the grand stands to see the rapid progress in the military field.

The last and largest review ever held in Hawaii was for congressmen, members of the bar, and other outstanding characters. The entire department of Army personnel was in the parade which lasted several hours. On October 2, there will be another review for Secretary Dern, the Secretary of War Secretary Dern then expects to make a tour of importance in the Orient. The only reason I believe either of these men's trips isn't as pleasant as it might be is because they don't get to vacate in Hawaii long enough.

If anyone of you be undecided as to the place that would be most enjoyable to spend a nice long vacation, consider Hawaii—if you haven't been here before, I am sure most of you would say that it is as favorite a place as you would ever wish for.

Sincerely yours,
HAROLD G. MIMS,
Formerly of Isabella community.

MASS MEETING

small allotment is unjust, compared with the taxes paid by profiteers and wage earners.

4. That under the reduction program sixty per cent of the farmers of Alabama are allowed to sell less than three bales of cotton tax free, and that this amount is insufficient to secure a decent living.

5. That the adjustment act has reduced the farmer's purchasing power by reducing and limiting his marketable commodities and by the rise in the cost of living caused from such reductions.

6. That the collection of taxes to support an agency to increase production, and at the same time such agency use its influence and authority to prohibit the sale of such production is in consistant.

7. That all taxes assessed and collected from the farmer's income is a direct income tax.

8. That the reduction program has greatly hampered our foreign trade and caused an increase in the importation of foreign goods to take the place of that taken out of production in this country.

The above reasons are our honest convictions, and we feel that the program does not deserve our continued support. Therefore we, this the 5th day of October, 1935, in mass meeting at Jackson Chapel do pledge our support for the repeal of this act through petition or referendum, and we solicit the support of every "Liberty Loving Citizen" irrespective of political parties to join us in a campaign in behalf of the little farmers.

$15,000 DAMAGE ASKED IN SUIT AGAINST GRAY

Chandler Estate Files Suit Against Joe Gray In Clanton

Joe Gray, prominent Clanton farmer and busness man, who recently served 60 days in jail and paid a $150 fine for the slaying of his pal, Harvey F Chandler, during an alleged "drunken spree" in an old hotel building in Clanton, may still suffer more punishment for this crime.

Reynolds & Reynolds, representing J L. Wilson, administrator of the Chandler estate, filed suit Tuesday asking $15,000 damages from Mr. Gray for Chandler's death.

Chandler, a former mayor of Clanton and at one time a prominent business man, was shot in his room at the old Thornton Hotel in Clanton August 4 1934. When officers reached the scene Gray and Chandler were both lying across the bed and Chandler was dead

"Not guilty by reason of insanity" was the plea in court of Lawrence F Gerald, Gray's attorney, and evidence was produced to show that habitual use of drugs had destroyed Gray's mental faculties to a great extent, at least.

Only 60 days of the 125-day sentence imposed were served, before a pardon by Gov. Bibb Graves freed Gray.

NEW BUILDING PLANS CHANGED TO USE BRICK

Cooperation, Donations Bring About Change At High School

At a special joint meeting of the Commissioners Court and the City Council at the court house Tuesday morning, plans for the erection of the new addition to the Chilton County High School, Clanton, to house the vocational department, were altered to provide for a brick veneer instead of a frame structure.

Five hundred dollars, the extra amount necessary for the erection of a brick veneer instead of a frame building, was raised by donations from the county, city, the J.D. Pittman Tractor Company, and the Adams Tractor Company. After a group of interested patrons of the school had petitioned the appropriation of funds for the erection of a brick structure to harmonize with the present building, H H. Jones, representative of the J.D Pittman Tractor Company, made an offer of $100 donation the Commissioners Court voted $275, the city offered $100 and the remaining $25 needed was given by W.M. Polk, representing the Adams Tractor Company.

The special meeting of the court was called after it was learned late Monday night that efforts were underway to erect a brick structure. An appropriation of $4,000 had been made for a frame building, and when it was

10-YEAR OLD DAMAGE SUIT IS ENDED HERE

Suit Against Railroad For $10,000 Was Filed In 1925

A damage suit which has been in the courts of Chilton County for the past ten years was ended last Thursday when the Supreme Court of Alabama upheld the verdict rendered by a Chilton County jury in August of 1932.

Asking for $100.000 damages from the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company for the death of Mr. and Mrs. G.B. Scott, who were killed by an L & N passenger train at Cullman in November, 1923, J.D. Scott, father of the dead man, filed the suit in July of 1925.

Three times it was tried in the Circuit Court here; three times it went to the Alabama Supreme Court, but each time was reversed. In 1932, a local jury held that the railroad company was not liable and when the Supreme Court upheld this decision last Thursday, ended one of the most long-drawn-out trials ever known in this county.

Scott is said to have driven on the railroad tracks directly in front of the fast passenger train, and it was the railroad's contention that there were no possible reason why he could not have known the train was approaching.

Representing the Scott estate was W.A. Denson, Brmingham attorney Lawrence F. Gerald was counsel for the L & N.

Burned School Buildings To Be Rebuilt

Sealed bids are being asked for on the erection of two one-story frame school buildings in Chilton County, the Isabella and the Collins Chapel schools: both were destroyed by fire during the last school term.

Announcement calling for sealed bids to be accepted at the office of Luther E. Little, superintendent of education in Clanton, and Warren, Knight & Davis, architects, 700 Protective Life Building, Birmingham, is being made in this week's issue of the News.

Specifications for the buildings can be secured at either of the above-named places, it was announced. Bids will be received until 12 o'clock noon Friday, November 1, and then publicly opened.

Last Minute Rush To Work Hardship On Clerks

Mrs. Audelle Miller, chief clerk at the probate office, is becoming worried about how people in this county are going to get automobile, drivers, and business licenses, if they persist in postponing until the last minute this important business.

Unless there is a decided increase in the number who are buying licenses early, Mrs. Miller declared it will just be impossible to wait on them when they do crowd in. She stated that there are approximately 10,000 licenses of various kinds to be bought in the county yet, and it will not be possible to get enough clerks in the probate office to wait on this number within a few days.

Only approximately 500 driver's licenses have been purchased and there are at least 7,000 to be issued. Other types of licenses are correspondingly low, it was stated. Only about two weeks remain in which to secure business licenses without penalty. October 31 will be the dead line.

Although auto owners and drivers have until November 14 to buy their license tags, they are being urged to cooperate by attending to this just as early as is possible.

Attend The Meeting Here Next Wednesday, Oct. 23rd

(AN EDITORIAL)

According to announcement in the county papers last week Wednesday, October 23rd, has been set as the date for a county-wide mass meeting to be held at the courthouse in Clanton, at which time a resolution pledging support to a move for repeal of the present government cotton program will be submitted for adoption.

This matter is, in our opinon, strictly a question for farmers to decide. The resolution calling this meeting was signed by twenty-eight people. Whether these signers represent the attitude of Chilton County farmers remains to be seen. We think that every farmer in Chilton County should attend this meeting so that its findings may present a complete picture of what all cotton producers think of this program.

The resolutions referred to above in last week's papers indict and criticise the cotton program on eight counts, and conclude with an appeal for help to do away with the whloe program. Now, it appear to the News that this carefully worded indictment of the cotton program overlooks some fundamental facts about the cotton situation, a few of which we submit for consideration of Chilton County cotton producers:

1. Is curtailment of cotton production desirable? We had no cotton control program under the previous Hoover administration. Does that system bring cotton producers prosperity they have a right to expect?

2. If the present program should be discontinued, what plan, if any, would take its place?

3. If the things you buy cost more now, would repeal of the cotton program make these same purchases cost less?

4. As an indvidual farmer, is your condition now better or worse than it was before the cotton program was started?

5. Do you believe that the cotton farmer of the South has the same right to protection and help from the national government that industry has always demanded and received through the protective tariff?

6. Reports have come to the News that W. L. Sanders, Chairman of the group which called this mass meeting for repeal of the cotton program, is or has recently been a regular employee of the local mill. It will be remembered that certain cotton manufacturers have led the fight against this law. They are called upon to pay the processing tax which makes possible the rental, parity, etc., payments to farmers. They are on the paying end and the farmers are on the receiving end of the cotton law, and the two interests are so diametrically opposed in this particular instance that the News does not believe a man can wholeheartedly serve the interests of both. Mr. Sanders, as chairman, should be prepared to assure the mass meeting where his greater interest lies—with the farmer or the manufacturer.

These are questions vital to the welfare of farmers in Chilton County. They are questions advocates of repeal of the cotton program should be prepared to answer. Perfection has not been claimed for the cotton program. Improvements have been made in it and no doubt still others will be made. Farmers will aid in making these improvements, but this mass meeting is called, not for the purpose of making constructive suggestions, but is an attempt to destroy that which has been accomplished.

Do our farmers desire such a move? Are they ready to follow this kind of leadership? The News believes not.

Nevertheless, it is important that every farmer attend this meeting and see that no action is taken which would endanger the progress which has been made and which we may expect to make in the future.

County Goes On Budget Plan

Penalties To Be Imposed On Those Overdrawing

Chilton County commissioners will no doubt exercise extreme care in the expenditure of the tax payer's money in this county in the future, especially as it pertains to the building and maintenance of roads in the four commissioners' districts.

We Like "Bibb Graves" Roads

The road from Clanton to Rockford is in the best condition we have ever seen it. Especially is this true of the Coosa County part of the road, which has during the past few years been a source of worry and sometimes grief, to travelers going over this route. It will be remembered that this particular road was first started during the latter part of Mr. Graves' first administration as governor. The grading was done, and everything was ready for surfacing the roadbed with gravel when the work had to be discontinued. The Chilton County section, however, was graveled before the work stopped. During recent years road maintenance crews have had a difficult time even maintaining the roadbed in Coosa without serious loss to the construction work which had been done on this road, and at times during rainy seasons, it was impossible to keep the road in anything like good condition for traveling.

It has been gratifying to see completion of this project included among the first in Mr. Graves' second administration. The Coosa section of this road now also has a good gravel surface, it is smooth, wide enough and we believe will stand the rainy weather without serious trouble.

Whatever else may be said about Bibb Graves, he gets things done, and we like to ride on the kind of roads he gets constructed.

The High Cost Of Neutrality

Since the open break has come between Italy and Ethiopia and the resulting condemnation of Italy by the League of Nations as the aggressor, much has been said and written about the position of the United States, who is not a member of the League. There seems to be almost unanimous agreement that we should steer a course of neutrality among the events related to this European-African war.

However, some writers in America today are pointing out to us the high cost of neutrality. Salesmen, and America is noted for its salesmanship, are reluctant to pass up a good market. Undoubtedly warring nations would furnish a good market for a myriad assortment of goods even when all strictly war materials are eliminated. It would be difficult to estimate the amount of trade we might lose by adhering strictly to a policy of neutrality. It might conceivably run into many millions of dollars.

But whatever the amount might be, and however badly we need larger markets, the price we are bound to pay for such markets would be infinitely more than we would lose by a policy of neutrality. For sooner or later even economic entanglements in the powder kegs of Europe will bring tragedy to America. And then the price we shall be forced to pay will be counted, not only in millions and billions of dollars, but in thousands, perhaps millions of lives sacrificed on the altar of modern, scientific, merciless war gods.

The price of neutrality may be high, but the price of entanglements is infinitely higher.

Revolutionized Farming Methods

Not so many years ago agricultural cooperatives were regarded with suspicion. Some believed that they could produce nothing worth while, they were needless "luxuries." Others thought they would merely waste time and money of their farmer members.

Today the cooperative has come into the "necessity" classification so far as the progressive farmer is concerned. The time he gives to it is as nothing compared to the benefits he receives. And the money he contributes in dues is returned to him many times over in more stable markets, and better prices for his produce.

The cooperatives have slowly, quietly and effectively caused a virtual agricultural revolution. They have gone a long way toward taking the guess-work out of farming—wherein each producer raised as much as he could, irrespective of market demand, and sold it for what he was offered. The old-time farmer was at the mercy of the middleman—the modern farmer, with his organization doing the talking and bargaining for him, has applied proven business methods toward achieving a better place in the world

Cooperatives have made a great record during depression—and as better times return, they are going to show the country what real agricultural progress means.

"Car Number 20"

According to an advertisement of a large life insurance company, the driver of every 20th car will be involved in injuring some man, woman or child before the year is over—if the accident experience of 1935 duplicates that of 1934. And statistics for the first six months of the year indicate that little if any progress has been made in curbing the dangerous driver.

Every driver should decide for himself whether he wants to be at the wheel of "car number 20." The decision is really within his power. He can drive carefully, in accordance with the law and good judgement—he can keep his speed to reasonable levels, maintain his car in first-class mechanical condition so far as safety devices are concerned, and work on the basis that it is better to give up his right-of-way than risk a trip in an ambulance. Or he can take take chances—he can regard crowded streets and highways as playgrounds, where his reckless and adventurous instincts may be indulged to the full without regard for others or himself.

The laws of chance are immutable—and every motorist who is deliberately careless can be certain that eventually he will come a cropper. He may get away with reckless acts a thousand times—the thousand and first time he will pay the price. Gamble with death always lose—the dice are loaded before you start the game.

One car in twenty will be the cause of someone's death or maiming this year! Are you going to be the 20th driver?

Blue-Gray Reunion

After several years of discussion, a final reunion of Union and Confederate soldiers has been agreed upon, to be held at Gettysburg, Pa., in 1938, on the 75th anniversary of the decisive battle fought there July 1, 2 and 3, 1863.

The United Confederate Veterans unanimously agreed at their recent reunion in Amarillo, Tex., to accept the invitation of the governor of Pennsylvania to join with the Grand Army of the Republic in the 1938 reunion, but only on condition that they be allowed to carry the Confederate flag unfurled alongside the Stars and Stripes.

Some members of the G.A.R. insisted that the Confederate flag be furled during the ceremonies, but finally waived the point. There was a joint reunion at Gettysburg on the 50th anniversary of the battle in 1913, but on that occasion the Confederate flag was carried furled.

While the forthcoming joint reunion in 1938 will have high significance as a gesture of good will between former foes, it doubtful whether any considerable number of veterans will be able to participate.

This year only about 500 veterans attended the G.A.R. encampment in Grand Rapids, the youngest being 85 years old. The ranks of the Confederates have likewise dwindled; few of either army will be under 90 by 1938, and it is inevitable that many of those who survive will be physically unable to attend.

But the spirit of the joint reunion will be the spirit of a united country, and as such should prove an inspiration to every American.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

—o—

Two sections in a prosperous country were divided by a deep and a wide stream. The moneyed interests on each side came together to consider building a bridge. They could not agree on the price that each one should pay to build the bridge together, but each one did agree to build half of the bridge and then join it in the middle of the stream. Work was begun on each side and the bridge was built and joined in the middle. This passage way meant much to both sides of the stream. It made neighbors and friends out of those who had been strangers for so many years. There is a deep and a wide stream that separates man from God. God has already completed His part of the bridge that would span the stream but man can never travel over His part of that bridge until he builds his portion of it and then connects it with God's half. Man, build your side of the bridge and connect up with God. Man and God together can build a bridge that will span the stream that divides the two and across it they can have communion and fellowship that both need and craves to possess.
